He was, as Hoover, introduced to public life by Wilson, serving as Assistant Secretary of the Navy in the World War, and probably supplying to the efficiency of that department at that time. If his conversion to the democracy of a "forgotten man" is recent, it sounds genuine. As Governor of New York he has shown his executive ability in handling the complicated affairs of a state government which had been shaped by the only political genius of our age, Governor Smith.

And lastly the candidate of the intelligentia, Norman Thomas is culturied, pointed, clear thinker and clear speaker, the most convincing in his appeal of any man before the public. A successful writer, a forceful editor, an honored Presbyterian minister, a natural leader of men, Mr. Thomas has won for himself a list of friends and supporters that has moved him from the laborer's club to the college faculty. In many northern colleges he is supported by a majority of the faculty members. So mightily has Socialism changed its social rating!

If people could feel that Thomas led a party who would follow his patriotic guidance, he would be a formidable competitor in a race that now lies between the promises of a man and a party who say, "we will do better next time, trust us", and a man and a party who say, we couldn't do worse, trust us." And the voter? We will see what we will see.

THE FRESHMAN PSALM

The Sophomores are my shepherds, I am in want.
They maketh me bow down in their presence.
They restoreth my doubt in the fellowship of Sophomores.
They leadeth me in paths of destruction for their vanity's sake;
Yea, though I walk through the Valley of the Shadow of S. T. C.
I do fear evil, for thou art against me, thou Sophomores.
Thou preparest a reduction in my pride.
Thou anointest my head with a Rat Cap and my feet with white shoes.
My cup runneth over with embarrassment
In the presence of those Hampden-Sydney boys.
Surely disgrace and humility will follow me all the days of the Sophomore administration—
And I shall dwell with the remembrance of S. T. C. forever.

Freshman M. A. S.

"DEPRESSSION" POETRY

A beggar to the graveyard hied
And there "Friend corpse, arise," he cried
"One moment lift my heavy weight
Of poverty; for I of late
Grow weary, and desire instead
Your comfort; you are good and dead."
The corpse was silent. He was sure
'Twas better to be dead than poor.

MASQUERADE

I went for a walk this afternoon
Nothing unusual—
"Masquerade"—the sign loomed large
Folly! Mockery!—Why pretend?
"Masquerades" are tasks—
Faces—put on each morning.
Some smiling and gay
Others gallant—hoping.
All hide aching hearts—
Life is not so good as that.
Bitterness—pain,
Disappointments,
Knowledge of having lost
Many things we
Count so dearly; and
Love—not returned
Hidden there.
Yet—the game must be played
So each of us—daily—
Masquerade behind a smiling mask
We call our face—
Folly! Mockery!
Yet—we pretend.

I'M LONESOME TONIGHT

I'm lonesome tonight for your voice so soft,
Again — I'm lonesome with my thoughts,
These nights make my heart ache
To hold your hand and see your face.

I'm lonesome too, for the way you smile,
And the sparkle that lights your eyes,
I miss so much the way you laugh
At fate and life and things like that.

I never thought I'd miss you so,
When you left me all alone
With my broken dreams and memories sweet
Of my happiness that was all too fleet.

You're gone, I know, forever, 'tis true,
And my heart longs for the days we knew
It's over now —I'm lonesome tonight
'Cause the love in my heart remains.

BENEDICTUS

Twilight on the desert
Dusk—soft purple
That deepens into black velvet.
The wind stirs the sand softly
And the lonely Arab kneels
For his evening prayer.

A. B., '35

Four things come not back:
The spoken word;
The sped arrow;
Time past;
The neglected opportunity.

LAUGHING

Nights of darkness now,
Never see your eyes,
Never hear your voice.
Never laugh at lies
That you told to me
Yet I go on laughing
In a different way
At the trivial things
Hoping every day,
Laughing at a love song
That we sang one night
Laughing into red wine
Dippy, dizzy, tight—
Wine that flows and flows
Wiping out your smile
And the words you said
To a silly child.—Selected.

TRI SIGMA PRESENTS LIBRARY TO HIGH SCHOOL

Sigma, explained that the library is a project of the social service department of the sorority and how it is endowed. Dr. Jarman told of the small beginnings of the school in two rooms and how it has grown into a modern up-to-date school. He visualized the development of the library from its small present condition.

Mr. C. W. Dickinson, Jr., of Richmond, who is state supervisor of libraries and textbooks enumerated the benefits that the school, the individual pupils and the community will receive from this gift. He showed the importance of a library to a school, and praised the sorority for its wise choice of an excellent way to aid others.

National President of Sigma Sigma Sigma Miss Mabel Lee Walton, of Woodstock, who is also president of the Women's Professional Pan-Hellenic Association and director of Local Pan-Hellenics of the Association of Education Sororities, formally presented the library to the school. In her talk she told of the dreams of the eight Farmville girls who founded the sorority and how they had been gradually realized. She said that the library was a dream of every Tri Sigma now and that they hoped for its great development until finally it would become a library on wheels visiting each rural school connected with Farmville.

Andrew Anderson, a student of John Randolph expressed the appreciation of the school, and Mr. O. G. Bailey, superintendent of Cumberland County Schools, accepted the library for Cumberland County.

After the exercises the home economics department of the school entertained at luncheon the speakers, and Miss Virginia Potts, Miss Bierbower, Miss Pierce, Miss Sue Roberts of East Radford, and Miss Martha Sanders, head of Alpha Chapter here.

When I was a Freshman, a Senior was someone who after years of struggle had at last attained the position for wrich I longed. A Junior class president advised us to be at least polite and respect a senior. You may say respect is given only where respect is due. This is true, but the underclassmen this year seem to think that we are rats. I think it would be a good thing if the Seniors were given a little more of the privileges due Seniors.

As it was Miss Iler who helped us transmit our discord into concord and to keep for our class the harmony that belonged to it. . .

And now we are Seniors! . . . . In the coming years, our songs of school life will be only echoes. We hope the discords will die out of these echoes and only the sweet harmonius and noble notes live—

And so this morning—for the last time we present to you one who has taught us to give the best to Alma Mater, and get the best from her—Miss Iler."

SOPHOMORE SING DEDICATED TO FROSH

The Freshman Class felt quite honored Saturday night when they were told that the first six rows of seats were reserved for them in "Sing"; and they felt even more important when Martha Cross, acting as master of ceremonies, informed the audience that the Sophomores were giving it in honor of the Freshmen. But the surprise was yet to come.

We noticed that each door had one or two guards. We heard whispers that said, "Don't let the Freshmen get out." Mystery! Surprise! What was coming next?

Slowly the curtains were opened on an eerie scene, full of moaning witches and roaming ghosts. Gradually we recognized faces, even though at first they resembled the Fates! Lo! and behold! they were the officers of the Sophomore class and they were the Fates.

Over their hissing, we heard: "Will Nancy Parker please come forward?" And up those steps that Freshman walked! She trembled in her shoes but covered her embarrassment with shy smiles. The surprise was out!

This was the unique way in which the Sophomores conducted their court and those Freshmen who bucked the "rat" rules made it up by entertaining the student body.

VARSITY HOCKEY SQUAD

The varsity hockey squad from which the team will be picked for the game Saturday.

BLUE AND WHITE TEAM TO MEET WESTHAMPTON COLLEGE SATURDAY

The first varsity hockey game of the season will be played Saturday, November 5 at 3 o'clock on our athletic field. S. T. C. will meet Westhampton College varsity in what promises to be a good game of hockey.

For the past three years Farmville has played Westhampton but has never been victorious. However, she has played the game well and the difference in score has never been more than one or two points. The line-up has not been definitely decided for this game; however, there are prospects for an unusually good S. T. C. team this season.

The varsity squad has been practicing hard each day for almost a month under the patient directorship of Miss Iler, coach, who has really taught them the fine points in playing.

Here's a chance for even Blue and White to show her spirit. Back the team and let's have the student body out 100 per cent for the game Saturday. Your support helps them win.

ARCHERY TOURNAMENT HAS BEEN POSTPONED

The Archery Tournament scheduled for last Saturday was postponed until a later date because of high winds which marred the archers' aims. Practices will continue as previously scheduled—on Monday and Tuesday afternoons from 4 until 6. If the weather is not suitable on these days, special practices will be called during the week. Come out and practice. Mary Berkley Nelson shot a bull's eye the other day—you can hope also.

GOBLINS AND GHOSTS COME TO MASQUERADE

On Monday night, October 31, 1932 in the gymnasium the Athletic Association gave a masquerade party for the faculty and student body of S. T. C.

Every costume, all kinds of freaks, skeletons and nationalities were represented. One could look from the balcony and see the tallest skeleton strolling arm in arm with a grand lady, the ghosts floating in and out the windows, and the witches engaging in deepest conversation. Everyone had a number mysteriously pinned on him. However, there was no need to be alarmed over that, for later, a lucky number was drawn and a prize given to the one who had the lucky number.

The Southside Orchestra played for the party. Everyone joined in a grand parade around the gymnasium so that the judges could see them better. The prize was awarded to Martha Gunter and Lelia Mattox for having the most original costumes. Their costumes were made of Rotundas which had been cut and sewed into garments. Another prize was given to the Morgan sisters for looking the cutest in their costume.

Next came the dancing contest. Couples were allowed to dance until a tap on the shoulder indicated that they were to sit down. When two couples, Mary Winston and Frances McDaniel and Nancy Parker and Doris Eley were left dancing there was much excitement. The judges were a long time in deciding the best dancers and the onlookers were entertained by them. After long deliberation on the part of the judges the prize was awarded to Mary Winston and Frances McDaniel.

Masks were taken off after the dancing contest. Everyone saw what mistakes masks could cause them to make. There was more dancing and then a happy good night.

One hundred and fifty radio sets were put in service in the 1932 season in national forests to supplement telephone systems for quick reporting and communication during fires.

A new international air service, scheduled to be put into operation before the end of 1932, has been chartered from Belgium to Northern Rhodesia.

A Real Circus Appears and Delights Crowd

Alice Moore As Queen and Other Circus Celebrities Are Presented

Wild animals! Balloons! Popcorn! And peanuts! All of these were heard at the circus in the gymnasium Saturday night

The gym was transformed into a large circus tent, with the center made into an arena, around which the sphere of action centered. Mary Shelton, the ring master, added much to the reality and feeling with her dramatic action and tone of voice.

The Sophomore Class opened the show with a presentation of a typical Mickey Mouse orchestra. Betty Boop, was there to add to the attraction.

After the orchestra, the Freshman Class produced a wonderful magician who awed his audience with his magical performances which ended in his producing a rat, who was none other than a rat of S. T. C.

Next in the ring came a cage which contained a lion tamer and four ferocious lions from Africa. This stunt, put on by the Junior Class, bewitched the judges into presenting the Juniors with the first prize.

A slight explosion from a discharged pistol introduced the wild west show. The tricks performed by those bucking cowboys on broncos caused the audience to rollick with laughter. The Music Club disguised as cowboys romped away with the second prize.

Students Given Scout Certificates

Thirteen S. T. C. students received girl scout leadership certificates after taking a course in Girl Scout leadership from October 31 to November 5 under the direction of Miss Ida May Born, national staff instructor.

The course, lasting for an hour each day, included training in the organizing of girl scouts, in the teaching of the technique of scouting and in preparing and carrying out well-rounded scout programs.

Friday afternoon, November 4, the thirteen girls taking the scouting course had supper at Farmville lake. The novelty of building a fire and cooking fish added to the pleasure of a supper out of doors.

The following students on Saturday morning, November 5, received a certificate of credit for having taken the six hour course in Girl Scout leadership: Frances Potts, Helen Allen, Frances Horton, Louise Walmsley, Ruth Gaines, Alma Foster, Gloria Mann, Mildred Gwaltney, Elizabeth Hendricks, Georgianna Sinclair, Elizabeth Showell, Lelia Mattox, and Virginia Thornhill.

Vienna Choir Makes Visit to Farmville S.T.C

"A Little Child Shall Lead Them" Says Alfred H. Strick, Music Director

(Alfred Hosken Strick)

Haydn, Schubert and Mozart were present in the college auditorium last Thursday night. (The heart of Virginia was there, and the messenger of hope was there.) This trinity conspired to give an international expression which arises above politics and the petty cares of things present and things to come. Geneva conferences, politics in the making, can never transcend this glorious achievement of song. No man or body of men can say that this emotion we call music does not lie nearest the heart of humanity, and what other expressive subject can interpret understanding and true ambassadorship so well? Would that we could use the medium of the Weiner Saengerknaben to foster unity and cement the Old World and the New, and with these messengers of song—"The little lads with lofty ideals"—set up a clearer interpretation of life. These singers came from the palace of the King, and they now sit on the throne in our hearts in kingly companionship.

Two hundred years ago the Wiener Saengerknaben gave creators in the classical and romantic mood. Three great masters, who in their inspired moments, went away from the ken of humankind only to return with divine melodies, and now in our day and generation this same great institution bequeathes a legacy to the world in an angelic host to speak peace to our hearts through the ministry of song.

I saw Mozart in his great majesty through the voice and personality of a child. I felt the power of Schubert in the upturned faces of twenty boys. Heaven seemed not far away in the anthem of matchless tones, pure and pungent as they floated on the evening air, and methinks Haydn must have nodded his benediction.

Creeds and doctrines, pomp and circumstance shrink into oblivion when a divine message is set up in the language of music, and blessed are these messengers who reveal its purity and power. And I saw a great host, which no man could number, from every nation and every tribe singing—"Peace and Good Will Toward men."

"And a Little Child Shall Lead Them."

Town Remembers November 11th

At chapel hour Wednesday, Nov. 9, the S. T. C. student body presented an Armistice Day program in honor of those boys who in 1918 helped to make the world safe for democracy. After the regular devotionals, Nancy Burgwyn recited to the student body "In Flanders Field," the poem that stirred their souls so deeply when they were children in the grammar grades.

After listening almost reverently to McCrea's poem, the students then sang patriotic songs in memory of the patriotism displayed during the World War.

Edna Hatcher played a beautiful piano solo.

The student day program for next week is as follows:

Presentation of Junior class man

Talk—"Customs of Thanksgiving."

THOMAS M. BULLOCK

Baritone soloist of Richmond to sing here November 12.

Dramatic Club And Jongleurs Give 'Dover Road'

"Dover Road" by A. A. Milne has been chosen by the Dramatic Club of S. T. C. and the Jongleurs of Hampden-Sydney for their annual fall production to be preesnted on December 2 in the college auditorium.

The play itself is a sparkling comedy depicting the complications arising when two runaway couples, a delightfully meddlesome old man, and an English butler are thrown together under one roof.

The well-selected cast includes:

Ed Poole ..... Dominic
Nancy Burgwyn ..... Anne
Merle Smith ..... Leonard
Raymond Gordon ..... Latimer
Virginia Thornhill ..... Eustacia
Eddie Bell ..... Nicholas

The author, A. A. Milne, is a well-known and popular British playwright. His plays presented on Broadway have met with great success. He is also a favorite with the college audience. His "Mr. Pim Passes By" and "The Ivory Door" were received with much enthusiasm and enjoyment.

The Dramatic Club plays have always been greatly anticipated. After months of hard practice under the expert coaching of Miss Wheeler, a worthwhile and entertaining play is

DEBATE CLUB TO HOLD TRY OUTS

The Debate Club wil hold try outs for old girls Thursday, November 10, at 7 o'clock in the little auditorium.

The subject for the debate is, Resolved that graduating sophomores should have the same privileges as seniors. Either side of the question may be debated by anyone. Every upperclassman interested in debating is urged to try out.

The varsity debate try outs will be held Monday, November 19. S. T. C. plans to have four teams this year. This requires eight debaters. As there are only three old varsity debaters in school, five new members are now needed. Everyone interested is invited to try out. The subjects for these try outs are cancellation of war debts, free tariff question and the soviet question. Either of these three may be chosen for try outs.

The Senior Class Presents 'Scandals And Sandals'

Production Is Under the Direction of Mary Winston—Miss Iler Lends Help

"Scandals and Sandals", the hit of the season, will be presented by the Senior Class Friday night, November 11, at 8 o'clock. This class production is under the direction of Mary Winston, who, with Miss Iler's assistance, has arranged a delightful and interesting "hit of the season."

"Scandals and Sandals", the Senior show, is divided into two acts. The first act consists of a minstrel with black-faced comedians—wise-cracks, snappy dances, peppy songs—and a chorus of—girls. Margaret Gathright is the interlocutor; Henrietta Taylor, Jennie Wheeler, Virginia Thornhill, Ruth Jordan, Alice Moore and Rachel McDaniel are the end men. What a line-up! They know all the scandal in S. T. C.! Your favorite number will be sung by the chorus; watch out for "Say It Isn't So," "All American Girl" and other popular songs.

The second act answers all your questions concerning "The Old Woman Who Lived In a Shoe." What comes out of the shoe? — That's where the "sandals" comes from.

Don't miss the Senior show, "Scandal and Sandals." It will be a sure cure for depression, and it will make you forget all your troubles—including the outcome of the presidential election.

These programs given every Saturday by out of town artists are enjoyed by everyone and add a great deal to the chapel servvive. Next Saturday, Mr. Thomas Bullock, soloist, of Richmond, will sing.

Appreciation and Creation

Appreciation is not the mere cataloging of values, a rough estimate of worth. It is a vital response to beauty in painting, in literature, or in music, as these things make their appeal to the individual. It is the arousing of a definite feeling produced by the painting, or whatever it might be. In the ability to be really appreciative hangs much of the pleasure of life. Appreciation is not a passive thing; it colors one's entire life.

Ability to create is a gift from the gods. The desire to create inspires boundless energy.

Appreciation and creation are strangely related: each is at once the antithesis and dependent of the other. To a great extent creation is its own reward; but it is nevertheless somewhat dependent on appreciation. The dependency of appreciation on creation is apparent. But when appreciation stunts creation all dependency ceases. Often appreciation for a work of art is so intense that its perfection becomes a kind of ideal; then desire to create is lost because the standard of the ideal can not be attained. Creation should never be lost in admiration. Because some people have such keen powers of appreciation, they are afraid to attempt anything of their own. Practically every one can develop a sense of appreciation, but not everyone can create Therefore, it is essential that those who have the "urge" should cultivate it rather than develop appreciation only. They should regard ability to create as a veritable "gift of the gods," and use it accordingly.—The Sun Dial.

Work For the Night Is Coming

"Success consists not so much in sitting up nights as being awake in the daytime."

Do you ever sit up in class and let your mind dwell on an incident that happened last summer, or day dream about an incident that you would like to have happen? Have you ever spent a vacant hour in the Goose, while your conscience pricked you for not being in the library reading that hundred pages of history, or looking up that education report?

Of course, you do, and you have! But, haven't you also paid the price for those wasted moments by burning the midnight oil? Each day possesses twenty-four hours. Putting off what should be done today until tomorrow won't make tomorrow longer than today.

Life on this campus is necessarily rushed. Academic demands upon a student's time are almost unlimited; extra-curricula responsibilities know no end. When one thinks of what she hal to accomplish in one day, she is appalled, and spends almost as much time as it would take her to perform these tasks, in enumerating them to others who have just as much to do—more to hear them tell it.

A keen, fresh mind can accomplish twice as much as a tired sleepy one. By applying oneself systematically to the day's tasks and performing them to the very best of one's ability, they each one may be laid aside with a feeling of achievement—and long before the day's twenty-four hours have sped by. Spasmodic working, with spurts of energy, then periods of apathy, throws one periodically into trying times of nights without sleep. A series of illy-prepared lessons inevitably means cramming until the wee small hours the night before quiz. Cramming for quizzes, psychology claims, doesn't make the material stick; therefore, when exams—the biannual panic—descends upon the campus more loss of sleep is necessary.

Day by day in being awake, alert, alive, the foundation for success is being laid.—The Spectator.

MY MOST HUMILIATING EXPERIENCE RAT WEEK

It was on last Wednesday that I wanted so much to die for that was the day I caused myself to be humiliated beyond measure.

The sophomores, it seems, had held a special meeting to declare me a servant for the entire class. Not five minutes had I had to myself on Monday or Tuesday. I was continually ordered about. I never have been good on figures, but I think I made up eighteen beds on Monday. How many laundry bags I carried out is beyond my estimation. The number of times I was sent to the post office to purchase one stamp was truly disgusting.

As I lay in my bed Tuesday night too tired to sleep, I began to plan some way to lighten my work I now attribute my complete failure in thinking up a successful scheme to the fact that I was too worn out to be in my right mind. Under no other condition would I have been so foolish! I decided to make another freshman do my own tasks so that I would have more time to enjoy myself.

I went into another building, and posing as a sophomore commanded some girl to report at my room the next morning. She was to thoroughly clean my room, make my bed, and carry out my laundry.

As soon as this girl arrived the next morning I went to the drug store and from there to my classes.

When I finally returned to my room, I was surprised for two reasons: First, my room was a complete wreck. My clothes were scattered everywhere. The chairs were on my bed. The trash basket which now contained my shoes was in the window. My pillows were on my desk. Second, I had a visitor. The room inspector was there awaiting my return.

Never was I so humiliated! Never have I received so complete a lecture!

When the inspector finally left, I threw the chairs from the bed and sat down to have a good cry and do a little thinking. This over, I decided to pack my trunk and leave for home. This thought must have been anticipated, for upon opening my trunk I found a note which read:

"My dear dumb freshman,

"Allow me to give you some advice. Don't go home; clean up your room as you told me, a senior, to do. Then, remember you're a freshman!"

FORUM

Dear Editor,

I have had a few questions in my mind lately for which I can find no answer.

How can the students who room near the music room be expected to observe study hour efficiently when there is some organization practicing there nearly eevry night? I have found it quite difficult to concentrate under such conditions and I have heard other girls say the same. Is it necessary for organizations not related to the school to practice there?

Why is it that, when about ten girls are standing at the desk in the library waiting for books and there is only one girl on desk duty, girls who are on special work duty can't stop their work for a few seconds to relieve the congestion? It seems that if we must have a closed library system, we might have better service at busy times. The girl on desk duty does the best she can but she can't wait on three or four people at once.

ALONG ALUMNAE LINES

In the last two weeks three very interesting weddings have taken place along the alumnae.

On October 29, Mary Rutherford Bernard became the bride of Alexander Hamilton, of Petersburg. The bridal party included Martha Lanier, Virginia Hamilton, Alice Covington, Barbara Willcox and Mildred Smith, all excepting Virginia Hamilton, who is now a student here are Farmville alumnae.

On the same date the Mitchell-French nuptials were solemnized at the home of the bride's parents in Cumberland county. Rebecca French was married to Samuel Williams Mitchell of Sabot, Virginia. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. T. McDonald, pastor of Providence Presbyterian church. The groom had as his best man, his brother Argyle Mitchell. After a short motor trip Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell will be at home at Lee, Goochland county.

Mable Yancie Brooking daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lynwood Brooking of Chattanooga, Tenn., and granddaughter of Mrs. Walter Carrington Fitzpatrick of the University of Virginia, was married to William McLemore Birdsong of Suffolk, Saturday, November 5 at 8 o'clock at the chapel at the University. The Rev. William H. Laird, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church at the University, performed the ceremony.

The bride entered with her uncle, Mr. William Cabell Fitzpatrick, of Farmville, who gave her in marriage. She wore an ancestral gown of old ivory satin. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls and brooch, an heirloom in the family for five geenrations.

Mrs. Alonza Richard Breedlove, of Richmond, was her niece's matron-of-honor. Mr. Birdsong had as his best man Mr. William Coward of the University of Virginia.

After the wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Birdsong will be at home in Suffolk.

ADVICE

Search your mind for one thing
That is of paramount interest to you.
Then devote yourself—mind and soul
To the cultivation of that thing
Whatsoever it may be.

THOUGHTS

At the stars—
Last night, I looked up,
But, then, I do that every night.
Yet, somehow, they seemed Closer—
And reminded me
Of other nights I had known.
Nights that were lang'rous—
Nights filled with warm scents
And sounds
Of Summer.
Magnolias—with their
Patent leather leaves
And milk-white blooms.
Standing there—I knew
That our love was
A fragile thing—
And to you—
Mere star-dust—

A BUTTERFLY'S BROKEN WING

There lay a butterfly's broken wing,
A velvety, black, soft-spotted thing,
Oh, what beauty that creature has seen,
Lovely gardens, trees, and spring,
From what nectared flower it must have sipped,
Leaving with wings all pollen-tipped.
What splendid music it must have heard,
Voice of violin or mocking bird.
They're lost forever—these wonderful things,
For there lay the butterfly's broken wing.

Life's but a picture
That's painted every day,
To some it matters not
The picture they portray.

The master artist
With his paints and brushes fine,
Paints upon the canvas

His colors are selected
With much deliberate care;
He wants a perfect picture
Reassembled there.

To youth he gives the best
That his palette can hold,
He wants him to be strong
True, radiant and bold.

Valor has the symbol red,
For truth he will have blue,
There's character and purity,
They are strong builders, too.

For character he chooses gold,
A wealth for which one fights,
And then for purity
He selects the white.

So with his magic brush
He paints for us the best,
For which the world could hope,
Youth—glorious, full of zest.

NOCTURNE IN G MINOR

The nightwind sings and rustles thru the reeds.
The pallid lilacs by the lake are sweet,
"I wait for thee! Ah, when wil lcome thy feet Down the chill steps"—Hush!
'Tis the gate—
None heeds.
The night wind sings and rustles thru the reeds
The night wind whispers by the boat.
The lake is calm. "Ah, hide me in thine arms,
Against that throat—young—warm.
How gentle are thy lips"—
The nightwind sweeps and whispers—by the boat.

A. ASSOCIATION GIVES TEA FOR VISITING TEAM

Saturday afternoon, November 6, directly after the hockey game between S. T. C. and Westhampton College, the Athletic Association gave a tea in the Student Building lounge for the visiting girls.

Delicious "Longwood buns" and hot chocolate were served to the girls of both teams. And not one girl failde to do the buns and chocolate justice. During the hour Elizabeth Wheeler entertained the guests with several piano solo selections, which did much to "liven" up the crowd and make the tea the enjoyable success it was.

A PETITION

Dear Lord—
Help me to keep
My shoulders squared,
My chin up—
And my mind on higher things.

E. H., '35

Twilight—dusky, velvety,
Night-descending softly.
Into the stillness of my lonely room
Golden notes of a violin come winging,
Borne on the throbbing air.
Passionate—alive with heartfelt anguish
They come—
Sounds too beautiful to describe,
Filled with thoughts only lovers know
I hear your voice in those tones—
Vibrant, burning—
Telling me you love me—
—I can stand it no longer—
A master is playing "The Rosary."

KAPPA DELTA PI ENTERTAINS MEMBERS

After the formal initiation of Edith Shanks, Grace Rowell, Virginia Brinkley, Evelyn William and Lucille Ingram into Kappa Delta Pi on Tuesday evening, the chapter members had dinner in the tea room.

Following dinner, an informal initiation service was enjoyed by all present. The new members were called upon to prove their worthiness of election into the revision of the course of study in their major subjects. If the State Department of Education could have been present the chapter feels sure that these new members would be chosen as authorities to which this department could refer—believe it or not.

THIS IS FRIENDSHIP

I love you, not only for what you are, but for what I am when I am with you.

I love you, not only for what you have made yourself, but for what you are making of me.

I love you for the part of me that you bring out.

I love you for putting your hand into my heaped-up heart and passing over all the frivolous and weak things that you cannot help seeing there, and drawing out into the light all the beautiful, radiant things that no one else has looked quite far enough to find.

I love you for ignoring possibilities of the fool in me and for laying firm hold of the possibilities of good in me.

I love you for closing your eyes to the discords in me, and for adding to the music in me by worshipful listening.

I love you because you are helping me to make of the lumber of my life, not a tavern, but a temple, and of the words of my every day life, not a reproach, but a song.

I love you because you have done more than any creed could have done to make me happy.

You have done it without a touch, without a word, without a sign.

You have done it by just being yourself.

After all, perhaps this is what being a friend means.—Selected.

WESTHAMPTON COLLEGE GAINS VICTORY IN OPENING HOCKEY GAME OF SEASON

Westhampton and S. T. C. opened the hockey season Saturday with a hard-fought contest. Enthusiastic rooters gave cheers and yells as the teams fought their way to their respective goals.

Both teams showed equal speed and fighting ability. With dogged determination, the Westhampton players many times forced the ball to their side of the field. Taliaferro scored one point for Westhampton. The home players fought their way to their goal many times, but they were not successful in scoring in the first half. The first half ended with a 1-0 score in favor of Westhampton.

The teams started the second half with added vim, vigor, and determination. Despite the alertness of the S. T. C. players, Lowe broke through the opposing line and gained a goal for Westhampton. The game ended with a 2-1 victory for Westhampton.

Judging by this game, Westhampton and Farmville are starting the hockey season with promising teams.

DRAMATIC CLUB AND H.-S. C. JONGLEURS TO PRESENT "DOVER ROAD"

always presented. The "Dover Road" will be no exception; it will be one of the outstanding productions of the year.

Absurd complications, delightfully humorous lines, vivid characterizations, makes this one of the most enjoyable comedies that the Dramatic Club has ever produced.

In the period of general gloom caused by the depression it seems that S. T. C. students would take every chance they have to be cheerful and agreeable. But no, the bridge tournaments go on just the same.

ALICE MOORE IS ELECTED CHEER LEADER

At a student body meeting last week, Alice Moore, a very prominent and likable member of the senior class, was unanimously elected cheer leader for this year.

Alice is well known at S. T. C. for her pep and friendliness. As cheer leader last year she was "plenty good." With her as leader this year, S. T. C. should have plenty of pep.

PI GAMMA MU, NATIONAL SOCIAL SCIENCE

th inculcation of the ideals of scholarship, scientific attitude and method in the study of all social problems. Pi Gamma Mu was not organized to oppose or advocate any particular social movement. It rather aims to instill in the mind of the individual a scientific attitude toward all social questions, its motto being: "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." Its particular purpose is to send out from our colleges and universities young men and women imbued with social idealism, trained in scientific thought and encouraged to help others to be scientific in their thinking on social problems.

The organization wishes for its influence to extend to more students than the active members. To accomplish this the chapter holds open meetings to which those particularly interested are invited. At this time the entire group enters into a scientific discussion of some current problem.

In addition to a high standard of general scholarship required for entrance each member must show outstanding interest in the social sciences. All members are expected to contribute actively to the extent of their time and energy, to the advancement of the cause for which Pi Gamma Mu stands. The members are:

Honor Societies Given Room For Meetings

Plans Being Completed for An Early Dedication of Room For Meetings

MISS POTTS IS CHAIRMAN

Plans are being completed for the furnishing of the Honor Society room which was given to the societies this fall. It is a large room on the second floor Student Building. All of the honor societies will contribute to the furnishing of it and will hold all meetings there after it is finished.

Miss Potts is chairman of the committee to plan and buy the necessary furniture for the room. Others serving on the committee with her are: Dr. Jarman, Mr. Graham, Miss Bedford, and Margaret Hix. Because of lack of finances, it will be impossible for every piece of furniture desired to be bought this year. The complete plan is to be presented and as much work done this year as possible. Then the societies from year to year will fill in and complete the furnishing originally planned.

An early dedication of the room is contemplated. At this time it will be formally opened to use and a reception will be given. The honor societies which will share the room are Alpha Kappa Gamma, Kappa Delta Pi, Pi Gamma Mu, Pi Kappa Delta, Beta Pi Theta, and Sigma Pi Rho.

All of these are national honor societies and a chapter room will not only add to the local chapters but will also give more prestige to the national organizations. About thirty Juniors and Seniors who have been elected to one or more of these societies will have the privilege of sharing the use of this room.

CHILDREN'S DELIGHT PRESENTED AT SING ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Several of Mrs. Fitzpatrick's best tap and natural dancers made their debut Saturday night in the weekly sing before an enthusiastic and appreciative audience. Before this we didn't realize that S. T. C. was keeping concealed such remarkable talent. A tap dance, London Bridge, was swiftly given by a chorus of girls. Ding Dong Bell with the girls dressed in their babyhood clothes was the second dance. The rest of the program was as follows:

Suzanna—Tap
In the Waves and Chariot—Natural dancing.
British Grenadiers—Tap
Dobbin—Tap
Jumping Jack
Rabbit

Ruth Gaines and Pee Wee Anderson were the ole gray mare dancers. Jenilee Knight and Alice Rowell looked quite stunning in their outfits. Mrs. Fitzpatrick, niftily dressed in a black costume, gave an encore on her Jumping Jack stunt and Mary Winston led the Rabbit chorus. Of course we know that Mary didn't make her first appearance on this program; she has starred at so many entertainments that our fun doesn't seem complete with her missing. Nancy Nelms ended the program by singing "Say It Isn't So" and "As You Desire Me." From all reports some Hampden-Sydney boys liked the Sing just as much as we did.

Pi Gamma Mu Holds Open Meet'g

Miss Tucker Gives Talk on Hitler Movement In Germany—Strength Fading

The Virginia Gamma Chapter 2of Pi Gamma Mu held an open meeting in the Student lounge Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

At this meeting, Miss Tucker gave a very instructive talk on the Hitler movement in Germany. She explained the origin, development and dangers of the movement. War would result if the movement should gain control of the government Miss Tucker felt sure. In her opinion, the Von Hitler movement had reached the height of its success and his party is on the downward path now.

After Miss Tucker's talk, those present at the Pi Gamma Mu meeting joined in a round table discussion on the Hitler movement. Miss Tucker acted as chairman of this discussion, answering questions asked by members of the group.

The purpose of this open meeting was to let the student body share with Pi Gamma Mu the program which always deals with some current problems in present day history. Those students invited to this meeting were the other honor societies, literary societies and advanced history classes. Any other student interested in social science was also invited. (Open meetings in Pi Gamma Mu are held once each term.)

MISS VIRGINIA POTTS

Miss Potts, the beloved guide of the Class of '34, who was presented as classman in chapel today.

Juniors Present Their Class Man

The Juinor Class very cleverly presented their classman, Miss Potts on Wednesday, November 16.

Dressed in military uniforms of red and white, the class represented an army approaching the third mile upon their journey.

The theme of the program was "The March of Life" which was very attractively carried out.

The curtain opened with the class standing in red and white on the stage, and as they sang "Red and White" the Junior army joined them in miltary formation. Margaret Parker, the class president gave a short talk in which she expressed the following idea:

"With our spirit sustained by 'Work our motto, success our aim', we go forth as an army with our captain ready to meet and overcome each attack."

She then brought Miss Potts through the ranks and arched swords and presented her to the faculty and student body.

It has been under her guidance that the class has overcome the many obstacles of the past and is confident of ever surer success in the future.

GRAND OPERA IS COMING TO FARMVILLE

On November 24, at the Eaco Theatre the opera Pagliacci will be presented on the screen with a cast of 150 and an orchestra composed of 75 musicians. As far as is known by S. T. C. authorities this is the first presentation of grand opera in the movies in Virginia. This masterful production will be given just as it is on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York City. It is to be one of the features of the season.

Alpha Phi Sigma Has Initiation

Alpha Phi Sigma announces the following new members of the Apprentice degree, who, together with valedictorians and salutatorians from high schools, were initiated last night

Mildred Linthicum
Kate Porter
Lottie Whitehurst

Carmen Clark and Carrie DeShazo were promoted to the Master's degree.

Senior Production Is a Huge Success

Mary Winston, Director, and Miss Olive Iler, Sponsor, Deserve Much Credit

"Scandals and Sandals", the real hit of the season, was said to have been a huge success by the best of critics. This senior production was presented in the college auditorium Friday evening, November 11, at 8 o'clock. Mary Winston, director of the show, Miss Iler, sponsor, and the various committees deserve congratulations on the show, for it was indeed a splendid performance.

First, we found out exactly what came out of the big black shoe—sandals, riding boots, school shoes, dancing shoes, galoshes, evening slippers and football shoes (and the Hampden-Sydney Tiger). It was indeed a delightful display of footwear!

Then, we heard all the scandal in S. T. C. as told by Henrietta Taylor, Virginia Thornhill, Jennie Wheeler, Alice Moore, Margaret Gathright as interlocutor was clever as well as attractive. So were the girls in the circle; their songs were interesting features in the minstrel. Did you like "I'm Yours For Tonight" and "Say It Isn't So"?

Rumor says, that "Scandals and Sandals" made S. T. C. forget the depression and the presidential election . . . how about it?

New Members of The Debate Club

The Debate Club wishes to announce the following new members:

Sue Waldo
Margaret Pollard
Sally Jennings
Nancy Harrison
Jo Wooding
Helen Smith
Beverly Barksdale

The varsity try outs will be held Monday, November 21.

MR. T. M. BULLOCK SINGS IN CHAPEL

Saturday morning, November 12, Mr. Thomas M. Bullock, baritone soloist of Grace-Covenant church, Richmond, Virginia sang in chapel to an appreciative audience. He rendered the following selections:

Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes	Old English
The Trumpeter	Dit
I Love Life	Mana-Zucca
Home on the Range	Guion
Road Song	Yeomans
Without a Song	Yeomans
Old Man River	Yeomans
Time for Making Songs	Rogers

As an encore Mr. Bullock sang "Sylvia" by Oley Speaks.

FRESHMAN CLASS HOLDS MEETING

On account of the absence of Tac Waters, president, the Freshman class meeting was conducted by Mattie Lula Cooper, vice-president. As there was no business of special importance, the meeting was brief. "Red" Riddick, cheer leader, announced that on Thursday night the class would meet to practice yells. It was announced that Martha Nottingham had been chosen captain of the freshman hockey team.

The following motto was chosen by the class: "To find and give the best."

Bruce and Rosalind Simonds To Play Here

Second Lyceum of Season Will Be Presented Saturday in the Auditorium

THEY ARE NOTED PIANISTS

Bruce and Rosalind Simonds, two noted pianists, will present the second lyceum number for this season in the S. T. C. auditorium Saturday night, November 19, at eight o'clock.

"There has been singular coincidence in the details of the separate careers of Bruce and Rosalind Simonds. Both were born in Connecticut of New England families which can be traced back in one or two cases to the same Colonial ancestor. Both received degrees of Bachelor of Music at Yale University, the same fellowship for foreign study was awarded to each, both continued their studies under Vincent d'Indy at the Schola Cantorium in Paris, and later with Matthay in London. It is not strange, therefore, that their performances on two-piano recitals are marked by a unanimity of thought and feeling which is the more unusual in that it is so perfectly unforced."

Mr. and Mrs. Simonds have already gained for themselves a solid reputation as ensemble players of the highest artistic ideals. They were here last year in a two-piano recital which afforded rare pleasure to the student body and to discriminating music lovers.

The coming of these two musicians Saturday night is expected to be a musical event of more than average importance.

The Students Appreciate It

The students here appreciate the cooperation shown by the faculty in these last weeks when so many things have been happening. The circus, the senior minstrel, the Vienna choir, the hockey games and other campus activities have kept students so busy that lessons have gone unprepared. The faculty has shown a very cooperative spirit and has been very broad-minded about this. They have not only excused students for being unprepared, but they have even excused them from the class period also. One teacher is helping a student outside who was unable to attend one of her class meetings because of extra curricula work. All of this helps create a friendlier and kindlier feeling among the students toward the faculty.

Now that everyone hasn't so very much to do, each student is studying hard and enjoying it because she knows that the teacher helped her, and now she wants to help the teacher.

Thank you, teachers. We promise to work for you now more than ever because you helped us in an emergency.—The Editor.

Thanks on Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving is approaching this year with fewer reasons than usual for being thankful. First, the Republicans have been buffeted by the storms of the recent election, and, for them, we must feel sorroy; second, the depression is causing shoulders to sag and heads to drop; and lastly, Dr. Jarman is requesting that no girl leave school for the holiday. With these in mind how much hope is there left for a heartfelt giving of thanks? However, there is a Pollyanna side to even this gloomy situation.

As for the Republicans—time heals all wounds; and we must know from the results of the recent election that the ravages of the depression will soon be over. There is even a compensation for having to stay at school during Thanksgiving. If students were allowed to leave Thursday, many of them would find excuses to miss Friday and Saturday classes, and thus bring sorrow to the hearts of their instructors. By staying they do not run this grave risk. But most important of all, those who would leave on Thanksgiving would miss the traditional color rush and Thanksgiving class hockey games.

No student who misses these events can say that she has seen all the life at S. T. C. To be paradoxical, "even the darkest cloud has the sun shining behind it." Let us be thankful on November 24.

WHAT MAKES THE WORLD GO ROUND?

There have been lots of answers to this question. Some people say it's love; others, excitement; but, from the college girls' point of view, I believe it's mail. Of course, love and excitement are involved herein—they are components of the mighty impetus which keeps the old world moving for S. T. C. girls.

Just get to chapel early one time and watch the students as they assemble. The route to assembly is always via the post office, where the morning mail has just been distributed. It sounds incredible, but truthfully enough, the results of her matin trip to her mail box either accelerate the speed of a college girl's world or bring it to a dead standstill. If she has been so fortunate as to find something in her box besides a few square inches of void or a letter for her roommate she is jubilant and high-spirited; if not, she is utterly blue.

Here on one hand, is a gay young sophomore. A-beam with ecstacy she hurries into the auditorium and finds a warm spot by a radiator. Gleefully clutching an envelope, she carefully scrutinizes its exterior; then, she breaks its seal and dives eagerly into its content. As she devours the letter, each pleasuring scrap of news evokes a squeal of delight, each annoying one a sigh of regret. So, with intermittent "ohs!" and "aws!" she reads it through once—twice—maybe three times. Then sinking off into a reverie, she meditates upon its various features. However, as the chapel program begins, she suddenly comes to, scrambles into her seat, and sits back with an air of conscious satisfaction. Resigned to any turn of events, she anticipates the ensuing program.

But, on the other hand, take a look at this dejected freshman. She, empty-handed save for a battered notebook and a well-chewed pencil, wanders across the front of the auditorium. With disappointment written on every feature, she plumps disconsolately into her same old seat to go through with the same old thing. Alas, poor thing. Her trip to the P. O. was all for naught. What now does she care for chapel programs, announcements—anything? She is insensible to them all—It's merely a matter of an empty or a full mail box, don't you see!

TIB'S BIT

The upperclassmen nominate Tib Simmerman as chief of the college fire department. Such herorism as she displayed in combating the leaping flames that sprung from the ironing board on third floor Student Building last Thursday night would be recognized and rewarded in some way. She was the embodiment of the strength and courage of the Great Southwest. Her heroism may be compared only with that of David Crockett who slew the bear.

The situation was tense. Everyone was frantic. Help would not come. Smoke filled the hall. Girls ran madly up and down the corridor carrying small amounts of water in the containers available. Finally the fire was under control and the flames began to die. An an aftermath to the exciting fire, came Tib in her calm and deliberate way carrying an Old Dutch Cleanser can of water. The tense situation was relieved when Tib dashed the little can of water on the charcoal ironing board. The crowd roared. Tib's bit was the most spectacular heroism displayed at the fire.

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

Speaking of annoyances, we wonder what the student body thinks of having to come into the building at two o'clock on Sunday afternoon. Two o'clock is the best time of the day, winter fall, or spring. In the winter, it is the warmest and most pleasant time for walking for by four o'clock the day is getting cool, and the sun is going down. Two o'clock in the late spring is that very hour when everyone wishes to avoid the sweltering heat of indoors, and if possible, stay without in order to enjoy any little breeze that might be blowing. We aren't children to be made to conform to such regularity and to be forced within—if we dare linger five minutes too long. Why cannot we call this one day of rest our own in this small respect?

Sunday for the average S. T. C. student means church in the morning, lunch, a few moments of leisure, and then an afternoon (two hours) of meditation. The average Sunday at present, represents two hours to get exercise if wanted, but which results in shivering and in blue fingers and noses if one ventures forth. We go to church at night and the one day of rest is gone.

Let those who want to go into their rooms at two o'clock, go—but let those who want to stay outside stay. Let it not be a matter of compulsion or even concern, but a matter of choice.

Sincerely yours,

A Junior

RETROSPECTION

The sunset's glow has faded
Over land and sea,
How many souls have I aided,
How many think of me!

Did I help lighten the burden of care
Of the old men I met in the street,
With a smile so full of sympathy rare,
We he glad that we chanced to meet?

When I played the strains of a holy tune,
Did anyone pause to listen?
Did it help restore their shattered faith,
And grant a benediction?

And is your heart made happier
By life as it come sand goes?
I try to please you most of all,
Dear God—grant all these things are so.

HEART-ACHE

I know now why all
The agony, heart-break
And passion
Of unrequited love,
Are in those minor-chords
And cadences
Of "The Moonlight Sonata"—
I saw the moon tonight.

ARLINGTON

Calmly—peacefully—
Over a marble tomb
The moonlight glows.
A tomb—quiet
In its holy stillness.
Gently—borne to us
On the breeze—
Words of peace
And comfort come to
Soothe our fretful hearts.
Reverently—with bowed heads—
We listen—
"Let this my final resting place
Keep ever before you
The white lights of truth—
The shining symbol of peace
That we died to preserve"—
Be this—the way out
Of chaos—
The only way—
The spirit of universal love.

WHEN I'M AWAY FROM YOU

Days go by so slowly,
The sky is never blue—
Life just seems to be a failure
When I'm away from you.

Nights have no enchantment,
There's nothing much to do.
So I just sit and dream and think—
When I'm away from you.

And lots of times I wonder,
If you are lonely, too—
Or if you're happy with another—
When I'm away from you.

ODE TO A SKELETON

To think it was once a man,
With life feelings—and pride
Now it is laughed at—talked about—
And studied
The skeleton in the health ed. room.

M. B. G., '33

MUSINGS

The sky at sunset tonight
Was gorgeous—
Flaming crimson and gold,
Breath-taking in its loveliness—
I wonder—want to know,
Across the miles that separate
You and me,
If you saw the picture
Painted in the west.
Why is it that all lovely things—
So lovely they cause an ache
In my heart—
Remind me of our love?

VOYAGES

Moonlight—silvery, shimmering,
Ocean waves reflecting its sparkle.
Alone—across the vast expanse of waters
A ship glides on—
Bearing my soul
To shining worlds.

HOPE

I look from my window and see the rain,
The mists rising up from the grass,
I press my face closer against the pane,
And watch the crowds that pass.

I think of you across all the years
That have come between you and me,
Quickly my eyes are filled with tears,
For it's you I long to see.

It is not right that we should part,
Don't blame it all on me,
If you knew the love that's in my heart
The love that's never to be.

I hope and pray before another moon
Passes on its mocking way
That you'll forgive me very soon,
Then we'll need no words to say.

HOCKEY TEAM ENTERS TOURNAMENT AT SWEET BRIAR

On Saturday, November 12 twenty S. T. C. girls went to Sweet Briar to attend the third annual meeting of the Virginia-North Carolina Intercollegiate Hockey Tournament. At ten o'clock the Farmville hockey team played the Harrisonburg team. The score was 2-0 in favor of Harrisonburg. The rest of the girls who went played on the "et cetera" team D. & E. The result of this game was 1-0 in favor of "et cetera D."

Colleges represented were William and Mary, Westhampton, Harrisonburg, Randolph-Macon, Hollins, Winston-Salem and Sweet Briar. Swee Briar probably had the best team as their team defeated William and Mary which had defeated the other teams.

The All-Star team which was a team of picked players met the Washington Club players on the hockey field at 3:30 Saturday afternoon. It was a very thrilling game, and the final score was 4-3 in favor of the All Star team.

Varsity Hockey team:

E. Wheeler	R. W.
L. Mattox	R. I.
M. Putney	C.
M. Nottingham	L. I.

D. Ridgway	R. H.
N. R. Cooper	C. H.
E. Billups	L. H.
M. Massey	R. B.
D. Snedegar	L. B.
L. Crute	G.

The following members of the Varsity Squad who did not make the team are to be congratulated on their consistent efforts and work: M. Buchanan, A. Clements, R. Fleet, M. B. Fraser, M. Gregory, R. Hutchinson, F. McDaniel, R. McDaniel, K. Ranson, G. Sugden, G. Taylor, M. J. Taylor, L. Walmsley, E. Walthall and J. Williamson.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWS

If the weights of 527 women students at Marshall College were added, the total would be 62,078 pounds of co-ed. That's right much female to handle, you know it?

Incidentally it has been said that Sweet Briar was originally founded as a school for the poor girls of that county. Yeah, poor girls.

According to a census report, 87 women in the United States earn their living by hunting and trapping. We're trying to get the census bureau to pursue those figures further. We think they've dropped five or six ciphers somewhere. — Kansas City Star.

Winter Park, Fla.—A life-size pastel portrait of Thomas A. Edison by Mme Mihrida Rassin Pasha, Turkish portraitist, has just been acquired by Rollins College. The portrait is an interpretation of Edison at work in his laboratory, studiously inspecting a striking assortment of test tubes, retorts, and complicated mechanical devices.

Artists who have examined the portrait highly praise the perfect technique with which Mme Rassin has executed this unusually effective work. The reflections of light on glass in the picture have been represented with rare skill.

Mme Rassin is one of the notable artists of Turkey and her work includes not only portraiture but landscapes and general plainting. She is the founder of the Academy of Arts in Istanbul and has been decorated by several of the countries of Europe where her work has been exhibited. She won first prize at the Beaux Arts Academy in Paris for rapidity and perfection in portrait painting.

Rollins conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Science upon Edison in 1930.

State Teachers College Basket Ball Season Will Open Today

Mary Fraser is Manager—Assistant Not Chosen Yet.

The first basketball practice of the season was held this afternoon. A large number of students attended. This led the coach and manager to hope for an even more successful season than heretofore. The varsity schedule has not been definitely planned, but the Council expects to have the plans completed and announced soon. Many of last year's varsity players did not return; therefore, these places must be filled by freshmen. Those on the team who graduated are: Frances Edwards, side center; Easter Souders, guard, also captain; and Elizabeth Burger, guard. Many members of the squad are not in school this year. The managers ask the cooperation of the entire student body to make the basketball season as successful as it has been before.

BASKETBALL

Today the 1933 basketball season starts. We are planning a big season this year; we need the help of every member of the student body to make it a successful one. We are expecting to see the gymnasium crowded every afternoon with girls ready and anxious to play basketball. Don't forget—from 4-6 every afternoon—let's make that old score run up.

No one ever grows as old as he thinks he is at 21.

To a very large extent, depression seems a matter of wanting the things we used to need.

Red Cross relief this year was backed up by an army of four million members—equal to our army of 1917-18. A bigger army must battle need in the coming months. Enlist today!

CAPTAINS CHOSEN FOR CLASS TEAMS

The class hockey captains have been elected for the season of 1932.

The Seniors chose Marguerite Massey as captain. "Rite" has been playing a consistent game as right fullback. That "to strive, to seek, to find spirit will certainly hold forth.

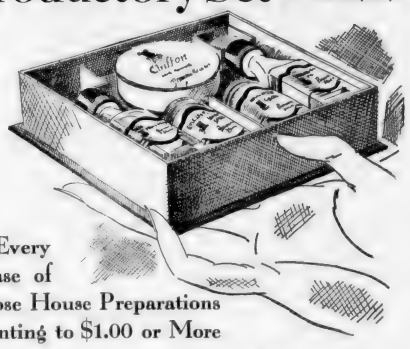
Nannie Ruth Cooper was the Junior choice. Nannie Ruth has been "Johnnie on the spot" as center half. Look out, center forward!

With Leila Mattox as captain and the fine backing she has, the Sophomores are going to be strong bidders for honors Thanksgiving day.

Martha Nottingham is captain of the Freshmen team. Sophs, look out! These Freshmen are a determined bunch.

All of these girls have been faithful workers on the varsity hockey team. As captains of the class teams they will continue to show their ability.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT WELL BEGUN



The schedule for the tennis matches has been posted on the athletic bulletin board. Girls playing in the tournament are expected to play off preliminary matches this week.

Twenty-six girls have signed up for the tournament. Eleven of these are red and whites; fifteen are green and whites.

The tournament is expected to reach quarter finals; finals will be played the following week.

Tomorrow Is Big Time For S. T. C.

International Book Week Has Been Observed

Program Was Centered Around College High School and Training School

Ever since the establishment of Children's Book Week, in 1919, to encourage the love of reading among young people, the children's literature classes in the college here have participated, in a small way of course, in the international celebration. This year, as for several years past, under the auspices of the Woman's Club of Farmville, they, together with a group of seniors who are teaching English in the College High School, kept a display of children's books in the window of Gray's Drug Store during the week, the effectiveness of the exhibit greatly enhanced by beautiful and appropriate posters made by Miss Bedford's class in lettering. The recitations for the week were in keeping with the theme for the national celebration, "Books for Young America." On Monday, in the little auditorium, there were romantic and humorous scenes from well-known books—from Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer", Howard Pyle's "Men or Iron," Lucretia Hale's "Peterkin Paper," Hans Christian Anderson's "Fairy Tales". Wednesday the class enjoyed reading choice bits of prose from books such as Burnett's "Secret Garden," Sinmaster's "Emelyn," Alcott's "Little Women", Chrisman's "Shen of the Sea." Friday, to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of Louisa May Alcott's birthday, the classes gave a delightful program, which included an interesting summary of her life, something about the characters in her books, an account of her school in the barn, and some interesting ways in which her hundredth birthday might be effectively celebrated. Christmas was mentioned as a fitting time for a celebration since the Alcott books abound in

'Dover Road' Play Coming to S. T. C.

Witty lines and absurd complications characterize "Dover Road" which is soon to be shown at S. T. C.

A flat tire on Dover Road sounds perfectly natural, but the complications it causes when two runaway couples are thrown together in the house of a cunning and meddlesome old man are amazing. With his butler as an ally, this delightful man causes mysterious drafts to blow. These drafts cause colds, and colds cause complications, and what do you suppose these complications cause? Can you imagine a cold being used ah a device to cure lovesick runaways?

See for yourself how it is used in a most delightful comedy, "Dover Road" by A. A. Milne. The author, a British playwright, uses typical British scenes and situations, and is exceedingly popular with modern audiences. This play will be no exception in popularity when it is presented December 2 by the Dramatic Club of S. T. C. and the Jongleurs of Hampden-Sydney College.

Alcott Centenary Celebrated Here

The juvenile literature class celebrated the hundredth anniversary of one of the greatest American writers for children, Louisa May Alcott. A very interesting program was arranged for Friday, Nov. 18, by a committee, Hazel Holland, and Nannie Steger, joint chairmen. There were interesting short talks on these and similar topics.

Life in the Sixties as Reflected in the Alcott Books

The School in the Barn

Little Women in London.

As the last number, a characteristic selection was read from "Little Women," a favorite book of three generations of children. At the conclusion there was a suggestion that Louisa Alcott's birthday, should be celebrated, not only on the one hundredth anniversary of her birth but that it may be celebrated every year on the 18th of November by her host of admirers.

Those taking part on the program were:

CHAPEL PROGRAM GIVES PLEASURE

A musical event which afforded rare pleasure was given in chapel on Saturday, Nov. 19, by Miss Mary Lilly Smoot and Mr. Arthur McLawhon, pupils of Mr. Edwin Feller of Norfolk.

The entire program was made up of vocal selections sung in a delightful manner, showing outstanding talent and training on the part of the two young performers.

They were assisted by Mrs. Feller at the piano, who played their accompaniment in an artistic and understanding way.

Another delightful feature of the morning was the presentation of birthday gifts to Dr. Jarman. Ruth Ford presented a book of songs as a gift from the College Choir, and Jane Royall gave the gift from the student body—the traditional gift "that goes up in smoke!"

BRIDE AND ATTENDANTS IN WOMANLESS WEDDING

The womanless wedding, given Friday night, Nov. 18, in the auditorium of S. T. C. proved to be a great success. To the strains of "Here Comes the Bride," Mr. Coyner and his bride, Porter Holladay, attired in a flowing veil and lovely dress of pink lace, come slowly down the aisle.

Before the entrance of the bridal party, Beryle Young, tastefully dressed in a pink net gown, sang "I Can't Give You Anything But Love".

Dr. Simkins played the part of the very dignified and obliging minister; Eddie Paulette, the bride's distressed and weeping mother; Jack Gray, the flower girl; Durock Putney, the maid of honor; Harry Lancaster, James Fretwell and Howard Cook, the bridesmaids. The groomsmen were: Merle Smith, Ed Poole, and Barry Dingwall with Shad Watkins as best man.

Amid the screams of laughter from the delighted audience, the bride and groom left hurriedly for a short wedding trip, happy in the knowledge that their wedding was by far the most outstanding social event of the season.

Program of Artists Enjoyed By Students

Bruce and Rosalind Simonds presented an exclusive program in College auditorium Saturday evening, November 19.

The coming of these two musicians together proved a musical event of unusual importance to the student body of S. T. C. From beginning to end the audience was held silent and enthralled by their interpretations of Handel, Couperin, Mozart, Infante, Rachmaninoff, and their own compositions. Mr. and Mrs. Simonds played in perfect accord, and their presentation of a very well chosen program was masterly. They alternated at first and second pianos, but so well have they succeeded in blending their individual styles in playing that it mattered little which took the lead in any particular number. One heard a technical continuity making its way from one piano to the other with never the least sign of break. There was no exploiting of personalities, simply a beautifully played program of beautifully written music.

MISS MORAN GIVES NATURE TALK

At the regular meeting of the Primary Council Thursday night at 7 o'clock in the Student Building lounge, Miss Moran gave a very interesting talk on nature. As nature study was the leading topic for discussion, Miss Moran brought specimens from her nature study museum for exhibition. With these she illustrated her talk.

Dramatic Apprentices Present Play

The members of the Dramatic Club and their sponsor, Miss Wheeler, were delightfully entertained at the last meeting, held on November 21, by the apprentices of the acting group. These apprentices presented their first play entitled "A Night In An Inn."

The theme of the play was centered around a group of sailors who had stolen a ruby from the head of an idol. The idol and his priests followed them to an old, ramshackle inn and there attempted to regain the precious stone.

The costuming of the sailors and idols and their make-up were very unusual. They seemed to match perfectly the weird, dimly lighted scene. The supernatural and ghostly lighting also added to the effect of the play.

The acting, well coached by Mary Shelton, was excellent. Each girl portrayed the true personality of the character. The cast was as follows:

The Toff ..... Claudia Harper
Bill Jones ..... Mary E. Wood

STATE EDUCATORS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Educators and citizens will gather today at Richmond for the annual meeting of the Virginia Education Association. The conference will open with the twenty-ninth annual meeting of the Cooperative Education Association, of which Dr. Jarman is president.

Various group meetings will be held throughout the week with programs featuring speeches made by the state's leading educational, health, and welfare authorities.

The meeting will be held at 2:30 p. m. today in the Broad Street Methodist church. At eight o'clock tonight the Federation of Mothers clubs and Parent Teachers associations will present a play at the John Marshall High School. Other meetings of the week will be held at the board rooms on Ninth and Marshall Streets.

BOOK OF RULES OFFERED BY PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The American Physical Education Association, through its Women's Rules and Editorial Committee, publishes even booklets or rules for girls' activities, with appropriate articles and suggestions for their more effective teaching.

It is important that these books, which fortunately are very inexpensive, find their way in schools, recreation centers, colleges, wherever girls are playing, since for the present, at least, they offer the best and safest rules for girls' activities.

The careful use of approved rules lends importance to programs which already include those activities, and it is equally true that good standard rules make broader use of the activity inevitable.

Every teacher who teaches physical education activities to girls of junior and senior high age, every student graduating from teachers colleges and normal schools, training institutions of physical education, should own a full set of booklets or such booklets as meet her peculiar need. Many people do not know that Traditional Custom To be Observed by Students of S. T. C.

Thanksgiving Excitement and Class Spirit Rise High in Anticipation of Game and Color Rush

According to an age-old custom, tomorrow S. T. C. will again celebrate Thanksgiving with heart-felt thanks and with a jolly good time.

At 7 o'clock the Y. W. C. A. will conduct a Thanksgiving service in the auditorium. At this time, a pageant will be presented, and Mr. J. A. Redhead will talk. At 9 o'clock the green and white hockey teams will meet the red and white teams in the most exciting and hard fought of all S. T. C.'s class games. The freshmen will play the sophs first, and then the juniors will meet the seniors. Who will be the winners and gain the 10 points on the color cup is the question in the minds of every student. Snake dances, pep meetings and secret consultations have already caused onlookers to feel the holiday spirit that is in the air.

Many alumnae will return for the big day. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon, an alumnae hockey team will play a pick-up college team.

At six o'clock a Thanksgiving dinner will be served in the dining room. Although it isn't known surely that we will have it for dinner, students are already sniffing turkey and plum pudding for this dinner.

All day students will dress in white green and white or red and white. Their colors will wave from the five points of vantage: the Rotunda, Student Building, Library Hall, White House Hall, and Cunningham Hall. Whose colors will wave from the Rotunda remains to be found out at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning. At the first tap of the six o'clock bell, a dash will be made for each point. Who will be the winner cannot be determined beforehand as the plans and prospects of each color are kept a deep secret.

Dancers Perform At League Meeting

Girls from Mrs. Fitzpatrick's dance classes at State Teachers College, Farmville, gave a dance program at Cumberland High School on Friday, November 18, at 8 o'clock.

The Cumberland Senior League was called to order by the chairman, Mr. Lewis Cralle. After a short business meeting, a young lady from the high school gave a short talk on the work of the Red Cross. A group of young people, also from the high school, sang a song.

The girls from the College took charge of the remainder of the program. The first number was "Susanna," danced by five farmer boys and girls. Next, "British Grenadiers" marched on the stage and tapped out a military dance. "Old Dobbin", the general favorite, was greeted by gusts of laughter. The last number on the program was a solo, the "Dance of the Bunny."

The dancers from S. T. C. interpreted the hearty applause to mean that the program had been enjoyed, and went home to bed very well satisfied.

The Color Rush

To win the color rush is the desire of every member of the classes at S. T. C. College spirit and sportsmanship are as essential in color rushing as they are on the athletic field.

Throughout the term the sister classes have been working together. Let's not let such disagreeable things, as hitting one on the head with a frying pan, spoil the fun Thanksgiving morning. After all, those things which are gained in the wrong way are not enjoyed.

The best way to have a good time on Thanksgiving is to set your alarm clock, not to throw it, get up early and come out to color rush.

Thanksgiving Spirit

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving. What does the anticipation of Thanksgiving Day call up before the minds of the students of S. T. C.? It makes us think of whispered plans, red and white and green and white banners hid in corners to be dragged forth by eager excited girls at the peal of the six o'clock bell, hockey games with spirited cheer leaders and joyous anticipants, and last, but best of all the spicy dinner with turkey and all its trimmings.

The spirit of joyousness and cooperation is exemplified here at Thanksgiving. It is the first time that the two red and white classes and the two green and white classes join forces to make their colors win the desired place on the color cup. This year may there be more cooperation among the colors and less chaos.

May the recorder of events at S. T. C. add another instance of a display of good sportsmanship at our college. May there be less noise and confusion during the hanging of colors, and may we all contribute our part of that S. T. C. spirit, cooperation and love for the Alma Mater that characterizes our Thanksgiving Day.

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

The complaint we have to make to the forum comes from the hearts of the average student. Although we are supposed to have a benevolent administration, it seems that the enforcement of these rules are entrusted to the Home Department. We are not complaining unjustly but have honest reason to do so.

The aim of the Student Government is supposed to be for the good of those whom it concerns—The good of this organization has been ruined because of the interference of those who do not understand what Student Government is. The liberties given us are forbidden by the Home Department. For example, the 10:00 to 10:30 recreation period is absolutely forbidden us. We are supposed to be healthy, all-American young people, and it is against all human nature for us to be regarded as creatures of routine.

We hear the word cooperation continually, but we ask—how can we cooperate by ourselves?

It also goes "against the grain" for the average person to have her best friend insulted and embarrassed without cause.

We, as students, are willing to meet the administration half-way, but the administration must be willing to take its part in meeting us.

Senior

Editor's Note: (To the town person who wrote to the editor):

We are very sorry that you interpreted the forum last week in the wrong way. We did not mean that town people were not welcome to use our pianos and music rooms in which to practice, for they are just as welcome as we are. What the writer meant was that so many students play the piano and practice when it is unnecessary. That is the kind of thing students object to—not to practicing something as worthwhile as the music produced by the town organizations. Keep right on—we appreciate it.

Dear Editor,

Congratulations! The student body heartily approves of that editorial entitled, "The Students Appreciate It" which appeared in last week's Rotunda. The teachers are really good sports, and we are really enjoying our classes this year. It seems there is more cooperation between students and teachers than ever before.

And another thing—the Y. W. C. A is really doing some good work. Posters are good, prayers are good, the speakers are good. In general the Y. W. surely has an efficient cabinet. In fact, I think all the organizations are working unusually well, or so it seems to one who is really interested.

An Upperclassman

Dear Editor:

It seems that the inhabitants of the senior building have been getting undue criticism. Accused of being the noisiest place in school, of disregarding light rules and defying authority, one would think those Juniors and Seniors in the senior building were the "world's worst."

I am a Senior who lives on first floor senior building. I have never been disturbed with noise by the students during study hour or after 11 o'clock. I even get lonesome sometimes because the room is so quiet. Several of my friends with whom I have talked say also they are not disturbed with noise. Between 10 and 10:30, I have heard noise. But students in the senior building, study, go to meetings, etc., until that time, and then they need and should be allowed to make as much noise as they like. It seems to me those persons complaining so much have somewhat exaggerated the noise that is being made. If none of the girls themselves are not disturbed, there must not be so much noise.

I have been disturbed several times by some one yelling from the steps of the first floor to students on third, and second floor to get quiet. I didn't hear the noise but I did hear some one screaming to them to get quiet. I do not mean by writing this forum to be antagonistic to the house council or home department, but the voice of the student is not allowed at some of the meetings called by the home department, and I just want to use this "voice of the student" column to defend us in what we consider somewhat unjust treatment.

We are Juniors and Seniors in college and we feel equal to taking care of ourselves. Sometimes we find it necessary to stay up late, but most of us manage to sleep during the next day. We don't want to stay up unnecessarily, and believe me, we don't except when we have so much extra curricula work and studying to do that it is necessary.

Here's hoping the home department will have no more trouble with senior building.

A Senior

A GOOD OLD GUMMING SESSION

Well, well, look who's here—none other than Maggie Eley. Come on in Eley and let's have a good ole gumming session. What's the dope?

Did you hear that one of our pals led the figure at the Carolina dances? Who? why, Chic of course! I'll have to hand it to that girl; she really has the power.

I wonder if you noticed the continuous pilgrimage to the end of second floor senior building, Monday. Oh! you were one of the lucky girls, too. Wasn't Moomaw's candy grand, and have you ever heard of anyone getting such a large box during these hard times—five whole pounds!

Can't wait to se the "Dover Road"! I hear that Burgwyn is as good as ever and that Virginia Thornhill is killingly funny. Yeah! and two Freshmen have been chosen as maids—Margaret Farrar and Helen Conquest. Don't you know they'll be cute.

Speaking of acting, did you see those cannibals, the monster, and the rough old sailors who were waiting to come in the auditorium, Monday night, after prayers? Oh! they were going to give a one-act play, were they? You say that I know all of the girls; why! I'm positive I don't know such awful looking persons.

Have you seen Frances Dorin lately? No, I haven't either. This business of teaching certainly must take up a lot of time. And Martha Sanders is the same way. I believe she's going to quit S. T. C. and take a post grad at Curdsville High.

You know, I'm so excited about tomorrow I can hardly sit still. Can't wait to see those games. Come on let's go catch a little shut-eye, so we can "color rush" at the break of dawn.

The sophomores thought the freshmen "green" during rat week. Tomorrow take a look at the hockey tunics and decide for yourself which class you think is "green."

On Thanksgiving Day we are thankful that the color rush does not come at Christmas and Easter.

Roosevelt has been elected; yet, the Student Council drank their toast with grape juice, as usual, on Saturday night.

The 1932 city directory of Milwaukee contains a Hug, a Kiss, and a Goodbye.

The more peanuts the fans in the football stadium of Iowa State College eat the harder it is going to be on the flies. Peanut shells found on the stadium floor this year were taken to the school's chemical laboratory where J. Burke Jacobs, college chemist, is reducing them to liquid form to be used as fly killing spray.

"Today there is no 'No. 1' numeral on any New York University football sweater because that number was Al Lassman's", says Moran Tudury in another of his articles on "Young Immortals," in the December College Humor. "His honors were justly won. Before he died saving two boys from drowning in a Maine summer camp, at the age of twenty-five, he had played three years of star varsity football and captained two N. Y. U. teams—football and boxing. Spike Webb, boxing coach of the Navy and Olympic teams, calls him the greatest college fighter he ever saw. That tall, unpicturesque building, the School of Commerce, looks down on Greenwich Village, but it sees nothing in Washington Square to compare with the strange legend of Al Lassman, the tall lumbering, Latavian boy who came out of nowhere to one of those big, random city schools without even a compass and who climbed the heights. And when the greatest trial came, he met it like a sportsman."

Life will teach you sooner or later that when you seek something for nothing you will get nothing and pay for it dearly.

SHADOWS AND DREAMS

When the sun sinks low and the stars peep out,
My thoughts turn to you with never a doubt
But that twilight and shadows will bring you to me,
If not in reality, then surely in dreams.

It's in dreams that you come, for you've gone away,
And you've taken the joy and bloom from my day,
But in dreams you're here, close by my side,
And softly my hand in yours you hide.

Then we look at the young, new moon above
And all our thoughts seem turned to love,
And we talk of life in a cottage small
With vines and roses quite covering all.

Then the moon sends down a brighter beam,
And in your place a shadow's seen,
And quickly I turn and walk inside,
Where dreams and shadows do not abide.

THINGS I HAVE

I love the winds that sing of roaring sails
That go their spendthrift way down trackless lanes—
And then again, I love the early glow
Of candlelight around the dripping panes.
I love the door of home and glowing hearth,
The solitude of hills—a whispering pine—
The fragrance of a rain—sweet trail at dust,
And little pools where silver stars may shine —
A song when night comes groping over hills,
The drowsy chirp of birds, and bits of blue
Between the grayish clouds that roof the moor—
And little things that make me think of you!

TO DR. JARMAN ON HIS BIRTHDAY

This wish is a bit belated,
Yet it still rings just as true,
Our love and very best wishes,
From our hearts—Dr. Jarman — to you!

HEARTBREAK

A heartbreak is a little thing,
It only means that you
Will have no foolish songs to sing
Or useless things to do.

A heartbreak means that you can sit,
And watch a dream go by,
And laugh because you know that it
Will sicken soon, and die.

So small a think a heartbreak is,
There is no word or touch
No hand you clasp or smile you miss
Can move you very much.

A heartbreak means that where a kiss
Has dealt you pain before
There is nothing—next world or this
Can hurt you any more.

THANKSGIVING

I see from my house on the hill top
The lights in the valley below,
I watch them come into being,
As the night tides ebb and flow.

The homes in my valley are simple,
Yet love and joy live there
And behind each lighted window
Are pleasures I long to share.

From my simple homes will come leaders,
Who'll build our nation anew,
Dear God, we thank thee for such as they,
Keep them ever as strong and true.

COUNCIL ENTERTAINS DR. J. L. JARMAN

To celebrate Dr. Jarman's birthday the Student Council entertained at a dinner Saturday evening at Longwood. The table, decorated with white and yellow chrysanthemums, and yellow candles was laid for twenty-one people.

The guests included Dr. Jarman, Miss Mary White Cox, Miss Virginia Potts, and Mr. and Mrs. Graham. Between the three courses toasts were given to Dr. Jarman by Jane Royall, to Miss Mary by Helen Cover, to Miss Potts and the Grahams by Mary Shelton, and to Alma Mater by Alice McKay.

MISS JENNIE TABB NOW CONVALESCING

Miss Jennie Tabb is recuperating from an operation performed by Dr. Thomas G. Hardy last Monday in the Southside Hospital. Miss Tabb has been in the hospital two weeks for examinations and treatments. As she did not readily respond to the treatments, an operation was deemed necessary. Dr. Hardy stated that she is getting along fine, but will not be able to leave the hospital for a month.

The school is not happy without Miss Jennie. She has been registrar and secretary to President Jarman twenty-nine years. We will all be glad when she returns to work in January.

SCENE FROM OPERA PAGLIACCI

Those movie fans who enjoy good pictures and have often expressed a desire to see grand opera on the screen will have an opportunity on Thanksgiving day when "Pagliacci", one of the most popular operas will be at the Eaco Theatre, in sound pictures. This opera has the stamp of approval on it from the metropolitan theatre goers and should delight a large Farmville audience.

The idea of "Pagliacci" was suggested to Leoncavallo, who wrote both words and music, by an event which he witnessed in Montalto in Calabria during the summer of 1865, and which impressed him deeply.

In Act. 1, Canio (tenor) is the chief of a little band of strolling mountebanks, so common in southern Italy. His wife, Nedda, (soprano) is vain and he does not trust her. Tonio (baritone) the clown, a humpback, malicious, makes love to her. She repulses him. In revenge, he brings Canio upon Nedda and her lover Silvio (baritone) a rich young farmer in the neighborhood, whom she had met on previous visits of the strolling players, while they are arranging a tryst. Silvio, the lover, runs away and Canio does not see his face. There are bitter words between Canio and Nedda when she refuses to disclose to him Silvio's name, and Canio, in agony, prepares for his act of clowning on the stage.

In Act II, the village people gather in front of the little theatre to see the show and Silvio joins the crowd during the performance. The play is the old story of Pagliacci's jealousy and the love between Columbine and Harlequin. The crazed Canio acts with fervor that peasants are enraptured. Suddenly Canio asks Nedda the name of her lover; she defies him. He stabs her and also kills Silvio who rushes forward to save Nedda. Laughingly, Canio shrieks, "The comedy is ended."

Y. W. NEWS

The open Y. W. meting was held Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 16 in the Y. W. lounge. Jane Royall led the devotionals using the scripture, "Let your ligt so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven." With this scripture she expained the theme of the cabinet. Reports from the various committees followed the roll call and the reading of the minutes. During social hour Lucille Ingram gave a very interesting talk on the history of the Y. W. This talk was most appropriate since Wednesday was the 25th anniversary of the Y. W. C. A.

The World Fellowship Committee carried out extremely well World Week of Prayers. Each night a different phase of world week was introduced by talks from members of the faculty. On Monday night Miss London talked on prayer, followed Tuesday by Miss Jennings on poetry of the nations. Miss Wheeler gave a delightful talk Wednesday on customs of the nations. Through the efforts of Mr. Strick, Mr. Mills, harpist, carried out a program on music of the nations. World Week of Prayer was brought to a close Friday night by Mr. Grainger with a talk on Bibles of the nations.

The Service Committee is doing splendid work this year. The members consist of Miss Rice, advisor, Kate Parter, chairman, Madge Blalock, Judith Taylor, Wycliffe Scott and Lottie Whitehurst. Each morning the committee lists the names of girls in the infirmary. They send magazines and notes and fruit to these girls and flowers to the hospital. At Thanksgiving money and baskets of food are given to needy farmers by workers of college. The Service Committee does many small thing such as lighting the candles at vespers every Sunday evening.

Mr. Robert W. Miles, from Lynchburg, Va., gave a most worthwhile talk in chapel, on Tuesday morning, on the subject, "Interpretation of God for Present Day Living." He compared the sixteenth century and modern attitudes toward God. In conclusion, he told us something of the prayer life of Christ, and of His personality.

Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Miles conducted an open discussion in the lounge on several different subjects. He mentioned respect for personality and, also talked on the race problem.

In prayers Tuesday night, Mr. Miles analyzed the Lord's Prayer.

ATHLETICS

BASKETBALL PROSPECTS

The schedule for basketball this year has not been completed, but we are sure of having a game with the following: William and Mary, here, February 24; Richmond Normal, here, February 4.

Basketball practices are held every afternoon in the gymnasium. As yet here are very few who have come, and so in order for each class to have a team, we have to have more coming out to practice. If you start now, you can get enough practices in to be eligible for class team. Be sure to come regularly to practices.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWS

A recent census taken at West Virginia University has shown that almost half of the students there are of voting age. Of these 280 are voting for the second time. For this reason the faculty gave a vacation Tuesday to allow students to go home to vote.

Minneapolis, Minn—When the students of the University of Minnesota presented "The Streets of New York" it was discovered that they were shy some smoke for the big fire scene.

They consulted the National Guard and got some real militia smoke bombs.

When the fire scene arrived on the first night, things really began to happen. Clouds of smoke belched over evening dresses and spotless white shirt fronts; fumes filled the noses and eyes of a choking audience. The curtain was rung down and the guests departed.

The National Guard had failed to explain that the bombs used were enough to lay a smoke screen on a small army over a 46-acre field.

"American education has failed to produce outstanding leaders. Because so much time has been consumed in lifting masses of average students to a somewhat higher level of culture, it has been impossible to supply the foundation necessary to build character for leadership", Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of the George Washington University told his faculty recently.

Rochester, N. Y.—A potrion of the funds left to the University of Rochester by the late George Eastman, Kodak king, will be used to carry on the work of the movement for the institution of the 13-month year, it has been announced here.

The work is under the auspices of the International Fixed Calendar league. Plans which Eastman outlined for the activities of this league in the United States and abroad are being followed under the direction of M. B. Cotworth, known as "the father of the 13-month calendar," who originally interested Mr. Eastman in the work.

The Phi Gams of Davison may boast that they gave the Mills Brothers their start to fame and riches. Two years ago the four colored boys from Piqua furnished entertainment at the fraternity's formal Christmas dance, and their rendition of the famous "Tiger Rag" almost broke up the dance. Later other groups booked them and with the aid of Michael Haven, orchestra leader, they were invited to station WHL, Cincinnati. They still use their $3.70 mail order guitar.

SENIORS PRESENT PLAY AT KEYSVILLE

The Senior Class of S. T. C. presented their show, "Scandal and Sandals" at the Keysville High School, Keysville, Va., Tuesday, Nov. 22. It was atended by a large audience and the show was a great success. The Seniors had a lovely trip to Keysville and enjoyed giving the play to such an interested group of people.

LONGWOOD HAS NEW ATTRACTIONS

The golf balls have come. Our new golf pro, Helen Westmoreland, will be at Longwood every Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 4 to give lessons on golf. Everyone is asked to come out and start playing now. Probably you can outplay Dad by Christmas.

If you're not particularly interested in golf, don't forget that Longwood is open from 3 to 5 just for your pleasure. You don't necessarily have to buy. If you don't have a nickel with you, why not go in, and enjoy a book in the library, a big cheerful fire, or a quiet game of bridge. However, carry your own deck of cards along.

Then, too, there's the log cabin, still new to S. T. C. students, which can be the center of good times.

In our steady routine let's not forget what a restful visit to Longwood means.

Virginia Education Association Meets In Annual Session

Many Out-Of-State Celebrities Present as Well as Numerous Noted Virginians

MARTHA CROSS IS ON PROGRAM

The Virginia Educational Association met for its annual Thanksgiving convention November 22-25 in Richmond, Va.

The general theme of the program was "Essentials in an Adequate Program of Education for Virginia." The program was formed around the integrating of school subjects or the unit method of teaching, which gives the student not only more freedom in selection of undertakings, but also in the participation of them.

This general improvement plan is to begin with primary grades to continue through university work. Beyond secondary schools the process of selection of courses is being used more and more extensively, with the result that specialized instructors of the higher type of mentality are needed to lecture and advise in class rooms.

Among the out-of-state celebrities who made addresses were Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago; Dr. Edwin C. Broome, superintendent of Philadelphia Schools; Miss Florence Hale, past president of the National Education Association; Dr. H. L. Caswell and Dr. C. W. Knudsen, both of Peabody College, Nashville, Tennessee.

Dr. Hutchins outlined a plan for the modern university, taken from his own experience in organizing the University of Chicago along twentieth century lines. In this new university no attendance of classes is required, students are entitled to examinations by a Board of Examiners at any date after the required three months, and absolute freedom of course selection is granted. This, according to Dr. Hutchins brings about better cooperation between professor and student.

Among those who made addresses or presided over departmental meeting from Farmville State Teachers College were Dr. J. L. Jarman, president of the college, Misses Grace Moran and Frances Waters of the geography department; Miss Lila London of the mathematics depart-

From approximately thirteen tryouts, the following girls were selected for this season's varsity debate teams

Dorothy Woolwine
Beverley Barksdale

The questions to be debated this year are whether or not we shall cancel our war debts and the question of whether or not we shall have high or low tariff. The debate schedule has not been completed yet, but will be announced as soon as all of the debates are scheduled.

The Debate Club will hold a very important meeting Thursday night at 7 o'clock. At this time, plans will be discussed for the faculty album to be sponsored by them December 9. Every member is urged to be present at this meeting.

Miss Coulling Talks At Student Day Meet

At the student day chapel today, Miss Coulling gave a very instructive talk on the "days that used to be" at S. T. C. She presented a very beautiful and attractive picture of the social and spiritual life of the students when the student body was composed of less than two hundred girls. During this time, Mrs. Morrison was head of the home and she contributed a great deal to the cultural uplifting of the girls.

1932 students were greatly amused at some of the regulations such as not being allowed to have a date with the same boy two Friday nights in succession, not borrowing coal to make your fire, and being forced to walk in the open air one hour each day.

Everyone enjoyed Miss Coulling's talk, and the audience showed their appreciation by a very hearty applause.

Next Wednesday for the student day program, the sophomore class will present Miss Moran, their classman, to the faculty and student body. This will be the last student day program before Christmas.

Fun and Frolic At Color Rush

Already prepared for the fun and excitement of the color rush, the freshmen really held their own against the onslaught of the green and white for the Rotunda room Wednesday night. What a good time the two colors had. In fact, never before has the floor swayed up and down so much. That it held only shows what sturdy stuff, S. T. C. is made of. No serious harm was done, however, the worst being a black eye and the loss of several shoe heels.

Miss Mary finally put a stop to the fray by reminding the girls that they were supposed to be dignified young ladies. Since the modern tendency is for arbitration instead of warfare, it was decided to submit the question to a committee composed of the class presidents and classmen to decide. They decided that two girls from both colors should run from this room. Everyone who engaged in the fight thoroughly enjoyed it, and no one became angry. Good sportsmanship and fun prevailed through both attacks made by the green and white Among the fighters we find such notables as Hattie Gilliam, Mildred Gwaltney, Margaret Parker, Hazel Smith, Tac Waters, Mary Hood, Alice Moore, "Rite" Massey, Martha Gunter and Nancy Burgwyn.

All that was needed to complete the fun for the freshmen was the color rush Thanksgiving morning.

One girl who was judging described it thus: "Five-thirty—everyone in their rooms. Not a noise on the halls anywhere—somewhere yonder mice made merry in the trash can. Ten minutes till six! Five minutes! Two! One! 30 seconds more! What tensing of muscles and what a sudden dash as the first gong of the bell struck six."

Fun and excitement reigned at all five places, but the Rotunda was most contested, Hildegarde Ross, the girl with wings, touched the railing for

Dramatic Club and The Jongleurs Present "The Dover Road" at S. T. C.

Nancy Burgwyn and Ray Gordon Take Leading Parts In Milne Play

TO BE GIVEN FRIDAY NIGHT

"The Dover Road" by A. A. Milne will be presented by the Dramatic Club and Jongleurs Friday evening, December 2 at eight o'clock in the auditorium.

The cast, under the direction of Miss Leola Wheeler, after two months of hard practice will present one of the most enjoyable and worthwhile productions of the year. Each member of the cast has captured the true feeling of his character and portays it excellently.

Nancy Burgwyn whom we have seen as Elisa Dela Robia in "Enter Madame" and as the Princess Lelia in "The Ivory Door", takes the leading girl's part. As Anne in "The Dover Road" she presents an entirely different character which enables her to show her versatility as an actress. As usual she is well-poised, a trifle sophisticated, but more than anything, else, she is human.

Roy Gordon, a Hampden-Sydney freshman, though new to this audience is not playing behind the footlights for the first time, as can be easily seen by his naturalness and the ease with which he acts. He takes the male lead as the mysterious Mr. Latimer, a romantic gentleman of forty or thereabouts.

Merle Smith as the would-be dignified, self-sufficient Leonard is delightful. Eddie Bell, who is very well known to this audience lives up to his record and charmingly portray a young Englishman with nothing short of a touch of genius. The motherly Eustacia, who lavishes her affections and medical attention on everyone, as played by Virginia Thornhill, will keep the audience in gales of laughter.

The staff of servants, headed by Ed Poole as the austere Dominic, who has a subtle sense of humor, includes David Dingwall, and Everett Greenlees as butlers, and Margaret Farrar and Helen Conquest as maids.

The play will exceed the highest expectations of its audience. It is a clever play, charmingly written, well directed, and superbly acted.

Annuals to Go To the Engravers

The 1933 Virginian is ready for the engravers. With a few more sketches and color suggestions from the art editor the annual will be sent directly to J. P. Bell in Lynchburg where it will receive its tinting. A new and unusual color scheme is being used in this year's book. Several contrasting colors have been substituted in place of the varying shades of a single color as used in the past. Thus a brighter and more scintillating book is produced.

One section of the 1933 Virginia is devoted to a new feature: one which will interest everyone. This novel feature deals with campus events and will carry news and views of things seen daily around the campus.

Subscriptions to the annual are coming in slowly. As the staff is able to do only a certain amount of work until more subscriptions are received it is necessary that all who can subscribe, do so immediately, otherwise the work will drag and the present accomplishments will have to wait. Any member of the staff will take your subscription. The staff is composed of the following members:

FRESHMEN PROVE TO BE GOOD SPORTS

The Freshman Class held a very important meeting Tuesday night, November 29. The president attended to the regular business of the class. After this the president asked each freshman to wear her rat cap until Christmas thereby observing that old custom which says that unless freshmen "win the hockey game they must wear their rat caps until Christmas." This announcement was received with applause which showed the good sportsmanship they have. The freshmen realize what a privilege it is to be able to wear a rat cap.

Sing on Saturday night will be conducted by the freshmen, and everyone is invited to attend. The freshman class hopes that everyone can come and that each person will find the program interesting.

Alumnae Play The Pick-ups on Thanksgiving Day

The S. T. C. athletic field was the scene of a very exciting hockey game between the alumnae and pick-ups on Thanksgiving afternoon. The game began at three o'clock and was played in ten minute quarters instead of the usual twenty minute halves.

Many of the alumnae were members of last year's hockey team or of some previous year's and were good players. They entered the game with much spirit and a determination to win. However, they met another team with the same spirit and the same determination.

The first two quarters were unusually close and interesting. Good playing was evident on either side, but no goal was made. This made each side fight harder.

The third quarter brought the first and only goal, which was made by the pick-ups. Thus encouraged they worked for another one, but they were successfully checked by the alumnae.

The game was refereed by Frances

Gone But—

Thanksgiving Day at S. T. C. has come and gone, but nobody quite loses the memory of pleasant things—and Thanksgiving Day at S. T. C. is certainly one of those.

It means many things—rising in the misty, early dawn to wait for the tap of the 6 o'clock bell, and then the wild rush—who can ever forget the color rush at S. T. C.? And afterwards the colors we love, rising and dipping with every passing wind, adorning the buildings of S. T. C.

Then we remember vespers—probably remember the quiet, the uplifting of soul and spirit, better on this morning than on any others, as a contrast after the activity of the early morning.

After vespers, Thanksgiving means also the hockey games. Wild excitement, swift-moving figures, crisp cold air and the carrying sound of ball and stick—this attends the hockey games.

And then—the crowning event—a turkey dinner! What would Thanksgiving be without it? Turkey—white meat, brown meat, flanked with dressing, crisp celery, cranberry sauce—and all the good vegetables which naturally go with turkey. Then the rest of those never-to-be-forgotten dishes which we associate with Thanksgiving and mince pie, and, of course, cheese.

Our Thanksgiving dinner this year was delicious, and we are not likely to forget it soon. Thank you, Mrs. Jamison, Mrs. Shelton and your helpers! It just gives us one more thing to be thankful for, and one more pleasant memory of our college days.

Another Thanksgiving has passed. S. T. C. has revealed its whispered plans, displayed its gay banners, witnessed another series of exciting hockey games, and recorded another instance of good sportsmanship to its list of events.

Certainly there can be no adverse criticism of the sportsmanship shown at the games. Both the red and white and the green and white teams played a fair and spirited game and were backed by the blue and white "rooters."

With the going of Thanksgiving, may we resolve to make the rest of the year one of Thanksgiving joyousness and cooperation, love for and devotion to the Alma Mater, and above all things may we resolve to have good sportsmanship in everything.

LIFE A LA SHAKESPEARE

Life is neither a Winter's Tale nor a Midsummer-Night's Dream. Sometimes it is a Comedy of Errors and all is Love's Labour's Lost. But if you take it Measure For Measure you shall find it As You Like It and that All's Well That Ends Well. Then do not make Much Ado About Nothing. The Tempest will blow over and the Passionate Pilgrim will pass through the Twelfth Night, for "Death once dead, there's no more dying then."

ON TO THE "DOVER ROAD"

"Well, my deah roommate, if you must know where I acquired my English accent (though it's frightfully silly of you to ask, really!) I've been down to play rehearsal and traveled a bit of the Dover Road with some awfully jolly people, don't you know! They are no end amusing—oh, absolutely, ripping!

"Oh, well—it is a bit strenuous, keeping up that English stuff. Maybe I'd better relax into good old United States so you can understand. Wait till I turn out the bally light (it will creep in now and then) and I'll tell you all about it.

You know, I'm so tenderhearted. I almost cry when I think of the girls who will miss seeing Eddie Poole as that head butler! One of those butlers who gets his arms in that offensive position that only butlers can achieve, looks down his nose at you and says 'Uh—yes, sir' and 'Uh—no, sir', if you even bat an eyelash, much less speak.

"But Virginia Thornhill! Her name is Eustacia which gives you some idea of what to expect from her. She kills one with kindness; never believing anyone when he says 'no, thank you' or 'I'm perfectly comfortable,' she lavishes her baby-talk and medical attention on everyone from his lordship to the butler.

"Speaking of my lord, Merle Smith takes this part and is a riot. The cold he catches in the second act is the most genuine-sounding affliction possible. How he manages to sneeze so enthusiastically is beyond me. My only fear is for some of the scenery which trembles a little at each outburst. Poor man, he can't understand why Anne (who is really Nancy Burgwyn; we couldn't have a play without her, you know) isn't just as charmed with him a la dressing gown, unshaven, in the grip of an explosive cold and eating a breakfast of kidney and bacon as she was in less intimate, more romantic situations. The lines are priceless!

"I've never seen a clever play as cleverly played. I don't know if H. S. C. and S. T. C. get along off stage, but put 'em behind foot-lights and under Miss Wheeler's control and they seem to be made for each other! New Jersey gave Hampden-Sydney a fine actor in Ray Gordon, who handles the role of the wealthy, mysterious Mr. Latimer in the easiest, most superior way.

What? Sure, Eddie Bell is in it! I thought that went without saying. He enters into his role so thoroughly that if you didn't know better, you'd think he spent his time running away from women and unrequited love. But, as I say, we all know better.

"You don't understand how I could get so enthusiastic over a rehearsal? My dear, you don't know Miss Wheeler! And that Dramatic Club! Everything will be in such perfect order by Friday night that those people will have the time of their lives up there on the stage. I know, 'cause I've heard 'em talk.

"What? Will I lend you fifty cents? Gosh, that's what I get for telling you how good "The Dover Road" is—well, (ho-hum, I'm sleepy) If I can tell my hat to the maid and collect that fifteen cents that Kathryn owes me, we'll go! Good night."

ALONG ALUMNAE LINES

Two articles by Farmville alumnae appeared in the October issue of the Virginia Journal of Education; one by Mrs. Margaret H. Forbes (Margaret Henderson) on "The Value of Occupational Information in the High School," the other, by Evelyn Peake, of Churchland, on "Play as an Aid to Citizenship."

Our alumnae were well represented on the programs in Richmond for the Virginia teachers during Thanksgiving week. On the list were: Miss Ruby Berger, Lillian Minor, Marnetta Souder, Susie Floyd, Eloise Harrison, Lottie Thorpe, Grace B. Moran, Lila London, Alice Carter, Lisabeth Purdom, Rosan Palmer, Bessie Motley, Virginia Raine. For other information regarding the program see the November issue of the Virginia Journal.

On Wednesday afternoon, November 23, Farmville Alumnae met at the Y. W. C. A. building in Richmond for the annual informal tea. Mrs. Maria Bristow Starke was chairman of arrangements, which included decorations of yellow chrysanthemums in autumn colors. A turkey plate was served. Mrs. Juanita Manning Harper poured tea.

Notice of Miss Jennie Masters Tabb's illness had appeared in the morning paper. Inquiries were made and a card of sympathy was signed by those present and prepared for mailing.

Great disappointment was expressed when the alumnae learned that Dr. Jarman would not be present. Governor Pollard claimed him for the receiving line at the reception at the Governor's mansion at the same hour. Many were able to attend both functions and to see Dr. Jarman at the mansion.

Misses Coulling, Smithey, Rice, Hiner, Stubbs, Barlow, Jeter, and Pierce were warmly welcomed by their former pupils. Among those present were Mrs. M. Taylor Bentley, Mrs. Martha Center Budwell, Mrs. "Tux" Howison Metcalf, Mrs. Alma Smith Walker, Mrs. Ann Wilkinson Cox, Mrs. Lucy Rice English, Misses Zula Cutchins, Lottie Thorpe, Carolyn Watts, Frances Treakle, Marnetta Souder, Elsie Wilson, Marguerite Wilson, Otelia Harvey, Catherine Bentley, Hazel Barrett, Eleanor Mallory, Grace Chambers, Marguerite Warriner, Louise Bunch, Irene Pugh, Mildred Peck, Rose Smith, and Loulie Shore.

The Staunton Chapter of the alumnae was hostess Thursday evening, November 17, at a lovely banquet held at the Beverley hotel with Dr. J. L. Jarman as honor guest.

Dr. Jarman made an informal address, bringing the alumnae many interesting facts about the college, firing them with deeper enthusiasm and loyalty to the school. The happy interchange of school-day reminiscences the meeting of old friends and the singing of college songs made the evening a delightful one for all who attended.

Other guests were: Miss Winnie Hiner, and Miss Virginia Potts and Mrs. L. F. Shebourne. The following local alumnae were present: Mrs. J. M. Irvine, Mrs. John Todd, Mrs. L. C. Ware, Mrs. E. F. Eldred, Mrs. R. H. Stratton, Mrs. J. B. Trimble, Mrs. R. H. Hamrick, Mrs. C. R. Brothers, Misses Dorothy Larner, Gladys Oliver, Elizabeth Brockenbrough, Katherine Wayt, Mary Amanda Lindsay, Ruth Jamison, Virginia Ellis, Harriet DeWitt, Josephine Smith and Ann Palmer.

The faculty of the Highland Park School, Richmond, Va., presented a play on November 19, entitled "No Men Admitted." The following alumnae were in the cast: Beatrice Carico, Mrs. Gladys Parker, Lila Sinclair. The proceeds were used for the benefit of the school.

Unanimous re-election of all officers marked the business session of the Culpeper Chapter of the Farmville Alumnae Association. Miss Ruth Campbell again heads the official board, Miss Virginia Tansley is vice-president, Miss Anne Minter, secretary, and Mrs. Fred Huffman, treasurer. A tentative date in January was selected for the annual dinner meeting at which time visitors from the college will feature the program.

As the "Rotunda" goes to press we are glad to report that Miss Jennie Tabb is recovering steadily. Although she is seeing no visitors, excepting the family, her condition is rapidly improving.

TO "MISS JENNIE"

Jes' ain't the same ole place at all,
Miss Jennie—we miss you more each day,
Do hurry and get strong and well
And come back to us to stay.

OBSERVATIONS

People are so amusing
Each bustles here and there,
And thinks his own little life
So important—
In reality, it's not
At all—
It's only something like
The sunset or a glorious sonata,
The sea, or trees, or the wind
That really matters
And make life worth living—
Dear God—we ask you—
Forgive our conceits.

MUSINGS

Tonight I looked from my window
Straight into the sunset's glow,
I thought of all the folk's I'd met,
And those I used to know.

From out that vast company,
You stood above the rest,
With your glorious ideals of manhood
And the dreams that you loved best.

To you life was a shining vision,
For you had planned it so,
And now with the passing ages
Do your dreams still come and go?

You and I looked together
Into that vision fair,
And thought our love eternal
Would never leave us there.

Now that we have parted
And each is wiser, too,
Do you still include me in your life
As you once loved to do?

FUTILITY

And still I think of you—
Why can't I forget?
I've tried to put you out of my mind
For weeks—
But I can't.
Maybe I love you yet,
I don't know.
If only I could forget
Twould be easier.
Thoughts are maddening—
They only bring visions,
Never reality.
And so I shall keep on Trying
To forget—

DEAR ME!

Just think
That Thanksgiving
Is all over
And that swell dinner
Is simply a
Pleasant memory,
And that dance
And date
Are merely treasures
Of the past;
Just listen
To that wind
As it gets a
Running start
Right from the North Pole
And swoops down
With biting cold;
And notice, please,
That the shop
Windows are full
Of tinsel and toys,
And the papers
Flaunt gay advertisements
And gently remind you
To "Shop Early";
And some Lucky girls
Whom old Depression
Did not hit,
Return from town
With mysterious bundles;
—What I'm saying
Is that Christmas
Is just around
The next corner,

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWS

Freshmen at Syracuse University who are interested in literature, philosophy, or science are placed together in individual houses. With instructors or graduate students as leaders, they are self-governing units. As a result of this system, grades have been higher than ever before.

On the Northwestern campus there are two new rival societies. One is composed of those co-eds who have out of town lovers and is called the Widow's Union. The other was formed by the men and is called the Widower's Association. Both organizations have the same entrance requirements.

The insignia of the Union is a yellow ribbon around their necks, while members of the Association can be distinguished by the black ribbons pinned to their vest by safety pins.

Adolph Hitler has at last reached that goal for which he has so long tried—Chancellor of Germany. For nine years Hitler, the Nazi leader, has been campaigning to head the German government. Hitler has been ordered to form a cabinet. Von Hindenburg, the president, has attached various restrictions and strings to the position. Hitler will keep a number of Von Papen's cabinet members. The situation of Hitler as chancellor is heralded by many authorities as a step toward the return of the Hohenzollerns.

A student at the College of Puget Sound, who enrolled 25 years ago, received his bachelor of arts degree recently. Among his credits one might add perseverance.

A group of optimistic freshmen at Columbia, who appear to have grown a little tired of being hazed, have organized an anti-soph committee to discipline the second-year men.

Those students and faculty members of the University of Southern California upon whose hand the time lies heavy, are laying brick sidewalks on the campus.

California students also bored with this humdrum existence have taken up turtle racing. No definite action has been taken as yet in regard to the establishment of a pari-mutuel system.

Not only are the "Fighting Irish" not Irish, but there is only one Catholic in ten, at Notre Dame. Of the 2,775 students attending, only 230 are Catholic.

The latest plan for Joan Crawford is that she is to be co-starred with John Gilbert in a new version of "Merry Widow." With that in mind, she is taking a little voice cultivation—preparatory to singing the waltz. Her present husky voice singing type of vocalism would hardly fit the measures of the waltz.

ment, and Miss Martha Cross, a student teacher.

The conferences and conventions committee of the Y. W. C. A. has Dr. Walmsley as a lyker and Doreen Smith as chairman. The committee cndits of Mildred Gwaltney, Mildred Lipscomb, Louise Van Lear, Elizabeth Kelly, Emma Rawlings. It was through the efforts of this committee that the student body was privileged to hear Dr. Miles Tuesday, Nov. 22. Dr. Miles talked at chapel and met small groups in the afternoon for short discussions.

Dr. Walmsley made a very interesting and instructional talk at prayers Friday night.

Three Things

Three things have taught me courage
Three things I've seen today
A spider reweaving her web
Which thrice had been swept away
A child refusing to weep

A robin singing cheering song

"O SLEEP, IT IS A GENTLE THING."

News has come through the N. S. F. A. release that the faculty of the University of Rochester recently voted to do away with all 8 A. M. classes, having decided it was better for the students to sleep in their own rooms instead of the classrooms.

Very naturally it occurs to us to question whether this was done in the same spirit that Burns showed when he invoked Sweet Afton to "disturb not her dreams," or whether it was an indication that professors in general do not like the aspect of the Sleeping Prince.

It could scarcely have been the first suggestion, for even professors know that nothing can disturb a dream in a classroom. When a student settles for a long nap with this simple trust to comfort him,

"Now I sit me down to sleep
I trust my pal the notes to keep,"

nothing a professor can say will arouse him from his Morphean bliss.

So, we think, it was not altogether consideration and tender affection that prompted the delay of classes.

Perhaps it was the fact that it is not easy to lecture to an unresponsive audience, and indeed, to an audience that would be fairer in its waking hours, for sleep is becoming to only a few.

Whatever may be the reason the professors gave in regard to the students and their morning naps, we cannot help saying that they must have felt the need of rest also for

"O Sleep! it is a gentle thing,
Beloved from pole to pole."

ATHLETICS

Green and White Score 20 Points On Color Cup For Hockey Season

As a result of the hockey season, green and white has a 20 point lead toward the color cup. Having 8 of the 11 varsity players, green and white, the sophomores and seniors gained ten points. Thanksgiving Day again proved to be victorious for green and white as the sophomores and seniors won the hockey games giving them another 20 points. All four hockey teams fought hard but the sophomores and seniors proved a little too strong for their younger opponents.

Freshman-Sophomore Game

To the sound of their class songs the "rats" and the "sophs" marched to the field at 9 o'clock. With the ball almost in the freshman goal, a sturdy soph hit it hard, and it was carried quickly to the opposite goal. Onlokers were much amused and greatly puzzled when the teams had a "penalty bully" which resulted in the only goal made by the red and white teams. Although they lost the game S. T. C's. baby class held the sophs 1 to 3.

The line-up is as follows:

Freshmen		Sophomores
R. Fleet	R. W.	E. Wheeler
M. J. Taylor	R. I.	L. Mattox
K. Ranson	C. L.	M. Putney
M. Nottingham	L. I.	A. Anthony

E. Billups	C. H.	R. Hutchinson
L. Walmsley	R. B.	D. Davis
E. Massey	L. B.	M. Beard
L. Gathright	G.	J. Hurt

Junior-Senior Game

The junior-senior game was equally as hard fought. However this game was not as exciting as the seniors had only ten players, and the juniors nine. The senior goal keeper had very little work to do as the ball stayed near the junior goal most of the game. Lucille Crute, varsity goal keeper, played well for the seniors scoring both goals. As the final whistle blew, the game stood 2-0, seniors leading.

The line-up is as follows:

Allen	R. W.	Boush
	R. I.	Walthall
	L. F.	Gunter
Foster	C. I.
Taylor	L. W.	Crute
Gwaltney	L. H.	Gregory

MISS MORAN GIVES THE HOCKEY SQUAD WEINIE ROAST AT LONGWOOD

In front of a big open fire in the beautiful log cabin at Longwood the sophomore hockey squad enjoyed a weinie roast given them by Miss Moran Monday afternoon.

The sophomore hockey players believe they were amply rewarded for having beat the freshmen Thanksgiving with coca-colas, weines, nuts, marshmallows, and other delicious things to eat furnished by Miss Moran. The weinie roast further inspired the sophomores to work harder to beat the seniors in the game with them Tuesday.

After several friendly games and chatting around the fire, the sophomore hockey squad returned to S. T. C., about 7 o'clock, everyone declaring herself to have had a grand time and Miss Moran to be a "swell" classman.

OUTDOORS, NOT PARLORS, DRAW MODERN WOMEN

By Mary W. Horton
(Richmond Times Dispatch)

Along with the venture of women of all types into sport comes, necessarily, a different point of view, both as to the women who indulge and the ideas of sportsmanship among women—(or is it sportswomanship?) Not so long ago, with the exception of riding, fencing, tennis and such, few but ungainly Amazons indulged in the rigors of games such as basketball and hockey, nor did the fairest of ladies think of track and baseball for their sex with any sort of approval. For a woman to be termed "athletic" did not add at all to her dignity. Indeed, up until a few years ago, "She's the athletic type" carried the bitterest sort of sneer with it. It takes a long time for public opinion to change, and only in comparatively recent times have atheltics become popular with all sorts of women, and women's athletics popular with the public in general.

We would like to say that Amazons no longer appear on the roll of women's sports indulgers, but that day has not yet come. However, the type of woman athlete has materially changed, and the women who now participate in sports are fully as capable of conducting themselves with grace and dignity in the drawing room as they are of carrying off the honors on the field of athletic competition. Most women go in for sport because they, themselves, are sports, and prefer the outdoors to parlor gossip. They are poised, well bred, good winners and good losers.

The following are a few "don'ts" for players—collected from the remarks of various coaches, players and spectators.

1. Don't fail to make a neat appearance on the floor.

2. Don't play a rowdy game—conduct yourself with dignity—omit yelling orders at other players.

3. Don't forget that the referee is an official, she is not to be argued with nor are her decision to be questioned while on the floor.

4. Don't sprawl all over the floor or ground between quarters or halves—if you are too tired to sit up—ask for a substitute.

5. If you don't like the playing of any member of your team—don't discuss it aloud—it gives the other team an advantage—and it doesn't help

6. Don't forget to thank the referee and umpire for their services—and don't forget to speak to your opposing player before and after the game.

7. Of course, don't discuss the bad breaks you had that caused you to lose the game. If there was a cause for losing—save your thoughts and discuss the matter with your own team and coach at the next practice.

8. Obey the instructions of your coach or captain without comment—don't argue on the floor.

9. If you are the victor, accept your status without "rubbing it in" to your opponents.

10. Don't frown when you play—be serious, but don't let your anger rise.

"Dover Road" Play Proves Big Success

Production Presented by S. T. C. Dramatic Club and H. S. C. Jongleurs

The Dramtic Club of S. T. C. and the Jongleurs of Hampden-Sydney presented "Dover Road" by A. A. Milne in the S. T. C. auditorium Friday evening, December 2. This production was most enjoyable and worthwhile and was attended by a large and enthusiastic audience.

The cast, under the direction of Miss Leola Wheeler, showed the results of thorough training, for they portrayed the characters with skill and ease.

The play was filled with clever turns, witty lines and comical situations and the actors caught the feeling and skillfully displayed it to the audience.

Raymond Gordon showed his splendid talent as an actor in the role of Mr. Latimer, the male lead of the play. He succeeded in putting his audience under the complete sway of his genius as the romantic middle-aged gentleman.

Nancy Burgwyn with her poise and grace, took the role of Anne, the clear-thinking, attractive girl of the play.

Merle Smith managed to fool his audience completely into thinking

'Friend of Family' Will be Presented

Cast Chosen for One-Act Musical Comedy To be Presented by Sophomore Class

The cast for "Friend of the Family", a one-act musical comedy to be presented by the Sophomore Class on January 27, has been selected by Miss Moran and Mary Shelton from the try-outs held last last week. The characters are as follows:

Grandma Wilson ..... Helen Smith
Mrs. Willoughby, her daughter
May Herndon
Phil Willoughy ..... Esther Haskins
Peggy Willoughy ..... Frances Dorin
Rosalie, Peggy's guest, Laeta Barham
Dick Sherman, just a friend of the family ..... Frances Dillon
Walter Gifford ..... Wycliff Scott
Zinnia, the colored maid .. Dot Davis

"Friend of the Family" is a clever comedy of unusual and amusing situations. Peg is nineteen and the family will never leave her alone with Dick, using him somewhat as "the hand man around the house."

Of course, it is all very well having the family like Dick but she rather more than likes him and she is pretty sure that he more than likes her. Then there's Grandma, possessor of a terrible bark and something of a bite. She does love to run the family and has her own way of making herself important. How she manages Peg's romance makes a play well worth seeing.

VANITY FAIR SECTION WILL BE CHANGED

The annual staff announces that the Vanity Fair section of the 1933 Virginian will be treated in an entirely new way this year, and may, in fact, give up its title "Vanity Fair" for another more interesting one. Curiosity is up all over the school about just what this section is going to include. The annual staff is secretive, however, and says only that the section is new, original and interesting, and that it wil be a pleasant surprise when the annuals come out in the spring.

SOPHOMORE CLASSMAN

Miss Grace B. Moran selected as sophomore classman

Sophomores Present Miss Moran; Seniors Honor the Occasion

The Sophomore Class presented their classman, Miss Moran, in the Student Day chapel Wednesday, December 7.

The theme of the presentation was the second volume of a series of books containing the college life of the sophomores. Because their freshman year indicated such a great change in their lives, and because it was so full of successful events, the class found it necessary to record those memories in a book. This was the first volume in their lives at S. T. C.

The class had now come to the dedication of their second great book. To show their love and appreciation to one whom they honored and loved so dearly, they dedicated these volumes to Miss Moran, their classman. Mary Hood, president of the Sophomore Class, brought Miss Moran forth from the second volume. In presenting her to the student body and faculty she said further:

"We feel that we are indebted to you for making our first volume so complete in every detail and for helping us make our second volume just a bit more worthwhile than the first. Without your loyal, kind devotion, and enduring patience we could never have completed our first volume in this series of books, nor could we have gone thus far in our second."

The Sophomore Class then sang their classman song to Miss Moran. The Senior Class wore their caps and gowns in honor of their sister class' sponsor.

In the background could be seen the last two volumes to be written by the Sophomore Class. These contain the future which will be made during their Junior and Senior years.

CHORAL CLUB AND ORCHESTRA GIVE TEA

On Friday afternoon, Dec. 2, the Choral Club and the College Orchestra gave a very delightful tea. The occasion was the commemoration of the birthday of the great musician, Edward MacDowell.

Nell Weaver, president of the Choral Club, gave the address of welcome, after which the program was turned over to the president of the orchestra, Gertrude Mannes. A very interesting and beautiful program, which made us realize anew the greatness of MacDowell and the beauty of his compositions, was given.

The program was as follows:

Andante Cantabile ..... Beethoven
Orchestra Trio
Sketch of MacDowell's Life
Marion Umberger
To a Water Lily ..... MacDowell
Christine Seay
Thy Beaming Eye ..... MacDowell
Mrs. Simkins
Story of the Peterborough Colony
Lena Mae Gardner
The Gift ..... Behrens
Susie Webb
Fur Elise ..... Beethoven
Helen Wiley Hardy
Sunset Hour ..... Abt
Evening Bells ..... Loomis
Choral Club Ensemble

After the program tea was served to more than one hundred guests.

WORK ON HONORS COURSES GOES FORWARD

The honor's group held its second meeting on November 9. The students laid their problems before the committee, and a general discussion followed. The girls are beginning to realize the meaning of their work. They have made a rough outline of the subject on which they would like to work, and many have started to work on their papers. All of the students are showing interest in the subjects, and the best of results is expected.

The calendar for the rest of the year is as follows:

February 28—The third meting of the honors group, when written reports of the results to date will be due.

April 27-28—The last meeting of the honors group, when the final examinations will be given.

The aims of the honors courses are to give capable students special intensive training during their last year in college, and to give them an opportunity to win special honors and extra credit in their major study. The work may take the form of (1) original research with a view to discovering new knowledge in a field (2) collecting, organizing, and stating the significance of first-hand data and materials, (3) experimenta-

MISS GRENELS VISITS FARMVILLE

Students and faculty were delighted during the Thanksgiving holidays, by a visit from Miss Grenels. Not only is S. T. C. the Alma Mater of Miss Grenels, but she was for many years one of the favorite faculty members. During her stay at S. T. C., she made many friends who welcomed her back to S. T. C. Thanksgiving. She was always a friend and adviser and she always had a smile for everyone. Many were the regrets when she left S. T. C. to teach in South Carolina.

Miss Grenels, during her stay Thanksgiving, visited Miss Iler and Miss Moran.

It is fervently hoped that Miss Grenels will visit us soon again and more often. Not often does one find such a lovely companion and pleasant leader.

DR. JARMAN ATTENDS NEW ORLEANS MEETING

On Friday, Nov. 25, Dr. Jarman accompanied by Mr. Blair Buck of Richmond, the competent head of all the high schools in Virginia, Dr. Willie Smithey, who is a professor at the University of Virginia, and several other friends, attended the conference of the Association of Secondary School, which met in New Orleans.

The trip was a most delightful one. Dr. Jarman was elected "dean" of the trip, which meant that he was to decide the places they should stop, the vistis they should make to points of interest along the way, and the hotels in which they should stay. Needless to say, he made a most competent guide or "dean", and all of those traveling with him were able to get the most out of the trip, by stopping at the most delightful places and seeing the most important and worthwhile things.

Four days were spent by the congenial group in New Orleans. Their time was well filled with meetings, vistis, sight-seeing and other activities. About five hundred delegates attended the conference, and many important matters were discussed and reviewed. The group traveled 2300 miles by car.

S. T. C. students were given the opportunity of hearing about the trip and several of the most important happenings and incidents when Dr. Jarman gave a much enjoyed talk on the subject in chapel Tuesday morning. The various activities of the trip interested them a great deal, also the workings of the association.

We find that the Southern Educational Association offers splendid help and constructive criticism along many lines for the improvement of those colleges which belong to it.

C. students of the gay 90's will all be shown. Every department will be represented. Athletes of 1900, the chemistry student of years ago, the scientist, the history teacher from South Carolina, all go to make this entertainment worth many times the one dime (10c) which is charged for admission.

Christmas Spirit

Another Christmas season is almost here. Many of the students are already selecting Christmas gifts and cards which they will send to their various friends and acquaintances. They are already anticipating the music and mirth, the fun and frolic of the Christmas holidays. How many of these students will think of the true meaning of "Christmas" and the "spirit" so characteristic of the day!

Already Christmas seals for the tubercular cause are in circulation. The Salvation Army will be making a special appeal for aid, and other charity organizations will be soliciting our support soon.

We, students, too often allow ourselves to believe that since we are students and still financially dependent on some one else, we should feel no obligation to help support these charity organizations. We should not feel that this obligation is not partly ours. It is. The truth that "it is more blessed to give than to receive" apuplies to us as students as much as it ever has or will in later life.

Of course, we are limited in our giving this year, in most cases more so than ever, but there are sacrifices that we can make that will enable us to give more liberally. The sacrifice may be a movie, a bar of candy, a coca-cola. Whatever it is, it will not be nearly as great as the joy that comes from giving in the right spirit, or the happiness that it may bring to a less fortunate one who perhaps would not have had Christmas but for our sacrifice.

Our contributions do not have to be of a monetary value. We may contribute a smile, a friendly word or a kind look to help one through a hard pull.

May we, as this Christmas season draws near, resolve to exhibit the real Christmas spirit of cheerful, unselfish and zealous Christmas giving and so make life much more enjoyable for someone else.

Examinations

The fall quarter examinations start Friday, December the sixteenth and last until the twenty-first—five days of frenzied study for most of us. If we do not mend our ways, our minds will be grapling for important facts in a veritable sea of subject matter, and we will return to our homes a tired, nerve-racked bunch of girls.

However, there is a remedy for this state of affairs. The formula of which is an immediate start, a plan of action, a budgeting of time, a concentration of mind on the matter at hand, a conscientious elimination of interruptions, and a more gradual process of absorption.

We must not delay, but begin tonight. Let us get out our schedules and make a systematic budget of every available hour that can be spared for review work; plan our siege of attack, giving the most support where our fortifications are weakest; and enter the fray with enthusiasm, letting nothing side-track our ardor. This is a battle well-worth our greatest valor.

May the victory be ours, and may we take home the spoils in the form of good grades!

CHEMISTRY AND CHRISTMAS

"2H9O— 2H9 x O2, 2KNO3— 2K-NO2 x O2, I'm not going to wait until the last minute to study for exams as everybody else does. No sir, I'm beginning right now.

"3MnO2— Mn3O4, 2Ba O2— 2 Ba-O x O2, 2 BaO— 2BaO2. Let's see, I have journalism exam Friday, education on Saturday, history and chemistry on Monday, and math on Wednesday. It could be worse;; I might have had three on Monday. What slays me though, is that math exam on Wednesday. Just think, staying here two whole days for one little exam. Oh, well!

"2Na2O2 x 2H2O— 4NaOH x O2. Boy, not but fourteen more days till I go home. I'll wear my brown rabbit hair dress on the train. It looks nice with my coat. Wonder if Mother will like the coat I bought all by myself.

"2Na x O2— Na2 O2, 2Ca x O2— 2CaO, I'll pack my bags on Tuesday so I'll be ready to go the minute I finish that math exam.

"S x O2— S.O.2, 4P x 5O2— 2P.2-O5. It came upon a midnight clear, that glor-r-rious night of old. I suppose we'll go caroling the Sunday night before we leave.

"C x O2—CO2, 3Fe x 2O2— Fe3O4, 2Na2O2 x 2H2O—4NaOH x O2, wonder when we'll have our school Christmas dinner. Turkey, cranberries; does Mrs. Jamison know how to fix a Christmas dinner.

"CaO x H2O-Ca(OH)2. How I hope I'll get to that V. M. I. dance at home this Christmas. I haven't worn that red velvet evening dress at home yet. Wonder what orchestra they'll have.

"SO2 x H2O— H2SO3, CO2 x H2O — H2CO3. Know Dad would be proud of me studying like this. Wonder what I'll get for Christmas? Wish it would be a Lapin jacket, but guess there's no chance. I believe I'd rather have a black one since my coat is brown.

"CO2 x H2O— H2CO3. I haven't the slightest idea what I'm going to give Bill. I'd like to give him a silk lounging gown, but I don't think I'd better. Mothers are so funny sometimes. Wonder what he'll give me. If it's a light blue vanity case with pink flowers, I'll die. I wish it would be one of these tiny wrist watches, but I know he'd never think of that.

"H2 x C12— 2HC1, 2Mg x O2 — 2MgO. I don't know whether I'll give Mildred anything or not. I might give her that powder-puff-on-a-stick that I got last Christmas. 3O—2O3. You can get darling fifty-cent gifts down town. I know most of these old formulas—think I'll go down town and buy some presents."

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

During the past few days I have heard "various and sundry" arguments as to the use, or rather misuse, of the "Open Forum" section of the Rotunda.

Several girls have been heard to remark that it has degenerated to a mere "give and take" between those people who are afraid to express their remarks and opinions openly, and are content to hide behind a name that cannot be traced to an individual.

The Open Forum was adopted with the slogan—"Don't gossip—give constructive criticisms through your college newspaper in the form of the Open Forum." You notice that constructive criticism was the word. The arguments have been based in the fact that the criticism has been very destructive, and in some cases has even hurt people very much through their utter frankness.

In answering these arguments many things can be said. The Open Forum is a splendid outlet for the students, in that it gives many and varied sides and phases of school problems. Instead of a problem or a situation, and these are always arising and being discussed in groups, they are presented to the school as a whole and in this way something is done to help matters if possible.

There is a chance to present both sides of a problem and start people thinking which is something we always want to do.

May the Open Forum continue!

WORLD NEWS

In the United States today there are several thousand boys and girls of 13 years and younger working at regular full-time jobs—and some of them are even under eight years of age.

A new drug, five times as potent as morphine, has recently been brought to America from Germany. It is particularly useful in the last stages of cancer because it virtually relieves all pain and permits the patient to be up and working.

One of the most astonishing cases of abnormal growth was that of a girl exhibited at a meeting of Physical Society of Vienna in 1894. Although only five years of age, she weighed 250 pounds.

In Johannesburg, South Africa, a Scotch gold miner saved the sediment of his baths for 20 years. When he panned the accumulation from 20 years' bath, he had 20 ounces of pure gold worth almost $500.

ANY RAGS?

The feature number of Kay Kiser and his orchestra at Hampden-Sydney finals last year was a song entitled "Rags". You remember,

"Any rags, any bones, any bottles to day,
It's the same old story in the same old way,
Any rags? Any rags?"

This is the theme song of our Campus League this year. If you have any rags, any paper, any coca-cola bottles during this year of depression, save them for the proper beggar. Don't throw them away. And incidentally, help Mr. Graham and the Campus League to keep our grounds and buildings clean and attractive.

QUESTIONS

Ah! waning light,
What does thou bring to me?
'Tis growing dark;
The air fills with mystery.

'Tis thus 'mid the dusk,
'Mid the shadows of a day at rest
That my soul looms up before me
To ask if I've lived my best.

Have I lived today as a child of right?
Have I done as I should have done?
Have I said the words I should have said?
Have I done a good deed to someone?

Now that the twilight is o'er,
And the lights are burning bright,
I can heave a sigh while I satisfy
The questions I was asked tonight.

E. H., '35

AH! FOOLISH HEART

Ah! foolish heart
Why dost thou lead me
Into paths I dare not stray?
Why dost thou recall me
At times where I'd rather stay.
Why lead me to victory,
Only to lose again;
Why be contradictory
When my hopes end in pain?

Why drop me down to despair
When I'm longing for a moment's bliss?
Why don't you answer my questions;
But, wait, let me tell you this:
I've never quieted nor stirred you—
That is, not as yet.
But my message to you
Is a six word truth—
Heart, don't be such a coquette.

MY IDOL

Her cheery face, full of sweet smiles,
I love it;
Her golden hair, that gleams and curls
Above it
Her sea-blue eyes, sparkling with light
Complete my picture, and fill my lonely night
With memories, all of her;
My idol.

bless each stolen moment that I see her,
Bless the halo that surrounds her,
Watch her nod her pretty head
To those who would possess her,
While jealousy creeps into my soul with thoughts that boast—
She's mine, I love her most.
My idol.

I try to lead my straying steps
In paths she might have trod,
Try to endure with patience tasks prepared by God,
Try to csmile with encouraged face
When failure wants to frown
Laugh at troubles, smile at woes,
I try to follow as she goes,
My idol.

I worship her with unceasing tire, day after day,
As a child's last doll which she kisses then puts away.
Adore her winning ways as onward she sweeps to face
She's mine, on her I lay my claim,
My idol.

RAIN

These darksome days that folks bemoan
I fondly cherish as my own.
When clouds enfold the earth in gray
My gypsy thoughts are wont to stray.

It never rains but then I think
Of eager blossoms cupped to drink,
Of grassy fields and wooded knolls,
Of green fringed lakes like mirrowed bowls.

You praise the sun, the air like wine;
I'll take the rain and call it mine.
Like tears that ease the soul of pain,
Dear God, be thanked for blessed rain.

MISS COX ENTERTAINS

Miss Mary White Cox entertained the House Council and the 1931-1932 Alumnae Committee of the Y. W. C. A. at a very attractive and unique buffet supper in the Longwood cabin last night.

The cabin had very cleverly been transformed into "Ye Ole Mountain Inn", with Miss Potts as a typical mountaineer clerk. Upon registering, each guest received a telegram or letter informing her of her part in the impromptu entertainment, which followed the delightful buffet supper.

FRESHMAN COMMISSION HAS JAPANESE BAZAAR

The Freshman Commission of the Y. W. C. A. had its annual Japanese bazaar this afternoon between four and six o'clock. The mezzanine of the Recreation Hall was converted into a Japanese shop by the use of Japanese lanterns, tapestries, incense, and the Japanese articles which were displayed. The Commission in Japanese costume added to the atmosphere of the beautiful setting. The proceeds from the bazaar are used to pay the expenses of a representative of the Commission to the Blue Ridge Conference.

CLUBS HAVE INITIATION

Two nights recently, the gym has been filled with shrieking girls, known as goats, and girls with menacing paddles in their hands. The first occasion of this kind was Wednesday night, November 30, when the "14" Club initiated their "goats" into the mysteries of their order. Mary Shelton, who is acting as president of the club in place of Burnley Brockenbrough, who is not in school this quarter, was in charge of the initiation.

The N. B. B. O.'s with Lib Kelly at their head put their new members through the "horrors", Monday night, December 5.

Both clubs served delicious refreshments before sending their new members off to bed—looking like warpainted Indians.

PRAYER COMMITTEE

The work of the prayer committee is very worthwhile. It provides for prayers and morning watch. The committee sponsored the open association meeting. Through its work it contributes to the spiritual life of the students; besides this, a material contribution, "Living Creatively" by Kirby and Elbert Hubbard's "Scrapbook," has been made to the Y. W. library. The members of the committee are:

Adviser: Miss Mary C. Hiner
Chairman: Sara James

MR. T. J. HAWKINS TALKS AT PRAYERS

Mr. T. J. Hawkins, student pastor at the University of Virginia, talked Friday night at prayers. The theme of his talk was world-fellowship. His subject was "Such as I Have I Give to Thee." The thought emphasized was, if one can't give money, he can give interest, sympathy, and such as he has.

FRESHMEN PRESENT SING

The Freshman Class presented a Sing Saturday night in two parts. The first part was reminiscences of an old man of his childhood and sweetheart days.

Reclining in a big arm chair the man, Eva Owen, let the evening paper fall to the floor and allowed his mind to wander back to the days when he was a boy. How clearly could he recall the days when he played with his kid sweetheart, Dot Eley; and the many run-ins he had with the tom-boy in short pants, Elizabeth Billups. Then there was the rah-rah girl, Nancy Parker who had but a fleeting part in his life. There was the vamp girl, Lucille Meacham, who paid no heed to the entreaties of her admirers. After her came the graduate, Grace Eubank. Then came the girl of his dreams, Jessie Lee Swisher.

The second part of the Sing was a fashion show in which the College High freshmen and the college students in home-economics modeled in attractive dresses made in the home economic classes under the direction of Miss Tupper and Frances Ratcliffe.

MATHEMATICS CLUB HAS PARTY TONIGHT

In the form of a pajama party the Math Club will hold the first meeting for this year in the Student Building lounge tonight at 10 o'clock.

The regular program will not be given as the party is to be more of a social occasion.

Those invited to the pajama party tonight in the lounge are the old members of the Math Club and freshmen who are majoring in mathematics.

TEA GIVEN

Pi Kappa Sigma Sorority had as its guest the past week-end, Mrs. Andrew C. Renz of Cincinnati, Ohio. Mrs. Renz is first vice-president of Pi Kappa Sigma and an alumna of Eta Chapter at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

Mrs. Renz was the honor guest at an informal tea in the Pi Kappa Sigma chapter room. The following guests were present: Miss Mary White Cox, Miss Potts, Miss Mix, Miss Stubbs, Miss Bedford, Miss Moran, Miss Iler, Katherine Waters, Mary Berkley Nelson, Martha Sanders, and Virginia Brinkley.

Using water from its thousands of hot springs, Iceland now is able to grow large quantities of vegetables, fruits, and flowers throughout its long cold winters.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR HONOR SOCIETIES' ROOM

The committee deciding upon the furnishing of the honor societies' room has met and has made final plans. The room is to be furnished semi-formally and each honor society in the college has accepted its part of the cost for the furnishings. It is hoped that the room will be completed by Christmas or shortly after.

This room is designed to bring the honor societies together and to bring a knowledge of the different work done by each, and also to bring the societies to the attention of the students as a definite part of the life at S. T. C.

NEW COURSE OFFERED IN HOME ECONOMICS

Home Economics 448 is a new course introduced at the request of students not majoring in Home Economics but wishing for a general course in this department. Therefore there are no prerequisites. Open to juniors and seniors of any course.

Several other courses in the department are open to all, except majors, without prerequisites. Students interested in these courses may see Miss Tupper in room 43, Science Hall.

TO SACRED ORDER OF CHI

Insomuch as the sacred, secret order of Chi has so violated the fundamental principle of their organization by the untimely hanging of that banner which transformed the entrance of the Rotunda into a Chinese laundry, certain students felt and still feel and will henceforth feel privileged to meddle with the name "Chi" and also that in future its "workings" may "be obstructed."

Keep your Chi sacred and—no one will find cause to meddle. See to it that you do not find trouble in your wake—and in your sleep. Beware—tobacco sticks and pitchforks.

A Royal Pun

"On the king," was the reply.

It was visiting day at the insane asylum. One of the inmates imagined himself an artist, and he was busily engaged in dabbing at an empty canvas with a dry brush. A vistor, wishing to humor him, asked what the picture represented.

"That is a picture of the Israelites being pursued through the Red Sea."

"Where is the sea?"

"Why, that's rolled back to allow the Israelites to pass."

"Where are the Israelites?"

"They've just gone by."

"Then, where are their pursuers?"

"Oh, they'll be along in a minute."—Pup.

SENIORS AND SOPHOMORES BATTLE TWO EXTRA PERIODS IN HARD GAME

Darkness Prevents Continuance of the Game. Final Score 1-1

To break the deadlock score of 0-0, the Seniors and Sophomores played two extra periods and battled to a tie of 1-1, in the championship hockey game, last Thursday.

No goal had been made at the close of the first extra period by either side. Seemingly tireless both teams had spirit enough to try for the second time to make the goal that would win the game.

The Seniors realized their ambition when Lucille Crute scored for them in the first five minutes. But in the last five, with one minute to go, Martha Putney scored also for the Sophomores.

Due to the fact that the teams had played for sixty minutes, and also that it was growing dark further playing for the day was prohibited.

The A. A. Council announced that the game would remain tied, and the Green and Whites go yet undefeated.

The line-up:

Seniors		Sophomores
L. Boush	R. W.	E. Wheeler
	R. I.	L. Mattox
M. Gunter	C. F.	M. Putney
	L. I.	C. Davis
L. Crute	L. W.	A. Anthony
M. Gregory	L. H. R.	Hutchinson
D. Ridgway	C. M.	M. Rhodes
T. Beacham	R. H.	J. Williamson
M. Massey	R. F.	M. Beard
D. Snedegar	L. F.	D. Davis
R. McDaniel	G.	J. Hurt

ARCHERY

Scoring forty-four points to Collin's forty-two, Laurie Boush won in the archery tournament which took place Monday afternoon back of the Senior Building.

Nell Wampler was runner-up.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWS

We hear through the medium of the Swarthmore Phoenix that silverware from Stanford has been found in the dining hall of a New Elgland college and also in China.

The Collegian of the University of Richmond, in its platform for constructive changes in college matters, suggests among other things more elaborate dances on the campus.

Twenty-three different churches are represented by students at Mount Union College. The Methodist leads with 201 student members. Only nine do not belong to any church.

Northwestern University has something which perhaps no other college in the United States has, and which certainly no colleges in foreign lands possess—two well-named individuals, Herbert Hoover and Alfred Smith. Where is Roosevelt?

It seems that the freshmen at Western Maryland College, far from appreciating the removal of "Rat" regulations in some instances, have gone to the point of not speaking to upper classmen.

Those students and faculty members of the University of Southern Caliornia upon whose hands the time hangs heavy, are laying brick sidewalks on the campus.

As long as cigarette advertisements do not suggest that women may smoke they may appear in publications of the University of Utah.

Students of the University of North Carolina have been moving about a little cautiously since a warning was published that an alligator was loose on the campus.

COLLEGE HIGH WINS OVER PETERSBURG 4-1

College High won over Petersburg High by a score of 4-1, in a return hockey game on the S. T. C. athletic field Saturday.

The first half ended with a battle of nip and tuck, neither side being able to make much progress and neither team scoring.

With Hudgins substituting in the second half for C. H. S., the tide turned and College High rushed three goals. To make the game more interesting, Petersburg chalked up a point to its credit. For a few minutes the score stood 3-1. But before the final whistle blew C. H. S. made another goal and the game ended with a score of 4-1.

Lord Aberdeen, in his book, "Tell Me Another", has a story about a celebrated lawyer named Curran. During the proceedings of a court on circuit in the country on a summer day, the windows were wide open. While Curran was addressing the court, a donkey in an adjoining field brayed loudly. The judge, interrupting, said: "Excuse me, Mr. Curran, one at a time, please."

Curran bowed acquiescence, then proceeded with his address. Later, when the judge was delivering his charge to the jury, the donkey brayed again, on which Curran arose, and said: "I'm sorry, your Honor, but there seems to be such an echo that I can scarcely make out what you are saying."—Selected.

Program Included the Presentation of Principle Characters of Drama of All Time

ACTOR IS VERY DISTINGUISHED

On Thursday night, December 8, a most delightful Lyceum program entitled "Dramatic Interludes" was given by the distinguished English actor, Mr. V. L. Granville in the auditorium. The presentation, in costume and make-up, was of the principal characters from the drama of all time. Mr. Granville gave us vivid portrayals of outstanding personalities of literature. His interludes covered a variety of types that ranged from comedy to tragedy. The performance was indeed a privilege for S. T .C. students and all others who attended it. College Choir Gives Concert in Danville

Sunday evening, December 11 the College Choir assisted by the Hampden-Sydney Glee Club and members of the Business Men's Chorus presented a sacred recital in the First Presbyterian Church in Danville.

The Choir presented trios, quartets and choruses and the entire group of eighty sang "Thine Is the iKngdom" by Gaul and the "Hallelujah Chorus". A pleasing feature of the program was a solo by Dr. Jarman.

According to a music critic of the Danville paper this recital was one of the best ever given in that city.

R. PATTERSON WILL SELECT BEAUTY SECTION

In reply to a request from the Virginian staff, Russell Patterson, well-known artist of College Humor Magazine, has agreed to select the girls who will make up the feature section of the 1933 Virginian. The annual is indeed fortunate in procuring the services of so influential and so capable an artist.

As has already been hinted, the feature section of this year's annual is to be changed, and will carry the new title "Beauty Section". Mr. Patterson will select the most "beautiful" from the photographs which have already been taken, and which will be sent to him by a committee from the school, composed of Miss Bedford, Dr. Walmsley, Dorothy Snedegar, Hattie Gilliam, and Mattie Lula Cooper.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Life in the Gay '90's Is Portrayed by S. T. C. Faculty

"And now I will show you some of these old family pictures," Aunt May said to little Betty as the curtain opened for the "Faculty Album" last Friday night.

Following the picture of grandmother, portrayed by Miss Rice, came the important characters of the village. Anyone who saw the faculty Friday night could hardly realize that they were the same dignified, intellectual people who lecture to S. T. C. students daily.

Picture Mr. Bell as the "Beau of the Town" with attractive side-burns, a can, and spats.

The twins were so nearly alike that one could hardly tell Mr. Holton from Dr. Simkins. They were very quiet children, because each had something to play with, and they were ready to go to sleep.

After these was the rich uncle who failed to leave his fortune to his relatives. Dr. eJffers decided that it would be much better to provide for crippled bugs and lame ducks than to care for his niece.

Many other pictures were represented with much skill and originality. The athlete, the poet, the artist, the preacher, and the missionary were shown. The entire program was interesting and thoroughly enjoyed by the student body.

COLUMBIA CRITICS VISIT FARMVILLE

A group of Columbia critics visited our college and Training School last week. This group is making an extensive tour of the South. S. T. C. is one of the fifteen schools that the tour included. These critics commented on the outstanding personality and warm hospitality of our school. They liked the cheerful and homelike atmosphere. Those in the party were, Miss Beck, a kindergarten specialist; Mrs. Alexander, not of the official party, but wife of the head of the critic class at Columbia University, and Dr. Snider, formerly of Johns Hopkins University. She is now a member of the faculty at New College. Dr. Snider told us something of the New College that has recently been established at Columbia. Here are enrolled one hundred and thirty people. This is a college that makes a study of personalities and develpment of initiative.

The critics were especially interested in kindergarten and elementary work at the Training School. They spent some time in observing and in conferences with the supervisors.

SENIOR CLASS HAS CHRISTMAS PARTY

With a merry nod from good St. Nick, the Senior Class gathered in the Cunningham Hall lounge, Monday night, December 12 to enjoy the first Christmas party of the season. The Christmas tree with twinkling lights, hanging icicles and sparkling snow was loaded with gaily wrapped packages; but so was a nearby table which not only held gifts but a miniature Santa Claus in his sleigh drawn by eight tiny reindeer. The lounge, made cozy by a log fire soon presented a typical Christmas scene with smiling girls singing such songs as "Jingle Bells"' and "Santa Land."

Then, the room became hushed and still and eager girls sat spell-bound as Santa Claus entered and made his way to the festive Christmas tree to deliver the gifts. Delighted "ohs" and "ahs" were heard as tiny boxes and

Many Christmas Celebrations Held At the College

Old English Carol Service Will Be Given Sunday Night by the College Choir

PAGEANT ON THURSDAY NIGHT

During this week at S. T. C. the girls are "getting the Christmas spirit." In chapel Christmas carols are being sung. Each night at prayers there is a program centered around Christmas. On Monday night Miss Rice told the story of "The Other Wise Man". On Tuesday night Dr. Jeffers told of Christmas customs in Newfoundland. Wednesday night, after Lucille Ingram tells the story of the hanging of the greens, the girls will hang evergreens in the Rotunda. On Thursday night there will be a pageant, "The Holy Grail". On Friday night "White Christmas" will be observed. Saturday night there will be the annual Christmas sing.

Next Sunday night at 10 o'clock the students here will go about the halls and out into the town, singing Christmas carols as they go.

On Sunday evening, December 18 in the college auditorium the annual old English carol service will be presented by the College Choir, following the regular evening services in the churches. This impressive service is interpreted as a service filled with the spirit of Christmas—joy in giving. The silver offering taken goes to a fund providing a Christmas dinner for the poor children of the community.

The program will include Christmas carols sung by the Choir and the Business Men's Chorus and special numbers by a vested choir from the Training School under the direction of Miss Ida Woodrow Penney. Rev. H. B. Lipscomb, of the Methodist church will give a short address. The service will be directed by Mr. Strick and the public is cordially invited.

Christmas Program Is Given in Chapel

The last student day chapel to be held before Christmas was given this morning. Carlstmastide was the theme of the program.

Mattie Lula Cooper led the devotionals, after which Susie Webb sang a solo entiled "The Gift."

Everyone then joined in singing Christmas carols. This was enjoyed a great deal by the student body, and the real spirit of Christmas was aroused.

MUSICAL ORGANIZATIONS ENTERTAIN IN COUNTRY

An interesting and valuable program was rendered at John Randolph Friday evening, December 9, at eight o'clock by the College Orchestra and Choral Club Trio under the direction of Miss Lizabeth Purdom. The program was one of delightful and varied numbers, consisting of solos, trios, and ensembles from the orchestra; two numbers of unsual effect were rendered by the Choral Club Trio.

The Orchestra and Choral Club are looking forward with great enthusiasm to presenting a number of helpful concerts during the next term. Their work this term has been very satisfactory, and they extend to each and all a very happy Christmas with a most hopeful New Year's greeting.

Christmas

The Christmas celebration dates from the fourth and fifth centuries, although many of the customs are derived from pagan celebrations. Among the Romans certain Christian practices were derived from the feasts in honor of the birth of Sol, the sun. The celebration of the Christmas season with holly, mistletoe, and Yule log, was used by the Germanic ancestry as relics of an old pagan festival commemorating the shortest day of the year. The custom of making presents at Christmas time is associated in our minds with the gifts of the Wise Men, but in reality the idea was drawn from heathen usage.

Because Christmas celebrations are so strongly tinctured with pagan traditions, until several years ago in Scotland children of the followers of Knox had no Christmas. Even today it is not a popular holiday in Scotland and it is not because of the traditional Scotch characteristic.

Today with our traditional United States depression, we are glad for the approach of Christmas with its gift-giving, holly, mistletoe, and Christmas celebrations. In fact, the American depression is forgotten for once, during this celebration.

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

I should like to say a few words regarding general conduct in chapel. At the beginning of the term we all seemed to be minding our P's and Q's with regard to chapel behavior, but here of late we seem to be lagging and neglecting to be on our best behavior.

One phase of the chapel conduct which I should like to see improved is the manner of marching out. When the first chord is struck for us to march out, some of those who sit near the rear of the auditorium dash into the aisles in an effort to get out quickly. Underclassmen sometimes dart out even befor seniors on Saturday mornings. All this tends to create confusion and slows the rate of marching to a great extent. At the same time many students also congregate around the outside doors and slow up the lines which are still coming out, thus making more congestion.

Another bad habit into which many of us have fallen is that of talking in a low undertone during the scripture reading and even during the prayer, to say nothing of the loud whispers which are often heard during a musical program or a speech. All of us are extremely interested in reading our mail and in talking over our affairs, but it does seem that we could give at least a half-hour a day to enjoying the chapel period. If we would only stop to think that we have chapel, not as a punishment or waste of time, but as a service which satisfies a definite need for each of us, I think we would all enjoy attending chapel very much.

A PEEK INTO SANTA'S WORKSHOP

Hey, girl! hurry up! Don't you know where we are? Here's Santa Claus' shop right in front of your very eyes and you poke along. Whew! I've never seen so many mysterious looking packages. Let's peep in some of them. I'm sure Santa won't mind. Let's investigate this big package for Miss Mary. What can it be- It's too narrow for a ping pong table. Why it's a quilting frame!

Hey, there, what are you scrutinizing so? Wait, lemme see! It's the advance copy of the Kaleidoscope for Jane Royall.

Miss Potts' present is over there. What is it? A rolling pin? I can't imagine what she'd want with that!

Don't touch it, it's live and squirming! Ouch, it snapped at me! Look! there it goes. It's the cutest fattest, fluffiest little white puppy I ever saw. The card reads, "For Miss M. K. Taliaferro." I hope she'll keep it in the post office so it will bark when anyone comes for packages.

What do you think Santa has for Winston Cobb? Purple eye shadow! Dear me, we won't know our little Winston in the future.

Here's Dot Snedegar's present. It's a gold crocheting needle, and thread for a counterpane!

And there's a box of dates for the student body. I hope they like 'em. I've never seen so many in my life.

Don't let's look at any more 'cause we might run across ours and then there would be no surprises Christmas morning.

SANTA CLAUS LETTER

Dear Santa Claus,

Since it's not long before you'll be coming, and I've got "Christmas in my bones" I decided I'd write you a letter. There are a few things which I think would be nice for you to bring to S. T. C. this Christmas.

The first thing I wish you would bring to some of the students is less work that "has to be done" after eleven o'clock at night. Then I wish you would bring a miraculous something to keep down some of the noise during study hour, an dsomething else even more miraculous that would inspire everyone to be in her room and quiet by ten-thirty.

There are some more things I would like for you to bring, but if you will bring these, I shall be satisfied.

Hattie Gilliam

P. S.—Santa, I don't know where you'll find these things I've asked for, but I hope you're successful and will bring them to us.

BEST WISHES

Is not the thought of going home for Christmas holidays a swell one? O, boy; think of all those gifts, the tree, the candles, and soft laughter and excitement Then the folks that'll be so glad to see you—Mother, Dad— Well, just everybody even the "Boy Friend" himself will be there! Here's Hoping each of you has a very Merry X m a s and a Happy New Year!

ALUMNAE NEWS

On Dec. 2 Mrs. Elliott Booker presided over the first of a series of alumnae luncheons in the Tea Room of the college. Miss Coulling was the honor guest and gave some very interesting incidents in the life of Dr. Cunningham. Miss Mary Jackson added other experiences in the life of the former president.

Others attending the luncheon were: Misses Willie London, Georgia Gravely, Mary Clay and Winnie Hiner, Alice Carter, Louise Richardson, Carrie B. Taliaferro, Virginia Potts and Mesdames William Roland Reed (Edith Willis, class of 1912), Laura Anderson Moss, Mattie Leigh Walker and D. E. Davidson.

Among the weddings to report are the following:

On Nov. 20, Clifford Duke Holland, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Allen Holland, and Miss Edrie Spottswood Holland, daughter of Mrs. Mary Holland, of Holland, and the late Julius Frank Holland, were married at the residence of the officiating minister, Rev. I. W. Johnson. William Mason Jones, of Holland, was best man.

The bridal party members were guests at a wedding dinner at the home of Mrs. Mary Holland, in Holland. They will make their home in Holland following a short wedding trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Augustus Martin announce the marriage of their daughter, Julia Irene, to Mr. Reginald Edgar Parsons on Monday, November 21 at Charlotte, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. J. William McCoy announce the marriage of their daughter, Margaret, to Mr. Samuel G. Baughan on Saturday, Dec. 10, in Martinsville. Mr. and Mrs. Baughan will make their home in Rich Square, N. C.

Thanks to the secretary of the Culpeper chapter, we have a newsy letter of the happenings there. The following alumnae have had recent additions to their families: Mrs. A. L. Gray, nee Elmer Stringfellow, Waverly, Va., a son, George Gray; Mrs. Palmer Stearns, nee Lucille Williams, a son, Palmer Newcomb; Mrs. Berard Williams, nee Lucille Holton, a daughter, Catherine; Mrs. L. C. Lloyd nee Ruth Creecy, a daughter, Jan Thatcher; Mrs. Harold Brown, nee Helen Miller, a son, Harold, Jr.

Cornelia Major, an alumna of '31, was seriously injured in an automobile accident in summer. Later she died at the University Hospital.

Frances Johns was taken sick about Thanksgiving, moved from her home to a Richmond hospital and died very suddenly there Saturday morning, Dec. 11. The sympathy of the alumnae is extended to the Johns family in its sudden sorrow. The friends gathered at the little church in Cumberland for the services were evidence of her wide-spread popularity.

ABSENCE

I miss you so—sometimes when it is evening
I play a game, pretending that I hear
Your step upon the stair and turn to find you,
Gay-eyed and tall, and smile to have you near.

You do not talk of ships and long adventures
That fill the hours while you were away—
Your words are sweet with all the old enchantment
Of foolish things I've longed to hear you say.

You have new roads to travel each tomorrow,
And gayer guests, but somewhere you must know
I keep a lamp far-shining in my window,
In case you come—I miss you, miss you so!

Helen Welshimer

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Courage—the highest gift, that scorns to bend
To mean devices for a sordid end.
Courage—an independent spark from Heaven's bright throne,
By which the soul stands raised, triumphant, high, alone.
Great in itself, not praises of the crowd,
Above all vice, it stoops not to be proud.
Courage—the mighty attribute of powers above,
By which those great in war, are great in love.
The spring of all brave acts is seated here,
As falsehoods draw their sordid birth from fear.

Farquhar

THE DAY WILL BRING SOME LOVELY THING

"The day will bring some lovely thing,"
I say it over each new dawn:
"Some gay, adventurous thing to hold
Against my heart when it is gone."
And so I rise and go to meet
The day with wings upon my feet.

I come upon it unaware—
Some sudden beauty without name;
A snatch of song—a breath of pine—
A poem lit with golden flame,
High tangled bird notes—keenly thinned—
Like flying color on the wind.

No day has ever failed me quite—
Before the grayest day is done,
I come upon some misty bloom
Or late line of crimson sun,
Each night I pause—remembering
Some gay, adventurous, lovely thing.

Grace Crowell

DREAMING OF YOU

I dream of you at evening when the hours are long and drear.
I dream of you at midnight, in dreams you seem so near,
But oh! the anguish in my heart as sorrows press me on
When from sweet dreams of you, Sweetheart, I wake to find you gone.

Last night when birds had gone to rest, and darkness hung around,
I dreamed that I could see your face, and you were smiling down,
But oh, how sad the world did seem, when darkness changed to morn,
For all my joy was but a dream, I woke to find you gone.

Sometimes when friends are by my side, and seem so bright and gay,
I'm lonesome more than ever then, because you're far away.
But oh, how sad when dayight comes! I'm wretched and forlorn,
I always dream of you each night, and wake to find you gone.

Each day I pray that you may come to me, and love me still,
But every day I pray in vain, for it seems you never will.
Tonight I'll dreams of you again as weary hours pass on,
But oh, the thoughts of pain and grief to wake, and find you gone!

SANTA CLAUS VISITS ALPHA KAPPA GAMMA

In the lounge Tuesday night, Santa Claus came to visit the Alpha Kappa Gamma with a bag full of toys and fruit. Santa Clauses made of apples, marshmallows, and cotton were made by all. Rrefreshments were served and then many of the Christmas hymns sung. Miss Mix told the story of "The Christmas Rose" and Alice McKay read "Jes Before Christmas."

The party broke up with everybody cheering for Canta Claus.

LOG CABIN IS SCENE OF COUNCIL PICNIC

The Student Council and Hampden-Sydney Council had a picnic supper at the log cabin last Wednesday. The cabin was uniquely furnished, at it had been the night before the House Council, so that it resembled a mountain inn. Upon entering Mountain Inn Lodge each guest was required to register. Soon after arriving, each received a telegram or message telling him or her what stunt to perform. After supper, around the fire everybody gave their stunts, sang, roasted marshmallows and had a general good time.

LONGWOOD CABIN IS ENJOYED BY CLUB

Through a drizzling rain and groaning branches of sleet laden trees and a whistling wind, the members of the Monogram Club wended their way to "The Cabin" last Saturday afternoon where they enjoyed a delightful party. The guests were received by the president of the club and ushered into the cabin where they were greeted by a large, cheerful, glowing fire which drew everyone close to it.

Shortly after everyone had arrived, aromas of coffee, bacon and eggs permeated the room for each one was cooking his supper over the fire. Marshmallows were roasted and nuts were cracked on the hearth. This reminded everyone of Christmas. Some one suggested hanging our stockings for St. Nicholas to fill but it was decided it was necessary to keep them on on such a cold night.

Fun and laughter reigned all the time. After the meal was finished and the dining room and kitchen were put in order, everyone joined in games which were played until the stroke of the clock told us it was time to leave for home. Reluctantly we put out the fire and lights, gathered together our belongings and crept from the cabin through the woods and up the hill where cars were waiting to bring us back to S. T. C.

huge packages were opened and revealed dolls, dogs, games, pictures and other attractive toys. But the best surprise of all came when huge trays heaped with fruit, candy, peanuts, and cakes were brought in—what a perfectly delightful Christmas party!

SUGGESTED PLAN FOR AFTER COLLEGE READING

That the alumni may spend their time to the best advantage in after-college reading Shields McIlwaine, assistant professor of English at Southwestern in Memphis, Tenn., has suggested a plan to his seniors soon to become alumni readers. This plan should be of interest to students here at S. T. C., since it affords an inexpensive way for one to start a library and to keep somewhat abreast of modern literature and thought. The following is Assistant-Professor McIlwaine's suggested plan as quoted in The Southwestern Alumni Magazine:

This is my first suggestion: subscribe to some book review. For the lay reader, I believe the Sunday "New York Times" is the best value. The "Saturday Review of Literature," is more scholarly and literary in tone, yet it lacks the wide scope of the "Times." "The Reader's Guide" by Mary Lamberton Becker is an excellent service for subscribers.

As for getting good books there are a number of good rental systems, for example, Womrath's Library and Bookshop (161 Sixth Ave., New York). Yet the best of recent books in a year or so after publication are issued at one dollar, or very little more than rental plus postage. There are approximately twenty excellent "libraries" of dollar books which will provide wide, entertaining reading in almost any field. From these let me suggest a miscellany, with the publishers of each, so that an order may be sent without trouble and a list of all titles in every series obtained.

I—Biography

De Kruif, Paul: "Microbe Hutners" (Blue Ribbon Books, 448 Fourth Ave., New York) Biographical sketches of great scientists.

Bradford, Gamaliel: "Lee the American" (Riverside Library, Houghton Mifflen Co., 2 Park St., Boston, Mass.). The only biography of Lee worth reading.

Strachey, Lytton: "Emminent Victorians" (Star Dollar Books, Garden City Publishing Co., Garden City, Long Island, N. Y.)

II.—Travel

Halliburton, Richard: "The Glorious Adventure" (Star Dollar Books, see address above)

Lawrence, T. E.: "Revolt In the Desert" (Star Dollar Books).

Chase, Stuart: "The Tragedy of the Waske" (Books of Distinction, Clendenburg, Logan: "The Human Body" (Star Dollar Books).

IV.—Fiction

Cather, Willa: "Death Comes For the Archbishop" (95c, Modern Library, Inc., 20 E. 57th St., N. Y.). The friendship of two Catholic priests in which is reflected the chronicle of the Southwest.

Lewis, Sinclair: "Arrowsmith" (75c, Grosset & Dunlap)

Peterkin, Julia: "Scarlet Sister Mary" (Novels of Distinction, Grosset & Dunlap) Pulitzer Prize novel.

Roberta, Elizabeth Radox: "The Time of Man" (Novels of Distinction').

Deland, Margaret: "Old Chester Tales" (Harper's Modern Classics, Harper & Bros., 49 E. 33rd St., New York.)

Sing Saturday night proved to be very entertaining. Helen Smith, as announcer, brought to the radio audience a number of well known artists. Alice McKay, with her daughter, was present in the studio, and not only did they agree to sing but wished to give an encore. However, the time being up, the station signed off. The audience looks forward to another radio program.

Monday night marked the first of the Christmas programs to be given at prayers this week. Miss Rice told the story of the "Other Wise Man", which made a lasting impression on the students. Wednesday night following up the Christmas theme "The Hanging of the Greens" in the Rotunda will take place. On Thursday night a pageant "The Holy Grail" will be presented. Friday night the "White Christmas" service will bring to an end Christmas prayer week.

STATION RAH BROADCAST IN SATURDAY SING

The most unusual sing program of the year was presented Saturday night under the direction of the sing committee.

Station RAH with Helen Smith acting as a second Walter Winchell, broadcasted to all corners of the auditorium the talents of several well known celebrities on the S. T. C. campus.

The country family, consisting of Alice McKay as the supposed-to-be artistocratic mother and her naughty Junior, Betsy Wilkerson, caused long and loud hee-haws on the part of several auditors. Garnett Hodges, you know that smiling little blonde who makes pianos weep, imitated Little Jack Little exactly. Jennie Wheeler and Frances Potts, posing as the Boswell Sisters, sang our old favorite, "Mood Indigo." They just had to repeat their selection for us. Dorothy Justis, the songbird who wakes all sleepers on Tacky Alley at six o'clock every morning, was called back to repeat her dancings up the scales under the tunes of "I Ain't Got Nobody" and "By-By Blues." Of course the program wouldn't have been complete without Ruth Etting portrayed by Bessie Graybill who sang "Deep Night". Esther Haskins, better known as Al Firsto, played her zylophone in double quick time just as Virginia Thornhill, imitating dear old Zazu pranced across the stage. The Hop Hoppers from Collegiate T, Alma Foster and Violet Hoffa, rounded and ended the program with their tap steps. Several slices of bread were left in the auditorium on account of excitement due to the unusual feature.

ATHLETICS

ATHLETIC COUNCIL TO HOLD OPEN MEETING

The Athletic Council will hold an open meeting December 13 at 7:30 o'clock in the Student Building lounge. Both the faculty and student body are invited to attend.

Reports from the managers of basketball, hockey, archery, and tennis, will be given. It is hoped that those interested will come and bring any suggestions which they have to the meeting.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWS

(NFSA)—Notwithstanding the depression, which is still thriving in these parts, there are forty-one cars registered for use this year at the dean's office. This represents an increase of one over the number registered last year, and means that an average of one out of every fifteen Wesleyan men maitains a car.—Wesleyan Argus.

(NFSA)—Co-eds at the University of California are allowed to stay out until 2:15 every night of the year, except the "Big Game" night, when there are no rules.—Swarthmore Phenix.

In the short space of halfa dozen years the Ramblers of Notre Dame and the Trojans of Southern California have built up a football tradition which almost rivals the glamour of the "Big Three" and the "Army-Navy" series. The consistently fine football of two teams which always rank among the leaders of the country, the long trip and keen rivalry have been contributing factors.—Tulane Hullabaloo.

It's remarkable to note how many cars break down while Newcombites are rushing back to be on time to get in the dormitories. Automobiles must have a lot of loose parts nowadays.—Broadway Bubble.

Danville, Ky.—In a front page edition the Centre College, Center, has called on the Inter-Fraternity Council at Centre to take immediate action on the "pressing fraternity problems."

Newark, Dela.—Agriculture as represented at the University of Delaware is bad off this year.

At least, this appeared to be the case when it developed that only eight new students entered the university's time-honored, but poorly patronized agricultural school, the existence of which is necessary if the university is to receive state and national appropriations.

Inasmuch as the agricultural courses are not required, but courses in military training are required of students, the University of Delaware Review, undergraduate newspaper, suggests a plan to make the agriculture school a success.

"Since military science and agriculture are both prerequisites of a state university," says the Review, "we suggest that students be given a choice between the two, instead of being restricted to military. In other words, each new student would be able to decide whether he wanted two years of agriculture or two years of military. If this were put into effect, the agricultural school would never have to complain again of a meager enrollment."

Just a few years ago, riding in an ancient rattletrap meant you were getting an education. Now it means you have got it.

BASKETBALL SEASON IS PROGRESSING

The basketball season has begun in earnest. Every afternoon almost fifty girls come to the gym to practice. The Freshman Class has unusually good material. Elizabeth Billups who has shown outstanding interest in athletics, and who played on the varsity hockey team has been appointed assistant manager. The varsity season will begin soon after Christmas when the squad will be chosen to start practicing for the varsity games. The class games are scheduled for the first of March. Players are adjusting themselves to the new rules well, and basketball promises to be faster and more exciting to watch and more interesting to play than ever this year.

WORLD NEWS

Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary for India from Great Britain, explains why he has taken up skating. One reason is that "having watched the careers of my fellow politicians, I thought it would be useful to me if I learned how to fall without hurting myself."

"In the present state of political life," he says, "in 10 years, the only man capable of being prime minister will be a lightweight boxer who runs around the park every morning before breakfast."

Oliver Pope, University of Oregon tackle, will never be accused of overemphasis in football. When the football squad entrained for Baton Rouge, La., to meet Louisiana eleven, Pope begged his coach for permission to stay at home and study. Permission was given.

One error and sixty dollars made Edward McKee of West Virginia the most popular deer hunter in Pennsylvania. Last year McKee, ranging the woods in search of deer, plugged a calf instead. Generously, he paid the farmer sixty dollars. This year, he went back to the same section to hunt and reported that every farmer who owned any kind of a calf wanted him to hunt on his farm.

Many middle-class families are now forced to do without necessities that their grandfathers never heard of.

THE BUILDER

Edwin Markham says:

We are blind until we see
That in the human plan,
Nothing is worth the making if
It does not make the man.

Why build these cities glorious
If man unbuilded goes?
In vain we build the world unless
The builder grows.

Wallace, Magician, Comes to S. T. C. And Delights Appreciative Audience

Wallace, the Magician Is Received Cordially By Enthusiastic Audience

SPONSORED BY PI KAPPA DELTA

Amazement, thrills and excitement characterized the entertainment of Wallace the magician on Friday night, January 6. He performed stunts, magic and tricks that amazed the "grown ups" and delighted the children.

The performance began by the magician pulling a huge bowl of water from under his coat.

His card tricks were very unusual, and try as they would, no one could understand them. From apparently nowhere, he produced ducks, pigeons, and a white rabbit.

One stunt which amused one little boy whose hat the magician used, was that of the magic hat. From a hat he pulled several yards of silk, six alarm clocks, a rubber snake, and finally a white rabbit.

Wallace turned six quarters into eight and found money in a little boy's mouth.

His cleverest trick however, was making the duck and white rabbit completely disappear from sight. He did this before the eyes of the audience and no one saw where or how they disappeared.

Many other tricks were played which are too numerous to mention. Wallace is one of the six greatest magicians in the United States, and S. T. C. was lucky to have the opportunity to see him perform. The magician's performance was sponsored here under the auspices of Pi Kappa Delta, national forensic society. The proceeds will go for the benefit of the honor society room and to defray expenses of the Pi Kappa Delta convention this year.

ELEVEN GIRLS ADDED TO S. T. C. ENROLLMENT

The enrollment this quarter, discloses the fact that eleven girls have been added to the student group. The student body wishes to welcome these girls—new students and old, to its organization:

Mildred Crowe
Jeanne Gwalthmey
Pauline Jones
Anna Louise Jones
Margaret Kent
Doris Long
Eleanor Minter

Y. W. CABINET TO HAVE MEETING AT LONGWOOD

On Saturday afternoon, January 14, at 2:30 the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet will hold a conference at Longwood. This follows the Set-Up Conference which was held at Longwood last fall and serves as a check on the work of the cabinet since that time.

Gamma Psi Frat Is Formed at S.T.C.

The Palette Club has recently disbanded, and an honorary local fraternity for art has been formed of those members of Palette who showed an active interest in the organization. The purpose of the new organization, Gamma Psi, will be to promote interest in art here at Farmville, and it is hoped that eventually the fraternity may become a national art fraternity for teachers colleges.

The members of Gamma Psi are:

Mary Easley Hill
Kathryn Royster
Dorothy Bloomfield
Margaret Gathright
Mary Diehl
Nan Gilbert
Jeanallan Bowles
Elizabeth Doyne
Gertrude Sugden
Bettie Shields (out of school for this quarter).

Miss Bedford is sponsor of Gamma Psi.

Honor Society Room Is Almost Completed

The room which Dr. Jarman gave the honor societies has received its first installment of furniture. The societies having a part in the room are: Kappa Delta Pi, Pi Gamma Mu, Alpha Kappa Gamma, Pi Kappa Delta, Alpha Phi Sigma, Masters Degree, Beta Pi Theta and Sigma Pi Rho. These organizations are working hard to raise money to pay for the furniture. More will be added from time to time. All business and social meetings will be held in this room.

There will be a semi-formal opening tea soon. Each society will be present. By having a common meeting place the different groups get to know each other better. The members of the honor societies can use the room whenever they want to for personal convenience.

Debate Schedules Almost Completed

The varsity debate schedule for this season has been almost completed February 3, Helen Smith and Martha Gunter will debate the affirmative side of the question "Resolved that the U. S. Should Adopt a Tariff for Revenue Only." At the same time Carrie DeShazo and Margaret Hix will debate the negative This debate is against Lynchburg College February 9. The same team will debate Randolph-Macon, at Ashland. Although it has not been definitely decided there will probably be a debate with Emory and Henry on the cancellation of war debts question. This same question will be debated by S. T. C. representatives at the Pi Kappa Delta convention to be held some time in March or April.

A new international house has been built adjoining the University of Chicago. The main building contains a house for foreign students, a theatre, and a club. Three million dollars has been spent in its construction.

Pictures of Beauty Section Forwarded

College Humor Magazine Artist Will Make Selection

The student-faculty committee appointed to select the thirty girls representing the beauty of the school has met, made its selections, and has sent the pictures to Mr. Russell Patterson, renowned artist of College Humor Magazine. Mr. Patterson is to select seven girls from the thirty, and no one is to know who they are until the annuals are issued in the spring.

Kathryn Royster and Gertrude Sugden have completed the art work and have sent it to Lynchburg to the engraver. The sketches they have done are of a great variety and are exceedingly clever and attractive.

The most important work to be done now, however, is that of getting subscriptions. The editor has announced that the "dead line" for taking subscriptions will be February 15, and so everyone desiring an annual must subscribe before this date. Mary Burgess Fraser, business manager of the annual, is "in a storm" because few subscriptions have come in so far. The annual cannot go to press unless a certain number of copies are sold. Add another New Year's resolution to your list and subscribe now!

Dr. Walmsley Honors the Memory Of Ex-President Calvin Coolidge

Just as the funeral services of Ex-President Calvin Coolidge was being conducted on Jan. 6, Dr. Walmsley gave to the student body a brief but inspiring review of our late President's life.

How wonderful to live and at last feel that your work is complete. Your task finished! This seems to have been the reward of Calvin Coolidge, as revealed in his message to Edward Clark on December 31.

Calvin Coolidge was born on July 4, 1872 in the Vermont hills that he learned to love so well. He was educated at Black River Academy. At the early age of 13 he became interested in civil government and his final address at graduation was based on "Oratory in History."

At Amherst his first two years seemed to have been rather unprogressive, but in the last years of his college career his advancement was such that he graduated "cum laude." Here he was particularly influenced by three teachers, Morse in history; Genung in English, and German in philosophy.

In 1897 he settled at Northampton, Mass. There he held all city offices; was prominent in the legislative departments, and was finally elected as Governor of the state.

Who is it that does not remember the "Coolidge Prosperity" during his administration as President of the United States? It is true that with this prosperity came extravagance. Coolidge looked upon this world as a finished product and as President, he felt that it was his duty to keep it so.

Not only was Coolidge interested in the political side of life, but other walks of life were attractive to and followed by him. Of these walks, the walk of an author is particularly remembered, his autobiography being one of his best known writings. We see scattered among the pages of modern literature and writings, paragraphs that fell from his pen; such as, "We need a faith that is broad enough to let the people make their own mistakes," and "Little progress can be made by merely attempting to repress what is evil, one great hope is in developing what is good."

Coolidge was not the leader of ideal thought as Jefferson and Wilson, not the daring hero of reform as Jackson and Roosevelt, not possessed of the broad tolerance of Washington and Lincoln, but far higher than our failures—Grant and Harding. He was just "Cal" who did his job and won our love.

"Worn Shoes" Is Received In Rank of Modern Poetry By Critics

P. S. BROADHURST IS AUTHOR

Pattie S. Broadhurst is the latest addition to our contemporary poets. She makes her debut in a small volume bearing the suggestive title, "Worn Shoes". It is an arresting group of poems. They are rich in promise of future triumphs in Euterpe's art. Bold in execution, defiant of pedagogical canons and the prejudice of tradition, they achieve high rank in modern poetry. They beguile the reader, and yet produce an effect both startling and stimulating.

"Worn Shoes" is the voice of a rebellious spirit crying out against the invidious sovereignty of circumstance, challenging it to do its worst, and then through exaltation rising superior to it. The tyranny of soulless things will not, cannot imprison the soul. The ills of the flesh cannot hush the song of victory.

There are also in lighter vein some pleasing lyrics whose elfin naivete charms the fancy.

O, I have seen the sun glint
On a thousand things!
Roofs and grass and flying wheels
And flashing silver wings—
O I have seen the sun turn
To gold a purple sea!
So why should it—the ways it shines
Against that trembling tree—
Remind me of the way my Love
Looked tenderly at me?

The metropolitan press has been very generous in paying high tribute to the art of Miss Broadhurst. But to the people of this section her success brings peculiar pleasure, for she is one of us. A former student at S. T. C. where she graduated a few years ago, and a resident of Cumberland county, she has many friends and relatives in Farmville and Southside Virginia. A brother, Mr. Leigh Smith, lives at Stony Point, and an uncle, Mr. Cary Smith, is the well known treasurer of Cumberland county. Miss Pattie S. Broadhurst—nee Pattie Smith—is now Mrs. William H. Jenkins of Drexel Hill, Philadelphia. Old Dominion is proud of her daughter. —D.

A Work of True Art

"In the elder days of Art,
Builders wrought with greatest care
Each minute an unseen part;
For the Gods see everywhere."

—Longfellow.

What was true of the builders "in the elder days" is still true today. They take the greatest care to make their structure a masterpiece of beauty and art, one that looks almost too noble to be made by human hands.

The students and members of the faculty of this school no longer need to dream of such a building for the wonderful dream has come true. The new wing of the school has been completed and everyone is partaking of the joy and comfort which it affords. The social room, with its coziness and its splendor; the dining room, with its beautiful paneling; the gymnasium, with its spaciousness and loft splendor; and the dormitories, with their snug, little rooms make up a home of which any student should be proud. How could such a building not contribute to the happiness of those who live in it? And a true appreciation for it will bring happiness to many others.

Yes, the builders have truly wrought a work of art, one that is beautiful in "each minute part, for God sees everywhere."

We Have Shared

In keeping with the nation-wide drive for relief funds the Salisburg Normal School has made an extraordinary effort to aid in shaking off a great economic evil. Aside from the private contributions that students and faculty members have made, school organizations have filled Christmas stockings for unfortunate children as their usual yearly privilege. The faculty, moreover, together with all employees of this institution have willfully deducted a portion of their salary for the same purpose of helpfulness.

Such a move in some cases has proved to be an outright act of sacrifice on the part of the giver is to be commended as an act of courage in a time when unselfish deeds are necessary to the welfare of all.

We Disagree

The article, "Will Future Americans Worship Stupid Conventional Customs of Predecessors?" which was recently published in a normal school paper of one of the Eastern States, has called forth an article of protest from our ranks.

Should women so over-emphasize this idea of equality that they stamp out every spark of chivalry that is left in the hearts of the men of today? Certainly the women are gaining in position. Their intelligence is being recognized. But should not intelligent women expect and appreciate signs of respect from the men they meet?

It is only natural, then, that a gentleman should want to protect a lady from danger. It is because of this that many of these so-called "stupid customs" grew up and certain biological factors lie at the base of them.

"Every man for himself" seems to be the motto of the quoted author. What selfishness this would cause, and what a state of chaos would result! The civilization which now exists has been gradually built up. If all conventional customs were abandoned, where would it be? How many times has social approval caused a person to push on to higher success? How many times has social approval helped a person to develop a good character? Without this men and women would be reduced to the animal level of selfishness, self-preservation, and self-satisfaction; for without conventions there would be no means of judging right from wrong, and everyone would have to take care of himself.

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

I should like to make a suggestion to the students here—it is this—that they work with the Virginian staff in building up such a morale among themselves that would make it a custom for everybody to possess an annual. Five dollars seems like a lot to me too, but someone told me that it actually costs $8 a book, to publish it. That sounds like the staff has a big job even getting one out.

If we just point out to our families that the annual means a great deal to us—and it does if we'll stop and think about it—they'll make arrangements for us to have one. Don't you thinks so?

Let's everybody order an annual immediately because Feb. 15 is the last date we can order one! That's not far off.

"SING" FEATURES BROKEN RESOLUTIONS

In "Sing" Saturday night we saw ourselves as others see us when it comes to keeping New Year resolutions.

First there were the Sophomore Green Jackets with their director, Dot Waynick, who resolved to learn new pieces with which to entertain S. T. C. in 1933. Evidently, they are especially fond of their old selections or too lazy to learn new ones. Anyway, we saw that resolution "go up the spout" when they started playing one of their old '32 favorites, "Dinah."

Then came Rachel McDaniel (as Alice Moore) who made and broke a resolution quite familiar to most of us. She had hardly finished saying "No more Southside, no more candy, no more dopes, ... when in came "Skinny" Brown insisting that Alice go with her to Southside. "Just this nce!" said Alice, "but this is the last time." Another good resolution gone!

Even Virginia Thornhill as "our own little Winston" not led on by the glory and praise of good grades resolved to have a big time, but when she discovered an A- on her report for last year she broke right down in tears.

The call of Shannon's was a little too much for Jean McClure and Martha Cross. Frances Dillon had to insist very little to persuade them to stop studying and to break that good resolution they had made.

Jennie Wheeler posing as Bessie Graybill was easily influenced to break her New Year resolution to leave off things and to go in for the "opera stuff." S. T. C. surely didn't seem to object, though when she gave us a treat by singing "Chloe."

Garnett Hodges had under her list of New Year resolutions to spend less time in practicing her music and more time in making lesson plans and correcting papers. This was just another case of a broken resolution, and "Sing" ended with Garnett's playing two popular selections.

OVER THE TEXT-BOOKS

Well, now, young lady, I'd like to hear all about what kind of o time you had at the Hampden-Sydney dance—you've been in such a rush I haven't heard any details yet! It looked swell from the outside looking in.

Hampden-Sydney certainly must be proud of their orchestra, I could believe it was Cab or somebody like that. My hat's off to "Guy Lom"-Garber. Tommy's a real leader! And did you hear the quartet and "Bing" Oliver. I caught all the pathos in their voices way over at the window!

From my look-out I could see pretty smooth lines being thrown around—was that so in your case? Don't answer me—'cause I know how you're going to fib.

I hear that were 'boue forty S. T. C. girls tripping the light fantastic—wehw! do we rate Hampden-Sydney when the out-of-town girls can't make it!

Con one, let's buy a dope and then settle down to study. I've got to put in a little work before that report of mine comes, or my conscience will hurt so at the sight of that sprinkling of D's—good ole D for dumb!

A VOTE ON GOOD ENGLISH

Have you been laboring to eradicate the following expressions from your speech? The majority of judges in a survey conducted by the National Council of Teachers of English, (211 W. 68th St., Chicago), voted on these items and approved them as well established in good colloquial usage:

It is me.
Who are you looking for?
Invite whoever you wish.
The indefinite "you" and "they" in such expressions as
You cannot tell what people will think.
They had numerous strikes in England in 1860.
None are expected.
Everyone was here but they all went home early.
Healthy climate.
Pretty good.
Awfully cold.
I felt badly about it.
Walk or drive or go slow.
Move quick.
Try and get well.
Had rather.

Are you still objecting to "He invited my friends and myself"? The judges in this survey do not object. For them, "farther" and "further" are synonymous, and so are "shall" and "will." They are quite indifferent to a misplaced "only," and "the reason was because" leaves them undisturbed. If Barrie wants to say, "I wish I was wonderful," they think it quite all right, and they agree that "If it wasn't for football, school life would be dull," altogether discarding the subjunctive. And so on through 230 undisputed items of English usage. A similar study was made of punctuation usages—with similar tendencies towards greater freedom.

There were 299 judges in the study

DESTINIES FORETOLD

Wise people say that each of us
Is planned for things worthwhile
A beautiful thought—live up to it,
'Twill ease many a weary mile.

To each of us there comes at times
A spark of light divine,
That keeps us ever onward,
With our goal always in mind.

It will well repay us
To do our very best,
So—as the years go onward,
We can meet their tests.

Courage! Then, to you, my friend
The trials will not be hard.
Weary not in well-doing,
And success is a sure reward.

THE CRYSTAL GAZER

"It's in the stars"—
The crystal ball held
A myriad of lights and shadows.
I looked up—wonder in my eyes.
The prophetess repeated the words.
Strange words—full of strange meanings.
"You shall have your heart's desire."
What should I choose?
Wealth, beauty, knowledge?
"Choose"—again those words.
Trembling—I arose.
"Give me, I beg of you,
An understanding heart.
I would better know
How to help my fellow-man—
How to keep before me
The shining ideals and high hopes of life."

DREAMS

Each night as I watch the sunset
Flooding the western sky.
I wonder if others have watched it,
Even as you and I.

We stood on the wind-swept hilltop,
Faces bared to the rain,
Never a thought for the world below,
Our hearts were free from pain.

We planned our lives in that perfect bliss,
As the happy hours glided by.
Life was one long, golden dream,
We believed that—you and I.

Our solitude was perfect
Deep was the setting sun,
We lived for each other only,
Our love made us one.

It seems a century ago that perfect happiness was,
Now all is a fond memory,
And all our dreams are forgotten,
Vanished our eternity.

THE ROAD

Faint shines the far moon
Through the misty night,
Sad lies the dead field
In the moon's light.
White with frost along
The road without end,
Bore-branched their long line
Birches extend.
Bells tinkle, the team
Swiftly whirls along,
My drowsy driver hums
Softly his song.
Onward I travel
In my cozy cart,
Sadly, pitying
The land of my heart.

—From the Russian

The Kettle Sings:

TO A LADY

My love for you
Is such a strange thing.
It glows
Like a burnished shield
In the noonday sun.
I would offer
A chalice—all gold
To hold
This new wine
ALAS!
I proffer only
An earthen cup.

A VOTE ON GOOD ENGISH

of English usage and 144 in the punctuation study. The usage judges were well-known authors, editors, business men, linguists, and teachers in school and college, the teacher group predominating. The punctuation judges were publishers, magazine editors, and newspapermen, the newspapermen forming by far the largest group. All the judges were above the average in education. It was felt to be an advantage to seek in these studies not an impossible literary standard but the habits of better middle-class speech. The National Council believes, of course, in the necessity for emphasizing the correction of unmistakable errors—for which there should now be more time.

In her introduction to the two surveys, which were made under the direction of the late Sterling Andrus Leonard of the University of Wisconsin, Ruth Mary Weeks, of Kansas City, former president of the National Council, insists that "to make your meaning clear—that is the secret of good punctuation, good usage, good speech, and good writing! Freed by such studies as Mr. Leonard's from the crushing load of outworn formalities, we shall perhaps have time to stimulate in our students the clarified thought from which alone a composition worth punctuating can result."

The student body extends sympathy to Lottie Whitehurst, Elizabeth Fitzgerald and Mr. Strick and Bessie Strick in their recent bereavement.

In an interview published in the Opale Daily News, Judge Ben Lindsey, juvenile authority of companionate marriage fame, asserted that college students should marry while still in college.

In a recent confidential survey of the co-eds by the New York University Daily News, it was found that only 40 per cent of the young ladies came to that college for an education. Another 40 per cent go to N. Y. U. "because they have nothing else to do." Fifteen per cent are enrolled in order to please their parents, while five per cent are studnts at the University to "have a good time." Contrary to popular belief, none described her reason for enrolling as a desire to find a husband. There is no doubt that the present economic conditions have decreased the group of students who attend "because there is nothing better to do." A similar survey of Davidson students would probably bring forth some very interesting figures.—Davidsonian.

PRAYERS

Five and a half days ago a steamer upon which the human race has been crossing the span of life in 1932, cast anchor—her voyage was finished. In that same harbor was another shining and beautiful, anxious to plunge into the sea. As the clock rang out the midnight hour, gang planks were lowered, farewells were given, passengers were transferred—1932 was to live again only in memories!

Now we stand on deck of the new steamer 1933—we are rocked to and fro as she plows her way through the waters! Yes! Stand and meditate for a moment! We are swiftly leaving 1932 behind—but it will never be forgotten—it has left imprints in our lives that can never be erased! The music still lingers though it is heard no more—all of the instruments upon which we played were not in tune—mistakes were made, but Paul says, "forgetting those things which are behind, I press towards the mark of the high calling in Christ Jesus."

With Jesus as our captain we cannot sink into the depths of the an-

Tough On Girls

"Just a minute, mister."

"Yes, what is it?"

"My wife is starving."

"So's mine,' responded the affable millionaire. "It's tough on the girls, but it is the only way to get that fashionable figure."—Exchange.

The student reporter had just submitted his editorial for the day to the editor. Leaving the editorial room, he began to reflect upon what he had written, and decided to go back to change something in it.

"I have a few corrections to make on the editorial that I submitted" he told the editor.

The editor reached into the wastebasket, and pulled out the editorial.

"All right, but make it snappy; the wastebaskets will be emptied in five minutes."

ARE YOU ON TIME?

Late! Late! Late! We are always late—Tardiness is one of the main petty crimes on our campus. We're late for class; we're late for convocation; we're late for plays; we're late for concerts; and, strange enough, we're late for meals. At the beginning of our freshman year we are the very soul of punctuality, but as the year goes on we develop the being late habit. It must be the style on our campus to never be on time. We all know that meetings are called at six-thirty in the hope that everyone will begin to arrive by six forty-five, and the actual meeting will begin at seven. The situation has become appalling—Now that the New Year is here, let's turn over a new leaf and resolve to always be on time.

ATHLETICS

Play Day, Held in Gym. Saturday Night, Sponsored by the Athletic Association

A good time was had by all who went to the play day sponsored by the Athletic Association in the little gym last Saturday night. Many different games were played, such as ping pong, checkers, and tiddel winks. A tournament was held in each sport and prizes were awarded the winners at the close of the evening.

Ping Pong

The ping pong tournament was very exciting. A number of girls entered making it very long. Dartha Harrison was the champion while Dorothy Snedegar was runner-up.

Parchesi

Due to the length of the games of parchesi the tournament was not completed. Helen Allen and Frances Horton each won one game. The third game was begun but due to lack of time it was never completed.

Jacks

Jacks could not be forgotten in such a group of games. This proved to be quite interesting to all who took part. Ruth Roberts was the final winner of the highest score.

Checkers

The old time game of checkers could never be left off the program of a real play day. Quite a bit of concentration was necessary to meet the champs of this game. However, Lelia Mattox proved to be the best.

Keno

Anyone who likes to play bingo, likes to play keno too for they are very similar. Playing cards and chips are used in this game and it is truly an exciting one. A number of good scores were made in this game but Marguerite Massey was the final winner.

Rummy

Many folks like to play rummy with the regular playing cards but this was even more fun for the regular rummy cards were used. A number of girls enjoyed this game all through the evening. When the final scores were counted, Ruth Haskins was deemed the winner.

Tiddle Winks

Some casual observer seeing several girls on their knees with their heads close together and earnestly working for something might have asked what in the world are they doing—why they are playing tiddle winks; that is quite an exciting game you know. And so it proved to be. After everyone had played, Violet Hoffa was declared the best tiddler in S. T. C.

NEW SCHEDULES MADE FOR BASKET BALL

Basket ball is in its prime now, and much interest is being shown at practice everyday. A new plan is being worked this year. Each girl signs at the hour and day at which she can come. The girls who can come at a certain hours and day compose one squad. This will create more interest while playing basketball.

Varsity squad will be chosen this week. The first varsity game will be here on February 4 on which date we play Richmond Normal. The freshmen and sophomores on the varsity squad will play in this game. We will also have games with Harrisonburg, William and Mary, and Sweet Briar.

gry waters. What wonderful opportunities for service the New Year holds for us! The world is in a serious condition! Never has our captain needed more loyal and obedient crew. Will you be the shirking sailor? Will you be the sailor that fails to report a knock in the motor?

We are a large group here in college! How much we can do to help fellow passengers! How many angry waves we can still and when 1933 pulls into harbor we can look back upon our voyage with satisfaction and feel that our captain is saying "well done!" Remember the world is no better than the people who live in it! Will you tarnish or brighten the new ship 1933? "Tonight we launch —where shall we anchor?"

Gracious Saviour! Wonderful art Thou, tender and compassionate, always loving and true. Help us to trust Thee in all things, that we may be healed from all spiritual infirmities, and that in joy we may come at last to the everlasting harbor.

The Argentina flag was flown at half-staff last Saturday in respect to the late Calvin Coolidge.

Y. W. C. A. NOTICES

The social committee of the Y. W. C. A. wishes to remind everyone that a good time may be had by coming to the Student Building lounge each Saturday evening. The radio is for use and enjoyment at any time except during study hour.

The Y. W. C. A. wishes to thank each organization and individual who contributed to the White Christmas fund. This money will be used in providing soup for needy children in county schools.

ARCHERY PRACTICE DATES ARE CHANGED

Archery practice for the ensuing term will be held on Wednesday and Friday afternoons from 4 to 6 o'clock in the rear of Cunningham Hall rather than on Monday and Tuesday as scheduled last term. We hope that more girls will be able to attend practice if the weather remains favorable. Equipment may be obtained for individual practice any day in the week. This equipment is kept in the basement of Cunningham Hall and may be had by signing on the archery slip on the door of room 19 Cunningham Hall. Begin practice now for the spring tournament.

TENNIS

As soon as the weather permits the tennis courts will be lined off and ready for use. It is hoped the remaining tennis matches will be played off as soon as possible.

Passing things on the table to Raymond Lee's fourteen robust youngsters was quite a task thrice daily, but inventive genius came forward and now the problem is solved.

He built a huge table with a revolving top and established a "self-service" system at the family meals that involves nothing more complicated than a turn of the board.

"Is it true that boys are generally more accurate in routine work than girls?"

"Is it true that the urge to be law-abiding is inborn?"

Dr. Brownell Is At Math. Conference

Dr. W. A. Brownell, of Duke University, was at State Teachers College this week in his capacity of State consultant for mathematics. The meeting lasted from Tuesday through Thursday, and was attended by all the committees commissioned to work out the mathematics course of study for Virginia.

The state production committee on mathematics, whose function it is to produce courses of study in mathematics for the public schools of Virginia, held its second meeting of the school year. Farmville State Teachers College is the state curriculum center for this subject.

The meeting was called to order by Dr. Sidney B. Hall, state superintendent of public instruction and was held under the direction of Dr. D. W. Peters, director of instruction of the state department of education and director of the state curriculum program. Dr. H. L. Caswell of Peabody College, curriculum adviser for the state and Dr. A. W. Brownell, state consultant in mathematics. Dr. Brownell was assisted by Misses Lila London and Carrie B. Taliaferro of Farmville State Teachers College, associate state consultants of elementary and secondary mathematics, respectively.

The conference opened on Wednesday morning with a brief general session of the entire committee and was presided over by Dr. Peters. Announcement of plans for the meeting were made by Dr. Brownell.

The general session was followed by section meetings of the sub-committees on elementary and secondary mathematics respectively. The elementary committee worked under the leadership of its state chairman S. A. Martinsen, supervisor of elementary instruction, Petersburg. The committee for secondary schools was directed by its state chairman, R. C. Wingfield, professor mathematics at the University of Virginia and super-

Friend of the Family Promises to be Peppy

"Yes, just a friend of the family." Peg's bitter remark strikes the keynote of the play the sophomores are giving Friday night, January 27. "All you do is play up to the family. Everyone of them is just wild about you. Even the cats are crazy over you!" And when Dick tries to prove his real intentions, the family won't give him a break.

The whole play is chocked full of unusually amusing situations, and romance is a "fast worker." Dick knows his stuff when it comes to making love. To make the whole perfect the comedy is interspersed with choruses and dances. The Opening Chorus, Kitten Dance, Sun Fairies, and Farmerettes, add plenty of pep and zest to an already good comedy.

MISS BEDFORD

Miss Virginia Bedford, as Freshman classman, has started the class on the road to success.

Miss Bedford Is Presented as Freshman Classman

One of the Most Original Presentations of this Year Given By Freshmen

Personifying an artist who helps smooth out the rough places on the picture painted by the freshmen in their school lives, Miss Bedford, the classman, was presented today.

After a song by the entire class, the curtains were drawn and a huge palette was seen on the stage. As the president "Tac" Waters, spoke of the various organizations to which the freshman class sends representatives, the colors seemed to move from their place and come upon the stage. They formed a veritable rainbow of both color and accomplishment, for which they stood.

Then a picture of the Rotunda was brought on the stage and Miss Bedford, dressed as an artist, appeared. She was presented as the painter to whom the freshmen might go when their paints would not mix or their pictures seemed vague and unreal.

The following song which is dedicated to Miss Bedford was written by members of the class—the music is by Frances Terril and the words are by Mary Elizabeth Alexander.

To Miss Bedford

To you—Miss Bedford—our tributes we bring
To your guidance and loyalty true
To you forever our praises we sing
With your help we are sure to come through
For you, Miss Bedford, there's a place in each heart
We hold you above the rest
We know that you always will do your part
So we too will do our best.

All in all, the presentation was one of the most original and attractive ones that have been presented this year. Through this presentation the class feels that it is a part of the complete organization of S. T. C.

Giftorian and Historian Elected

The Senior Class held its regular meeting Tuesday night, January 17, and elected Alice Moore, giftorian, and Mae Downs, historian of the class of 1933. Alice Moore has been outstanding in college activities since a freshman. She has been vice-president of her class for two years, varsity cheer-leader, class cheer-leader, and circus queen for 1932. In all activities she has proved a good leader.

Mae Downs has also been a very active member of her class these four years. She has shown her ability in the Dramatic Club and in class productions. She has been recently elected to Pi Gamma Mu, honorary fraternity in history and social science.

It is with much pride that the Senior class announces its giftorian, Alice Moore and its historian, Mae Downs.

Southern Student Faculty Convention

Two hundred students and faculty members from both white and negro colleges from all parts of the South met in Atlanta December 28-31. For the first time white and colored students held a meeting to discuss local and international problems. The theme was "The Responsibility of the Forces of Region in Building the South of Tomorrow."

Dr. W. A. Smart of Emory University, called attention to the rapid change which is taking place in the South. Although there has been considerable change, we still think in terms of civilization before the Civil War. Quoting Dr. Smart, "The Southern part of our country is decidedly the most sectionally minded—possibly because we all love the South so dearly." We are failing to break the fetters of tradition. He continued: "Many of us feel that the South loses as it departs from the patterns handed down from our grandfathers. We have a hostility toward Wall Street. We are hostile to change—because the South has been agricultural, there is an assumption that it always will be. We have a blind worship of a fixed static social condition." Dr. Smart pointed out that there was a great lack of leadership and only a few voices challenging us to Christianity.

Dr. Malcolm H. Bryan, professor of economics at the University of Georgia, addressed the conference on the second day. Frequent references were made to technocracy. He declared that radical changes must be

GOOD FOR THE GIRL SCOUTS

Since the course in Girl Scout leadership was given here in the fall, a few of the students have been talking about organizing a troop here in school. A meeting of all those interested in this was called last week, and a large number of girls enlisted to become scouts. Patrols will be organized, and Miss Iler will act as director and captain of the patrols.

We think this move to organize a troop of scouts is a good thing. It will afford oportunities to those who have wanted to but never had the chance to take the tenderfoot and other tests in girl scouting.

Many of the teachers in the schools today are being called upon to be scout leaders. The information and training offered in such a course as is being planned will be helpful to any one expecting to become a leader of scouts. It will give her some of the fundamentals in scouting.

Although we are more "grown up" than the average scout of twelve or fourteen years old, there is still within many of us the desire for out of door life and for the fun and frolic of being scouts.

Dear Editor:

Saturday chapels are too full. There seems to be a hurry in the devotionals; perhaps, because the stage is set for something else. Dr. Diehl may feel that he must rush in order to finish the scripture so that the other part of the chapel program may be completed. Dr. Diehl is an unusually good minister and if he had time, he could add comments that would make the scripture more interesting and helpful to the students.

Some Seniors have remarked that chapel lasts so long on Saturday that they cannot get to their eleven o'clock classes on time unless they take their caps and gowns; they do not want to do this. Those who teach on Saturdays do not come because they do not want to walk out during the program. The Seniors marching in, the scripture, the singing of a hymn, a musician considerably long and the announcements more than fill up time.

An inquiry has been made as to whether Saturday chapel is Choral Club and Orchestra chapel or Senior chapel. According to custom it is Senior chapel. Personally, I enjoy the musical programs very much and I think the majority do, but let us not forget that interests differ. More Seniors might attend chapel if there was more variation in the programs. Instead of having every Saturday's program musical it might be of some other type and different organizations might give programs.

It is a fact that people attend and want to attend things which are interesting to them. If different groups or organizations gave programs, since each has its own peculiar interest, there would be more variation and perhaps everybody interested one time or another. We also need a better proportion of the Saturday chapel time.

A Senior

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

Why cannot the student lounge be used as a parlor as well as a lounge? The Junior and Senior parlors are very insufficient when it comes to having a comfortable seat during the visiting hours on Saturday and Sunday nights. This, of course, is because they are not large enough to accommodate the number of visitors who come.

The "rec" is all right as far as it goes, but straight-back chairs are very uncomfortable and steps play absolute havoc with ones clothing—and it is necessary that clothes that are presentable in church be worn.

It is of course a problem—but why not use those means we have? The lounge is large and comfortable and usually vacant on Sunday nights—not to mention the fact that it is a very nice place to take visitors.

The Rotunda is comfortable, but who cares to sit under the scrutiny of the "over-Rotunda crowd"—and realize that they are perhaps the topic of those on-lookers' conversation. It certainly causes embarrassment and uneasiness as to one's personal appearance not, to mention the feelings of one's friend.

The lounge would not only help the situation along but would do so in a creditable way—It is there—let us use it.

DOLL SHOW PRESENTED AT SATURDAY "SING"

"Sing" Saturday night was one of the most attractive presented this year; certainly, it was one of the most colorful. The scene was laid in a modern doll shop. Hazel Smith, as the proprietress, was in despair because she was unable to sell any of her beautiful dolls.

How delighted she was when a fashionable young matron—Harriett Moomaw—entered with her spoilt little girl—Margaret Gilmer! She hastened to display all her dolls. There were dolls and dolls and dolls—all sorts and varieties. First, there was a sweet, old-fashioned doll; then, there was the traditional baby doll, a negro doll, an old man doll, who proved to be surprisingly nimble, a "darling" Raggety Ann, "cute" college twins, a quaint little Chinese creature, a stiff-legged French military doll, a poor little doll with a broken back. There were even old maid dolls who danced the minuet and a little girl doll who played the piano.

All the dolls were able to perform All that was necessary was to wind them up, and they walked, talked, or danced. The mother and the daughter both seemed to be delighted with all the dolls. In fact, the dolls were too utterly charming. Their very loveliness, as well as expensiveness, made it impossible for young Mrs. So-and-So to choose one.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Beginning next Monday night, January 23, Mr. J. A. Redhead will give a series of lectures on the Bible. The purpose is to treat of the origin, history and interpretation of the Bible. The lectures will be given the fourth week of January and the first week of February on Monday and Wednesday and Friday nights at seven o'clock in the small auditorium.

Do you find an alluring, fascinating sort of attraction in a ten-cent store? Do you enjoy its cosmopolitanism, its gaudiness, its incongruous assortment of wares? If the "ten cent emporium" makes such an appeal to you, perhaps you will appreciate the following poem, entitled:

THE FIVE AND TEN

How glittering gay is the ten-cent emporium;
The human sensorium thrills at the sight
Of the windows and counter, so temptingly teeming
With merchandise gleaming and shining and bright.

Oh, where, for a dollar's small decimal fraction,
Can such satisfaction be equally bought?
Oh, what is here lacking that's worthy of mention,
That art or invention or cunning have wrought?
The cuff buttons, necklaces, earrings, and lockets;
Electric light sockets, and buttons, and cord;
The perfume and peanuts and pie plates and pencils,
And kitchen utensils and parts for the Ford.

The varied achievements of civilized races,
The works of all places, all peoples, all time;
The fruits that the ages have labored and sought for
Are here to be bought for a nickel or dime.

Oh, picture the wonder of King Tutankahmen,
If he could examine this profligate pile
Of all that his heirs and embalmers omitted,
What time they outfitted his tomb on the Nile.
Consider the envy of Croesus and Midas,
If they stood beside us these opulent times,
With pop-eyed amaze at the manifold riches
The damage for which is but nickels and dimes.
The pirate of old or the Indian potentate
Gladly would contemplate murder and crime,
With tortures ingenious, varied, and cruel,
To capture the jewel that cost me a dime.

Ah, could I return with a bag of such plunder
To waken the wonder of Indian gents,
I'd spread it before the reception committee,
And buy New York City for seventy cents.

WORLD NEWS

Prize fighting was one of the most dangerous sports of the old Roman Empire because the rules permitted the fighters to wear on their hands heavy guards loaded with lead or iron—a custom which delighted the undertakers.

Incredible feats have been performed by men whose physical condition enabled them to withstand extreme heat. The most astonishing one ever recorded was achieved by a Russian named Chamouni, who was able to stand in a red-hot furnace and hold a leg of mutton until it was well roasted.

One of the most ingenious stage tricks ever invented was presented before European audiences by a German conjurer in 1842. He fired a bullet along a row of 200 candles and made all the wicks burst into flame simultaneously.

King Mtesa, of Uganda, Africa, who reached the peak of his reign about 50 years ago, is believed to have maintained the largest harem in all history. His prize seraglio contained more than 7,000 dusky wives.

American savings banks today have approximately $12,000,000 credit to about 125,000 dead accounts, a large number of which are believed to be secret deposits made under fictitious names by gangsters, and grafters who have either forgotten them or died.

FLIGHT O' FANCY

The golden notes of a violin
Are flooding my room tonight,
And my fancy's wings are plumed,
Poised for a far away flight.

To lands where dusky people dwell,
Where gentle breezes blow
Where soft waves lap the sanded shore,
'Tis a Paradise here below.

To lands where marts are crowded
Bazaars are wild and gay,
Wonderful wares from distant lands,
Where life is one long day.

To lands that are sunny and golden,
No trouble can enter in,
Such is the power of music,
That comes from the violin.

ON HEARING "THE VALKYRIES"

Across the sky you come—you mad creatures,
Faster and faster you fly thru the night
On your flaming steeds—
Your wild procession blazes with fury—
Shriller higher, clearer grows your flight,
As you race onward into your spirit world,
Leaving behind you a blackness
That appalls.
The music ceases—
So would my soul could fly in a like frenzy,
Away from the time-worn customs that holds us—
Away from mistakes and weaknesses
And follies that blight my life.
Away from the mere routine of living—
(An earthly task I'm weary of)
Into a wind swept world
Made clean by shining swords—steeds of fire—
There to know no care nor pain—
—There I would begin anew—

I've found a little dream house
With a little green door—
And many paned windows
And shiny new floor.

Foot stool, fireplace—
Every thing new—
Sweet little dream house—
Reminds me of you.

H.

The old willow tree
Dipped its fingers of green—
Into the shadowy water sheen,
And wrote upon the
Deep, dark night,
In sparkling letters of shining light,
"I love you."

H.

VISIONS

Last night you came—did I dream it?
I saw you as clearly as I see now—
Yet—was I mad?
Or merely dreaming—
Maybe—
You did not speak,
Only stood there.
Oh—the gentleness of your eyes
As I looked into them—
No fire flashed there,
As of old when jagged stings
Fell from your lips.
Only sorrow and pleading.
Has another life tamed that spirit—
Turned that mocking mouth into one of gentleness—
Calmed that arrogant air—
That scornful look—
I remember too well! You
Flaunted them all when we were together
And now—you crave forgiveness!

FOLLOW-UP CONFERENCE

On Saturday, January 14 the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet with the Advisory Board held its Follow-Up Conference at Longwood. The conference opened at 2:30 o'clock with devotionals led by Kate Porter, the theme being the well known words of the great missionary, Paul, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished the course; I have kept the faith."

After the devotionals, Lucille Ingram presented a suggestion as to the theme around which the devotionals of the cabinet might center for the remaining part of the term. This suggestion was in the form of a question that each cabinet member might ask herself as she finished her work: Have I fought a good fight, have I finished the course! have I kept the faith? This was accepted by the cabinet and the Advisory Board.

After the roll was called, each committee chairman gave a summary of the work her committee had accomplished and an outline of the work planned for the future.

Sarah James, chairman of the prayers committee, reported that she had succeeded in arranging for the Bible course to be taught by Mr. Redhead. This course will include "a bird's-eye view of the Bible." The purpose is to treat in brief of the origin, history and interpretation of the Bible. These lectures will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights of the fourth week in January, and the first week in February at 7:30 p. m. in the small auditorium.

Nancy Harrison, representative of the social committee, reported that the freshman parties will be given on alternate Saturday nights until all the freshmen have been entertained.

Doreen Smith, chairman of conferences and convention committee, reported that Mr. Raymond Currier of New York will be on our campus from Feb. 24 through the 26th. It is hoped that the students will avail themselves of this opportunity.

Kate Porter, chairman of Service Committee, reported that on Wednesday, January 18, her committee will canvas the school for any old clothing that might be useful for the less fortunate.

These are just a few things the Y. W. C. A. is planning to do. The other committees gave very interesting and withwhile reports.

After the business session, ending at 4 o'clock, a social hour was enjoyed by all those present.

Y. W. C. A. RECOGNITION SERVICE HELD

A very simple but impressive recognition service was held by the Y. W. C. A. on Friday evening, January 13, at 9 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. reception room. At this time the new students in college were officially received as members of the Y. W. C. A.

The five new students, Mildred Crowe, Margaret Kent, Ann Peebles, Margaret Pringle, and Lois Smith, all wearing white, entered the room while a chorus song softly, "The Lord is in His Holy Temple." These new students stood facing the Y. W. C. A. cabinet members who also wore white and held lighted candles. Winston Cobb, president of the Y. W. C. A. welcomed the new girls and explained the purpose of the Y. W. C. A. She then lighted the candles of each new girl, this act symbolizing the official recognition of each one as a member of the Y. W. C. A. on our campus. The new girls and the cabinet members then formed a circle and joined in singing "Blest be the Tie that Binds," after which the service ended with the Y. W. C. A. motto.

Woman is a peculiar animal. A girl will feel flattered when you say, "Time stops when I look at your face." Yet, she would be insulted if you said, "Your face would stop a clock."—Annapolis Log.

DEBATE CLUB MEETS

The Debate Club held its regular meeting in the Student Building auditorium on Thursday night. At this meeting the president, Margaret Hix, presented the debate schedule for the year; arrangements for try-outs for the club were decided upon and financial report of the club was given by the treasurer.

It was also announced that Dr. Walmsley had consented to give a talk once a month on some phase of debating. This will be very helpful to those who expect to coach debating in high school. The club members are eagerly looking forward to these talks.

Then there was the absent-minded professor who muttered, "Come in," after he knocked the ashes out of his pipe.

Sambo: "Rastus, dats some gal I got."

Rastus: "Ah'll say she is."

Sambo: "What's dat you say, nigger?"

Mr. Handly in his talk Saturday morning also discussed the value of birds to man.

BARGAIN DAY DANCE

If you were fortunate enough to have taken advantage of the January Sale Dance in the gym on Saturday night you got the best bargain of the month.

Music was furnished through the good-will of Ruth Jordan and Julia Jones; while models dancing to the merry strains, displayed before your very eyes articles that were cheap becoming, and half off. Among the leading stores of the town Googler's Haberdashery Shop was well represented by slashed prices in men's clothing.

The Athletic Association awarded the best January Sale prize to Ruth Haskins, who gave an excellent display of all sizes and colors in Cannon bath towels. While the lucky prize was won by Helen Owen.

At ten o'clock the people, having made the best of the bargains, seemed elated as they tripped homeward—tired and shop-worn.

SOUTHERN STUDENT FACULTY CONFERENCE

made in the present capitalistic system, if it is to survive.

President H. A. Hunt, of Fort Valley Normal and Industrial School, compared the educational conditions in the South with other parts of the country, pointing out the economic and moral evils of the present dual system of education.

Dr. W. W. Alexander talked on the role of the 70 per cent non slave holding white population in the pre-war and past war period.

Dr. Modecai Johnson gave the closing address on "The South of Tomorrow." "A nation is fortunate that has any community with the possibilities of the South," stated Dr. Johnson. "We are all conscious that the South is on the way to a new career, but it is not sure which way it is going. There is a certain unhookedness about the South like some strong animal that has not yet put its full weight against its burden." He also stated that we have material and intelligence at our disposal to take care of every human need in America, if all grown people worked four hours a day." The duty of black and white young men is to use that power that has been discovered by the devoted men of the past for the physical emanicipation of men and women.

"In three meditations Rev. Howard Thurman led the conference in its thought of what Christianity has to say to those who would build a new society; the nature of love which begins with the knowledge of the beloved; the primacy of the individual; the immediate presence and power of God."

The students and faculty representatives of the white and colored Christian Association planned and directed the conference. Professor Ray Ray Paty of Emory University was the chairman of the executive committee.

"Good? They've got to be good!" said the chaperone, as she peered out onto the dance floor.

Junior Class Presents Sing

A very attractive program was presented Saturday night by the Junior Class. The first number was a quartet composed of Miss Virginia Potts, Frances Potts, Mr. Graham, and Mr. Bell. They sang first "Swing Low Sweet Chariot." This was followed by a melody in which the girls sang "A Spanish Cavalier" and the men sang "Solomon Levi."

After the quartet, a short minstrel was given. The part of Dinah, who was the center of attraction, was well acted by Alice McKay. The man whom she chose for her husband and whom she forced to propose to her was Margaret Eley. Nancy Harrison also played an important part, and her wisecracks brought forth many laughs from the audience.

SMALL FIRE CAUSES MUCH EXCITEMENT

Fire! Fire! Fire! Ring the bell! Ring the bell, were the cries which rang through the building Friday night. Immediately the halls were crowded, and everyone was tingling with excitement, and fear. Uneasiness reigned in each heart until Miss Mary and Cousin Tommy arrived. They were greeted with smoke and flames pouring into the hall.

The fire, which was one the second floor of gym hall caught from a loose wire connected with a reading lamp. Since the lamp was sitting in the window, the curtains burst into flame at once. However, it was soon gotten under control, and very little damage was done.

"Friend of the Family" Is Expected To Be a Big Success Next Friday Night

Frances Doran and Frances Dillon Are Two Leading Characters

NANCY BURGWYN IS DIRECTOR

"Friend of the Family", the play to be presented by the Sophomore Class Friday night is romantic and thrilling from beginning to end.

The opening choruses include attractive peppy songs and dances.

Dick, the affectionate and admiring lover of Peggy, is the "friend of the family". He wants to be alone with Peggy, but that seems almost impossible. If the lamp isn't out of order for Dick to fix, there is always plenty of algebra he can do for Peggy's little brother, Phil. Then there is Genevieve with her little kittens which Dick "just had to see"

Grandmother thinks Dick is a "nice boy"—in fact, she frequently entertains him when he and Peggy wish she would not. She finally leaves them alone reminding Dick to "make hay while the sun shines. The Farmerette and Sunshine dancers show him how.

Under the direction of Nancy Burgwyn the Sophomores have worked hard on the play to be given Friday night and expect it to be a real success.

'Two-Faced Slave' Given at Meeting

At the regular meeting of the Dramatic Club on Thursday night a group of apprentices in dramatics presented the play, "The Two Face Slave."

Each one having been instructed in her particular phase of dramatic work, several groups of apprentices have presented plays during the year. The play given Thursday night is the last one to be given by the apprentices this year.

Claudia Barleon, representing an ordinary person of today, mastered Life, Nancy Parker, who became her slave.

Elizabeth Welch, another everyday person, first demanded of Life that he give her bracelets and diamonds. These were granted, but she soon forgot the warning of Claudia and was too easily flattered by Life. Her crown was snatched from her, and she became a slave to Life, as Virginia Payne, Dorothy Justis, Billy Wilkinson and others representing people of today became slaves to Life. So Life became a two-face slave—at one time a master, at another a slave.

Founders Day is Postponed; Mar. 11

The program for Founders Day which is March 7 is postponed this year to March 11 because of the inauguration. Already committees have started work on the program, presentation of stunts, alumnae meetings, etc. The money collected on Founders Day is used in paying the debt for the Student Building. Every organization is urged to pay as much as possible to this worthy cause.

The following are the committees which will plan the Founders Day:

Program—Miss Carrie B. Taliaferro, president of the Alumnae Association.

Miss Willie London, president of Farmville Chapter of Alumnae Association.

Miss Virginia Bedford, freshman class man.

Miss Grace Moran, sophomore class man.

Miss Virginia Potts, junior class man.

Miss Olive Iler, senior class man.

Besides these there is a faculty committee composed of Miss Wheeler and Dr. Jeffers and a student committee with Jane Royall, chairman.

These committees are working to make this year's Founders Day more profitable and happier for alumnae and all those connected with the school. Each organization and each student has an active part, and each is urged to do her best to make Founders Day go over with a bang!

FACULTY MEMBER HAS ACCIDENT

Last Friday night while on her way from Fredericksburg to Farmville, Miss Barlow was in an automobile accident. The accident occurred a few miles from Farmville near Rice. She was accompanied by Miss Lucille Bridgman who was uninjured. Miss Barlow is in the Southside hospital suffering from facial injuries. She will be unable to meet her classes for two or three weeks.

The student body and administration extends sincere sympathy to Miss Barlow with the hope that she will soon be well again.

APPRECIATION FOR REAL ART

The student body was given the rare opportunity of hearing some of the best artists in the country at the Lyceum last evening. The Boston Sextette really afforded great pleasure to the students who appreciated it very much. The program presented was well chosen to suit the taste of college girls. Real art such as this gives students a chance to develop that aesthetic quality so necessary in a well educaed person. The Boston Sextette rendered a very beautiful program. It is composed of six of the finest soloists of New England. Each artist seemed to be chosen for his unusual ability, and each had a rare interpretative power.

The attributes combined with constant rehearsals and the best coaching possible have helped to make the sextette an ensemble of perfection.

The very colorful and varied program chosen featured especially compositions from the music of Colonial times presented in authentic costumes of that period all helped to make the program more enjoyable.

The S. T. C. audience especially enjoyed Yvonne DesRosieres and Raymond Simonds who were cordially and enthusiatisically received here last year. The student body appreciates the efforts which made such a performance possible.

SEVEN REASONS WHY WE SHOULD BUY A VIRGINIAN

The Virginian, our year book, must have subscribers if it is to be a success. So far there are not enough subscriptions to publish it. What is the student body going to do about it. There are many reasons why we should have an annual.

It is the only remembrance we will have of our college career in later years.

It is a source of pleasure for us and for our friends.

It is going to be a worthwhile book of art and literature for us to own.

Patriotism to our school demands that we buy one.

The money spent is regained ten fold from the pleasure we get from its contents.

It preserves pictures of your college mates that we could not have otherwise.

It is our duty to patronize school activities.

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

Recently there appeared in the Rotunda an article which concerned our Saturday morning chapel programs. This question has been argued both "pro and con" ever since the article appeared and varying opinions have been expressed regarding the subject.

It is true that Saturday mornings are set aside for the recognition of the seniors and undoubtedly this is an honor and a privilege. The very nature of a privilge renders it too precious a thing to be abused. We do want the scripture read without feeling that the religious phase of the program is rushed through, but at the same time we must not toss music into obscurity. Music helps to add to the spiritual feeling and helps to divert our thoughts from the immediate cares confronting us.

It is good that new ideas be brought to us from the inside as well as from the outside. It is an excellent suggestion that organizations contribute to the programs, but we must not forget that we have also many members in our faculty who might bring to us brief interesting programs—programs which would add color and vitality, and would invite our interests into new and varied channels.

Couldn't we do both? Or is it that we couldn't do the one without leaving the other undone? As a whole I believe the Seniors are willing to be unselfish with their Saturday hour.

But let us remember also—"it is a good listener who appreciates music."

Another Senior

Dear Editor:

There are a few suggestions which I should like to make and which are of interest to a large part of the student body.

There is an undue amount of noise in the library, which is the result of thoughtlessness on the part of certain individuals. Chewing and popping gum can be heard from one side of the reading rooms to the other; conversations held at the study tables are heard by more ears than they are intended for; laughing and other noisy practices are not conducive to study; mouth-reading which goes "ts ts ts" can be heard a great distance; talking aloud is quite audible. All these things hinder someone from doing work she set out to do, whether she gives up or not; they are embarrassing to those whose duty it is to maintain a safe place for study. If those of us who go to the library and disturb the quiet would stop a minute to think, I believe the library would be an excellent place for study.

This same noisy tendency is seen in other situations. Notices read in the dining room cannot be heard by many of us because of noises. The Saturday night sing does not give pleasure to some of us when there is so much noise, particularly loud laughing, that we cannot hear what is said. Laughing is a healthful practice, but it should be indulged in only to such an extent that it will not deprive someone else of any privilege or pleasure.

I am sure that such things as these are present only because of thoughtlessness, and if we will stop to consider, we will all come to realize that "our freedom ends where another man's begins."—A Student.

POPULAR TEACHER DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Miss Catherine Watts, 25 years old, a teacher in the third grade at the Armstrong School, in Wythe District, died last night at 10:35 o'clock in her home, 240 Newport News Avenue. Miss Watts was taken ill only a few days ago with an attack of grip, which developed into pneumonia.

Miss Watts, the daughter of Mrs. Nannie B. Watts and the late Walker Watts was born and reared in Hampton. She graduated from the Hampton High School, class of 1925, and later graduated from the State Teachers College at Farmville. She was elected a teacher in the Armstrong school here following her graduation from Farmville. She was an active communicant at St. John's Episcopal Church, in which she took part in the Sunday school and other church work.

Surviving Miss Watts are her mother, Mrs. Nannie B. Watts and a sister, Miss Nannie Watts, who is teaching in Alexandria, Va. Her family is widely known throughout the Virginia peninsula.

Arrangement for the funeral had not been completed last night.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWS

Undergraduates have turned to light reading for relaxation as a result of the depression, the recent survey of the book sales at the Princeton University store tends to show, and statistics reveal that Princeton students are doing more reading this fall than at the end of last year.

"Bishop's Jaegers" by Thorne Smith, and P. G. Wodehouse's "Hot Water", have been enjoying the greatest popularity, as being representative of the farcical novel, while Faulkner's "Night in August" and Hemingway's "Death in the Afternoon." are not far behind in demand. The universal popularity of Pearl Buck's "The Good Earth" has continued unabated, rivaling her new work and sequel, "Sons."

The most popular poets of the present student body are Masefield, Edward Arlington Robinson, and Edna St. Vincent Millay, and the latest works of these respective authors have been in demand. "Troy", "Nicodemus," and "Princes Marries the Page" have been widely read, but in spite of the rising interest in all other forms of literature, the undergraduates ignored modern drama this year.—Wilson Billboard.

The University of California has recently added a course in elementary fishing to its curriculum. Practice is held in the University swimming pool.—Wilson Billboard.

Philadelphia, Pa.—If some of the girls at Bryn Mawr College were late to classes last week there was probably a very good reason.

And the reason was that more time was spent energetically combing hair, polishing finger nails, eradicating spots from neatly pressed dresses or the like. The Bryn Mawr College News was the cause. It ran an editorial in which it belabored its readers for their shameful general mussiness. Said the editorial in part: "One of the blots on an otherwise beautiful landscape has from time immemorial been the student body.

BETWEEN REHEARSALS

Gee, isn't that going to be a knock-out? I swear, it's as true to life as a tooth-brush. When it comes to families, I know! Don't think my whole career for the past six years has not been a fight with the family for the living room on date nights. Doesn't Dillon make a handsome man? No wonder the family's in love with him, but gosh, does Peg rate it! You know, she's plumb jealous of that whole darn family of hers. Why shouldn't she be though? From the minute he walks in the door the whole family settles down for a nice pleasant evening with "our Dukie". And they make of him a regular handy-man, or something. Heck, it sure looks like he'd have more grit than to tweedle with 'em like that. Maybe he thinks the surest way to Peg's heart is via the family, but she doesn't like the detour! — And isn't Dot Justis a scream? What a grandma, what a grandma! Honestly, she's as immovable as the Rock of Gibraltar—and just about as obstinate—Say, who's that young handsome putting such wild ideas into Rosalie's head? Oh, Wyc Scott, alias Walter Gifford. Do you know what John Gifford did? He jilted the girl he was engaged to and eloped with another! ELOPED—that's what he did! Now can you beat that? Grandmother couldn't—That kid brother and sister of Peg's are enough to make her go nertz. You know, I'd like to get up a petition that every member of the family even to the cats, be locked in the basement on date nights. And I'd like to let Peg sign first. Poor thing, with that nice Dick Sherman dead in love with her, yet never getting a chance to see her alone for a minute. But, see here; what's grandmother doing? Honestly, can you believe it? "I've sent them all off to the movies—except Peggy; now, I'm going up and I'll send her down. And Dick, what do you do when the sun shinse? Don't know? Well, I'll tell you—MAKE HAY!"

OVER THE TEACUPS

I'm so tired! I've been asleep all day. Sleeping just drags me down! Dot Prescott surely led a knock-out into church Sunday evening. He was so nice and tall, and had that military look—if you get what I mean! I do love tall boys. Oh! Yes—Speaking of love, Kathryn Royster sits in the dining room and just stares into space with that far-away look, you know. And absent-minded! Mr. Grainger asked her a question the the other day and she said, "Ma'am?"

Did you know Mr. Southside had a new clerk? Alice Moore just simply stayed over there and so Mr. Southside just took her on the force. She's some saleslady!

Have you been around Ruth Ford lately? Well, honestly she makes me kinda wonder whether my ancestors really were—er—well—you know how I mean—I hate to say! She can actually act more like a monkey than the original of the species.

My dear! Somebody caught Jenilee Knight just gazing in a mirror last week. She smiled, all of a sudden and said, "Boo, you old good-lookin' thing, you—"

Oh, I must be going. I hope I haven't interrupted your study hour, That's always so aggravating.

GENEVA NOTES

FROM OLD JAPAN

When evening comes
I will leave the door open beforehand and then wait
For him who said he would come
To meet me in my dreams.

By way of pretext
I said "I will go
And look at
The condition of the bamboo fence;"
But it was really to see you!

A MESSAGE

Night—velvety black,
Vibrant—with a thousand sounds.
Stars—scintillating.
Diamond on velvet.
Can you read their message?
'Tis only—"I love you."

IMAGININGS

I loose my boat—
A light wind fills the sails.
Gently—my craft turns
Straight into the flaming sunset.
Rhythmically we float
To a world other than this.
There—wishes are truths
And dreams—not bubbles.
There—sorrow is not known—
There—worries cloud not life—
So—my boat moves onward.

A FRIEND O' MINE

Dear little lassie, with eyes of blue,
With your world a thing of toys,
With your plans and dreams,
And love and light,
Life for you is a palace of joys.

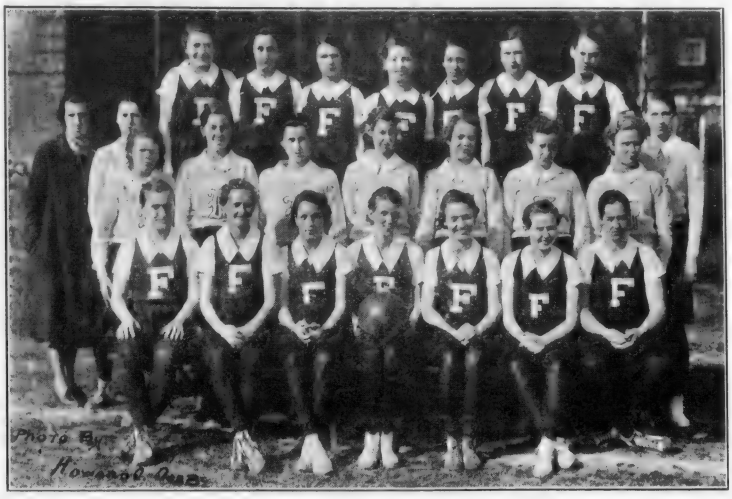
May you always have that vision bright,
May you find your dreams come true,
May the best of things life holds in store,
It's love, its laughter, all that's fine,
Be yours—'tis my very best wish for you.

A PRAYER

After the storm, the wind, and rain
That made the skies so drear,
A rainbow of promise spanned the sky,
'Twas painted with colors clear.

As I watched, the colors faded,
And wrote large in letters of gold
A flaming message of love and cheer
'Twas hope for dreams untold.

I saw, and life was worth living,
Made clear in that glowing hue,
Dear God,—forgive me for doubting
All that was fine, and pure, and true.



TO—

Weird, minor notes of a flute
Come faintly on the breeze.
The scent of magnolia is heavy—
Their smooth, white buds
Reflect in the patent-leather leaves.
From afar, across the miles
That are between us,
I seem to hear your voice—
Softly, gently, replacing the flute-tones.
More music than ever can be in a thing of wood,
More thrilling than the scents of the night,
These are mere nothings—
When I hear you speak.

MY LOVE FOR YOU

I agree with the person who said—
If you have a friend worth
Loving,
I am not ashamed of the Love
I have for you.
To me, it is a thing more precious
Than life itself.
It's the only thing that keeps me
Ever striving toward the goal
I have set up—
Sometimes—in the blackest hours—
I remember you—
A wave of love sweeps
Over me—
And I smile—
My love for you
Is my only
Excuse
For Living.

DR. WALMSLEY AND MISS LONDON TALK

Dr. Walmsley and Miss London talked at the open Y. W. C. A. Cabinet meting January 25, which the advisory board had charge of. Dr. Walmsley talked on the "Relation of the Student Committees and Faculty Advisers." He directed thought toward these questions. How far should faculty advice be the deciding factor? It is better only so far as in itself it is better. Then he stated that the highest compliment you could pay an adviser was to differ and argue. The ideal plan, is a group of congenial people, interested in the same things, of approximately equal ability, with some having more experience which may help their judgment.

Miss London talked on "The Relation of our Y. W. C. A. with the National Y. W. C. A." She stated that the relation was something like a family tree. We are one of the branches of the World's Y. W. C. A. which has its headquarters at Geneva Switzerland. The American Y. W. C. A. which is responsible for all the Y. W. C. A. work in American has given over to the National Council the work of students on campus. The Council meets biannually when the National Y .W. C. A. meets, but is more or less a self governing body.

ARE WE NEAR WAR?

Are we going to have a war? President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt discussed international relations last week at their meeting. China and Japan seem to be the main center of thought now. According to technicalities there is no occasion for war. Other countries have annexed territory in the same way that Japan is doing. although Japan says she is punishing a few individuals to maintain law and order. It is thought no country will intervene unless Japan goes beyond Jahal, a strategeic point in China.

These were a few points brought out in Dr. Walmsley's talk at prayers January 20. If you should like to be enlightened on conditions in Japan, China, the Philippines and other parts of the world which are in the foreground of world interest at the present time, come to hear Dr. Walmsley on Friday evenings when he gives a ten-minute talk on current news.

ATHLETICS

STUDENT COUNCIL DEFEATS Y. W. CABINET

The gym was the scene of a most exciting basketball game between the Student Council and the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet Friday night. The uniforms were especially interesting.

Student Council line-up:

Jane Royall, captain of Council team, in a white shirt, white sailor cap and white shorts over a black gym suit.

Dot Snedegar, in a red and white checked skirt and a green and white hat which offered quite a contrast to the rest of her outfit.

Hildegarde Ross in a very striking green hat and blue dress. She also carried a yellow hankie which she kept in perpetual motion.

Mary Shelton, who looked quite charming in a yellow bathing cap.

Hazel Smith with a very attractive pink ribbon in her hair.

Alice McKay, the best dressed player on the floor, in a red hat, quaint old dress, yellow hose and green tie. Her hair was dressed in the latest Parisian style.

Hattie Gilliam, quite chic in a blue shirt, yellow trunks, and a black cap.

Lois Rhodes, quite modish in an Empress Eugenie hat.

Virginia Brinkley, Winifred Pugh, Helen Cover, Isabelle Allegree, and Helen Boswell, were staunch supporters of the government in both costume and playing ability.

Y. W. C. A. Cabinet line-up:
Kitty Potter
Sue Yeaman
Honey Hamilton
Winston Cobb
Doreen Smith
Lois Cox
Imogene West
Edith Shanks.

The Y. W. C. A. Cabinet's uniforms were not as unusual as those of the Student Council, but it is the general opinion that they had on the most clothes which they kept busily shedding.

Both teams seemed to think it would rain because the Cabinet appeared an the floor with large embrellas and the Council wore raincoats and galoshes.

McKay gave the Council the first tip-off, but the Cabinet soon regained the ball and made the first goal. Yeaman, Royall, and McKay fainted, but were soon revived by "Miss McKee". Smith made the first goal for the Council and the entire team passed out.

After the first quarter Gilliam substituted for Smith. When Cobb made a goal for Y. W. C. A. Gilliam got excited and gave her a call down.

The Council began shedding hats and ties and warming up for their job. Gilliam made a goal, yelled "Lights Out" and painted.

During the rest between the halves the Student Council had a spread of pickles and crackers on a fancy yellow table linen. The Y. W. C. A. was as famished as the Council and dined on grapefruit, and then felt so peppy that they started a fast game of leap frog, and following that, ring-around-the-roses.

The second half "went over with a bang." Mary Shelton wounded her "big" toe and was forced to quit playing. McKay "tackled" Rowell on the "20 yard line" but "Miss McKee" was ready and rendered first aid. The end of the fourth quarter came with the Council in regular gym uniforms and the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet in very snappy bathing suits.

Although the game did not display perfection in basketball technique, it surely gave spectators and the players a good laugh.

The final score was 18-5 in favor of the Student Council.

TENNIS NOTICE

If the weather continues to be good the remaining tennis singles will be played off this week.

Will the girls who have these matches to play, play them off immediately because it is very urgent that they be finished as soon as possible.

College Widow (sarcastically): "Say, it's twelve o'clock, do you think you can stay here all night?"

Freshman: "Well, I'll have to telephone mother first."—The Yowl.

Wife: "The couple next door seems to be very devoted. He kisses her everytime they meet. Why don't you do that?"

Husband: "I don't know her well enough yet."—Yowl.

Suggested epitaph:
Here I lie beneath this terrain
Wrapped in moisture proof cellophane.—Yowl.

Diner: "There's a piece of rubber tire in my hash."

Waiter: "No doubt. The motor is replacing the horse everywhere.—Table Talks.

Dot Long: "What's wrong with those eggs?"

Irene (the waitress): "Don't ask me, I only laid the table."—Yowl.

"Hello," said the absent-minded prof. "How's your wife?"

"Oh, I'm not married, you know?"

"To be sure then, your wife is single, too."—Annapolis Log.

PLAY NIGHT

Saturday night found several girls in the gym with their heads bent in deep meditation. Studying—did you say? Of course, they were studying. Jig-saw puzzles cause anyone to think. There were seven puzzles and three times as many girls. Colors, shapes and designs clashed with each other. After much struggling and frowning Ruth Jordan, Marianna Robinson, Louise Hartness and Elizabeth Walthall finally decided what a modern Santa Claus was like.

Come down next Saturday night and enjoy the fun. You might win a prize, too. Even if you can't win you will have lots of fun. Be in the gym at eight o'clock and ready for fun.

THE STAR

That night the world was filled with strife
For me. All day the people I had passed
Had seemed to have their smiles for others;
They hadn't even seen me passing by.
Each goal I've tride to reach
Had been too far to come within my grasp.
Each pleasure I had seized
Had changed to ashes in my hand.
All life seemed failure and regret
As I turned my steps homeward that autumn eve,
When, looking to the west I saw,
In the purple of the sunset sky,
One silver, shining, radiant star
Beckoning me to peace and to God.

Dorothy C. Roberts

He: "Wanna spoon?"

She: "Surely."

Last Senior Sing Received With Enthusiasm

Alice Moore As the Spirit of the Senior Class Reads Last Will and Testament

MARY WINSTON DANCES TWICE

"And so the Seniors present their last sing. Mingled with the ridiculousness of it is a note of sadness. The song of the Senior Class is about to end, but we hope its melody will linger on." Thus did Jane Royall introduce one of the year's most unique and enjoyable sings Saturday night.

The parted curtains disclosed an eerie grave filled with shrouded tombs. Wailing mourners glided about. Into this gruesome scene passed Alice Moore, herself draped in shrouds. "I am the spirit of the Senior Class, come to leave their last Will and Testament," she said. She then proceeded to read the will, at times calling forth the spirits of former members of the class from their respective tombs. The first spirit to appear was Margaret Gathright, who, after removing her Senior cap and gown to leave to the in-coming Seniors, sang "After We've Gone." When the spirit of Margaret Gathright had passed on, other spirits came forward when summoned, and passed on. Rachel McDaniel arose and sang "Just a Little Street"; Doreen Smith's spirit again charmed the piano keys in "Mood Indigo." Dot and Hildegarde's spirits came back together in a characteristic tap dance; Jenilee Knight unfolded hidden talent when she sang the popular "Day and Night", and Ruth Jordan's spirit thrilled all in its weird and uncanny swoops and swerves across the stage. Jennie Wheeler and Frances Potts were so well received in their "Street of Dreams" that their spirits were raised again to offer their inimitable "Mood Indigo". Mary Winston jumped up and tapped around to "Ain't No Sin to Take Off Your Skin, and Dance Around in Your Bones." And then the graveyard became quiet and still again as Rachel McDaniel again arose and sang to S. T. C., the place where old friends would meet. As the Senior Class song floated through the air, the spirits slowly sank back into their tombs. All was hushed; the spirits of the Senior Class had passed on.

On Tuesday night the Sophomore Class held its weekly meeting in the Recreation Hall. Esther Haskins was elected editor-in-chief of the Sophomore issue of the Rotunda and Martha Cross was chosen associate editor. Both girls are very capable and will be responsible for an excellent class issue on February 22.

Nominations For May Court Will Be Held Soon

Maid Marion and Robin Hood Will Share Equal Honors In May Court

ROBIN HOOD IS THE THEME

Beginning a new plan this year there will be two places of highest honor in the May Court rather than one, as formerly. May Day originated in England, was continued there for many years, drifted to several countries, and finally the custom became habitual in America, especially in College and universities. Since every student should have the opportunity of seeing one old English May Day during her college career, this year the plan is to establish the custom of having an English May Day once every four years. The other three years will be turned over to other themes.

This year May Day will reveal the customs in England on May Day first, and the theme will be centered around the legend of Robin Hood and Maid Marion. Along with the election of the Queen will be the election of Robin Hood. These two will share equal honors at the head of their court.

All characters in May Day, including the court, will be chosen on the basis of certain qualifications:

1.—The Queen and Robin Hood must have dramatic ability.

2.—The Queen and Robin Hood must be dependable, responsible, and willing to work.

3.—Both must be graceful and have poise. The carriage is especially important—it must be easy and graceful.

4.—Robin Hood must be fairly tall and must be able to walk like a man.

5.—Only Juniors and Seniors are eligible for May Queen and for Robin Hood.

Since it is such an honor to have this distinction, the girls chosen must be representative of the student body in character, personality, and school spirit. They must be intensified in different phases of school work.

It is the custom for the girl having second highest number of votes to be maid-of-honor. This will be observed this year, and the girl having second highest number to Robin Hood shall be his attendant.

Dr. Jarman to Be Featured in Recital Tonight

The Choir of the College will present Dr. Jarman in a vocal recital this evening at 8:15 in the College auditorium. This will be Dr. Jarman's debut in recital although he has been appearing for many years in solo numbers. The faculty and student body is cordially invited and it is felt sure that a large audience will greet the president in his new role.

The program follows:

Evening and Morning ..... Spicker
The Trumpeter ..... Dix
Rolling Down to Rio ..... Speaks
Duna ..... McGill
Tommy Lad ..... Margetson
Lost Chord ..... Sullivan
Until ..... Sanderson
I Hear You Calling Me ..... Marshall
Invictus ..... Hwahn
Keep on Hopin' ..... Maxwell

At the piano: Alfred H. Strick.

Pi Gamma Mu Will Sponsor Mardi Gras

On February 28, the S. T. C. Chapter of Pi Gamma Mu will sponsor a Mardi Gras in the gymnasium. The ball will begin at eight o'clock and continue until eleven. A committee composed of faculty members will nominate five girls from which the student body will elect a queen to preside at the ball. Everyone is invited to don a costume and come to share the fun of a good old fashioned ball.

This old New Orleans custom of holding a Mardi Gras just before Lent should prove an interesting feature in our college entertainment. Fortune telling, brilliant costumes, soft lights, confetti, the crowning of the queen, together with a good peppy orchestra, promises to make the evening one of gaiety and mirth.

MEDITATION HOUR IS ABOLISHED

The Sunday afternoon meditation period which has formerly been observed from two to four o'clock has recently been abolished.

Before Sing started Saturday night Jane Royall announced the "good News" of the Student Standards Committee recently passing upon the recommendation that the usual Sunday afternoon meditation period be done away with.

Formerly students were required to be in the building between two and four o'clock. By the new rule the same restrictions and privileges which existed from four to six o'clock are now to be observed from two to six. Students may sit on the campus, walk around and enjoy being out-of-doors all Sunday afternoon if they wish.

The granting of this new privilege seems to be favorably approved by the student body, and, as Jane suggested, if this privilege is not abused additional ones may be granted in the spring.

DRAMATIC CLUB INITIATES MEMBERS

The girls who accepted bids to the Dramatic Club were formally made members last week. The humorous part of initiation was on Tuesday and Wednesday. On these days each new member of the club wore a mask over her eyes from eight o'clock until six.

On Wednesday night the old members were entertained with stunts by the new members. These stunts consisted of short, interesting dramas, representation of characters, parties, and incidents which have happened at S. T. C.

The serious initiation was held on Friday night. Each new member, dressed in white, took the oath of membership and signed her name to the roll.

JUNIOR CLASS TO PRESENT SHOW

Much mystery surrounds the Junior Class production to be given February 24. No Junior will disclose the secret until later. However, the following information has been obtained. It is to be something new and original. Mary Shelton is chairman of the committee. Working with her are Miss Potts, Margaret Eley and Alice McKay. Frances Horton is business manager.

This is a dual debate with Randolph-Macon, Ashland, on the question, "Resolved: That The U. S. Should Adopt a Tariff for Revenue Only." Carrie DeShazo and Margaret Hix uphold the negative side of the question at Randolph-Macon, Ashland. The affirmative side will be debated by Martha Gunter and Virginia Hamilton in our own auditorium.

After the debate Friday night the Debate Club will entertain the Randolph-Macon debaters at a reception in the Student Building lounge.

INTELLIGENCE AND EDUCATION

Education is a subject that is discussed in every land in every city, and in almost every home. Need of education is felt by most of the people and much encouragement is given, both to the schools and to the students. It is impossible to have all of the people well educated, but it is possible to keep them from being illiterate, or from being a burden on society because of no education.

Intelligence and education should never be thought of as the same thing. They are very different, and intelligence is not dependent upon education. We become educated as a result of study and experience but we are intelligent only when our hereditary endowment includes intelligence. The problem of applying the ability to life situations is an individual problem of educational adjustment, and the more intelligent individuals will find the problem much the easier. An intelligent person can easily acquire facts and information that will make it possible for him to respond to new and complex situations in a satisfactory way, and his friends will say, "his education has made it possible for him to act, even in strange places, as though he were at home." The associations that we make through contact with other people, through reading, and through experience make up the substance of a liberal education.

CHEAPENING YOUR COLLEGE

College loyalty is something that should be of importance to every student of Northwestern. Without cooperation and consideration of others, there can be no spirit worthy of the name in any college.

When students give the referee the "razz" at the basketball games or when they leave the chapel during the program, they are showing a lack of consideration for the college. No fair college man or woman will do these things. If they leave the auditorium during the chapel hour, they will at least leave between numbers. Students owe every consideration to the performers or speakers and if they are not given that consideration they will think the students are plain and "cheap."

Let's have the true loyalty of Northwestern brought out at the ball games and chapel. Why make the college cheap when you are the only part of it that is really "cheap."—Northwestern.

This editorial, taken from the Northwestern student newspaper, could well be applied to our own student body. In many ways we could make our college a better place to live if we'd only be more considerate.

TECHNOCRACY

It is a significant commentary upon the good sense of the American people in general and the college population in particular that neither has gone off half-cocked to spread the questionable gospel of Technocracy. Its introduction created something of a sensation and it reached spectacular heights in publicity but for all that one has practically to comb the newspapers now to find mention of the latest developments, if such they can be termed. Like the small bully blustering to maintain a place in superior society and slinking off when challenged, Technocracy has all but faded from the American scene when it failed to substantiate its claims.

Dr. Gage, assistant professor in social studies, at a recent assembly effectively nipped in bud the half-baked theorizing so prone to circulate among college students, by presenting an unbiased view based upon known facts. In somewhat lighter vein, Representative Black of Brooklyn, one of the witty members of the House, summed up the matter in the following words:

"'Technocracy' is a word of terrific mule-power covering a multitude of miscalculations.

"It started in a survey of wheels within wheels and wound up as a jumble of wheels within heads . . . Their plan suggests the dream of an ostrich after a formal dinner in a scrap-iron heap. They poured into a sausage-making machine some Marxian philosophy, Mussolini ranting, single-taxidermy, Volstead gin and it came out boloney."

Now that four lof the origina eight experts have picked up their ergs and gone home sulking because of Howard Scott's "attitudes", it is probable that what influence the doctrine formerly possessed will be entirely dissipated by the schism. The lexicographer who has recently gone to the trouble of putting "technocracy" in the dictionary may have to label it obsolete in a short time.

Evidently the way to prevent a too gullible public from swallowing whole the hocus-pocus propaganda of every new movement is to expose it immediately to expert criticism and to ridicule.—The Pelican.

TRUE SOPHISTICATION

The art of being intellectual without being bookish—is sophistication. There are few returns from a literary course which keep one forever poring over books—or in any other course which does the same. No benefit is derived from closing doors to human contacts in order to learn facts about more or less forgotten lore. The ability to read and thus to balance one's mental and social diet, the ability to transmute from books into life the beauty gleaned therefrom, the ability to discriminate, and to feel no time completely wasted which is spent reading—these are the real pleasures of reading—good books are accurate portrayals of people—and assist greatly in teaching one to understand and appreciate people, to understand others' motives, to make allowances for their shortcomings, as well as our own; they allow our souls to feast on the glamour which we rarely have in our own lives—they may, if we choose, weave illusions for us—or they may give us insight into bare reality. Books may even inspire us—or present a new and splendid taste to a jaded appetite. Their biggest service, and at the same time one which is often not perceived by the reader herself, is the combining of all these benefits, into a complete category of experience, and thus polishing the corners of one's character, bevelling the edges, as it were, creating a personality, a poise which is essential to a completely educated woman. Sophistication is not, as someone facetiously remarked, what one gets from reading the medical books—it is what one gets from reading—books.

ALUMNAE NEWS

The following is an excerpt of a letter received from Miss Rose Brimmer, of Danville, concerning the formation of an alumnae chapter there:

"You will be pleased to learn that the Danville-Pittsylvania Chapter of the Farmville State Teachers College Alumnae Association was formally organized on January 25.

"Though the weather was stormy and a number who had expected to attend were not there, we were gratified at the attendance.

"Because of a large number of Farmville teachers in this vicinity and a wide area which our organization will cover, we deem it expedient to divide into several groups with a chairman responsible for each group. Due to the lateness of the school year and the present industrial condition we have decided to do nothing more this year than pay our dues and to use our influence to induce graduates of our vicinity to go to Farmville.

"The list of officers for this year are as follows: president, Miss Rose L. Brimmer; secretary and treasurer, Miss Janie Moore; chairmen of groups: South Danville, Miss Virginia Raine; North Danville, Miss Peggy Walton; Pittsylvania county, Mrs. Ray Mitchell (Mary Mount); Danville (group not teaching), Mrs. Wayles Harrison (Sue Brown.)

"Very sincerely yours,
"Rose L. Brimmer"

Beneath is a poem published in an issue of "Harpers," by one of our "old girls."

BESEIGED
By Josephine Johnson

One citadel is left to me,
The citadel of silence—if that go
I am indeed defenseless to the foe.

What does he seek within this ruined town
Where every other stronghold has gone down
And none remembers what it used to be?

No splendor hides within these crumbling walls
They echo only to dim footfalls
Of long-dead ghosts—with painful steps and slow.

The fortresses have fallen—one by one
And all their gold and scarlet has been won
Have mercy on me now and let me go!

Oh, must you take the utmost toll of me?
Here, then my piteous treasure—and see
A broken dream—a tarnished memory!

CENTRE COLLEGE HAS EDITORIAL FOR ACTION

Danville, Ky.—In a front page editorial the Centre College Cento has called on the Inter-Fraternity Council at Centre to take immediate action on the "pressing fraternity problems."

"Hell Week," says the editorial, "needs abandoning, deferred rushing should be adopted, inter-fraternity relationships must be put on a new basis, fraternity politics (and non-frat politics, too) need a thorough clean-up."

The editorial accuses the Council of doing very little in the past to "justify your existence," and calls for immediate action.

What will the Prince of Wales be called if he becomes King of England? That is hard to answer when you remember that the Prince's name is Edward Albert Christian George Patrick Andrew David Guelph.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

Girls, get on your best smiles when you amble down the street, 'cause you must remember that H. S. C. mid-winters are less than two weeks off!

Here's a hint to a bunch of frosh from a certain city. We aren't such a bad lot at this school; try mixing with us once in a while!

For the safety of a certain faction of the student body, I think we should have high wire fences all around the Rotunda. I held my breath last Saturday and Sunday nights, for fear someone was going to tumble overboard.

On Friday and Saturday nights we'll engage in two tilts of quite different natures—one in the auditorium and one in the gym. Come on! let's go out and support our teams!

Here's a problem in math! How far would all the jig-saw puzzles in this school extend if they were fitted end to end?—and what grades would we get if we spent on study as much time as we do on working them.

From all reports our school was well represented at Lexington this past week-end. Rocke says she had a sw-well time; Tony Jones says it was grand; Chic says "O. K."—and so we gather it was pretty nice.

There's a rumor around and about that the Juniors are going to have a big production soon. That's a hint to the wise—begin saving your pennies!

We nominate for this week's Hall of Fame—Hildie Ross for having the funniest expression ever seen in sing!

APPLICATIONS

What's his name? Hasn't he got more than one initial? I declare I'm frantic! I wish Virginia had more counties; then I could stand a better chance of getting a school.

Yes, applying for a school is worse than applying to Dad for money. You see only one letter to Dad was necessary. The money was either sent right away or wasn't sent at all. This is different. The teachers already out in the state just will not retire or get married.

We are not the only frantic ones. Imagine yourself in the capacity of superintendent with all this literature pouring in daily— Well, he has one thing for which to be thankful. He won't have to buy any coal this winter and we—well, some of us won't be able to buy any, that's all.

OPEN FORUM

MAKING OUR COLLEGE A BETTER PLACE

We have a very beautiful campus but there are some things that mar its beauty which might easily be corrected. Along the sidewalk, in the alleys, and even on the grass, one finds orange peels, chewing gum wrappers, and paper. From out of some of the windows even we find paper and other unsightly objects. With just a little care this untidiness could be avoided and our college would make a much better impression. There are no shades at the front windows in the Main Building, these windows, especially those near the Rotunda are often unsightly because of curtains not properly hung, objects and clothing left in the window. With just a little care these could be made more attractive. We would also like to see fewer girls hanging over the Rotunda on Saturday and Sunday nights. If these girls were in the Rotunda and could see themselves, they surely would not do this again. It is embarrassing for the girls who have dates and for the students themselves.

GYPSY PATTERN

A spreading oak tree, roof and rafter,
Voice of fiddle, sweet and thin;
Quench the fire and still the laughter
And hush the voice of the violin;
Leave but an echo to follow after
And ashes where singing fires have been.

Flash of gold when the day is dying,
Flash of red on the village street,
Rumble of wheels and the hill-wind sighing,
And voice of a fiddle, haunting-sweet,
And two little sticks at the cross-roads lying—
Two crossed sticks where the white roads meet.

SEA HAVEN

I feel, on the shore, when the storms sing,
And the mists roll in from the sea,
There may be an isle, away and beyond
For an earthly soul like me—.
With a sheer crag and a white surf
And gray gulls sailing,
A black palm 'gainst a moonlit sky,
And stars in silver paling—.

With a red dawn o'er naked hills
And peace 'neath a noontide tree,
A salt breeze on a bare throat,
And the bar's low melody.

A red flash on the night's face
And billows of thunder wild!
With a rattle of rain on the heaving plain
And waves on black rocks piled!

And fools may prate of their streets of gold,
Or gloat o'er jewels free
Let me walk in a shade beneath the pines
And yearn o'er the sapphire sea.

—Walcott

LESSONS

So from you, my dear,
I learned of life—
We drained its cup together.
Down to the very last.
Yet we began
With perfect faith—
Faith built on a
Fragile foundation
We called it love.
I'm a wiser person
For having Known you
Our life together
Was a lovely thing—
One in purpose—
Hope; dreams,
Life—
Its meaning complete.

WIND AT NIGHT

The wind howls and screeches
Up and down the streets.
It shrieks like a mad thing—
Struggling—never still.
Always fighting,
Untamed, restless—
Making crooked shadows
My mind and soul
Of clouds.
Race on in
That same mad confusion—
Ever beating wings
Against barriers—
Such futile things.
You think I'm mad too?
Maybe—
Or—just a restless spirit
Seeking release.

MELANCHOLY

There comes a time in my life when all is dark and drear,
When a cheering word would be like heaven
If it came from you.

MR. REDHEAD LECTURES

Four of Mr. Redhead's lectures on "How the Bible Came to Be" have been listened to with much interest by the students and faculty here. The lectures, which show careful preparation and organization, have been given so clearly and concisely that it has been possible for those who desired to do so to take complete and yet very brief notes.

The first three lectures were concerned with the development of the Bible up to about 350-400 A. D. The fourth lecture described the Bible from 400 A. D. to fourteenth century England; the fifth will bring the history to modern times; and the sixth lecture will help us to understand how to best interpret and use the Bible.

In the first lecture Mr. Redhead described the gradual growth of a religious literature. He explained how the Bible resulted from the old legends, stories, songs, proverbs, and poems of the people. Any doubts which might have been entertained about the truth or validity of the Bible were dispelled in the second lecture, which revealed how the Bible stood on its own foundation, being the expression of the noblest thoughts and feelings of the people over a long period of years. It was brought out that the choice of the books in the Bible was not based on any decree or council but on the spiritual needs of the people.

The third lecture dealt briefly with the origin of the books of the Old Testament, with the books of the Apocrapha, considered as a connecting link between the Old Testament and the New, and with the motives which impelled the followers of Christ to write the New Testament.

The fourth lecture considered the possibilities of mistakes through copying, the service of the monks in preserving the Bible through the Middle Ages, and the First English Translation by John Wycliffe.

The Y. W. C. A. wishes to thank Mr. Redhead for giving the students this interesting and instructive series of lectures.

WESLEY ASSOCIATION MET JANUARY 29

The Wesley Student Association of the Methodist Church met in the Student Building Lounge at 2 P. M. on Sunday, January 29. The meeting was opened with the singing of a hymn, and prayer. Miss Irene Leake then sang a lovely solo. Lois Cox, president of the association, presided She introduced Rev. R. B. Lipscomb, pastor of the Farmville Methodist Church, who briefly explained the purpose of the association. Each of the officers then explained various phases of the organization's work.

SUGGESTIONS ASKED

The Y. W. C. A. Cabinet is always anxious to receive suggestions as how its work may be better carried on. If anyone has an idea, please write it on a slip of paper and put it in the little box beneath the Prayer Bulletin Board. If anyone knows girls who can sing, play the piano, or do other things which require particular talent, slip their names in the box also.

Young Man—I hope you will object to my marriage with your daughter.

Father—Why so?

Young Man—Because if you do I think she will be bound to have me.

College Senior—What would you advise me to read after I have completed by course and graduated, Professor?

Professor—I would suggest the "Help Waned" page.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWS

(NSFA)—Describing the scene of an examination at Oxford, Mr. Geoffrey M. Wilson, a member of the Oxford debating team touring the East under the auspices of the National Student Federation, said in a recent interview at West Virginia University: "First, we all light our pipes and sit around discussing the subject for about three-quarters of an hour. Then we start to write. And if you get stuck, you can always ask your next door neighbor who will probably have something you don't know." In answer to a horrified American gasp, he continued, "This is all expected, you see, you can't write a paper unless you know a little something about the subject. They just want to check up to see what you're doing."—Athenacum.

2. May be used as a fishbowl with a stationary bottom.
3. Or, as a waste-basket or ash tray
4. Excellent for balancing books on the head.
5. To make the unintellectual look studious (if this fails, study.)

Gown

1. May be used as a pen-wiper in exams.
2. For raincoat; with detachable fur scarf, as evening wrap.
3. As winding-sheet.
4. As disguise.
5. To conceal excess poundage. (If this doesn't work, reduce.)

College High School Wins Two Games

COLLEGE HIGH DEFEATS FARMVILLE HIGH 21-18

With its skillful passwork and accurate goal shooting the basketball game between the College High girls and Farmville High Monday afternoon was very exciting to spectators and players.

The game Monday afternoon was played in the Farmville High School gymnasium at 3:30 o'clock.

For the excellent team work in the game Monday both teams and their coaches are to be congratulated. Dot Snedegar is coaching the College High Girls in basketball this season.

The line-up was as follows:

College High		Farmville
Hudgins	RF	York
Matherly	LF	Ransom
Andrews	C	Craft

COLLEGE HIGH SCHOOL DEFEATS WORSHAM

On Friday, January 20, the College High School played Worsham High in the college gymnasium. Both teams played well, but the College High girls were a little too quick for the Worsham lassies who were not accustomed to an indoor court. The game was unusually clean and well played for high school teams, both showing good coaching.

College High School carried off the victory with the score 34 to 13.

DEBATE SCHEDULE FOR YEAR IS COMPLETED

Farmville.

March 1—Emory and Henry at Emory.

March 3—Waynesburg College at Farmville (dual debate).

To be decided—Radford at Farmville (dual debate).

The four debate teams have worked hard this year and we are hoping they will have unusual success. Let us support our teams and school by attending the debates to be given in our auditorium.

CONTEST IN THE GYM SATURDAY IS ENJOYED

About twenty girls enjoyed the contest in the gym Saturday night. The object of this contest was to see who could "get home first" on a parchesi board. There were about five tables, two couples at each table.

During the games, animal crackers were enjoyed by the players.

Six prizes were won by lucky players who succeeded in "getting home." These prizes were jig saw puzzles which afforded much pleasure to the winners.

S. T. C. Defeats Richmond Normal In the First Game of the Season

Farmville Takes Lead In the First Quarter and Retained It During Game

The Farmville second team defeated Richmond Normal, 39-3, Tuesday afternoon in a basketball tilt. For several years Richmond Normal has been on the schedule and the games have been both interesting and enjoyable.

Farmville took the lead in the first quarter 8-0, and kept the lead throughout the game. Richmond came back in second quarter and made a field goal to make the score at the end of the half 19-2. Both teams picked up in the third quarter and showed faster passwork and added to their score with one free shot, Farmville also getting a field goal to make the score 22-3. By short quick passes and accurate shooting, the Farmville girls added seventeen points to their score to make the final score 39-3.

The line-up is as follows:

Farmville		Richmond Normal
Fraser	LF	Tatum
Bosworth	RF	Waldrop
Ranson	J.C.	Michin
Mattox	S.C.	Burgess
Putney	L.G.	Williams
Gunter	RG	McGruder

Referee—Miss V. Battle (Sarah Lawrence College).

Umpire—Dot Snedegar (S. T. C.)

'Patches' to be Given By the Junior Class

A new and original production will be given by the Junior Class.

The Juniors are working with much zest and enthusiasm and it is rumored that this year's performance will excelled the still talked about "Bettie Lou" which they put over in such a big way last year. It will be the hit of the year. Don't fail to see it—and come prepared to spend a most enjoyable evening.

Girls have a way of going to the infirmary occasionally and coming out with their faces or their hands, or arms patched; the little boy snags his trousers, comes home and "gets himself" patched to go back to school the next day—all of these and millions—literally millions of other patches. But—wait for these patches the Juniors are telling us about—you'll have the surprise of your life. Costumes—choruses, singing, pretty girls and good-looking men!

Miss Grenels To Teach in Fresno

Miss Myrtle Grenels left last week to begin her teaching in Fresno, California, where she has received a position in the State Teachers College there. She will be supervisor of the fifth grade demonstration school in the Fresno S. T. C.

Miss Grenels is an alumna of State Teachers College and was for many years a member of the geography and social science department here.

For the past two years Miss Grenels has been resting at her home in Baltimore, Md. She is a member of the faculty of the University of Maryland for the summer session.

With her wide experience and liberal education, she will prove a success and wil be an asset to any institution of which she is a faculty member. Miss Grenels is not only a graduate of S. T. C., Farmville, but also received her master's degree from George Peabody College for Women.

S. T. C. Negative Defeats R.-M. C.

Friday night, February 3 the S. T. C. debate team defeated Randolph-Macon College of Ashland, Va., in a debate, "Resolved: That Congress Should Adopt a Policy of Tariff for Revenue Only". The affirmative was upheld by Messrs. Myers and Whitehurst of Randolph-Macon and the negative was upheld by Misses Margaret Hix and Carrie DeShazo of Farmville. Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Holton, Jr., and Mr. J. C. Latimer of Farmville, accompanied the debaters. Mr. Holton is Farmville's debate coach.

While in Ashland the debaters were entertained by the local chapter of Tau Kappa Alpha in the Henry Clay Inn. Before the debate the girls were entertained at dinner and a musical program. After this the debate was held in the historic Washington Literary Society Hall at Ashland. Mr. Redd, a Richmond lawyer, acted as a critic judge.

The dual debates on this night at Farmville and Ashland opened S. T. C.'s debating season. These debates are sponsored by Pi Kappa Delta, a national forensic fraternity. This organization has sponsored many dedebates at S. T. C. and has enjoyed unusual success. Farmville has won about 85 percent of all debates entered within the last four years.

Farmville has a full debate schedule this year. At least seven more debates are scheduled for this year. Besides the question debated Friday, the "Cancellation of War Debts" question will be debated in the future. Many of these debates will be here while some are in other colleges.

Mathematics Club Holds Meeting

The Mathematics Club held its regular meeting Thursday night, February 2. A very interesting as well as educational program on algebriac equation was given.

Dorothy Snedegar discussed linear equations. She described the problem given in the Papyrus written by the Eyptian, Ahmes about 1650 B. C. and explained the solution by the method of "False Position."

The quadratic equation followed. Frances Horton gave an illustration of a problem written in syncopated style taken from the work of the Greek Diophantus. Mildred Shelton gave the 'Hindu Method" of completing the square and also a "Greek geometric method of completing the square."

Winifred Pugh described the Mathematics Contest in the 16th century

COLLEGE CHOIR GIVES FIRST CONCERT

The first annual concert presented by the College Choir will take place Thursday evening, February 16 in the auditorium. This concert promises to be the finest program ever presented by any choral group and one that should appeal to all students and faculty. The visiting artists are Mr. Wilson Angel, national Atwater-Kent winner of 1932, Mr. Joseph Whittemore, well-known tenor and the Hampden-Sydney Glee Club. Beautiful invitations are being sent to friends in all parts of the state.

Much interest is being shown in the concert.

MISS OLIVE T. ILER

Miss Iler has been an honorary member of the Senior Class since it entered S. T. C. in '29.

S. T. C. May Court Nominations Made

Election Held for May Queen and Robin Hood to be Presented this Spring

PRESENTATION SATURDAY

At the student body meeting on February 6, nominations were made for the May Queen, Robin Hood, and the May Court. Helen Cover and Jenilee Knight received the majority of nominations for the May Queen, while those nominated for Robin Hood were Mary Shelton, Dot Snedegar, and Honey Hamilton.

The election of the Queen and Robin Hood was held on Tuesday. Those girls having the highest number of votes will receive the two places of highest honor, while the girls having second highest number will be maid-of-honor and attendant respectively. The outcome of the election will not be made public until Saturday night at Sing. At this time the Quen and Robin Hood, together with the nominees for the court will be presented to the student body. After due inspection by the students, votes will be taken for the eight girls who will make up the May Court.

This year May Day is being worked out on a new plan. It is based upon the colorful legend of Robin Hood and Maid Marian and there will be two places of high honor. The May Queen, who will be Maid Marian, and Robin Hood will share equal honors at the head of their court.

DR. JARMAN SINGS AT CHAPEL HOUR

Responding to requests following his recital Wednesday night Dr. Jarman sang two selections Thursday morning in chapel for the student body, "Invictus" and "Keep On Hopin'," the selections given has become favorites with all.

President Jarman's Recital Proves Brilliant Success Wednesday Night

College Proud of President Who Displayed Such Artistic Ability

Of more than ordinary interest was the recital given by President J. L. Jarman in the college auditorium on Wednesday evening, February 1.

Few, if any of the colleges of the country can boast a president outstanding in leadership and executive ability who yet has the time (and talent) for the beautiful and artistic things of life.

One great educator is recalled who finds in music one of the great pleasures of his life; however, we doubt if Dean Phelps of Yale has ever given a formal recital, as singer or instrumentalist.

The program rendered by Dr. Jarman was worked up under the direction of Mr. Alfred H. Strick, Head of our Department of Music, and Mr. Strick acted as his accompanist.

The choice of the songs (ten in number) while wide in range and artistic, was such that each one could be appreciated and enjoyed by every member of the student body.

Interpretation, diction and a fine presence are three of the important

Mardi Gras Plans Are Progressing

The Mardi Gras to be sponsored by Pi Gamma Mu on February 28 in the gymnasium of S. T. C., if supported by the town and college will, as the years pass, become one of the most attractive features on the college calendar. The custom of having an annual Mardi Gras is an old one in New Orleans and is one of the most beautiful occasions of the year.

A committee composed of faculty members will nominate five girls from the college as candidates for queen of the ball. The queen will then be elected by vote of the entire student body.

The queen is to be a representative S. T. C. student. She not only will be beautiful but also possess such characteristics as leadership, dependability and resourcefulness. Vote for your choice for queen when the time is set.

As yet, it is undecided as to whether or not there will be a king in the court as well as a queen. The queen may be asked to chose her king either from her acquaintances elsewhere or a girl at S. T. C. may be chosen.

The ball will begin at the stroke of eight o'clock and continue until eleven o'clock. Soft lights, brilliant costumes and peppy music; the mystic spell from the wand of the beautiful queen hovering over all! Who can afford to miss it? Everyone is invited!

S. T. C. Affirmative Defeats R.-M. C.

Though Friday night was the first time the debate teams of S. T .C. had the opportunity to debate the opposite sex of Randolph-Macon College, Martha Gunter and "Honey" Hamilton of the affirmative proved that there was no inferiority of the weaker sex when it comes to debating.

Winston Cobb, chairman, stated the question for debate as follows: "Resolved, That the United States Should Adopt the Policy of Tariff for Revenue Only."

According to the judge, Dr. Allen of Hampden-Sydney, the two teams excellent arguments. In giving his deupheld their side of the question with cision Dr. Allen pointed out the essentials of a good debate, then compared and contrasted each argument with the essentials. In this way he made known to the audience the superior and inferior elements of each. eH found that the two sides balanced He found that the two sides balanced point upset the balance and gave the victory to the affirmative side.

VIRGINIAN PROOF SENT TO PUBLISHERS

With February 15 set as the "deadline" for the completion of the work on the annual, the staff has sent about half of the proof to the publishers! The work on the latter half is rapidly taking shape and will be ready to be sent at the appointed time.

Subscriptions, however, are lagging. Little more than half of the necessary three hundred have been obtained. It will be impossible to print the year book unless the student body supports it by subscribing to it. Set the buying of an annual as your goal and subscribe by February 15.

College High Wins From Blackstone

Justifying the yells of the spectators in the basketball game College High defeated Blackstone on February 3. College High was slow getting started in the first half. At the end of the first half the score was 16 to 8 in favor of Blackstone. Coming back with renewed vim C. H. S. showed their true skill and speed in the last half. The Blackstone girls excelled C. H. S. in the first half and kept up their good work in the second half, but College High out-played them. The game ended with the score 19 to 20.

The line-up was as follows:

Matherly	RF	Inge
Hudgins	LF	Nash
Andrews	JC	Chambers
Newman	SC	Hite
Burger	RG	Browning
Roberts	L. G.	Irby

Substitutes: C. H. S.—Matherly for Andrews, Catherine Irby for Matherly, Andrews for Newman. Blackstone—Johnson for Irby. t

College Choir Gives Its First Concert

Under the direction of Mr. Alfred H. Strick, the College Choir will broadcast from station WRVA in Richmond on Friday night, Feb. 10, at 8:30. The program will consist of a half hour of musical selections sung by the choir and the quartette. Several solos will be featured. The choir will sing two chorals by Bach, and other classical numbers.

Frances Potts, business manager of the choir, who has had charge of obtaining cars for the trip, has performed a herculean task and has got enough cars to convey all the members to Richmond.

This is the second broadcast which this section of the music department has made. Last year, under the name of Senior Choral Club, a broadcast much of the same type was given. It is hoped that this year's broadcast will be received with as much enthusiam and will be as well liked as the former one. The College has sent out 4500 post cards to alumnae informing them of the broadcast and advising them to listen in.

SENIOR SENTIMENTS

With only four months remaining of the thirty-six that make up a college career, another Senior Class is experiencing mingled feeling of joy and regret. To us it is almost impossible to think of Farmville without our class, just as it seemed impossible to the Class of '32 and will seem to the class of '34.

We think of time before we came here as mere space and time after we leave, an unknown quantity. Slowly there comes the realization that the school will go on very much the same next year except that there will be advances over what we have done, as we hope we have advanced beyond the work of classes who have gone before us.

This we know: that our four years here have definitely added to our own personalities. Our lives have been influenced by an undefinable spirit that makes us see visions around the college. Perhaps it is what we call "school spirit" for want of a better word. Not the spirit that manifests itself in yelling and singing alone, but a deeper calmer spirit that makes us grateful to those who have shown us how to live a richer, fuller life; the spirit that makes eyes glisten, throats catch and causes a little tug at the heart as we look across the campus on a sunny morning; the spirit that makes us to see visions and dreams as we look down the colonnade at a youthful, feminine figure in bronze, the likeness of a dreamer immortalized for her vision.

WE CAN

Each organization in school has been invited and is expected to participate in the morning program on Founder's Day at which time contributions are made. Only through the participation, cooperation, and effort of every organization on campus can this program be made a success.

Upon each organization is the individual responsibility of making the largest possible contribution on Founders Day. Thus far, organizations have responded liberally and the debt on the Student Building has been gradually decreased. The trust is ours now. We cannot fail—regardless of the depression.

Let us have one hundred percent participation in Founder's Day program, and make the financial side of it go over the top.

STEPPING OUT OF CHARACTER

Most of us like to step out of character now and then and play another's role. The gentlest bred boy enjoys wearing the boots and red bandana of a Captain Kidd and the roughest tom-boy girl who can hold her own in any backyard as likely as not dotes on lifting a monocle to her eyes and playing the role of Lady.

This tendency continues to adult life and often warps the personality of the person on whom it rests. Wouldn't it be wise to leave this imitating as a pastime of childhood and just be ourselves when we reach adult life? The popular girl or boy is one who is natural and unassuming. We all want to be liked; study to be yourself.—The Breeze.

EXTRACTS FROM 1929-'30 GOVERNMENT MINUTES

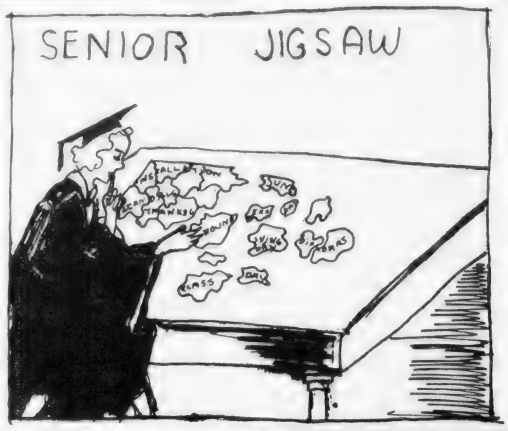
"Winston Cobb was called to the Council room and asked to explain the fact that her light was on nearly every night until nearly 11:00 o'clock. She stated that she studied every minute of the day but could not finish her lessons until that time. Her excuse was considered feeble, and she was put on campus for two weeks."

"Dorothy Snedegar was called before the Council and severely criticized for appearing on the gym floor for basketball practice with anklets on. She promised never to do it again and was dismissed.

"The President asked the Council to be particularly nice to Jenilee Knight and try to help her overcome her extreme case of inferiority complex."

"The Council felt that Alice Moore was seriously impairing her health by not coming to meals, so asked her to report at the head table at each meal for a month, or longer, if her health did not improve."

"Gay Richardson was sent to study hall for three weeks for loitering on the halls during study hour and neglecting her work."



"Frances Parker and Katherine Royster were seen on the halls about 10:45 on Saturday night. When questioned, they said they had been over in Miss Craddock's class room practicing locker writing on the blackboard and were so engrossed in it that they did not realize it was after 10:30."

"Mary Winston was called to the Council room for tap dancing in the room over Mrs. Laing for an hour before breakfast every morning. She was asked not to get up until the 7:15 bell rang.

"The Library asked that we do something about Josie Spenser's monopolizing all the books in the library, and keeping at least one girl busy all of the time. She was asked to go to the library only for two hours each day."

"Carrie DeShazo was asked to refrain from her vocal refrains in her room, since they reverberated over the entire building."

Mary Custis Burwell was called to the Council room and impressed with the seriousness of her actions on

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

As this is the last issue of the Rotunda which the Class of '33 will publish, it seems fitting that here we should express our appreciation and gratitude to the faculty and administration in general, for the enlightenment and help which they have given us during our four years.

Of course there have been times when we have railed against our profs and the administration; times when we have revolted at tests and assignments which have seemed to us unfair; times when we have come to the conclusion that many profs were not "up" on their subjects, and were not teaching us what they should. Then too, many times the administration has laid down rules which have seemed to us to be childish, immature, and entirely unnecessary; it has prevented us from having many a harmless lark by too rigid instructions.

But, by taking all in all, we see that we have profited by our experiences here, and by our contacts with teachers and the other departments of the school. We realize that not only have our lives been enriched and permanently colored by the knowledge which we have imbibed but also by personalities of our instructors. We recognize too, that the regulations, social and academic, have not been to our detriment, but have given us a regard for rules and law which will aid us when we are out of school.

So it is with sincere hearts that we say, "Thanks to the faculty and to the administration."

A Senior

Sunday afternoon, when she knocked Alice Moore unconscious in a pollow fight. She was made to see her cowardly act in combating a weaker person."

"Anne Johnson was asked to exercise more self-control over her class spirit, and, as Freshman Class President, to try to hold the Freshmen on Library Hall and Tacky Alley down a little."

At Wittonberg University three blonde co-eds debated with three dark-haired girls on the subject that brunettes were more intelligent than blondes. The brunettes won, proving their point—Swarthmore Phoenix.

SNOW

The snow comes on softly padded feet
It turns earth
into a veritable fairyland
And then touched
by the sun's warm rays
slowly disappears.

A WINTER NIGHT

The cold crisp wind
Brings to my cheeks
A tint from some forgotten rose.
I trample underfoot
A carpet of softest white,
And breath a freshness
From the world about me,
As I watch a crescent moon
Glide across a sky of midnight blue
Set with clearest crystals.

PHILOSOPHY

Life
Is a tenement house!
Dark, drab, raucous,
Steeped in shadowy sordidness,
With men and women fighting.

Life
Glows like a king's jewel!
Bright, sparkling, flawless,
Bathed in a white light—
To men and women giving joy.

DUSK TO DAWN

Dusk settled over the valley.
One by one the stars appeared.
Across the miles the lights of the city glimmered
Bright lights, never hated,
Always to be endeared.

How beautiful the country at night!
And still the darkness deepened.
In the East appeared a light
And the golden moon had risen.

Far away a dog once howled,
A faithful dog watching the sheep.
The hours passed, a cock crowed,
The rosy sun o'er the hil had peeped.
Another day has come,
A day of promise.
Youth of the world awaken
It's yours before its course is run.

V. H., '33

PHILOSOPHY

Did you ever wish for a ship at sea
That would take you there,
Where you longed to be;
To a land of sunshine
And pleasure true,
To a land where the sky
Is always blue?

Did you ever wish for a friend who'd be
All that a friend is supposed to be
A friend who would clasp your hand at sight,
In either the dark or the dear sunlight?
'Tis pleasant to wish for
A ship at sea
But a friend is the better
It seems to me.

V. H., '33

There's a moan in the wind
As it hurls through the leaves
That thrills me and fills me
With a raging restlessness.
For it tells of stars to grasp,
Bright and beckoning,
Of hills lying open to climb—
Of oceans to sail without reckoning.

But I sit here!
Idle, idle, always thus I sit,
With nothing moving but a raging mind.
And the wind moans on—
But—
I sit here.

Lines Written on Hearing Dr. Jarman's Recital:

Those melodies of song
Thrill the soul,
And lift
One to loftier heights;
Out of the humdrum silly world
Into the realms of beauty, joy and appreciation.

PARTIES

Political parties and their leaders as never before realize the condition of their countries. They are practicing as never before the great words of Lincoln "United we stand; divided we fall.'" It is with peculiar interest the public has watched the developments and relationships between President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt. Mr. Hoover by co-operating with the incoming president has received a better estimation from the people. He has relied on Norman H. Davis, a democrat who has been in sympathy with Hoover's foreign policy.

This is not only been true in United States but also in European countries. During McDonald's election in England he forsook his party and appealed to his countrymen to stand with him for England.

Germany and Ireland are wrestling with the same thing now. President Von Hindenburg of Germany is trying to force Hitler to have members of other parties in his cabinet. De Valera in Ireland is trying to unite the northern part of Ireland with the rest of Ireland.

We might apply this policy here in college. We have parties in school who "politic" for certain other groups. Without parties and organizations very little could be accomplished. Some one has said, "If you ever amount to anything, you must be identified with some organization." Let us identify ourselves with some party or organization, unite the parties and stand as one for our Alma Mater.

Jordan took place Saturday evening, Feb. 4, at 8 o'clock in the Galilee Church at Virginia Beach. Mrs. William H. Hemingway was her sister's matron-of-honor and Mr. Arthur Jordan was his brother's best man.

Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Worden of Dover, Del., are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son, Friday, January 27. Mrs. Worden was formerly Victoria Vaden.

Miss Pauline Williamson, former Richmond primary supervisor, who has since became an internationally known education and health expert visited Virginia recently. In speaking to pupils of the Richmond and Armstrong Normals said that Richmonders did not realize the high esteem in which their schools are held abroad. People coming to the United States visit Richmond for the purpose of going through the school system.

Miss Williamson is co-author with Dr. C. A. Winslow of Yale of the textbook, "Laws of eHalth and How To Teach Them."

Participants at a recent Teachers Meeting in Richmond were Ariana Amonette, Florence Ingram and Miss Etta Rose Bailey.

Y. W. C. A. NEWS

Friday night, February 3, Mr. Redhead brought to a close his series of six short lectures on the Bible, "How It Came To Be", "How It Was Handed Down to Us" and "The Interpretation." These lectures proved helpful and instructive.

The Y. W. Cabinet will hold on open meeting Wednesday, Feb. 15 at 5 o'clock in the Y. W. Lounge. Dr. Walmsley will lead in a discussion group.

Sing Saturday night brought back the good old days in the little red school house. Meg Herndon played the role of the school marm with a room full of naughty and lively children. And such bright pupils in reading and 'riting and 'rithmetic.

And how they could dance and sing!

What school room would be complete without a sissy pet! We'll hand it to Dot Davis for being a good one. Even though the pupils liked going to school they were glad when the teacher let them go early because they had been so good.

Marion: "To keep them warm."

Betsy: "Don't you love driving on a moonlight night like this?"
Dooley: "Yeah, but I thought I'd wait until we got further out in the country."

Little Daughter: "Why is father singing so much tonight?"
Mother: "He's trying to sing the baby to sleep."
L. Daughter "Well, if I were the baby, I'd pretend I was asleep."

"Keep the change," replied the old lady as she slipped the bum a new suit of underwear.

Second Father: "I said that he followed the medical profession."

NATURE IN THE RAW IS SELDOM MILD

One of the biggest moments in our respective careers at S .T. C. occurred Thursday night when the faculty went native. Did we laugh when Mr. Holton and Dr. Wynne held the crowd spellbound by their spectacular plays after their numerous sermons about not letting athletes shine. We are no doubt supposed to conclude that you just can't keep a good man down. Let it never be thought that the game wasn't enjoyed in spite of its pathetic moments. We appreciate the good sportsmanship of all—but for All American we nominate Miss Iler and Dr. Walmsley.

The cheering section deserves much praise, especially Miss Tucker's portrayal of a typical S. T. C. girl. Hotcha! Miss Mamie Nichols was her same sweet self! Although suspenders would be in order for the next performance of this sort, let it never be said that the evening lacked its educational moments—untold light was thrown on Darwin's theory.

CLASS OF '33 IN '43

"My, what a grand reunion! It seems like only a day, instead of ten years, since I last saw all these fine faces crossing the stage, with degrees in hand! The class of '33 is really back in full force, but then who would ever doubt that this group would not put any thing, even a reunion, over big?

"My memory fails me. Who is this striking looking creature fairly pulling the little child? Why, its Zell Ware with little Zell! At second glance I see the child favors her mother with her black hair and solitary curl!

"Look! Here comes Martha Gunter with a stack of papers! She must have got that position as editor of Ballyhoo!

"Who is this? Why Dot Snedegar with a basketball, a baseball bat, a hockey stick, and her tennis racquet! Poor Dot thinks it is ten years ago. There is no tennis match today!

And who is that following Dot? Why, it's Hildegarde, taping her way back to S. T. C. One can see at sight "Hildie" is not as young as she used to be!

While these were quietly chattering in the corner, I heard these familiar words: "Where is my notebook? Where are my glasses?" Without turning I knew it was Gathright. "Gathy" is the first woman to become President of the United States. Her last two years have been successful, and if the notebook is found, the next two will be even more so.

"I turned to see to whom she was speaking. It is Mrs. Gillespie. She is as stunning as ever. Married life certainly favors Janey. She used to be ahead of seven hundred and fifty, now is the head of only one—poor Al!

"'Tootsie' Marchant, can I believe it? Who is that fellow with the spats and monocle? Prince Angus? Ah! yes, Tootsie has traveled all the way from her castle in England to be with us today. She has forgot her old sandwich days!

"Here comes ole Moomaw. Imagine, coming to a banquet in gym bloomers! But Moomy is now president of the Olympic association, and she believes in advertising her business!

"From one of the largest hot dog stands on the way down, Alice picked up Doris Lane, Cora Lee Briggs, Margaret Bell and Cornelia Watts. These have brought their own lunch with them. I see, they still don't trust that school food!

The old class is really back, but what a difference ten years makes. eHre comes Mary Custis, with face lined and hair streaked. She has been teaching for many a day in "them hills in Floyd." Poor Custis, she lost "Mooch", and for ten years has been trying to find him.

Who is the charming young lady on her right. She resembles Zazu Pitts, but what would Zazu be doing here? No! It's Thornhill. She has been in Hollywood for the past five years. She barely speaks. She has gone "Hollywood" at last! And dear Janet Harris, on the left, is dressed wholly in black—for now she is a widow—grass?

"Well, I do declare, who is this ritzy person strutting in the door? Imagine coming to a banquet being actually pulled by a Russian wolfhound! I don't recognize the face. It must be lifted! But when she spoke with these words, "Is this the Reunion Hall?' I recognized the fine voice of Frances Coleman. I really don't mind, because she has recently moved Culpeper to her pent house on Park Avenue.

And here comes the famous contract bridge trio. They have just completed their 49th bridge tournament. As they come closer, I see it is none other than 'Empty' Rawls, Margaret Hix, and Margaret Jack.

"And here comes Helen Cover with her apron over her arm. She is now head of the home economics department in Jetersville. Helen has bobbed her hair and curled her eyelashes. She certainly looks different.

For goodness sakes, behind Helen, I see Margaret Brown. Anyone can plainly see that Margaret is ready for the food. She has finally accomplished platinuming her hair, and oh! what a gorgeous widow's peak! She is raving about her latest picture. She co-starred with Mickey Mouse in "You Just Can't Get By With It!'

"Am I seeing right? It is Kitty Waters! She has just parked the same blue coupe. Why, Harold, aren't you doing so well?

GAME SCHEDULED FOR FOUNDER'S DAY

A game has been scheduled with Blackstone to be played here, Founder's Day, at 4:00. This is the first time we have ever met Blackstone in basketball, but it promises to be a good game. Blackstone had a good team. It defeated Harrisonburg last year. Come out on Founder's Day and support the Blue and White.

S. T. C. TO PLAY SWEET BRIAR COLLEGE

The varsity basketball team will journey to Sweet Briar College Saturday, February 11 to meet the Sweet Briar team. It has always been such a pleasure to go to Sweet Briar and some of the girls remember the fine time they had there last fall, so they are looking forward to the trip.

Accompanied by Mis sIler, twelve selected girls will make the trip, leaving at chapel time. Come out and give them a big send-off!

The Japanese threat to withdraw from the League of Nations and have nothing further to do with western powers, comes a little late. She is already the "Great Wallflower".—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

A Kansas City man says that the first time he ever heard the word "Technocracy" he thought the speaker was imitating Amos 'n Andy. And he still isn't sure whether he was mistaken about it.—Kansas City Star.

"Winston Cobb and Rachel McDaniel have just returned from Africa where they have done extensive missionary work. Winston I hear, tried to teach the cannibals to apply their knowledge, while Rachel did her best to teach them a cannibal dance.

"Laurie Boush and 'Thee Beacham have taken Aimee McPherson's and Dilly Sunday's place in the evangelistic world.

Lois Rhodes and Hattie Gilliam have prospered greatly. They are now head of the 'Secret Service Department' in Scotland Yard.

Madge Blalock and Lucille Crute look utterly worn out from their extensive journey from Baskerville!

I turned my head and saw Anna Knox loking for Henny Penny Tayler. She is even more quaint than of old, with her hair on the top of her head. She finds Henry who is now treasurer of the S. T. C. Alumni Association, and doing fine, I hear! They are both old maids. They tried all their charms and failed.

"Here comes Sarah James singing as she does in the Metropolitan Opera House. Trying to calm her is Lillian Womack. She looks very domestic, as she is now keeping house in Keysville.

Last but not least, comes our pride, Miss Iler, our classman, in the good ole days.

"Everyone is here. No one is missing! Ah! It is Miss Grubb, due to a conflicting class at Columbia, she could not make it.

"Our meeting is complete and everybody looks happy and expective. I wonder why? But at the sound of food, I know, because the class rushed to the table. A few were knocked down and carried to the infirmary. Among those hurt were Ruth Ford, Frances Ratcliffe, and Duvahl Ridgway.

"The meeting goes on; everyone is talking at once. Everyone is happy to be back. Everyone is proud to be an alumna of the rare, green and white, class of 1933."

A. A. SUPPER HELD AT LONGWOOD CABIN

The Athletic Association sponsored a picnic supper for the varsity basketball squad at Longwood cabin, Saturday, February 4. About 4:30 p. m. twenty girls, Miss Iler and Miss Hatchett started from the Rotunda, wading through snow toward Longwood. Snowballs flew hard and fast on the way, with a few minor injuries noted. Miss Iler and Miss Hatchett, coming in for a big share in the battle, retaliated with much spirit. A truce was called on reaching the cabin. The shivering mob tramped inside to be greeted by an open fire. The broad fireplace served well in its capacity of a stove, and the hot supper was enjoyed immensely.

Games were played until dark when everybody dragged on galoshes and started back to school. The snow battle was continued until S. T. C. was reached and the girls had to give up to utter exhaustion.

This supper which was planned on the spur of the moment when the Richmond Normal basketball game was postponed on account of snow, served as a delightful substitute for the scheduled game.

DR. JARMAN GIVES BRILLIANT RECITAL

things that may be listed to the credit with our president. With these assets any program is usually a success.

Opening with a quiet number, Dr. Jarman developed his program to a point of inspiration: "Invictus". No less a favorite was "Tommy Lad" which had a distinct appeal to the audience and was sung with warmth and fervor.

The recital had in it a professional flavor that justified the interest of every student in the college and it is believed that when this singer of ours gives his next recital, the "Standing room" sign will be taken from its dusty corner and proudly placed on the doors of the auditorium.

Between the parts of Dr. Jarman's program, by request, Mr. Strick played two movements from his own sonata "A Symphonic Poem". A genuine artist, wonderful both in his interpretation and execution. Mr. Strick held his audience throughout the number. As an encore, he played "Danny Boy."

The college is proud of the possession of two real musicians—one vocal and the other instrumental: a combination which gives pleasure to all who hear their performances.

Student Body Elects May Court At Sing On Last Saturday Night

Helen Cover, Queen; Mary Shelton, Robin Hood; Jenilee Knight and Dot Snedegar Attendants

Monday night, February 6, at the student body meeting the qualifications for Maid Marion, Robin Hood The and the court were enumerated. The election of the May Queen and Robin Hood was held on Tuesday, but the result was not announced until Saturday night at sing.

Before the curtains parted, Alice McKay announced that Helen Cover had been elected for Maid Marion with Jenilee Knight as her attendant, and Mary Shelton had been chosen for Robin Hood with Dot Snedegar as her attendant.

After this announcement, the curtains were opened. The twenty-five girls who had been nominated by the student body to run for the May Court were on the stage. As their names were called, the girls walked forward and formed across the stage in front of the curtain. They remained there for a few minutes and then, the curtains reopened, they walked back to their places. As they did this the spectators voted for twelve of them.

Those girls who were elected were:

Jane Royall, Tazewell
Ruth Ford, Lynchburg
Lillian Womack, Keysville
Margaret Gathright, Richmond
Honey Hamilton, Petersburg
Margaret Parker, Suffolk.
Nancy Harrison, Petersburg
Dot Legare, Lynchburg
Frances Dorin, Richmond
Celia Jones, Lynchburg
Nancy Burgwyn, Richmond
Doris Eley, Norfolk.

Practices for May Day will be started soon.

S. T. C. To Play Harrisonb'g Here

Everybody is excited and enthusiastic over the basketball game that will be played here Friday night at 7:30 with Harrisonburg. It is predicted that this will probably be the greatest combat of the season.

Miss Iler and the basketball team are working together in order to get in the best and fastest passwork possible. We are sure that their goal will be reached if the student body—which means each one of us—gives them its heartiest suport!

All of the old girls realize what the winning of this game will mean to the students, the faculty, and most of all, the team because last year Harrisonburg gave us our only defeat of the season.

Let's give our team all of the encouragement that is due it, and without a doubt, we'll come out on top.

COLLEGE HIGH DEFEATS PETERSBURG HIGH

College High defeated Petersburg, Wednesday, Feb. 8, 27 to 19. C. H. S. entered the game with vim and showed true skill and speed throughout the game. The Petersburg High put up a good fight but College High outplayed them.

The line-up was as follows:

Farmville		Petersburg
Hudgins	F	Gilliam
Irby	F	McDuermat
Matherly	J.C.	Van Landington
Newman	SC	Rosenstock
Roberts	G	Harlowe

S. T. C. Debaters Again Winners

Thursday night, February 9 Carrie DeShazo and Margaret Hix added one more victory to their former ones. As the negative team, they defeated Messrs. Lynn and Hiller of Lynchburg College on the question, "Resolved: That Congress Should Adopt a Policy of Tariff for Revenue Only." The judges were Mr. Johnson, editor of a Lynchburg newspaper, Mr. Patterson, of the Patterson Drug Co., and Dr. Scott , professor of Religion at R. M. W. C. Their decision was 2-1 in favor of the negative.

Soon after the debaters arrived, they were taken to dinner in the main dining room. A loud burst of applause greeted them, much to their embarrassment, as they entered the door. After the dinner, they rested until time for the debate, which was attended by a fairly good crowd.

Much entertaining was done while the girls were there. A reception was held in their honor, and they were also entertained by the local chapter of the national fraternity of Tau Kappa Alpha.

"Patches" To Be Presented Feb. 24

Everyone is asking about "Patches" and trying to find out what it is going to be, but it seems impossible, No Junior will disclose the secret. They only say that it is going to be far too good to miss.

It is known that Patches is a musical production. It is full of music, slow and fast. The dancing will equal that of professionals. The Juniors are stressing the idea of costumes which will really be original ones.

The production under the leadership of Miss Potts, Margaret Eley and Mary Shelton began practicing about ten days ago. Every Junior is confident that "Patches" will be the best musical production ever put on before an audience at S. T. C.

Everyone remembers "Betty Lou" which was presented by the Sophomores last year. That was proclaimed as one of the best class productions ever given here.

"Patches" is wholly original, even more so than anything seen in "Betty Lou". The secret of the name "Patches" will be revealed Friday night, February 24 at 8 o'clock.

TAG DAY HELD BY FRESHMAN CLASS

Yesterday Tag Day was held by the Freshman Class, Red hearts were sold at the table in the hall and by girls through school. Mary Virginia Johnson and Jessie Lee Swisher were in charge of making and selling the tags.

As a climax to a very successful day for the Freshmen, there was a valentine party for them last night in the rec at 10 o'clock. It was a gay affair with everyone wearing pajamas. The excellent freshman orchestra, which furnished the music was organized by Billie Rountree and under the direction of Lula Wilkinson. Those in charge of the arrangements for the entertainment and refreshments were Sallie Perrow, Billie Rountree, Elizabeth Billups, Susie Webb, and Florence Rainey.

Pi Gamma Mu Completes Plans For Mardi Gras

Queen To Be Presented With Pomp and Ceremony the Night of the Ball

Plans for the Mardi Gras which will be held in the S. T. C. gymnasium on the night of February 28 are being completed. The queen has been chosen by the student body but no one will know who she is until the night of the ball when she is to be crowned queen of the Mardi Gras festival and with the king reign supreme during the evening. The king is to be chosen by the queen. Of course he will meet all of the requirements of a king—be tall, handsome, brave, and true besides being a typical college lad.

After the coronation, the king and queen will lead the figure of the evening which will gradually break into the ball room dancing. This will continue until the stroke of eleven. Prizes are being awarded for most original costume, the prettiest costume, and the cutest couple in costume so be thinking about your costime before it is too late. A good orchestra is going to furnish the music, perhaps the one from Hampden-Sydney, who knows?

If you tire of dancing, you may retreat to one of the corners and have your fortune told. Everyone likes to know what the future holds for them. Then, there will be eats and drinks for those who are hungry and thirsty.

No one can afford to miss the Mardi Gras ball. Plan now to come and make it one of the biggest events of the year.

Farmville Defeats Sweet Briar, 28-10

Farmville's basketball team defeated Sweet Briar's Saturday afternoon 28-10. From the beginning Farmville had the upper hand of Sweet Briar.

The passwork of Farmville was something to dream about, being of the fast follow-through variety. Sweet Briar fought gamely, but slowed up on the pass too much to make it successful.

The first quarter was a walk-away for Farmville and Sweet Briar scored only one goal on a foul shot. The second quarter was gain in Farmville's favor, and the half ended 18-4. During the third quarter Farmville ran in a number of substitutes and the playing was a bit tight, each team scoring two point. The last quarter again ran the Farmville way. Sweet Briar failed to score on several good chances but in no point of the game did they equal the magnificent playing of Farmville.

Valentine Bazaar Creates Interest

The annual French-Spanish bazaar was held in Miss Coulling's art room on Tuesday, February 14. The room was divided into two equal parts, France and Spain, separated by the Pyrenees Mountains — pine trees. France was decorated with red, white and blue crepe paper, and Spain was decorated in red and orange. The girls studying French, who were not in costume wore the red liberty caps of the French Revolution.

As one entered the countries, either France or Spain, he naturally changed his American money into the money of the country through which he was traveling. En route he often stopped to admire the peasant costumes of different provinces. While he was in Paris he enjoyed drinking chocolate and eating dainty French pastries from the tables along the sidewalks of the Rue de la Paix.

The traveler, while he was he was going through Spain, had the good fortune to hear a lovely Spanish solo. When he was in Avignon, he

The College Choir Sings Over WRVA

On Friday, February 10 the College Choir, assisted by Dr. Jarman and Mrs. C. B. Beck presented a program over WRVA. The outstanding number of the program was Dr. Jarman's singing of "A Perfect Day" and "Keep on Hopin' " to the alumnae who were listening in all over the land. Many messages have been received from alumnae who stated that Dr. Jarman's songs and 'Alma Mater' revived beautiful memories of their college days.

The Rotunda invites letters of comment, criticism, and suggestion from its readers upon its manner of presenting and treating them. A letter, to receive consideration, must contain the name and address of the writer. These will not be published if the writer objects to the publication.

All matters of business should be addressed to the Business Manager and all other matters should come to the Editor-in-Chief. Complaints from subscribers as regards irregularities in the delivery of The Rotunda will be appreciated.

The Rotunda takes pleasure in quoting the following editorial from the Farmville Herald:

AMONG OTHER THINGS HE LEADS IN MUSIC

It is always inspiring to see men who do things, men who pit their energies, ability and enthusiasm against tasks and win. In this we know of no man in this community who has accomplished more than Dr. J. L. Jarman. His vision developed the State Teachers College to the leading institution of its kind in the south; his leadership made the Weyanoke Hotel from a dream to a reality, and the Southside Community Hospital is a product of his ability and determination. Even with all of this leadership in community endeavors, he has found time for the cultivation of the cultural side of community life and more especially has he played a leading role in the sphere of music.

Wherever there has been music in the community life, in the midst of it could be found Dr. Jarman. Director of the church choir, song leader at the Lions Club meetings, local chairman of Chautauqua, he has contributed to the cultural and musical development of this community, both by his individual ability and by presenting artists, in concerts. Possessing a baritone voice of unusual charm, he captivates his audiences.

Dr. Jarman gave a recital Wednesday at the College to which hundreds of music lovers were attracted, and the Herald takes this occasion to pay this small tribute to the service Dr. Jarman is rendering his community not only in its material development, but also in its cultural expansion.

COOPERATION

Once again "cooperation" comes to the fore as the all-important word at S. T. C. May Day practices will soon begin and it is in carrying out the plans in these practices for May Day that cooperation is of the greatest importance. Everyone who is called upon to help must feel her individual responsibility, and must be willing to do her part at all times. The May Day Committee has worked long and hard in arranging a program for May Day. No more beautiful theme could have been chosen. Now it is up to the student body to make May Day the distinct success which such a lovely theme merits.

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

Exemption from examinations is being practiced in quite a number of our colleges today and it seems to me that it might be practiced profitably here.

Most of us, we must admit, save the major part of our studying until the night before exams and naturally are unable to retain the greater part of the term's work due to this rushed studying. Exemption would do away with such examining.

If all students whose work for the term averaged a B were exempt, we would have more incentive to study all during the quarter. It is not those students who have the high averages who need the examination anyway, but those about whom there is doubt of their passing. In case there are persons who are not satisfied with a B they could be allowed to take the exam if they wished.

Such a plan would not only be helpful to the student body but it would also relieve our faculty of quite a bit of work.

A Junior

A TECHNOCRAT SUGGESTS IMPROVEMENTS AT S. T. C.

Furnish rooms artistically with pictures, bedspreads, curtains and radios.

Offer courses in style, allurement, and sophistication.

Let the town entertain the college instead of the college entertaining the town with such performances as May Day, the Circus, Class Performances, etc.

Give each students unlimited cuts to relieve Miss Mary of so much work.

Have personal maid service so the students may put more time on diversions.

Stretch the walls of the rooms on Gym Hall.

Provide elevator service in all the buildings to save the wear and tear on expensive (49c) hosiery.

Install laundry chutes and subways to the Senior Building.

Place chaise-lounges in all class rooms so the students will not be tempted to such unladylike behavior as propping their feet on the desks.

Arrange automobile service to Richmond and for nightriders.

Furnish dates to every girl and an abundance of parlors.

Found another boys college to put a little zest in Hampden-Sydney.

Serve coursed meals in the dining room (trays sent to the girls' room on request.)

Give dances at school every weekend making the students satisfied with their own Alma Mater.

Enlarge the campus to within ten miles around Farmville taking in Hampden-Sydney and other places of interest to the student.

Provide for week-ends beginning Thursday and ending Tuesday giving students Wednesday to prepare for the next week-end and to do trifling scholastic duties.

Offer free movie premiers in Farmville on at least six nights a week.

Take out Student Council and replace it with a program committee to keep each girl entertained during her long, difficult stay a college.

Give no exams or tests. Get each teacher to give a complete explanation of the course at the end of each term.

Require all teachers to take a course in "How to Be More Entertaining (professors suggested are Eddie Cantor, Gracie Allen and the Marx Brothers).

Require for entrance—A life insurance policy large enough to take care of expenses.

SALES TALK

Gee, working in a dime store certainly does get you down. I'm pretty lucky at that, though; not every S. T. C. degree girls gets a job when she finishes that noble institution. I guess I'd better stop this musing, though, it's most closing time and if I don't add something to my sales Mr. Schultzenheim will give me some more leisure time.

Here comes Mr. Strick he ought to be a good customer. "No, Mr. Strick, I'm sorry we don't have any more copies of 'Jazz Baby'. 'Saxaphone Sally' is quite a hot number, though, that would be suitable for your choral club, don't you think? Yes, I will draw it for you. Thank you too much."

"Well, if it isn't old Ned Bair! What can I do for you, honey? Kid Curlers? You're still having trouble getting your hair to curl, aren't you? You ought to go to see Zelle. Maybe she'd tell you the secret of her success. Here you are; six, did you say? Call again sometime."

Who on earth is this demure little maid with the innocent stare? Somebody else'll have to take care of her. Oh, it's just Dorin after her weekly bag of kisses, anyway. I'm getting terribly nearsighted—just can't recognize a soul two feet away. I guess I'll have to pay another visit to the glasses counter and acquire a new pair.

Oh, boy! another customer. "What is it, Gay, rouge this time? Maybelline's. Oh, I'm sorry. You want something else and for Miss Foster? Lipstick? Well, she uses Brilliante. It's very becoming to her dark complexion, don't you think? Yes, yes, I'll be around to help you with that Latin sometimes soon. You have a pretty hard time with it, don't you? You say you didn't get but A on it last time? I'll have to see what I can do about that situation. G'night."

Here comes Steptoe. You say you want a hat? Well, you're just in time, my dear. I have one cut out for you. This green crown and orange brim will be very becoming. The purple flower in front is rather chic, don't you think? There, I thought you'd like it. Seventy-five cents, please. You're getting a bargain—it was a dollar. Wear it to church Sunday morning. Everybody'll think it's a Paris model. Good night. Oh yes, I'll se you at the Lotus Club dance tonight.

Whew! What a day—thank goodness he's closing those doors. Poor Miss Moran got locked out, I guess she'll just have to do without her pack of chewing gum, tonight. Maybe, I'll get a chance to give her some out of my private stock on my way home.

Goodnight, girls, I'll see you in the morning .

CAMPUS JIG SAW

I give you zero on jig saw puzzling. Quit this and mark through February 24 on that calendar. That's the date of "Patches." Well, think so! And Patches has one more part to it than this jigsaw thing. I heard you. Yeah, you want me to say, "It's like so and so" but I am not doing it.

Put it here—it'll fit. And it's Robin Hood's picture we're doing. Looks like May Day to me.

What are we going to do for Founders Day except wear white? A bigger day than last time? You can keep on telling me.

Those green pieces—push them over for R. Hood's shirt. Green, Dot—freshman green, you ought to know that shade—you've worn it for five months straight. That's right, freshman, you all are going to present a something-or-other the week after "Patches," huh? What are you keeping so secret? Oh, it's just because I won't tell you about "Patches". I lose, but you'd better be on row G in the S. T. C. auditorium at 8 o'clock, Feb. 24.

This is the dumbest one—we're off jigsaw puzzles until you improve.

Your going? Here—stop by Margaret Hix's room and leave this poster. Where do you live days, Dot—you haven't heard about our Mardi Gras? Good-day!

The student body extends sympathy to Miss Barlow in her recent bereavement.

ALPHA KAPPA GAMMA INITIATION HELD

At five-thirty o'clock Monday afternoon, Alpha Kappa Gamma had initiation services for its four new members. Miss Mix, Miss Nichols, Miss Stubbs and Miss Potts were present.

When the ceremony was over a delightful, informal "banquet" was held in the tea room.

INTERCOLLEGIATE

The depression has hit Sweet Briar. The cake selling business is at such a low ebb that on one occasion the sales girl consented to selling two cakes for a nickel and on another, when the customers had no nickel, to trading in one cake for four cod liver oil pills—and no boot.—The Sweet Briar News.

Seventy men were enrolled in the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, N. C.

Because of the numerous applicants for admission which came to President Forest from young men in and around Greensboro, he decided to admit men as day students. The young men are offered the same courses as are offered the women. According to the "Alumnae News" from the college, the men like it, and the college officials are well pleased. —Sweet Briar News.

Dr. Theodore Henley Jack, vice-president of Emory University, Atlanta, has accepted the presidency of Randolph-Macon Woman's College. He will asume the duties of his office in the late summer before the opening of the session of 1933-34.—The Sun Dial.

Cake eating has taken its place alongside eightball, blackball, and highball as a major sport in Tulane athletic repertoire as a result of a large cake baked expressly for that purpose.—Tulane Hullabaloo.

How To Be Popular

Haven't you heard? Didn't you know? Go where the crowd is and guess who is the center of attraction. No, not the pretty girl,—not the one with the new dress—why, it's the girl with the bag of peanuts, of course—The Flor-Ala.

At Mary Baldwin the craze of jigsaw puzzles has been supplanted by one even more childish. Now everyone rushes madly to the wild west show on Saturdays. It's a calamity if they miss the serial, and dinner table conversation these days always hinges on the relative merits of Hoot Gibson, Tom Mix, and their rivals.

ALUMNAE NEWS

Not even the prediction in the newspapers that a cold wave would reach Virginia daunted the group going to Culpeper on Wednesday, February 8. Dr. Jarman, Miss Mary White Cox, Miss Winnie Hiner, Miss Virginia Potts and Mr. S. L. Graham were invited to an alumnae dinner at the Fairgrounds Inn.

The thermometer did drop—something like fifty degrees—but the meeting was no less enthusiastic. There was a regular "get-together" with discussions of what the "Normal School was when I was there," and Dr. Jarman gave an informal talk about the school, concerning its growth and its changes. After the dinner Dr. Jarman sang a group of songs, selected from those he had used in his recital the week prior to this.

The alumnae present were: Anna Minter, Alma Garlick, Kate Perry, Grace Freeman Huffman, Mary Ruth Winn, Virginia Tinsley, Mary Bolen, Kyle Davis, Lucy Armstrong, Mildred Potts Allbright, Ruth Campbell, and Sarah Dinwiddie.

The second of a group of alumnae luncheons was served in the Tea Room of the college on Thursday, Feb. 9. Dr. Jarman was the guest and speaker. Those present included Mrs. Elliot Booker, president, and Ruth Harding Coyner, Mrs. R. M. Shannon, (Mrs. Coyner's guest), Misses Mary Nichols, Martha Coulling, aMry Peck, Olive Iler, Mary White Cox, Winnie Hiner, Pauline Camper, Harriet Booker, Louise Richardson, Willie London, Mattie Willis Georgie Norris, Carrie B. Taliaferro, Alice Carter, Virginia Potts and Mesdames Kitty Grigg Newman and Martha Wells Catlin.

LINES

You've been my friend,
You've had my love,
But now you've hurt me.
I shall not tell you, though,
And you will never know;
I shall go on loving you.
I will not throw away
A diamond just because
It pricks me.

MY CONFESSION

It seems awfully hard to go on this way,
Missing you more and more each day,
Wondering just why we had to part,
And if perchance I still have your heart.

Days are terribly long and drear,
And it's just because you're not here
To give me encouragement and assurance true,
That I love you now and always will, blue,

There's no use lying and trying to hide
The feelings for you that I have inside.
I just want you to know even though we're apart,
That I love yo unow and always will, sweetheart.

M. P.

THOUGHTS

Sometimes in the blackest hours of night,
When the lemon-colored moon
Shines palely
I think of you.
I remember your parting words
And how they crushed my very soul.
In those black hours, when my brain is whirling
I pray that you may know
Such pain as I endured—
That awful agony of soul—
It broke my very spirit—
When you said you were going
I hope that life has been unkind to you—
As bitter as it has to me—
I can't seem to get you out of mind—
If I only could!
—The moon shines on.

MY IDEAL

I have chosen for myself
A star in the heavens—
That to be my ideal.
To me it is always aloft—
A dazzling thing—rue in its radiance
Clean, pure, and shining
It points my way through life.
Even in my blackest moments
Of despair
When everything seems useless,
I think of that white light
Always before me—
Unfaltering in duty—
Unswerving in purpose—
'Tis a noble thought!

TO—

Tonight—
Your voice comes to me
In the words of a song,
Glowing, impassioned
Full of love and hope
You sang as though your Brain were on fire—
How those golden notes
Swelled into the heavens.
I wonder if your spirits
Were joined in that space
That separated us—
If knew that could be
I should be at peace with all mankind.

COMPARISONS

The snow reminds me of you—
Scintillating, glistening—
Yet cold
And unmelting.

The stars are simply chips
Off the moon.
Bright points of light.
Then glisten and gleam
In that high clear space
They are far above
Earthly things—
So would I be.

MISS ILER ENTERTAINED ON HER BIRTHDAY

Happy birthday, Miss Iler, happy birthday to you," sang the Seniors Monday night at Miss Iler entered the little sitting room. She was then presented with a spoon and a piece of string and told to wind the string on the spool. It was found that the string went all over the room, under the carpets, over windows, and behind chairs. But it ended behind the sofa where it was tied around a large package, which turned out to be a blanket. The birthday candles were blown out and refreshments were served. With a song to Miss Iler and the class song, the Senior gave their last birthday party for Miss Iler.

The Student Body wishes to extend its sympathy to Ruth Fleet in her recent bereavement.

TRI SIGMA SORORITY PLEDGES GIVE PARTY

Valentine parties have been much in vogue this week. Monday night the pledges of Sigma Sigma Sigma gave a party to the pledges of other sororities. Long strings of red hearts on the walls, candy hearts and heart-shaped sandwiches carried out the Valentine idea.

HOME ECONOMICS CLASS GIVES TEA

The Senior Home Economics class entertained the Freshman and Junior Home Economics classes at a delightful tea on Tuesday afternoon, February 14. Helen Cover, Lillian Woodley, Frances Radcliffe, and Gazelle Ware were hostesses. Miss Jeter also assisted in receiving and entertaining the guests. A red and white color scheme was carried out in both the decorations and refreshments.

DRAMATIC CLUB TEA

The "old girls" in the Dramatic Club entertained the "new girls" of the club at a most attractive tea in the club room on Thursday afternoon. The color scheme was yellow and green. Miss Frances Radcliffe presided over the tea table which was lovely in the simplicity of its decorations of jonquils, narcissi and soft yellow candle light. The refreshments which followed the same color scheme were delicious.

Y. W. ENTERTAINS FRESHMEN AT PARTY

Since Christmas the Social Committee of the Y. W. C. A. has been giving parties for the Freshmen. Each Saturday night a group is invited to the lounge from ten to ten-thirty. Last Saturday night thirty of the Freshmen received telegrams from Cupid inviting them to the Student Building lounge at ten o'clock.

When the bell rang the appointed hour these freshmen clad in pajamas came eagerly to see what Cupid had in store for them. They were seated in front of the open fire and each girl was given a jig-saw puzzle to work. The first girl to finish found that the puzzle was a red heart with the inscription, "Thanks for healing my broken heart." For completing the puzzle first she was given a beautiful little lady dressed in red which in reality was a Clark bar in disguise.

After a very exciting game of "ghost", refreshments carrying out the idea of St. Valentine's Day were served.

As the fire burned low, the girls realized it was past ten-thirty and reluctantly left Cupid's party.

Y. W. C. A. NEWS

Miss Mix gave a talk in prayers Friday night, February 10, on World Fellowship. In her discussion she described her visit to Oberammergau to see the Passion Play two years ago. She spoke of the sincerity of the people and their great task in placing before representatives of every nation the simple story of the Christus. Just as the inhabitants of Oberammergau have pledged themselves to present this Passion Play every decade, so should we pledge ourselves to do all in our power to bring about World Fellowship.

The student body was delighted with Miss Mathewson, a representative of the W. C. T. U., who talked in chapel, Wednesday, February 8. Miss Mathewson gave a vivid picture of the bad effect of alcohol and tobecco on the nervous system. The great athletes of the world have set an example of abstinence which one as good citizens should follow.

Beginning on Friday, February 24, and lasting through February 26, there is to be a Student Volunteer Conference in Lynchburg. The Y. W. C. A. is planning to send a number of delegates.

MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE OF Y. W. C. A. MEETS

The Y. W. Membership-Alumnae committee met on Tuesday at 5 p. m. for the purpose of completing plans for its Founder's Day work and also to write letters to Y. W. C. A. alumnae. After the business had been attended to, Sue Yeaman, chairman of the committee, served delicious refreshments. Mr. French, adviser for this committee, and Winston Cobb, were present at this meeting.

Y. W. HAS OPEN MEETING

The Y. W. C. A. held its regular monthly open meeting today at 5 o'clock. A special feature of this meeting was a discussion led by Dr. Walmsley. The topic discussed was "The Relation between Student Committees and Faculty Advisers." This discussion was truly thought-provoking and was thus very helpful. Such discussions are of great benefit to all who hear them and the Y. W. C. A. is hoping to have more of them in the near future.

(From "The Dummy"—State Normal School)

On Monday night fire swept away a two-story building on Main Stret.

Some Hampden-Sydney boys seeing the blaze against the sky, thought it was the State Normal School on fire and hired a car to come in and rescue the girls. They were sadly disappointed to find their hopes not realized and returned in disgust to Hampden-Sydney.

This bazaar is held each year with the hope of creating interest in the modern languages not only among the students who are studying the languages but among the rest of the student body and the faculty. It is believed that the use of French and Spanish coins is useful as well as interesting. The modern language department was pleased that such a large number of students and members of the faculty attended the bazaar.

College Choir Concert Is a Big Success

Angel and Whittemore Are Guest Artists of the Evening

H. S. GLEE CLUB APPRECIATED

The College Choir presented its first annual concert on the evening of February 16, in the college auditorium. An evening of delightful vocal numbers was enjoyed by all who attended.

The two artists of the evening were Wilson Angel, bass, of Winston-Salem, N. C., winner of the Atwater-Kent audition contest in 1932, and Joseph Whittemore, acclaimed by many as the leading tenor of Virginia. Both artists displayed remarkable talent and interpretation in the musical numbers which they rendered.

The College Choir with the aid of the Hampden-Sydney Glee Club gave many delightful numbers which added to the success of the evenings program.

The choir has given several very interesting programs this year, but this one was decidedly the most outstanding and one that will long be remembered by the students and the faculty. We are sure that this program could not have been a success without the untiring efforts of the director, Mr. Strick.

Mr. Angel kindly consented to entertain the student body again in chapel Friday morning by singing several lovely selections. His program consisted of "Der bist die Duh" by Schubert, "Goin' Home" by Anton Dvorak, "Without a Song" by Vincent Younan. Mr. Angel's program was enjoyed so much that he was

Mardi Gras Will Be Interesting

On the night of February 28, the S. T. C. gymnasium will be the scene of one of the loveliest occasions of the year—the Mardi Gras to be sponsored by Pi Gamma Mu. The room will be decorated with brilliant colors and soft lights. At eight o'clock strains of music from a well-known orchestra will begin to fall on the listening ear. Young ladies, dressed in brilliant costumes and fine young men will then begin to glide over the ballroom floor.

At nine o'clock the queen, who has been chosen by the student body, but whose name will remain a secret until this time, will appear, with the king of her own choice, and upon her head a lovely crown will be placed. With the king and queen will come 4 princes and 4 princesses. Everyone who has read of the lovely Spanish courts of old will feel that they are in the presence of one of the most lovely ever pictured in literature.

After the coronation, the king and queen and attendants will lead the figure of the ball. After the ballroom dancing will be enjoyed until eleven o'clock by everyone.

DEBATE CLUB TO HOLD MEETING

There will be an important meeting of the Debate Club on Thursday night to make definite plans for a reception to be held on the following Wednesday evening. Each week, as debaters from other schools come to compete with S. T. C. speakers, a reception will be held for the contestants.

Education and the Larger Life

(By Dr. Francis B. Simkins)

Attendance at college costs the student a great deal. It involves financial sacrifices by parents or guardians and more important, the sacrifice of several of the most significant years in the life of the student. It has its troubles even for the most casual individual in the most inefficient college. The minimum requirements of going to college involve a somewhat inconvenient readjustment of habits and the answering of bells and the hearing of lectures and recitations from hard benches. It therefore follows that every individual student who has any regard for his personal welfare should be able to justify his or her attendance at college. If he cannot do this, he is throwing away a vital part of his life at much expense and inconvenience.

Laying aside possible criticisms of what our colleges offer the student, let us consider the causes of why some students are not able to justify college careers. Laziness and lack of intellectual ability are the most obvious explanations. But the truly lazy usually either fall by the wayside before they reach the college stage or lack sufficient enterprise to continue the education they have received in the secondary school; the restlessness and weariness of the deficient college student can scarcely be called laziness. The student of a low grade of native intelligence whom our secondary school certify for college entrance present simple problems to the college authorities and can usually be dropped from the rolls before they have become sufficiently identified with the college community to give it tone and color. Indeed the failure of the student to live up to the requirements of the college cannot be explained in such simple terms as laziness and mental deficiency. The explanation hinges around a paradox preculiar to American social and educational life: the desire of many students to absorb the atmosphere of academic surroundings without liking the taste of the academic substance. These students run after the gowns, the badges the banners, the letters, the credits

Home Economics Seniors in Richm'd

The Senior oHme Economic Class which is composed of four members, Helen Cover, Frances Radcliffe, Gazelle Ware, and Lillian Woodley went to Richmond last Wednesday. They were accompanied by Miss Jeter and Miss Camper. The purpose of the trip to visti Sauer's, Kinghan's and the markets.

They left from in front of the Rotunda at nine fifteen. Their faces were all smiles at the thoughts of the trip. At eleven-fifteen they were getting out of the car to enter Sauer's.

An employee of the firm took them through the entire plant. They saw the vanilla bean in the natural state on through the bottled vanilla. After spending an hour seeing extracts manufactured, the party, then went to Kingan's.

Just their luck, they got there during lunch hour. The time soon slipped away and they found themselves being ushered through the plant. Here two hours were very profitably spent.

What! three o'clock had rolled around and no lunch. The next place of interest to the group was Ewarta Cafeteria. After lunch, they were anxious to look around in the stores. As there was a little time for this purpose everyone had a few minutes to express her desires for the shape of her Easter bonnet and the color of her dress.

Junior Class to Presents Its Play 'Patches' Feb. 24

Mystery Still Surrounds This Promising Production Scheduled Friday Night

"Patches," the much talked-of Junior production will be given February 24, Friday night of this week, at 8 o'clock. Mystery surrounds the whole production. The Juniors walk around with such knowing airs that we believe they must have something good in store for us.

All of the Junior talent is being used to make "Patches" the best production of the year. Much new talent has been discovered which, of course, adds to the Juniors' hopes for perfection. They even insinuate that we'll be missing a great deal if we stay away!

The production is under the direction of Mary Shelton and Margaret Eley with Miss Potts as their able adviser.

The following girls will take part in this "mystery production": Mary Shelton and her group composed of: Honey Hamilton, Dot Prescott, Mary Howard, Frances Graham, Nannie Gilbert Betsy Wilkinson, Louise McNulty, Alice Rowell, Grace Rowell, Helen Shawen, Mildred Gwaltney, and Margaret Eley and her group composed of: Nedra Bair, Dot Wingfield, Louise Van Lear, Helen Westmoreland, Virginia Lanier, Ida mason Miller, Mary Diehl, Nancy Harrison, Alma Foster, Elmer Foster, Gloria Mann, Mary B. Nelson, and Margaret Morgan.

Many attractive songs, under the direction of Mary McCarn, will be sung by: Margaret Murray, Mary McCarn, Sue Yeaman, Barbara Kester, Edna Hatcher, Jeanallen Bowles, Martha Scott Watkins, Joyce Sturm, and Dot Woolwine.

With such a cast there can be no doubt that the Juniors will score a success long to be remembered at S. T. C. With achoes of approval of "Betty Lou", the Junior musical comedy hit of last year, resounding in their ears to steer them on to bigger and better things, we feel sure that no matter how high our expectations may soar, "Patches" will offer no disappointments. z

THE "VIRGINIAN" NEARS COMPLETION

The annual is going to be bigger and better this year than it has ever been before; so much so that one cannot afford to miss buying one. Among the startling features of the Virginian is the special section reserved for the seven most beautiful girls in school. Everyone is anxious to see which girls have been chosen by the famous artist Russell Patterson. nother big difference that will be found in the new annual is the unique design which will lend added attractiveness to its appearance.

The annual is now well underway. The "dummy" goes out on February 29, so each girl should save her four dollars in order to get it as soon as it is delivered.

SOPHOMORES SELL FLAGS

The Sophomore Class sold miniature flags today in memory of George Washington. The money derived from the sales will be donated to the Student Building fund on Founder's Day.

The student body welcomes the return of Miss Barlow.

Hikers Give Fine Lecture at Sing

Edith and Dyrius Cook,, the adventuring pair from the artist colony of Woodstock, N. Y., who have been donkeying through seven states, presented an interesting movie lecture-entertainment at Sing on Saturday night.

Mrs. Cooke, with a lantern slide, showed pictures taken on their pedestrian trip. During the lecture, Mr. Cooke said:

"When Mrs. Cooke and I planned this trip we assumed we might reach the coast at Charleston in March and take a boat to New York. Or we might turn west from some southern point and end the trip in late spring in southern Indiana, my native section. But it never entered our heads that we would turn back the first of the year and retrace our steps. However we feel that both the successes and the failures of the trip thus far dmand this decision.

"Donkeying includes lecturing. Who but a simp would lead a heavily-laden donkey across seven states and answer queries piece-meal and without benefit of hall and paid admissions? Already we have bagged many engagements.

Mrs. Cooke and I feel we have merely scratched the surface of the southern territory. We hope to embark upon a second pilgrimmage next winter when we will re-visit the south. Mrs. Cook's interest in arts and crafts is also responsible for our proposed return.

"On our trip this winter, some folks have rated us as down-and-outers fleeing adversity and offered us bed and board before they discovered their error. One man offered us "a job or money" and stood by his offer long enough to secure us a talking engagement.

Our donkeying engagement is not ended. It has merely entered upon a new phase. Our Ace Jackie, will carry one of us northw ard. A second mount, preferably a 700 pound mule, will carry the other and our baggage. We expect to reach home May 1, or thereabouts. Already we itch to set out."

Founders Day Plans Are Now Under Way

Founder's Day at S. T. C. is always anticipated with much pleasure. This year, on March 11, the Founder's Day program will take place in the auditorium as it has formerly been done in previous years.

On the morning of that day a recital of natural dacing and tap dancing under the supervision of Mrs. Fitzpatrick will be presented, the music being furnished by the college orchestra.

It has always been the custom of different organizations to present their gifts to the school through amusing stunts or skits. It has been decided this year that representatives dressed to typify the organization which they represent will present to Dr. Jarman gifts from their respective organizations.

Many visitors, including alumnae of former years, will return for this illustrious day of our S. T. C. calendar. It has always been a tradition of S. T. C. to treat all visitors as guests and this tradition is carried out in particular on Founder's Day.

The beautiful campus of S. T. C. dotted with groups of girls in dainty white is a very impressive sight. White is always the predominating color on March 11th being worn by every student as well as many of the faculty members.

Farmville Defeats Harrisonburg Friday Night

Both Teams Play a Swift, Well Organized Game.—Passwork is a Feature

FINAL SCORE IS 46 TO 25

In a fast moving and excellently played basketball game here Friday night, February 17, Farmville defeated Harrisonburg 46-25.

"Onward Farmville" started off the cheering of the most exciting game witnessed at S. T. C. for several years. Following this the many spectators showed much pep and enthusiasm in their yelling.

Although Harisonburg was successful in making the first goal, Farmville soon ran up a score not to be threatened throughout the game.

The teamwork of Farmville was something to be proud of. Every girl played her best with grim determination to win. Harrisonburg showed skill in swift and accurate passing and shooting which was well matched by our team.

The winning of this all-important game shows faithful practice and cooperation on the part of the squad. Miss Iler is to be commended for her untiring efforts in the training of our team.

The hearty support of the student body, faculty, and friends urged our players on to victory.

Sophomores Hold Their Election

The Sophomore Class at the regular Tuesday night meeting elected Martha Cross as the historian of the graduating class of '33. Martha, who is a popular member of her class, is well qualified for this honor. At the annual State Teachers conference, held in Richmond during Thanksgiving holidays she was guest speaker, talking on "The Educational Significance of Geographical Learning Situations in the Primary Grades." While in high school Martha was renowned for debating and her outstanding work on the publication staff.

Equally outstanding in her work at John Marshall High School was Frances Dorin, and it is Dorin whom the Sophomores have elected to be giftorian. She contributed short stories, essays, and poems to "The Record" as well as being active on the staff. Her leadership was unexcelled in her work as vice-president of the Senior Class. She took the leading role in the Sophomore production "Friend of the Family" in which her sparkling personality was at its best.

The Sophomores feel that there could be no mistake in these two selections.

STUDENT'S HOLD CHAPEL WEDNESDAY MORNING

The student day program this morning in chapel brought back to our minds the glory which surrounded George Washington, whose birthday the entire nation celebrated today. After opening the program by singing "My Country Tis of Thee," Miss Empty Rawls conducted the religious service. Then the first grade at the Training School entertained us by songs and marching.

THE WASHINGTONS OF TODAY

It is indeed fitting on the birthday of so noted a man as Washington, to discuss the high standards and characteristics of the Senior Class We feel sure that in no group of its size will the same qualities of the Father of Our Country be found. The loyalty, courage, perseverance and ambition of the Seniors have indeed, won recognition in the warmest spots of our hearts. The part which warms and saddens us is that they like Washington, must leave those who love and are loved by them.

"Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And in parting, leave behind us,
Footprints on the sands of time."

"CUTTING" CLASSES

"Alice Moore, Evelyn Knaub, Martha Cross, Jenilee Knight, Frances Radcliffe, Dorothy Davis, Kathryn Royster," etc., etc., ad infinitum, "will please report to Miss Mary's office after dinner." Confusion reigned while each and every girl discussed the why, what and wherefore of Miss Mary's action.

The subject for discussion, it seemed, was the ruthless way in which we have, or have developed lately of "cutting" classes. To our profound horror, we discover that some of us have been "cutting" just for the pleasure of cutting and that some of us have as many as twenty "cuts".

Now is the time when college school spirit should run highest at S. T. C.—in fact, it is the one thing that we must have to convince ourselves that classes are really worthwhile and interesting.

We want to suggest that every one of us take Miss Mary's gentle reminder and advice, and attend class regularly and promptly.

Sometimes, we admit, it is not the fault of our fellow-students. Often we come to class late for some very plausible reason and through some mishaps that can't be helped. But we would like to suggest that we tardy ones see our respective teachers about it and not be marked down for a cut.

Also, we would like to say a word of warning to those who have excuses for classes and—either through forgetfulness or gross neglect—have failed to hand them in.

We think that "a hint to the wise should be sufficient."

OPEN FORUM

It is an undeniable fact that if those students having a B average were exampt from exams — they would lose much of great value. Exams are not given to make students burn the midnight oil in cramming, but with the idea in mind, of having them review. Those students who are fortunate enough to have a B average have not acquired all the learning to warrant them to be exempt. By studying for the finals they are enabled to "brush up" and gather in those seemingly non-essentials and minor things which fill in the gaps. Take one spoke out of a wheel and—what have you? An exam is in reality a review. If you can prove in a blue book that you know the subject, then well and good for you—then you have convinced two people—the professor and yourself. Check up on yourself. You're the one that's got to bring in the bread and the butter—can you? The foundation is half the building. Is it shifting? See for yourself. Take the exams!

MONKEY BUSINESS

If you chance to read this column,
As I advise you not to do;
Please don't get too much excited.
If I've got the dope on you.

For the benefit of those who want to know what is going on in the "rec", and elsewhere, and to lessen the danger of some inquisitive soul from falling over the railing in the Rotunda, a little exposition from a reliable source may serve to place certain desired information in their hands. When you little dream of it, publicity may hit you like a bolt from the blue.

After careful diagnosis of certain cases; a minister, a handful of rice, and a train to Niagara are recommended for the following:

Nancy Harrison and Sam McLaughlin—What manner of love is this?

"Honey" Hamilton and Bob Kinnaird—It lookes serious, anyway.

There are others who will undoubtedly soon come under this class, but whoever you are, don't forget to pay the preacher.

Winston Cobb and Howard Cobbs don't seem to be exactly "That-a-way" about each other, but affairs like their date Saturday night are enough to keep Buck Ale worried.

Keeping the other girls away from "Ed" Pool for two nights in succession, certainly is a victory for Frances Potts.

Dot Eubank's "steady" failed to show up Sunday night, and Dot was left on the railing. Frances Crawford and Paul Kincaid were back at the old game again. That is a good way to lose your H S. C. men, Dot.

Everyone realizes that Dorothy Snedegar employs an excess of familistic skill in keeping the blindfold on such aggressive swains as Chappell, Hayden, Ale, Jones and Crawford. Everybody knows that Crawford has got it bad, and although Chappel seems to occupy the silver throne at present, who knows what cunning schemes that pretty head may hold. Dot, you certainly have the world in a jug, and the stopper in your hand with such a crowd as that to choose from.

We, the student body of S. T. C. extend our most hearty congratulations to Miss Ellen Mason. Never before has "Red" Woodworth been unduly infatuated by anything beautiful, other than horses, and scenery.

If Lottie Dixon is tactful enough, Allen Barnwell may become interested, but he was once described by an expert as very elusive. A little more encouragement may be useful——!

Music hath charms. Then what hath the music of an Angel? Even more charm, Christine Childrey was indeed a "Phantom of Delight" as she strolled about the campus Thursday with our friend Mr. Angel. It is needless to say that she had the envy of every girl in school as they dined with Professor Strick, and then attended the concert where Angel gave voice to many charming melodies Oh yes, charms to charm the charming. It is exceedingly needful that the boy from "Cuckoo" watch his step.

When underneath the silver stars at night
I chance to be with you—my fond delight
Enchanting eyes of nature's ecstacy,
The silver stars look down on you and me.

Yours till next week,

and the diplomas without much concern as to whether or not they achieve the reality of which these things are supposed only to be the symbols. They bring an immense pressure to bear upon the harrassed college teacher or official to give them these things, not realizing that when they are given without being earned a double fraud has been committed—a fraud against him who gives and him who takes. Only too often the college student wins his three "credits" for a course more by blandishments and simulated interest than by appreciative understanding and honest effort.

Why is it that students who are neither lazy nor mentally deficient manifest such a flippant, if not surly, attitude toward those things which are supposed to be the center of academic efforts? They say that this or that subject is not "practical;" or they say that it is "academic", using this word as a damning synonym for that which does not have concrete and immediate values and results. The student knows that he can drive his automobile, get the admiration of the nearest and prettiest flappers, be a politician or real estate dealer, and do a thousand and one other practical things, without knowing whether Siam is in Asia or Africa, or whether a medieval cathedral is a church or a chair. He is shrewd enough to know that in the give and take of the market-place it is more useful to know who the Marx Brothers and the Schubert Brothers are than who was Karl Marx or Franz Schubert. He feels that he can live a competent life in his immediate environment without troubling himself with an acquaintance with the unfamiliar fields into which academic influences try to throw him. He does not experience the need of the subject-matter discussed in the classroom.

In opposition to these practical inclinations of the student the college presents its idea of culture. The college attempts to lift the student out of his surroundings in order that he may appreciate the larger environment of other times and ages. The schools regard this as their mission since it is felt that the teaching of elementary common sense and intelligence can be more adequately acquired in the University of Hard Knocks than in the University of Liberal Arts. At least such an interpretation of educational aims is the only justification of a curriculum loaded with courses in foreign languages, history, social science and natural science. Unless the student is impressed with the need of the larger environment which these subjects are supposed to give, the efforts of the teacher, be he an Aristotle or Peter Abelard, will be in vain.

Of course it should not be forgotten that the college education cannot supply the needs of all. It is quite possible to be a good farmer without knowing Latin, a good storekeeper without knowing medieval history, a good wife or husband without knowing the difference between the ethics of Zeno and Epicurus and a good Christian without understanding the history of the church. There are many wise and competent people who have not been within the walls of a college. The college education is not the whole of education; it is merely a formal supplement to those valuable and practical experiences which every normal person acquires whether or not he ever goes to college. It is time that college deans and press agents stop making irrelevant claims for college education; asserting, for example, that going to college has been the principal cause of the financial success of certain business men. It is time that public opinion, in various

THE TRYST

All alone on a starlit night
I dream of my lover true.
Do you dream and yearn when the moon is bright
As I dream and yearn for you?

The Hunter, the Bull, and Casseopea,
Great constellations of yore
Shine as ever still in heaven
To guard as we dream evermore.

Vega, Deneb, and Antares,
Old stars, in years gone by
Heard lovers of old repeat their pleas
And lift their hearts to the sky.

The stars, the planets, and satellites
Keep watch as in years before—
And our spirits meet as our tryst we keep
When we kiss by the garden door.

LONGING

I'm sick of college
And its ethical knowledge.
I long to be out and free
I long to go where soft winds call;
Where mountains of Gaul loom mighty and tall;—
To sail the restless sea.

It's not, just the walls, but people I'm tired of—
People just like me,
Who eat, who sleep, who moan and whine
Because of the sameness they see
O why do we talk? Why do we groan?
Why do we do nothing more?
Why not capture the bird of our dreams,
And ride to happiness' door!

L. M. G.

Thoughts—
Come to me
As I move
Along the dusky street
In the twilight—
My head upturned
To the stars
As I walk—
Thinking of people.
Why don't we see
Above the awnings
On the street?
We never lift our heads.
We see only the
Oh! so obvious things—
Why not
Turn our faces
Upward
And dream—
Just a little?
Forgetting
Everyday's affairs—
Building air castles
Which may never come true—
But why not?

ANGER

Out of the calm, clear, peaceful skies
A bolt of lightning flashes,
I shink and cringe and close my eyes;
The king of thunder dashes.

Across the heavens, with mighty rage
He speeds on steeds of steel—
A cruel, destructive war he rages—
The earth before him yields.

Out of my serene heart there rises
A feeling of hate and ire;
The pale victim recognizes
The passions set on fire.

I stalk about, storming curses
On the subject of my wrath—
Thinking nothing of the mercies
Which the victim humbly asks.

Yes, I often sit and wonder
Why the skies such anger show.
Yet, I am not any kinder
Though the storms should make me so.

V. T.

STORM

Clouds hang dark overhead
Like Ulyssian monsters—
Naked wintry trees
Roar and sway like dragons
While cattle, lowing, tear homeward.
Sheep huddled close together—
Field mice scuttle to their homes,
And all their world is filled with dread—
The storm thunders on—

LITTLE THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

"He who every morning plans the transactions of the day carries a thread that will guide him through the labyrinth of the most busy life. But where no plan is laid, all things lie in choas."—Victor Hugo.

"Art is one of the high adventures of the human soul."

"Those things which are excellent have been produced by the master minds of mankind."

"Pain is the great teacher of mankind. Beneath its breath souls develop.'"—Marie Ebner-Eschenburch.

"Friendship is a plant of slow growth, take care to cultivate it well."

FEATURING EYES AND FOREHEADS

(By Helena Rubenstein)

I have noticed that the tight little hats and berets affected by young girls revealing all of the forehead and at least one eye, reveal also a tendency to lined foreheads and tired looking eyes.

This is all wrong for girls at any age. While I don't want to make you eye and forehead conscious, I do want to impress upon you the importance of keeping that lovely upper part of your face as lovely as Nature intended it to be.

First, form the habit of keping the brows smooth and serene. Frowning doesn't help a bit in solving a geometry problem or conquering a chapter in French. And avoid eye strain. If you need glasses wear them. They are carefully fitted now, just as hats are, to suit the face—and they're not a detriment to good looks by any means. Use a good eye lotion night and morning and rest your eyes as often as you can.

Before retiring, give special attention to your forehead and area about your eyes. Cleansing the skin with a good cream is the first step. Then, using the fingers of both the hands, begin at the center of the forehead, smooth on a youthifying tissue cream to coax away the impending lines. On the frown lines, use a gentle rotary movement, then a firm, lifting movement with palms of hands from eyebrow to hair line. The cream may be left on all night about the eyes and on the forehead.

Nothing adds such softness and beauty to what might otherwise be "ordinary" features as lovely brows and lashes. The eyebrows can be trained to a thin, glistening line, not by tweezing, but simply through a regular daily use of a tiny brush moistened with a little eyelash cream. Brush the lashes upward, using a little of the same cream—it darkens and at the same time promotes the growth.

If you use eye makeup, be very subtle with it. Don't use it as a rule for daytime. But for evening, used rightly, eye makeup can be a decided asset. A little shadow on the upper lids makes the eyes seem larger, softer, more expressive. In fact, the more romantic evening gowns lose half their glamour if the eyes are not shadowy and mysterious.

communities, stop compelling young people to enter college in hopes of acquiring a long list of practical skills and experiences which perhaps can better be acquired elsewhere. There should be a clear understanding of what the college is and especially of what it is not. After this has been understood, and the sympathy of the prospective student acquired, this question should be aske dhim. Would the attainment of higher education fit in with your environmental needs and opportunities? If it does not, happiness will result for the difficulties of what practical people call the overeducated are greater than those of the uneducated.

A person who is attempting to acquire a college education will be helped and encouraged by a statement of what are the benefits to be drived by the broadening of vision which the study of history, literature, foreign languages and the natural sciences should give. Such studies bring to us second-handed it is true, the experience of other places and times. Regardless of whether or not we as individuals are contemptuous of the so-called impractical or cultural subjects, the emphasis of the modern age on higher education has created a situation which no one can ignore. It has created a large and important class who do appreciate ideas and concepts larger than those of their own parish and demand the same of others. Higher education, moreover, makes possible intelligent action in the wider environment which the complexities of the modern world are forcing on an ever-growing number of people — situations before which the persons who have been educated only in terms of their own village are helpless. Education opens to both the rich and the poor the rich realm of the intellect; whereas the uneducated can only appreciate the material. It stimulates the imagination so as to make possible revolutionary ideas and discoveries. Columbus, Luther and the makers of our Constitution were practical men; but their work would not have been possible had they not also been educated. It is also very likely that the contact with diversity which education gives creates a deeper understanding of the problems of one's immediate surrounding, especially when unfamiliar difficulties arise.

THE TIME BETWEEN

All today I'll fill with laughter,
Sunshine, happiness and song;
Charming people I will talk with,
Naugh but joy the whole day long.

Then tonight I'll fill with romance,
Music soft my heart will stir;
Stars shall twinkle down in glory
Faintly lighting up the world

That's the day and then the night time
Well accounted for, you see?
But the twilight time between them
Is more difficult to fill.

That's the time when all is silent,
Quiet and reverent, still and dim,
Only then my heart remembers—
I have not forgotten him.

SYMPATHY

I love the sounding of the gale
As it rushed wildly through the trees
For I fancy it echoes in its mournful wail
The turbulent thoughts of my heart and brain
And a sympathy stronger than woman's mood
Binds me to the wind and the rain.
F. B. D.

"SOFT LIGHTS AND SWEET MUSIC"

I hold you in my arms—
Graceful lady of the evening
Sweetly scented and languid.
How futile to try to keep you—
Ever eager is your eye.
Sweet are your lips as they murmur,
"Don't leave me!"—"Oh, hello," and
"I'll see you later.'
(I wonder what his name was!)

DOT SNEDEGAR

Dot, as captain of this year's varsity basketball team, led her team to victory in a hard fought game against Harrisonburg Friday night.

ANOTHER VICTORY

S. T. C. has its next conflict in athletics Saturday, February 25, in the gymnasium. At this time we will battle with William and Mary for athletic honors in basketball. On Saturday, January 18, the Blue and White scored a victory over Sweetbriar on the Sweet Briar court. Again on Friday, February 17, we made another triumph—this time over Harrisonburg. This visiting team was the second strongest in the state last year. These are the only basketball games we have played this season and in both of them we have come out with flying colors. We attribute this accomplishment to Miss Iler who has spent countless hours coaching our team and to the players who have proven their efficiency.

Student body, stand back of your team and inspire them by your cooperation to gain another favorable score for the Blue and White of S. T. C.

PLAY NIGHT FEATURES FRESHMAN ORCHESTRA

Under the baton of Lucille Wilkerson the Freshman Orchestra played for a dance which was given as a regular Saturday play night in the gymnasium.

A large number of students enjoyed dancing from 8 till 10 to the rhythmn of the freshman "Syncopaters."

The newly formed orchestra of the red and whites could well compete with the "Green Jackets" in pep and rhythm. O, Sophomores, where is your swing?

INTERCOLLEGIATE

At Marquette University all students living in fraternity houses have their names, characteristics and peculiarities listed with the police.

More than $600,000 worth of scholarships, fellowships, prizes, and loans are to be awarded by Columbia this year. So many ideas originate there that the school ought to be called, Columbia, the germ of the notion.

Several snakes at the London zoo are regarding spectators with a glassy stare. They lost their eyes in accidents of various kinds and the keepers fitted them with glass ones. The only trouble is that every time the snakes shed their skins the eyes pop out and have to be fitted back again.

In a recent debate at Wittenburg College three brunettes debated with three blondes. The question being, which of the two types is the more intelligent. The blondes won.

At Minnesota, when it was found necessary to move skeletons from one laboratory to another, the janitors decided which one of them was to have the job only after drawing lots.

The Bugle staff at V. P. I. has spent many weary hours trying to find a suitable location (with beautiful scenery) for taking the group pictures. Perhaps this is wisest because they could not depend on the smiling countenances of the cadets to make the pages attractive.

At a "depression" dance held recently at Ohio State, co-eds wore gingham dresses which they had made themselves.

The annual Mardi Gras ball at the University of Mississippi is a gay affair and usually no one sheds any tears about it.

This year, however, some 30 students at the University wept copiously just before the ball while their 30 "dates" sat impatiently waiting in the women's dormitory.

Some smart undergraduate exploded a tear gas bomb in Hill Hall, men's dormitory, just as the men students were dressing for the party.

PAN-HELLENIC TO HAVE OPEN MEETING

Pan- Hellenic held its quarterly open meeting Wednesday night, February 15 at 7 o'clock in the Student Building Auditorium.

Kitty Waters, vice-president, presided in the absence of the president. She cordially welcomed the new girls and explained to them some of the standards of the organization.

Mr. Staton Noel entertained the group with several musical selections, after which Dr. Jarman made an informal talk.

The Student Body extends sympathy to Maud Rhodes in her recent bereavement.

Nancy Burgwyn is Chosen Queen Of First Mardi Gras at S. T. C.

William Shannon Selected As King by Queen to Accompany and Crown Her

FARRAR AND RIPPARD TANGO

Miss Nancy Burgwyn, who was chosen the queen of Mardi Gras, was crowned by the king, Mr. William Shannon at the first annual festival of this kind Tuesday night, February 28, in the gymnasium of S. T. C.

There were eight attendants. They were: Kathrine Waters, Margaret Parker, Alice Rowell, Louise Van Lear, Norris Blake, Edward Bell and Alfred Blake.

The pages, Esther and Ruth Haskins, preceeded the king and queen. A tango was given by Miss Margaret Farrar and Mr. Lyle Rippard to entertain the royal group.

A grand march was held with the king and queen as leaders. Prizes were given for the most attractive costumes to Miss Sally Perrow and Frances Elders. Miss Margaret Farrar and Mr. Lyle Rippard received a prize for being the most attractive couple.

After this a co-ed dance continued till eleven. The music was furnished by the Hampden-Sydney Orchestra Cold drinks were sold during intermission.

The gymnasium was decorated with bright colors, that reminded one of Mardi Gras. Banners, streamers and balloons were yellow, orange, green, red and blue.

The queen wore a dress of gold trimmed in gold sequins. He throne was of white. Miss Burgwyn was accompanied by Mr. Shannon who appeared very dignified and stately in his tuxedo.

Many left the dance floor excited and anxiously awaiting the future, having had their fortunes told in the partitioned booth in one corner of the gym.

The gym was filled with faculty members, S. T. C. girls, their out-of-town friends, town people, and a representative group of Hampden-Sydney boys.

VOLUNTEER CONFERENCE HELD IN LYNCHBURG

Besides the girls who attended the Student Volunteer Conference held in Lynchburg as delegates, students and faculty members went to Saturday afternoon session; namely, Dr. Walmsley Mr. Currier, Winston Cobb, Elizabeth Walthall, Lucille Ingram, Elma Rawlings, Mattie Lula Cooper, Joyce Sturm and Woodruth Towler. Mr. Currier gave a short talk in which he mentioned the names of several books which are excellent for those people interested in student volunteer work.

Patches, Junior Play Proves Big Success

Eley and Shelton as Directors; Mock Wedding Was Presented; M. Parker Bride

"Patches", mysterious production of the Junior class, about which everyone had been guessing for a week or more, was presented Friday night, Feb. 24, in the auditorium. The production which was directed by Mary Shelton and Margaret Eley, proved a success from every standpoint.

The curtain rose upon a beautiful red and white quilted banner of '34 and '36, held by a group of girls wearing tall red hats, and singing an introductory chorus. In the background could be seen a large red standard, through which ten girls, the songsters of the Junior class, peered. When the curtain again opened it was to reveal a maid dressed in red and white, which part was taken by Mary Easley Hill, placing on the first girl of the standard, a red ruffling collar. As the following girls were donned with a ruffle, they introduced the dances of the program with appropriate songs: Elizabeth Kelley, Barbara Kester, Margaret Murry, Dorothy Woolwine, Martha Scott Watkins, Mary McCarn, Joyce Sturm, Edna Hatcher, Jeanallen Bowles and Sue Yeaman.

The dances were most original and costumes attractive and unique, not to mention the dancers themselves being worthy of praise. The following dances were given in appropriate costumes: Baby aDnce, Tap Dance, Tennis Dance, Beach Dance; "Going Away" Dance Masquerade Dance, Nun Dance and Maid Dance.

Chorus led by Mary Shelton: Virginia Hamilton, Dorothy Prescott, Mary Howard, Frances Graham, Nannie Gilbert, Betsy Wilkinson, Louise McNulty, Alice Rowell, Grace Rowell, Helen Shawen, Mildred Gwaltney.

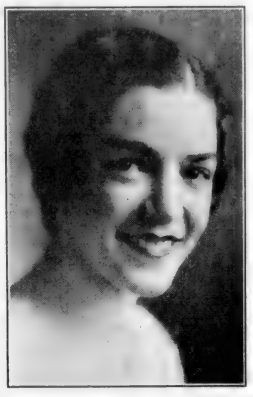
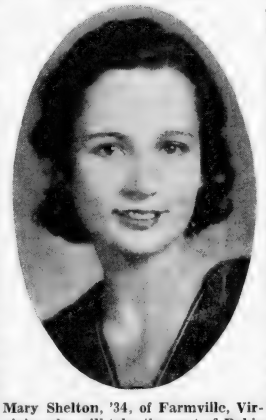
Jig-Saw Craze Lends Lively Excitement To The Monotony of School Routine



The jig-saw puzzle fever is really at its height now. If I can only escape the measles as I have this disease I certainly will be different, won't I? By the way, the style this summer is to be quaint and different.

The other day I walked into a drug store and found the clerk and a customer busy forming a design out of cut pieces of card board. The same day a friend went into the post office (don't misunderstand me, I mean the Farmville post office) and had to rap at the stamp window to get the attention of the postmaster. He was working one of those jig-saw puzzles. I have a mental picture of Uncle Sam working one. Maybe he will be putting pieces together someday, if this depression keeps up. Oh, yes, and another thing—er—someone (I'm a modest unknown author) gave as an excuse for answering a letter at a rather late date— "too busy working jig-saws." What next?



Some people are having their pictures cut up into puzzles. No doubt some of them make hard ones. I believe that I would be sure that my features were good before I let somebody study my face for two or three hours.

I wish somebody would find an answer to this problem: If it takes jig-saw fans three hours to put a so-called good puzzle together, how long would it take me to pick up two pieces, turn them every way to see if they'll fit and if not, exchange them for two others, etc.

After you have worked that one—do this one: Eowper yu oerm ot.

Helen Cover, '34, of Staunton, Virginia, who was recently elected Queen of May Day.

Mary Shelton, '34, of Farmville, Virginia, who will take the part of Robin Hood in the May Day exercises.

Raymond Currier Gives Series of Talks Past Week at S.T.C. Prayers and Chapel

Speaker Urges Students to Form Firm Foundation Upon Which Character Is Built

COOPERATION MUST BE TAUGHT

Raymond Currier, secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, of New York City, gave a series of lectures during the past week under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A.

Mr. Currier was one of the principle speakers at Blue Ridge last summer where the S. T. C. delegates met and talked to him, finally secured him as the main speaker of the year.

At prayers on Thursday night Mr. Currier explained that our lives cannot be built on a weak structure. The house of life in which we live must have a strong foundation of a positive Christian character.

All educated people go through three stages. The freshman at college begins this first stage. He sits upstairs in the house of life; he sits at a table spread with good things to eat; he looks outside through clean windows. He doesn't know the nature of the house which he is in, and he doesn't care.

Soon after the freshman has been in college and has begun to think things out for himself, the figure of speech is used that the cellar door is opened. The freshman very soon sees clearly the routine of life.

The second stage is shown in the fact that the college student begins to wonder just what kind of foundation this house of Life has. He has a desire to investigate. As he goes down the steps into the cellar, he sees the ugly, ruthless foundation upon which this house is built. It is discovered for the first time that the universe is a vast sort of empty space. This discovery is revealed through science, sociology, and experience. The student finds this out for the first time, or for the first time in himself. He finds out that the foundations which he thought were so firm and strong, were ant-eaten and were gradually tumbling down. It is a ghastly picture.

In the third stage this person who has been sitting comfortably upstairs, and who has finally gone down the steps into the cellar, soon begins to tear his way through that which he has found. He says that if science

Demeter Zachareff Will Present Opera

Three Memmbers of Boston Sextet Again Appear at S. T. C. In Opera Robin Hood

Demeter Zachareff will present the Boston Light Opera Company to the student body, tonight at eight o'clock in "Robin Hood", De-Koven's immortal comic opera.

Among the cast which consists of seventeen prominent and artistic actors are DesRosiers, Carmody, and Raymond Simonds who appeared at S. T. C. with the Boston Colonial Sextet earlier in the year. The cast consists of unusual brilliant actors and splendid voices, harmonizing beautifully.

The opera is to be presented in its entirety with the necessary scenery, authentic costuming and lighting.

The first scene of the opera is laid at the marketplace in Nottingham. The three outlaws sing of their free life in the forest of Sherwood. When Robin Hood appears, declaring that he is the Earl of Huntington, the Sheriff protests saying that he was disinherited by his father. Before the birth of Robin Hood, his father was secretly married to a peasant girl who died when her child was an infant. The child is Sir Guy of Gisborne, the rightful heir to the earldom. Sir Guy is the Sheriff's ward whom he is planning to marry to Lady Marian, ward of the Crown. However Marian and Robin already are deeply in love and exchange vows of eternal faith. Lady Marian protests against her forced marriage to Sir Guy, hoping that on the return of the King from the Crusades she will be released. Meanwhile, the King is helping Robin Hood to prove his right to the earldom. The outlaws sympathize with the pair and invite Robin Hood to join them with promises that he shall be their king, and, at length, Robin Hood agrees.

In the last act the dashing king of the outlaws saves Maid Marian from Sir Guy, and the opera ends amid general rejoicing at the triumph of Robin Hood and the gentle maid over the plotting Sheriff and his ward. The finale is lively.

First Experience With Radio Dials Proves What Laughs a Twisted Dial Can Produce

When radios were first pronounced a success I was very anxious to hear one. My first experience with one was at my Uncle Will's, who had just installed one. I thought it was a great wonder and decided to try it. I began turning the dials, and tuned in, but as I had not learned all the fine points about it, I got three stations at one time. One was a minister; one was a man telling the conditions of the roads, and the third was a lecture on poultry. This is the program I heard:

The old testament tells us that baby chicks should detour one mile south of Norfolk, and listen to the words of the prophets—be careful in the selection of your eggs, and you will find hard-surfaced roads to Petersburg. We find in Genesis that the roads are muddy just west of the hen house, and clean straw is essential if you would save your soul.

After passing through Farmville, turn north of Jerico. Three wise men bought a large incubator on account of a very bad detour. Always keep the feet clean and dry, live a life of righteousness, and turn south, one mile west of the school house.

Much care should be used in commanding the sun to stand still, as there is a bad washout at the bridge near Petersburg, and the road to salvation is under repair, making it necessary for warmth in the brooder house at all times. After you learn Richmond unless you do these things the wrath of the Lord will cause the pin feathers to fall out, and detour one mile south. aMny are called but few have any luck unless the gravel road between S. T.C. and Longwood is mixed with the feed. Out of five hundred eggs, one should get roads from Washington to Baltimore, and the Lord commanded Noah to build the Ark just one mile west of the Chesapeake Bay. It rained forty days and forty nights, and caused an 8-mile detour, just west of the brooder house. Many tourists from the house of David are trying Plymouth Rock mixed with concrete and a desire to do right.

By the time this program ended, I was thoroughly disgusted with the radio.

S. T. C.'S MARDI GRAS

The establishment of the custom of having a Mardi Gras at S. T. C. should prove to be one of the most novel and delightful features on the college program.

The custom of Mardi Gras was brought to America by French colonists. Although there are records of these festivities in 1702 in America, it was not until 1857 that Mardi Gras as we now know it, was celebrated in New Orleans, Louisiana. The Mardi Gras celebrates the festival season before Lent and the name comes from the French meaning "Fat Tuesday."

This quaint custom has lasted for many years, and is one of the famous festivals of the world. With its lovely costumes, beautiful girls, and long spectacular parades Mardi Gras is an exciting time in New Orleans. Animated and tense, eager, fun-loving people reign at Mardi Gras. The entire town is turned over to the festival. The choosing of the Queen and her court is a weighty matter and high excitement prevails with regard to the selection.

It is to be hoped that the custom of having Mardi Gras will continue at S. T. C. so that it will become one of the well-loved traditions of the school such as Founder's Day or the Color Rush.

LET IT BE YOUR ROTUNDA

Before the Sunday meditation hour which lasted from 2 o'clock until 4 was abolished, S. T. C. students were extremely dissatisfied and anxious for the ruling to be changed. A short time before the new rule went into effect, a letter which gave clearly and concisely the student view of the ruling appeared in the Open Forum column of the Rotunda. Very soon afterwards, Jane Royall, president of the student government, announced to the satisfaction of the students that the rule had been abolished and that meditation hour "was no more."

How much more satisfactory and intelligent method of letting the student government and faculty know student opinion concerning campus affairs rather than the usual that gets one no where. eLt the Rotunda be your paper, to express your opinions, thoughts and activities. Use it to the best advantage!

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

In a recent class meeting we Freshmen were reminded that we were supposed to sign up when we went down town and that we aren't supposed to go except twice a week on shopping tours. This seems like an undue amount of red tape to go through just to go shopping. Besides, if we are old enough to make our ascent into college we are certainly old enough to go the short distance down town more often than twice a week. The most of us have good reasons for going and even though you can have some one else do your purchasing, very few of them would come back with the right articles. I've tried, and I know.

What good does this signing up do anyway? You certainly can't keep direct tab on 250 freshmen, and I don't think the signing up data is ever used except to keep you from going down town a little more often. We are no longer babies, but are level-headed young women; so, please treat us as such. If we are able to bear the brunt of college studies we should be allowed to go down town as often as we please during regulation hours.

BOOK REVIEW

THE PRISONER OF ZENDA
Anthony Hope

For a good book one which is full of action and easy to read. I recommend "The Prisoner of Zenda."

Rudolf Rassendyll, due to an ancient and forgotten scandal in his family looked remarkably like the line of kings then ruling in Ruritania. In fact, his name was the same as that of the young prince about to be crowned. For fear the scandal would be dug up, Rudolf had been forbidden to ever go to Ruritainia; but, having a roving, adventurous disposition, he decided to go to Ruritania to the coronation of the new, young king.

In his adventures he met the prince the day before his coronation, and they were almost identically alike! The prince entertained Rudolf Rassendyll in his hunting lodge; and in the meantime drank some wine sent to him by his brother and bitter enemy. The wine was drugged and on the day of the prince's coronation, he was in a drugged stupid coma. To keep "Black Michael", the prince's brother, from gaining the crown, Rudolf Rassendyll went to the castle and was crowned in the prince's place. The prince was taken by Black Michael to the Castle of Zenda and imprisoned in a dungeon there.

When the false king found that the true king was missing, it was necessary for him to carry on the farce. He fell in love with the princess; and the princess, thinking he was the true king fell in love with him. In the end the false king outwits Black Michael and restores the imprisoned king to his throne. For further adventures of the illustrious Rudolf Rassendyll read the sequel, Rupert of Hentzaw.

THE CAROLINIAN
By Rafael Sabatini

"The Carolinian" is a most interesting historical novel, portraying some of the inner life of the Charlestown people during the Revolution. The people live a gay, social life although it is intermingled with war.

Harry Latimar, the man character, is a most delightful person. He fully comes up to all expectations of a colonial rebel. Latimar and his wife, Myrtle, have the main love interests. Their lover's quarrels and distrusts are much like those of modern times.

Sir Andrew is a perfect picture of a stormy Tory. Above all else, he is true to his king.

So, Sabatini presents to us a beautiful picture of high characters, and low, and of the life of that romantic time we have all read and dreamed so much about.

TREACHERY

By Constance Lay

In that first evanescent rapture, you
Began our tale as every tale's begun—
Making such fragile vows as lovers do—
And, naturally, you've broken every one.

Into a net of vows, have since betrayed
My old aloof, cool self—for I have kept
The silly promises I never made.

Night after night—
In the darkness I hear your tread.
I wish that I might only hold your dear, dark head
Close to me!
I know I'd never let you go,
But then—I've never really held you so—
I'll just go on dreaming—
Night after night.

Rainy, blue
Want to cry—

You know why!

Skies, dark blue
Dearest darling
I miss you!

With some vague patter about 'a degree' or a 'career' or something of the sort. But why should we? Isn't it perfectly natural for a young girl to want to be all dressed up with somewhere to go, to add scalps to her collection of male victims, and to wear proudly over her heart a badge telling the world she lives in harmony with those of her own sex? After all, if we succeed in those things we will probably have little need for a college education anyway."—The Tulane Hullabaloo.

Farmville Defeats William and Mary

Farmville defeated William and Mary, 27-15, Saturday night, February 25 in a well played basketball game. The game started off with S. T. C. making the first goal. Then for a few minutes the score was even, but soon our team ran it up never again to be reached by our opponents. The team-work of our squad was excellent. Every girl played her bet. The good pass-work and shooting of William and Mary were well matched by that of S. T. C.

MONKEY BUSINESS

If you should find your name below
And wonder why it's there:
I really think you ought to know,
—It's there because it's there.

S. T. C. enjoyed a very delightful dinner Wednesday night. Popular rumor states that it was to celebrate Mary Conway's coming off campus Thursday morning.

It seems that "big blonde, handsome Charlie" doesn't mind an 80-mile drive, when he knows that Lucille Tiller is waiting for him at the other end. Events like that of Thursday night are only typical.

Nancy Harrison was a great success as Maid of Honor in "Patches." Successful maids of honor often become charming brides. Oh, Sam!

In spite of the fact that Will Chappell seems to hold the proverbial "Silver Throne," it certainly seems that DotSnedegar lingers in the mind of Scottie Crawford longer than anyone else. Certainly there is something deep back of the excitement which Scottie showed over hearing the crowds yell, "Dot, our Captain!" at the game Saturday night. When he writes his name all over his History papers, some folks think that it is funny, but it looks serious to me.

Mr. T. Beane, from down where the beans grow, was at S. T. C. Sunday to see Nell Weaver, and others. Nell is on the government, but in spite of that sad fact, she rates or does she rate?

After being away for another week end and another Saturday night, "Bo" Chittum had a date with Mary Elizabeth Alexander Sunday night. Let us not listen to the poet who said, "Time, once lost, can never be regained." That is one poet who made a mistake!

Virginia Hall and S. T. C.'s Clark Gable, (Jack Gray) have really got "it" or something. The way they sit over and talk (?) is a good guess for anyone. The only trouble with Jack is, that when he dates one girl he breaks the hearts of about six hundred and ninety-nine others.

Dot Eley and "Moon" Mullins were a sight for sore eyes Sunday night. No one can say that "Moon" isn't cute, and everyone knows that Dot is cute, so you see, it was a very cute affair.

"Honey" Hamilton and Bob Kinnaird are expected to board the train at any time now.

Dot Prescott and Mac Crowe were this-a-way, that-a-way, and every kind of way Sunday night. Did you enjoy the church services? Well, here's wishing you the best of luck, and, Dot, don't let that crow fly away.

If Lorena Bland and Ed Paulette aren't in love in a big way, they are putting on a mighty good show.These orchestra crooners, with a "Hey nonny-nonny" are hard to catch; but Lorena, you certainly landed one with a hot cha-cha as well.

Patchell is just trying to find out whether hard-hearted, stone-faced government girls can fall in love or not. Everyone is interested in his research, and he seems to be progressing wonderfully.

Artense Forbush is mighty proud of "Al" Sterm. If you don't believe it, watch and see if a single week passes that they aren't together, whispering sweet nothings in each other's ears.

"THE DOPE FIEND."

One morning a week an economic professor at the University of Rochester furnshes his students with free lunches.—The Ring-Tum Phi.

Over the Teacups

Hello! Dija have a good time last week-end? So did I! Mighty lot of sleepy-looking girls on Monday morning, too.

Oh! you wanta know who went where? Well, three from among us rated bids to dances: Dot Stone attended the dances at Roanoke College; Isabelle Allegree was at the University dances in Charlotttesville; Frances Coleman attended the A. M. A. dances at Fort Defiance. Some people get all the lucky breaks.

Lotsa girls went visiting—there's Kitty Chappell, Marion Raine, Elsie Truly, Susan Gresham who went to Danville Jestine Cuishall, Lucille Wilkinson, Katherine Eggleston, Mary Louise McNulty and Florence Tankard went to Roanoke. (I hear that Florence spent most of her time at Hollins).

Katherine Coleman and Wycliff Scott spent the week-end in Orange.

Ruth and Maynie Showalter visited in Kenbridge.

Helen Rose Cunningham, Lois Bradshaw Leah Jane Shaw, and Charlotte Young spent the week-end in Crewe; Pauline Woodhouse visited in Norfolk; Margaret Gilmer and Mary Gilmer went to Charlottesville; Margaret Jack visited in Lynchburg; Margaret Hix went home with Empty Rawls.

My! But a gang of folks went home for the week-end: Nancy Burgwyn, Elizabeth Billiups Virginia Brinkley, Emma Bingham Christine Childrey, Henrietta Salsbury, Louise Van Lear, Dot Eubank, Maude Watts, Sarah Sykes, Dot Justice, Mary Virginia Johnson, Mary Virginia Walker, Sallie Perrow, Billy Wilkinson, Jessie Lee Swisher, Jeanne Gwaltney, Custis Carter, Addie Norfleet.

There's always lotsa folks going to Richmond. Here's who went last week end: Jennie Wheeler, Beulah Travis, Mary Jane Taylor, Josephine Clayton, Frances Dorin, Grace Eubank, Ophelia Booker, Claudia Harper, Margaret Herndon, Marion Eller—spring shopping, I suppose. And by the way, have you noticed the cute little hats the freshmen are wearing? They're not all green either.

GAMMA THETA GIVES BANQUET AT LONGWOOD

Gamma Theta sorority held its annual banquet in honor of its new members on Saturday evening, February 25 at Longwood. Blue and white was attractively carried out in the color scheme of the table decorations flowers, candles, etc. Plates were laid for 38 people including the present members, pledges Miss Stubbs and Miss Mix, and the following alumnae: Beth Gannaway, Covington; Ann Davis, Richmond; Frances Rawlings, "Cottie" Willis, Elsie Burgess, Vernie Oden, Ann McGann, Mary Priest, Margaret Priest of Norfolk, and Clara McKenzie of Portsmouth.

But then—even though I still am

RAYMOND CURRIER SPEAKS HERE

has done this he is determined to know more through sociology, economics, and more sicence. He says that he is either going to find out that life is rotten, just as the foundations of the house were, or else he is going to turn up some good somewhere. He begins to study; he begins to investigate. He soon learns that the foundations are not entirely of wood. Life's happiness does not depend upon this alone. Wood isn't the only foundation. On the inside there is a kind of steel that holds up the house. The wood acts only as a shelf.

When all of this has been discovered, and when one goes up to the stairs again, he has to embark on social reconstruction. The world won't let a person live in the garden which he seeks for self protection. He is driven out to do something in this human life.

Friday night, at prayers, Mr. Currier discussed a Pattern for a New World. He said that the ways in which men have been living are being destroyed and dissolved. Christians must wish to have a new life. We shouldn't be satisfied with the disadjustment which is now here. We begin to think. What would be a decent sort of world to live in? We map out four designs that should be woven in this rug of life.

The first design is that the human race must weave life as an ant hill instead of as a tiger jungle. From our childhood we have been constantly told to beat somebody else. We must get something just a little better than the other person. This, Mr. Currier terms as tiger psychology. Human society must be made over into an ant hill. We must have the attitude of cooperation. When it is necessary, one should give his life for the good of his community. Mr. Currier brought out the fact that we require this in war, but in peace we revert to tigerism.

The second design is that there is a full admission of infinite value of the individual. The community will not be happy if it insist on submergence of individuals. The human just isn't made that way.

The third design is that society must have a picture of the universe. In this picture there must be some good for man. There must be a concept of God in it. We are a part of a great show that is going somewhere.

The fourth and last design is that we must admit that human nature can be changed. Society will have to recognize that the human race must be changed; it must realize that the human race can be changed. then, it must go about performing this change.

During the chapel services, Mr. Currier, in speaking of the world, showed how closely related one nation is to another. He told how a fad innocently adopted by one country may cause a famine in another.

In our mad rush for wealth and distinction, we have failed to realize we are co-workers, day by day, in this great plan of living.

The speaker likened this plan of Life to the weaving of an Oriental rug, each nation re-weaving its part of the pattern which the acids of modernity have destroyed.

How shall the Christian, realizing he is living in a world where pain and suffering are inevitable and that surrendering, individual freedom would make him unhappy, choose his pattern?

He would avoid first, choosing traits from our tiger jungle traditions second, exemphifying the cooperation and sacrifice found in the building of an ant hill; third, we would find the beauty and love, which is God; and fourth, we would believe it possible that human nature can and must be made over—Christ being our ideal.

Mr. Currier spoke of Russia's reorganization, the redeeming point being her cooperation; yet she is lacking in individual freedom, and belief in God, having a philosophy that might make right.

The speaker gave India, under the influence of Ghandi, as representing a nation compared to Russia who believes in cooperation, love and non-resistance.

Each one holds a golden cord to weave, day by day, in this rug of life. This cord is love which we give in sacrifice and service for our fellowman, which has at the heart of it peace and satisfaction, God's supreme rewards.

Moore Concludes Sing By Spirited Pep Meeting

One of the most attractive sings of the year was presented Saturday night in the auditorium. Martha Ann Laing, as a gypsy fortune teller, made several mistakes in reading the futures of Hazel Smith, Mary Alice Farrell and Louise Hyde. Hazel didn't have any idea of being a wonderful pianist but she certainly did set feet a-tapping disguised as S. T. C.'s own Little Jack Little, Garnett Hodges. Mary Alice never dreamed of being a dancer but she discovered that she tapped very well to ..Going, Going, Gone." It nearly broke Louise Hyde's heart when she heard that she was doomed to be an old maid. Louise wondered if she had been mixed with Alice McKay.

Madame Fortune Teller finally got things straight. She showed Louise that insead of being an old maid she would be the mother of many children, including one very talented daughter who was a cheer leader. A Moore ended sing by putting a little school spirit into everyone staged. As the bridal party marched down the aisle to the tune of Lohengrin's Wedding March, their attractive red 'Tux's" and white dresses with red sashes, hats and corsages on parade before the anxious eyes of the audience. Margaret Eley appeared on the stage in a red "Tux" as the preacher. Margaret Parker as the bride and Nancy Harrison as maid of honor, both exquisitely gowned in white, looked lovely, as did the brides' maids also. The party assembled on the scene, each in his respective place and the minister carried on the mock ceremony to the tune of "Minnie the Moocher." Little Margaret Ann Newman as flower girl and Dran Nichols as ring bearer were cunning and attracted the attention of the entire audience.

At the close of the ceremony the entire cast assembled for the Grand Finale.

Dr. Jarman Attends Minnesota Meeting

Dr J. L. Jarman, president of the college, left Tuesday, February 21, for Minneapolis, Minnesota, where he attended the seventeenth annual meeting of the American Association of Teachers Colleges, held at the Curtis Hotel, February 24 and 25. He returned last Monday.

On Friday morning, Feb. 24, the meeting was opened at nine o'clock under the general topic of "Validity of Present Status and Trends in Teacher Education." Mr. Charles H. Judd, dean of the School of Education, University of Chicago, talked on "The American Teachers College"; M. E. Haggerty spoke on "A Program of Development in the Education of Teachers".

With President J. Ashbury Pitman, presiding, the general topic of "Experimental Reconstruction" of Curricula and Procedures in Teacher Education" was discussed in the afternoon.

Saturday, President H. H. Cherry, and Dean John W. Withers presided at the meetings where "The National Survey of the Education of Teachers" and "Teacher-Education" and a "New Social Order" were discussed.

VARIOUS GROUPS GIVES PARTIES FOR PLEDGES

Last week the spirit of revelry was king on sorority hall. Royal feasts were given, and evidently from the peals of laughter and gay babel of voices they were enjoyed.

Gamma Theta pledges entertained all the pledges of the various groups Friday night. Thursday night the Delia Sigma Chi pledges had "open house" and Tuesday the Pi Kappa Sigmas did likewise.

The Tri Sigma pledges entertained Tuesday night a week ago on February 14, with a party, which began the pledge parties for the year.

1st Grade Observes Art Class Projects

Last Monday, first grade children from the Training School observed projects of farm life, of Indian life, and a miniature grocery store project which had been constructed by the Art 112 classes under the guidance of Miss Virginia Bedford, S. T. C. art teacher, different classes having made each project.

A great deal of ingenuity was displayed in getting desired effects, and the projects were carried out to the smallest detail.

The project of farm life included the house which was white with a green door and blinds, and shingled green roof. The flower garden with its vari-colored flowers inclosed in its separate fence gave quite a contrast to the green grass and to the actual small pine trees fixed to wooden standards in the yard. The barnyard, also enlosed in its separate fence, with its barn, silo, and farmyard animals quite delighted the children. Smaller details such as those of the cellophane windows, the green window boxes filled with flowers, the rustic rock walk, and the picket fence added to the picturesqueness of the project.

The grocery store was built of green beaver board, large enough for the children to actually enter. Rows of canned goods stood on the shelf with marked prices. Sacks of flour, salt, and sugar were ready for immediate sale. Painted clay potatoes, bananas, and oranges filled bins. An attractive window display was even visible.

The Indian life project was constructed on a sand-table. Various clay bowls and teepees of paper, painted with characteristic Indian designs represented the home life of the Indian. A lake with Indian canoes ready for launching, and a forest of pine trees gave an idea of the outdoor life of the Indians.

Freshman Issue Last Rotunda In Series

The Rotunda is being edited this week by the Freshman Class, the last in the series of class publications. For the past four weeks the Rotunda has been under the direction of the different class staffs rather than that of the regular staff. At the end of this contest a prize will be awarded to the class having had the most outstanding paper. This prize is being awarded by the original cabinet of the Rotunda.

The first of this series, the Senior issue, appeared on February 8 under the editorship of Mary T. Rawls. This was followed on February 15 by the Juniors under Edith Shanks' direction. On February 22 the Sophomores presented their Rotunda guided by Esther Haskins.

This week Kitty Hoyle has edited the final issue.

Advice to Nertz

Dearest Aunt Woo,

What is this world coming to? Teaching is getting me down. What will the education of the next generation amount to?

The only great fault I can find is that it monopolizes so much of my time that I have none left with which to write Pee-Wee. Oh! dear, what shall I do? Do you really think he understands?

Anxiously yours,
Dot

Dotty dear,

You need have no qualms about the time you make in your letters to Pee-Wee. I am more than certain that your charming smiles which you so generously, and charmingly bestow upon him can make up for all the letters in either of your dear lives.

Obligingly yours,
Aunt Woo

Dear Aunt Woo,

My troubles are great—I am in true distress. You are the only one to whom I may go with my troubles. You always tolds me you would help if I needed you. My family would not understand. The Home Department would be embarrassed. I have nearly been driven distracted. What shall I do. I have little money, you know, living in a small city as I do, I cannot afford to ask anyone in the vicinity. The question is: Shall I wear heavy flannel underwear again this year.

Distractedly yours,
Kitty Woodson

Kitty, dear girl,

I am so pleased that you have come to me when you are in trouble. I feel that you dear young things should have someone to go to who really understands you. Always you may be sure that I am interested in you, my dear.

I do think that you had best not wear your heavy underwear this winter because dresses are becoming a little shorter and I fear you would be droll and no longer stylish with red flannels hanging conspicuously beneath your dress.

Devotedly yours,
Aunt Woo

Dread of Overweight Haunts S. T. C. Girls

"Show Me the Way to Get Thin" seems to be the theme song of a great majority of S. T. C. girls of this modern century. It has been "an old Spanish custom," so they tell me, for all the girls to gain at least 15 pounds during their first three months' stay at Farmville. The idea is to let your parents know that you are living a life of leisure and getting good wholesome food. There real'y isn't much we can say about that.

Most all of us Freshmen have had the pleasure of obtaining that "school girl figure" with all the surplus weight that goes along with it. Don't ask us how we feel about it because well we'd rather not say.

It is quite surprising how little we worry about our weight at school. We can always find someone who is larger than we are.

As tragic as it is, we all have to go home and listen to the town's talk about how Frances, Sue or whoever it might be, has gained at school—and oh yes—"My! but they must get plenty of sleep and good meals that agree with them so!" Can you feature that?

How discouraging it is to try on our last summer's dresses (we all have to do it, you know)! We attempt to convince ourselves that the frock has shrunk, but we know all the time what the trouble is and just won't admit it. You wouldn't either if you knew how horrible it is. We just got those weighty blues—just as blue as we can be!

Robin Hood Light Opera is Given in The Auditorium

Last Lyceum of Year Is Enthusiastically Received by Large Audience

OPERA HAS MODERN HUMOR

The audience was the largest and most enthusiatic of the season, on Wednesday evening, March 1 to hear one of the finest programs in many years—Robin Hood! The opera was presented in its entirety with the necessary scenery, authentic costuming and lighting. The performance was complete in every detail and required the full evening for presentation.

The splendid voices, harmonizing beautifuly, superbly interpreted the characters of the romantic story of Robin Hood and "spiced" it with polly sparkling humor of the modern day. The audience's reception indicated that they were eager to hear more of the musical gems; and the artists were very gracious with their encores.

Not only was the audience held spellbound by the wonderful, brilliant cast, but rightly acclaimed that Robin Hood is America's finest comic opera.

The cast:

Robinhood ..... Raymond Simonds
Lady Marian ..... Norma Erdmann
Annabelle ..... Yvonne DesRosiers
The Sheriff ..... Hudson Carmody
Sir Guy of Gisburne .. Eugene Conley
Little John ..... Edward Dwyer
Friar Tuck ..... Robert Henry
Alen-a-dale ..... Dorothy Horan
Will Scarlett .. Gennaro D'Alessandro

Dr. Walmsley Talks For Students Day

Dr. Walmsley gave a most interesting and instructive talk this morning on the new presidential cabinet. In it he gave a description of the physical appearances of each member including Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Garner. He told the state from which they come, their qualifications, the reasons back of their appointments and the probability of the permanency of their stay in the cabinet.

He also told us how to pronounce the names of the various members. Especially interesting to S. T. C. were the very complimentary remarks concerning Miss Frances Perkins Secretary of Labor.

Dr. Walmsley's talk was timely and interesting.

SENIORS WIN PRIZE FOR BEST ROTUNDA ISSUE

During the month of February each of the four classes edited one issue of the Rotunda. Last week the last class issue that of the freshmen was pubzlished. The committee decided that the senior issue was the best. The following is the letter received. The prize offered is $2.50.

The committee has decided that the Senior issue of the special class editions of The Rotunda is the best of the four. The decision was close, however, as the issue voted second best lacked only a fraction of being first.

We want to congratulate the staffs that had the class issues in charge on their fine work.

Very sincerely yours,
Samuel M. Holton, Jr.

Committee: Miss Mary E. Peck, Miss E. Lucille Jennings; Samuel M. Holton, Jr., Chairman.

Musical Week Is Of Special Interest

The Music Committee of the Y. W. C. A. sponsored a series of short musical programs last week at the prayer services. Joyce Sturm, who is chairman of this committee, has worked faithfully with her committee to arrange for these programs. It is the hope of this committee that some values have been obtained by those who listened to the programs of this Music Week.

The entire school showed its appreciation to those who took part in the programs by regular attendance and reverence during the rendering of the programs.

Throughout the week the programs were carried out against the soft background of candlelight.

Monday night Miss Potts talked on "Music as a Universal Language." A quartet sang "Dear God and Father of Mankind."

Tuesday night, Miss Irene Leake, accompanied by Miss Virginia Potts, gave a lovely program of vocal music. She sang the following numbers:

The Lord is My Light ..... Allitsen
Brown Bird Singing .... Haydn Word
Homing ..... Del Riego

Wednesday the Choral Club and String Trio gave their enjoyable program.

String Trio: Gertrude Mannes, Lula Windley, Dorothy Field.

My Task ..... Choral Club Quintet

Soprano—Alice Blankenship, Esther Haskins.

Alto—Nell Ryan, Ruth Haskins.

Violin Solo ..... Gertrude Mannes

Lift Thine Eeyes ..... Mendelssohn
Choral Club

Thursday night the topic "Poetry and Music" was well carried out in the following program. The program was introduced by a few lines from Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice" read by Nancy Burgwyn. This was followed by Chopin's "Nocturne" played by Christine Seay. Following this, Nancy Burgwyn read "Litttle Boy Blue." by Eugene Field and "Trees" by Joyce Kilmer. She was accompanied by Louise Hyde at the piano.

Friday night the program for the

New Chairman Is Appointed

Mary Jess Richmond, who has been the chairman of the music committee for May Day, has finished her studies and will leave school at the end of this quarter. Sue Yeaman has been appointed to serve in her place. This is an important part in May Day, and it is believed that Sue can fill the position very capably since she has always taken an active part in musical activities here.

SENIOR LITTLE SISTERS ELECT CHAIRMAN

The Senior "little sisters" met on Monday, March 6, to elect a chairman. These girls take an important part in commencement, for which plans are already being made. There has to be someone to call them together, to arrange practices and to provide for transportation to Longwood in the spring; therefore a leader is necessary.

There were three nominations for this office: Alice McKay, Tac Waters, and Elizabeth Kelly. Since the first two already had many duties, Elizabeth Kelly was elected. She is an attractive Junior.

Farmville Victors In Debate With Emory & Henry

Question Debated Was: "Resolved That the U. S. Should Cancel War Debts"

HARRISON AND POLLARD TEAM

A very interesting and entertaining debate was held in the Student Building auditorium Wednesday night, March 1 The question debated was: "Resolved: That the United States should cancel the war debts. The affirmative side of the question was upheld by Eric Lawson and Thomas Eley of Emory and Henry College. The negative was upheld by Nancy Harrison and Margaret Pollard of Farmville State Teachers College. The affirmative presented an appealing argument based on the following issues: First, the U. S. is morally obligated to cancel the war debts; second, the foreign nations are not able to pay; third, cancellation is advantageous in bringing better economic conditions and helping world peace. The negative answered with arguments equally appealing, based on the following issues: First, cancellation is unfair to the people of the U. S.; second, the debtor nations have the capacity to pay; third, cancellation will bring about future trouble.

We wish to congratulate both of the teams on their excellent appearance, especialy since it was their first intercollegiate debate.

Professor F. H. Hart, head of the history department of Hampden-Sydney College was critic judge. After commending both teams on their speeches, he announced the decision in favor of the negative team represented by S. T. C. This makes four out of five debates which S. T. C. has won this season. Everybody come out Wednesday night and support your teams.

Tickets for 'Dover Road' Provided For Alumnae

Tickets are being provided for the alumnae and friends of the college to see "The Dover Road" Founder's Day. These tickets may be obtained for the repeat performance of this play Friday evening, March 10.

Tickets may be obtained from the business office Thursday, from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M. The Farmville alumnae may obtain complimentary tickets.

All students are urged to secure tickets for their visitors and friends so that they may see the repeat performance of this very unusual production.

The dramatic club under Miss Wheeler's guidance is presenting the play without cost in order to make Founder's Day more attractive to alumnae and others interested in the chool.

The cast is being coached all this week under the directorship of Miss Wheeler, and the play will be equally good if not better than when presented in the fall.

The most unfortunate person is the one who is dressed up educationally and has no place to go. To have been prepared and not to be wanted is a tragedy—Roy Lyman Wilbur.

Affirmative Team Loses to Emory

Our affirmative debate team composed of Dorothy Woolwine and Beverly Barksdale lost to the Emory and Henry debate team last Wednesday night at Emory. They debated the subject: 'Resolved, that all war debts incurred before the signing of the Armistice should be cancelled."

The affirmative based their arguments on three major contentions. They are: 1st, the war debts are unjust dates; 2nd, the cancellation of these debts would be advantageous to the U. S., and 3rd, cancellation of these debts is necessary for the welfare of the world. The negative based their arguments on five major points: 1st, These debts were legally contracted; 2nd, The nations are morally obligated to pay them; 3rd, Europe is able to pay; 4th, The nations have the capacity to pay; and 5th, It would be too much of a hardship on the U. S. to pay.

The debate was judged by a critic judge chosen by Emory and Henry.

Both teams presented a very literary debate with not much humor and wit. The affirmative team showed excellent preparation on both sides of the question, their rebuttals being much more forceful, pointed and worth while than those of the negative. The negative covered the subject very well in their main speeches. The affirmative team spoke, entirely from notes, while the negative read almost all of their debates.

Our team left Farmville about 8 o'clock Wednesday morning and arrived at Emory at 4 o'clock. They had lunch at Wytheville at Lions Lodge. The girls had their meals with the co-eds of Emory and Henry. The debaters were given a reception after the debate. About 50 or 75 people attended the debate.

Accompanying Dot Woolwine and Beverly Wilkinson were Mr. Holton, coach, and Miss Henry, and Margaret Hix. They returned to Farmville on Thursday.

This is the first debate in which Dot and Beverly have participated. Both promise to be excellent debaters. They debate the same question against Waynesburg tonight.

S. T. C. Meets Waynesboro Col.

The Debate Club continues its series of debates with a dual debate The question to be debated is resolved that U. S. should cancel war debts. A debate will be in the Student Building auditorium and the other in the main auditorium at 7:0 o'clock. The affirmative side of the question will be upheld by Dorothy Woolwine and Beverly Barksdale and the negative side will be upheld by Nancy Harrison and Margaret Pollard.

Every one that heard the debate last Wednesday night when the negative team defeated Emory and Henry College will be sure to come and hear our team on the affirmative side too. We hope that everyone that was not present will come also to hear one of the debates on Wednesday night.

After the debate a reception will be had for the visiting team in the Student Building lounge. Every member of the Debate Club is invited.

S. T. C. to Have Founders Day Event Sat'y

The Forty-Ninth Anniversary of the Founders Day Will be Celebrated March 11

"DOVER ROAD" TO BE REPEATED

To celebrate the forty-ninth anniversary of the founding of this school, the year old plan of having a Founder's Day will be carried out Saturday, March 11, 1933.

The formal Founder's Day exercises will be held at 10:30 in the auditorium. At 1 the alumnae luncheon will be given at Longwood, the alumnae returning at 3:00 for a business meting. The Farmville basket ball team will encounter the Blackstone College sextette at 4:00 P. M. in the gymnasium. At 8:00 Miss Jennie M. Tabb, of the class of '93 will give the Founder's Day speech and Dr. aJrman will sing, bringing the celebration to a wonderful close.

Upon the request of Dr. Jarman and the committee, Miss Wheeler and the cast of "The Dover Road" generously consented to repeat that play on Friday night, March 10. This has meant hard work for them, because a new character had to be trained to take the part played by Merle Smith, who is no longer at Hampden-Sydney. There will be no admission charge, but tickets must be presented at the door. The exercises in the morning will be of a different nature from those of last year. An orchestra dance recital of the same type given last year, the Friday night before

Boston Light Opera Singers Perform

The Boston Light Opera Company delightfully entertained the entire student body with a selection of numbers on Thursday morning at chapel. These musical renditions were enjoyed not only by those who had not seen the performance the night before, but also by those who had seen it. Especially interesting was the act of pointing out and deciding just which man "disguised" in civilian clothing, played the part of which character in "Robin Hood."

The singers opened their program Thursday with a chorus by the Boston Male Choir. This was followed by selections sung by Madame des Rosiers, Eugene Conally, and Marian Erdman.

Among the selections were: Schubert's "Serenade," "Italian Street Song," and "Solider's Chorus."

DRAMATIC CLUB MEETS MARCH 2ND

The Dramatic Club held a very important meeting Thursday, March 2. The regular business was discussed. It was decided that, since the plays are not well attended, a spring play will not be presented. In place of this, the various groups of the club are going to give short plays in the club.

On Friday night, March 11, "The Dover Road" will again be presented. This play was given in the fall and proved an excellent success. Anyone who has not seen it should not miss the opportunity again.

THE BIGGER AND BROADER THINGS

College should develop in one an understanding of life and make one appreciate the bigger and broader things in life. The ability to see both sides of a question is a quality often found lacking even in some of our college professors. Anyone possessed of this trait of being broadminded enough to know that no one is perfect and that one's faults are sometimes overshadowed by his good traits has gone a long ways toward leading a happy life and of making others happy. We allow some tiny thing to change our opinion of a person when in reality that person is ashamed of that fault. Why can't we realize that no one is perfect, and, instead of hating one for some trait or some act of which we disapprove, help them by kindly words and kind deeds.

Just as some of our professors in college have failed to acquire this bigger understanding, so will we unless we learn that just as we must forgive and excuse our own faults, we must also forgive and overlook those in others. How much heartache, how much pain and how much misunderstanding could be abolished if only we could be so broadminded!

We as teachers should remember this fact and develop this trait so that we will inspire the confidence, love and respect of our children. If one teacher fails to grasp this bigger and broader knowledge, what strife and needless misunderstanding she causes.

Some of us who are so successful in working jig-saw puzzles might give the depressed business managers a hint as to how we make "the ends meet."

GOOD CITIZENS

Since the necessity and importance of having intelligent and worthwhile citizens are so evident, training for citizenship has come to be one of the aims of education today. Then, if we are getting a well-rounded education, we are learning to be worthy citizens.

Before we realize it, we will be out of school and into the State as citizens, whether desirable or undesirable. Of course, everyone of us wants to be a desirable member of society.

We have often been reminded that we are citizens and members of a "big family" here. As really worth while citizens we are learning not only to associate with others by participation in group activities but also to collectively and cooperatively render intelligent decisions upon questions of common concern.

Our conduct and our disposition towards the regulations and rules and towards the group activities are determining the kind of citizens we are here and are largely foretelling the kind of State and National citizens we shall be.

A LITTLE BIRD TOLD ME

That certain Juniors are surely lucky who have food delivered at the front door of the Senior Building from 12:30 to 1:00 A. M.

That the 'Big Five" are on the rampage again. We wonder who has admittance to the sacred circle this year. We have our suspicions.

That three girls on gym hall have been reducing—a diet and everything. They must think they are the "bigger and broader things" at S. T. C.

That a little girl in Cunningham Hall has been making photograph collections. However all have disappeared recently—and the chief stands alone.

That two tall Seniors caught on the halls in gym shirts are becoming chummy. Common interest, certainly attracts people together. We hope they take Miss Mary's talk to heart.

That pie beds are prevalent in the Senior Building. It's awfully near exams to be wasting time, don't you think!

That Seniors are so dull and green that a flood light is necessary to brighten things up and incidently to keep away night visitors of all kinds.

INCIDENTALLY, I WONDER

How much time is spent in working jig-saw puzzles.

Who doesn't cut campus.

How many jumpers there are in school.

Why I put off all my work till now.

If anybody is ready for exams.

What it feels like to get plenty of sleep.

Why I starve and gain at the same time.

Who were the chosen few in the beauty contest.

Who remembers her New Year's resolution now.

When Cousin Tommy does his day dreaming.

What the Confederate soldier across the street thinks about.

Who'll win the debates tonight.

If we all aren't blue more or less.

If the bankers had such a big time over the inauguration that they had to take off a few days for rest.

Where my cash is coming from now.

What would happen if the post office closed down for a few days.

What's life but one big jigaroo.

CUTE OR CHARACTERISTIC

With almost everyone in school with a nick name, we wonder where and how they all started. Was Honey Hamilton a "honey", and if so which of the three definitions of honey would apply to her. "Poochie" McDaniel is another—does "Poochie" resent being called a pooch or is it because she's cute. Then there's "Grubby," "T. P." Cobb, "Waddy" Jack, "Sleepy" Cox, "Fats" Mattox, "Potty" Potts and others which cause us to wonder if they acquire this name because of their "cuteness" or because it is characteristic of them. The only way to find out is to inquire which reminds us of another, "Pathe" Walthall—if you want to know about these names ask her or other of the "eyes and ears of the world" around school.

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

We are very fortunate in having in our college a dramatic club of unusual ability. The members of this club work hard to make it a success and to entertain the student body with at least two plays a year. They spend both time and money on these plays, and expect the students to appreciate them. However, they are not well attended, and it is impossible for the club to give them.

There is always a large crowd at class productions, which are less expensive and less trouble than those of the dramatic club. The plays given by the dramatic club are high class and worth while. They aren't just little shows for amusement, but they have real meaning.

There are seniors at S. T. C. and members of other classes who have never attended a dramatic club play, and who never will. Yet, they go to lyceum numbers and class plays. Is it because they are prejudiced against the club for personal or other reasons? Why is it?

The result is that the club is unable to give a spring play this year because of the trouble and expense.

A DRAMATIC CLUB MEMBER.

"Art is like football in that neither one can be played according to rules," states Kem Weber, instructor in the College of Architecture and head designer for Paramount studios.

"Both consist in a coordination of the mind and body and success in either one depends upon individual initiative. Art and architecture have their precedent and football has its systems but as soon as one is overworked it becames monotonous and uninteresting," he stated—Southern California Daily Trojan.

An athletic carnival at Perdue University has competition in the following events: roller skating, crutch race, tricycle race, kiddie kar, raft, sack race, scooter, stilts race, boat race, chariot race, three-legged race, bicycle race, barrow race, horse-race, coaster, barrell and dressing, according to the Perdue Exponent.

Claudette Colbert becomes, after seeing "Tonight is Ours", our latest screen love, and headliner on the list—almost stole the show from Freddy March, so judge for yourself—never saw a picture—not for a long time anyway—so expertly put together—superbly acted—smooth-flowing dialogue—matchless photography—never imagined that The Queen Was in the Parlor could become such great entertainment—or that anyone could improve a Coward play—in spite of the far-from-original story—someone did a top-notch job of adaption—can't remember the name—you even forgive the improbability of the whole thing—and feel that you'd like to see it again—the opening scenes rather take away your breath.—Richmond Collegian.

(NFSA)—Results of tests conducted by the medical schol at Creighton University showed that smokers drew better grades than non-smokers. Fourteen per cent, classed as moderate smokers, averaged 85.4 per cent grades, and those who did not smoke had grades averaging 82.4 per cent.

An early Cohku College handbook contained the following "don'ts":

"Don't be overawed by the Sophomores. They are only last year's Freshmen."

"Don't forget that education is like the measles. Having been to college doesn't prove that you've caught it, but only that you've been exposed to it."

"Any student wishing to leave the campus before two o'clock must consult the president."

American students are keener, more alert, and more enthusiastic than English students, who are steeped in traditions, Alfred Noyes, prolific English poet and critic, said, in an address at Hood College, Frederick, Maryland. Reporters, surprised at this verdict, unprecedented among Mr. Noye's countrymen, asked him to extend his remarks to the American girl. "American girls," said Mr. Noyes, "why I couldn't answer that question in prose; I'd have to say that in a poem."—Torch.

MONKEY BUSINESS

If my remarks seem harsh and crude
to you,
Or wound your pride in any other way;
I'm sorry, for I don't means to be rude,
Or mean, or cruel, in anything I say.

Martha Cross seems to have a monopoly on Eddie Bell—lucky girl, and vice versa.

Betsy Wilkerson isn't the first to fall for Julius "Docley" Darden.

"Empty" Rawls is the charming reason that Bobby Davies of V. P. I. is sometimes seen in S. T. C.

Turly "Al" Gillespie is honored when he spends a quiet evening in the presence of royalty—none other than our royal Student Body President, Jane Royal.

It was an opportune event that Margaret Parker gets a bit of practice by playing the part of a bride in "Patches", because few are they who are with such sincere intention from "Junny" Blake.

That "cute couple", Dot Waynick, and "Monk" Merry may usually be found on the left Chesterfield in the Rotunda. Be careful! There are rumors that Aunt Lucy enjoys the benefit of this privilege in the form of tips.

After many moments of anxious wandering about, Oscar Long and "Lib" Fields finally found each other and were they happy! This indeed is becoming quite serious.

Alice Rowell was certainly glad to see "Whitey" from Richmond Sunday night. If they aren't "woosey" about each other, then we certainly miss our guess.

Ruth Showalter won't give any of the other girls a chance at Buck Dowdy, or maybe it is that he doesn't want a chance.

With that winning smile of hers, it is no wonder that Mary Shelton always "gets her man."

Hearty congratulations to Lucille Meacham, Sarah Goodwin, Helen Conquest, and all others who were lucky enough to get a break with the "Musical Uniforms" of Fork Union, Sunday night. We all like music, and we all like soldiers, but when they are combined—words fail us.

All who saw Nancy Burgwyn and "Big" Ben Franklin during the past week-end, must certainly be convinced that the course of true love seems sometimes to run smoothe, in spite of "Bill" Shakespeare.

Jimmy Powell was the lucky boy with "Gin" Hall this past week-end. "Gin" you certainly have the pull to get him way up to S. T. C. but we knew that you had "pull" all the time. Pull him up again sometime, and give us a break.

Of all the girls in S. T. C.
Aunt Lucy gets the breaks:
She gets to talk to every boy
Who comes in here for dates.

Yours till hearts beat faster,
The Dope Fiend

WHY NOT APPRECIATE THEM

School activities such as athletics, debating, journalistic productions, all go to make up one's education. Not all of us can participate actively in these things, but each of us has the power to appreciate them. Our basketball games are usually attended very well but not so with our debates. Sometimes in the big auditorium there are only about fifty persons to listen to a debate. The girls debating have spent hours and days preparing to debate. They represent the school in one of the activities that has done more to help the reputation of Farmville than probably any other one thing. When just about five per cent of the student body appreciates their efforts enough to attend the debates, what are they to think. Can they be expected to do their best work when they feel the student body isn't backing them.

These debates are educating, and if students don't enjoy them, they should learn to enjoy them. For after all, isn't education the ability to appreciate, and isn't appreciation the ability to enjoy things worth while.

The question to be answered is this: Why not appreciate the efforts of these debaters by attendance at the debates and by learning to enjoy them. Tonight we meet Waynesburg College in a dual debate—What a wonderful feeling for the debaters if the auditoriums are full!

SONNET

O youth! Still I am yours! Still for an hour
My heart trembles beneath your swift caress!
Too willing captive am I to your power,
Too eagerly I give and you possess!
Through the blue dusk you come and,
intently,
I listen for your step where lilies
grow
Paler than dreams. In amongst them,
gently,
Teach me O youth, the beauty that you know!
Was it the wind that stirred?—Was it a sigh?
The lilies bow their heads—the night is deep—
Was it a shadow that touched us and passed by?
Why are you sad, O youth, why do
you weep?
There falls a sound as of far seraphim—
Then silence. Hush. The light of stars is dim—

Mary Dixon Thayer

SEARCHING

Day after day I roam aimlessly on.
In search of—I know not what.
It may be a lost ideal,
Or the shining dreams of my childhood—
The visions of love and success I so
Foolishly
Built up.
The years have been empty,
Void of all those things I craved most—
Each morning I begin anew—
That eternal longing that ere nightfall
I shall find one lovely thing
To treasure forever.
That is why I peer anxiously
Into every face I meet.
I know it's useless—
But my heart will not be still.

COURAGE

Someday when I'm braver
I'll do as I please!
I'll live in a forest
And romp with the trees.

I'll wear what I choose.
And I'll not mend my hose,
Or cock my hat rightly
Or powder my nose.

No smart quips from me
While my tea's being poured.
And I'll get up and leave
The minute I'm bored.

And when folks life their eyebrows
And say, "Isn't she odd?"
I'll grin up my sleeve
And keep playing with God!

SPRING

Wild geese
Like blown smoke
Drift across the sky.
Up from the South they come—
Harbingers of spring.
They bring back other springs
I've known—when you and I
Together—
Watched them across the waters.
—I watch now—
Alone.

TO C. H. R.

She is one who always lends a helping hand,
and greets one with a cheery smile
She helps to make our team the best
But never plays in the game
Her reward will come later
In love, respect and
When her work on earth is done.

Often when life sems dreariest
And one's fondest wish is killed
I wonder
Is it worth the struggle
When the reward is disappointment?

COLLECTION AGENCIES

Denver University last week ruled that no senior would be given a degree from the college as long as she owes bills to his fraternity. Russell Balderson, president of the student body, and himself a fraternity man, opposed the ruling on the grounds that it was discriminatory and that many men would like to pay, but were actually unable to do so.

The action of the Denver school is typical of a frame of mind which has been evident in activities of many administrations. At this University, for example, the dean of men is empowered to place a notation of financial irresponsibility on the transcript of a student who refuses to pay his bills.

The attempt to regulate the financial affairs of the average student is one that does not properly fall within the range of activities of a college. Of course, it is probable that freshmen need more strict supervision because they are away from home, in many cases, for the first time.

However, there is no way of impressing responsibility on a person except by placing him in control of his own affairs. The change in environment is extremely useful as a device to weed out those who are not fit for responsibility.

Students are usually people fully capable of managing their own affairs. They should be allowed to do so.

Merchants may complain that they would lose many accounts if the University did not stand back of the students and force them to pay. It should be pointed out that no merchant is required to give a student credit. Neither is a fraternity obligated to carry accounts of its members. If the student has a poor reputation for credit, the merchant and the fraternity must treat him as poor risk.

Denver University is making a mistake in attempting to serve as a collection agency for the fraternities.—The Silver and Gold.

FEATURING PRETTINESS

(By Helena Rubinstein)

How many times have you been told, girls, that "you can't eat your cake and have it too"—and how many times have you said or thought, rebelliously—"why not?" And when you hear—"Be smart, sweet girl and let who will, be pretty," or words to that effect—do you feel just as rebellious—or even more so? For there is some truth in the first aphorism.

But cheer up—smartness is not everything—not unless you are really not pretty at all, yet possess certain characteristics that must be brought out and made the most of—and that, as Mr. Kipling says, is another story. Just now we will consider the type that is best expressed in softness, curves a charming face and figure everything subordinated to that. She doesn't even have to worry too much about what is in style, for she can choose her gowns, hats and cosmetics to emphasize her natural good points. Her basic beauty secret is in naturalness, the ability to accentuate it or create it for herself.

Pastel tones make one prettier—conventional deep tones relieved with touches of white and pale tints; flesh tints next to the face are always flattering and soft materials, velvets, crepes, chiffons and georgettes are first aids. Flowers are becoming and so are hats with brims. But don't elaborate—too large a hat—too many frills—too many pale, indefinite colors, and avoid the bizarre in jewelry, gloves, hats and nail polish.

Hair waved and curled, essentially feminine, is important in this picture. Keep it shining clean; brush it every day, not forgetting a good tonic two or thre times weekly to impart tone, softness and gloss. Hands should be kept lovely too, a hand lotion and youthifying hand cream will keep them soft and white and a shell-pink nail groom will add to their naturalness.

When you wear rouge, a red color carefully blended will give a natural rosy warmth of color to your cheeks. And use a matching lipstick, merely accenting the natural color of your lips. A natural or peachbloom powder will play up the pinkness in your skin. In creating this picture that is you—give it in every detail, consistency—the first essential quality of all good looks, tasteful dressing, good grooming and correct make-up.

If you want added help on how to feature prettiness, write to Helena Rubinstein, (Special College Service) —8 E. 57th St., New York.

S. T. C. TO CELEBRATE FOUNDERS DAY

Founders Day, will be presented. This recital is under the direction of Miss Purdom and Mrs. Fitzpatrick. Five of the dances will be done by the natural dancing class and one by the clogging class. Several of these dances show the modern trend in dancing, and will be very different from any presented here before.

Following this recital the greetings from th alumnae will be given and then the greetings of the school organizations will be presented. Members of each organization dressed characteristically will place their gifts in a miniature Student Building, and then form a lovely tableau.

A committee of faculty members and students with Dr. Jeffers at its head formulated the plans for this celebration. Working with Dr. Jeffers are Miss Taliaferro, Miss Wheeler, Miss Potts, Miss Bedford, Miss Moran, Miss Iler, Jane Royall, Alice McKay, and Frances Potts.

Agnes Scott College celebrated it's Founder's Day on February 22, with the usual banquet and dance. A very attractive red, white and blue color scheme was carried out and the seniors wore colonial costumes.

Y. W. NEWS

Music Week was carried out by various programs at prayers. Miss Potts gave an interesting talk on the importance of music in our worship. She told how Psalms were first used in antiphonal singing and of how much importance had been given the seventy-third Psalm in this connection. She also brought in the beauty and musical value of the seventy-fourth Psalm and of those following it.

One night was given to the reading of poetry and its connection with music.

Friday night the choir brought to a close Music Week. They gave the following beautiful numbers:
Now the Day is Done—Quartet.
Two Bach Chorales—Choir.
The Green Cathedral—Trio.
Abide With Me—Choir.

Sing Saturday night was put on by the Student Council. The first act proved to be a tragedy. Hattie Gilliam was such a wonderful doctor that she could make people as they wanted to be. However, Dot Snedegar found it necessary to shoot the doctor because she had made Dot's wife entirely too beautiful.

The second act was a short number, the story of the seasons. In the third act, our handsome hero brought about the romantic rescue of a beautiful girl from the hands of villains. The actions were carried out literally and very funnily.

VOLLEY BALL SEASON BEGINS NEXT WEEK

With the close of basketball season, our thoughts naturally turn to the next sport—volley ball. Volley ball practice starts next Tuesday, and here's a chance for every class to try to win ten points toward getting their colors on the cup this year.

Nannie Ruth Cooper, manager, has chosen as an able assistant, Margaret Buchanan, who has shown much interest in athletics this year.

Come out and get your mind off those exams!

See you there!

LAST BASKET BALL GAME WITH BLACKSTONE

In the last varsity basketball game for this season S. T. C. will meet Blackstone College here Saturday afternoon at four o'clock.

The game to be played with Blackstone here Saturday is expected to be very interesting.

A large number of visiting alumnae with the same "old blue and white spirit," will be at the game Saturday.

Since this game is the last S. T. C. varsity basketball game to be played this season and is to be on such a gala day as March 11, Founder's Day, it is hoped that the student body will be represented one hundred per cent.

So far this season Farmville has been undefeatd in basktball, having ben successful in outscoring Richmond Normal, Sweet Briar, Harrisonburg, and William and Mary.

As Blackstone College has an unusually strong team this year, the game with them Saturday will doubtless be very fast and exciting.

C. H. S. LOSES TO PETERSBURG HIGH

Saturday afternoon, the College High School suffered its first defeat of the season in a closely-contested game with Petersburg High School, the final score being 17-14 in favor of the latter. Due largely to the steady playing of VanLandingham as center, the ball was in ePtersburg's territory much of the time. Both teams are to be commended, not only for their playing but for the spirit of sportsmanship which was shown throughout the game.

The line-up is as follows:

C. H. S.		P. H. S.
Hudgins	RF	McDiermot
Matherly	LF	Rosenstock
Andrews	JC	Van Landingham
Newman	SC	Robertson
Burger	RG	Mathews

Substitutes: C. H. S.—Irby, Matherly; P. H. S.—Harlow, Gilliam.

Miss Jennie Masters Tabb Is Speaker For Founders Day Exercises Saturday

Alumna For Many Years Speaks On the Past History and Ideals of Our College

40 YEARS AFTER IS SUBJECT

A high point in the Founder's Day celebration was the address given by Miss Jennie Masters Tabb of the class of 1893 on the subject "Forty Years After." No one is better qualified to speak with authority on the past history and ideals of the State Teachers College. As a loyal alumna since 1893, as Secretary to President and as Registrar for twenty-nine years, she knows the college and ist life in all its aspects. Holding what would be accounted two full time positions, she has yet found time for the cultivation of many other interests. She has a most contagious zest for all sorts of recreations—games, fancy work, radio programs, movies. When vacation time comes, she is off to the Magnolia Gardens in Charleston or to the Pacific Coast, perhaps. Between times, she finds delight in music, in art, in literature in singing, painting, reading, writing. She has written the history of the college, "Alma Mater," published in 1929; she is the author also of our Alma Mater song, and of many other songs and lyrics, some of the most charming of which are found in her collection, "For You." In her life of her uncle, John Bannister Tabb, entitled "The Life and Works of Father Tabb," she has written with a rare combination of affection, restraint, and sound discrimination what is conceded to be the most authentic and best biography of that beloved poet.

At the present time Miss Tabb is an associate editor of the Bulletin of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars, and was recently Chairman of the Teachers College Section of the Association. She organized the Association of Virginia

Farmville Loses To Waynesboro

The most interesting debates of the season, thus far, were the dual debates held on Wednesday night, March 8. Waynesburg College, the visiting college winning both debates. All the teams should be congratulated on their excellent presentations.

The subject for debate was: "Resolved: That United States Should Cancel All Interallied War Debts Contracted Before the Armistice."

In one debate the affirmative was upheld by Dorothy Woolwine and Beverly Barksdale of S. T. C., while the negative was upheld by James Gladdon and Jessie Hutson of Waynesburg. In the other debate the affirmative was upheld by Vincent Young and Eric Enstrom of Waynesburg, and the negative by Nancy Harrison and Margaret Pollard of S. T. C. Both negative and affirmative teams offered strong and convincing arguments to support their side of the question.

Farmville has lost only three debates this season the first being to Emory and Henry. Not only were the Waynesburg teams victorious here Wednesday night but they also defeated Lynchburg College on Thursday night. These teams are making a tour of the southern states before they return to Pennsylvania and S. T. C. wishes for them much success. The fact that they are good sports made it a pleasure to debate them although these northern gentlemen out argued the southern ladies.

Farmville Alumnae Holds Business Meet

The report of the Executive Board announced the resignation of the secretary, Miss Mary Nichols, with an appreciation of the services she had rendered, and the statement that her successor will be appointed by the new board.

Mrs. M. B. Coyner reported several books purchased for the Portia Lee Morrison Memorial Library and a balance on hand of $186.40.

Dr. Jarman reported for the Cunningham Memorial Fund a balance on hand of $71.25, with student notes held for $2495.40.

Dr. Jarman welcomed the returning alumnae and spoke interestingly to them of the great value of the student loan funds both on and off the campus. The Mu Omega Sorority and the Alpha Phi Sigma Fraternity here and some chapters in the State are now helping students, but in the next few years more calls for loans will be made than ever before and less money will be available. He closed with the inspirational maxim that faith is the only thing necessary for starting a fund.

Misses Pauline Camper and Virginia Potts were delegates to the meeting of the Third District of the National Alumnae Secretaries' Association held in Durham in February. They had much of interest to relate, such as the practice of local chapters of holding reunions at home on Founders Day; fees for the privilege of securing local chapter charters; election of permanent officers for senior classes just before graduation; the sale of commemorative Alma Mater plates to the alumnae; the Hollins College plan for an Alumnae Advisory Committee with representatives from administration, faculty, students and alumnae. After some discussion of the last two ideas, it was voted that they be submitted to the Executive Board for study and action.

Miss Coulling described a design for a book plate for the Portia Lee Morrison Memorial Library, embodying the Rotunda tower, and it was accepted by the Association, with

DR. J. L. JARMAN

Dr. Jarman Sends Reunion Classes Message to Alumnae of 1933 Meet

Dear Girls:

Another Founder's Day has come and gone and I don't think we ever had a more enjoyable one. Ninety-five visiting alumnae were with us and we noticed a number sitting with their student-daughters at the morning exercises, members of our Granddaughters Club of which we are justly proud.

Founder's Day has become a real home coming day for our former students and their return helps us just as much as it helps them; nothing is better for the college than to keep in close personal touch with the students who have completed their course but who do not, therefore, sever their connection with their Alma Mater.

Please begin planning right now to be with us March, 1934; that will be the celebration of our fiftieth anniversary and we want just as many "daughters" as possibly can do so to come back and share it with us.

This year we reduced the debt on the Student Building by about one thousand dollars—which was good for "these perilous times," but we hope that as a thank offering for fifty years of service on the part of the college, we will have a large amount next year to pay on this indebtedness.

We were glad to see everyone who was with us and missed all those who did not come.

Wishing for all of you a happy year, and looking forward to having you celebrate with us next March, I am

Yours very truly,
J. L. JARMAN, President

Miss Mary Peck Publishes a Book On Teaching History in High School

Miss Mary E. Peck's book on "Teaching History in the High School" has just come from the press. The following is a brief resume of her work.

"Teaching History in High School", a monograph by Miss Mary E. Peck, associate-professor of History and Supervisor of History in high school, has this week come from the press. It is thought that the book will be especially worth while to teachers of History in high schools.

In the foreword, Dr. J. P. Wynne, head of the department of Education and director of teacher - training, states:

"Miss Peck's study should be very valuable. The teacher has here principles, objectives, and procedures to be used as a basis of discussion. They may be checked against one another and against the more inclusive principles to which we have referred. Principles at various levels should be improved on the basis of their effectiveness in application. Only through such concrete work as this can theory and practice ever be brought face to face. This study will, of course, be most helpful to student teachers, but it should be suggestive to history teachers everywhere who are interested in developing courses of instruction either for general or for personal use."

In the introduction Dr. J. E. Walmsley, head of the department of History, states that it is to set the idea "of the continuity and also the immediate interests of history that this monograph has been written. The author in preparing this booklet for student teachers and apprentices has based the work on her reading of specialists in the field of history teaching, and on her own experience in training teachers here at Farmville. Her conclusions meet with the full approval of the department, and they should be of distinct use in clarifying objectives and in suggesting units of work that will make for a broader development of pupil life and activity."

Dover Road Given For the Visitors

The Dover Road, which was repeated Friday night, March 10, by the Dramatic Club and the Hampden-Sydney Jongleurs, was decidedly a success. This was given the second time as a special feature for the Founder's Day program celebrated last week-end.

Under the professional coaching of Miss Wheeler, this presentation was as successful as the first. With the exception of one character the cast remained the same. The part of Leonard was played by Jack McCurdy who delighted the audience with his excellent acting.

Founder's Day Program Unique And Attractive

Faculty Committee and Mrs. Fitzpatrick Deserve Much Praise for Good Work

TABLEAU BY ORGANIZATION

A most unique and attractivefeature of this year's Founder's Day at S. T. C. was the program given in the auditorium at 10:30 Saturday morning.

Following the singing of the "Alma Mater", the dance students of Mrs. Louise Robertson Fitzpatrick and the college orchestra under the direction of Miss Lisbeth Purdom gave a dance-orchestra recital.

This recital, beautifully presented, showed the results of much work and planning. The motions of the dancers accompanied by the orchestra held the attention of the audience from beginning to end. The dancers in appropriate costumes, "In the Gay Nineties" received especially hearty applause.

Another feature of the morning program following the dance orchestra recital was the greetings extended from various alumnae chapters, some of which had sent telegrams and other messages.

In the form of a tableau the student organizations in school presented their contributions to Dr. Jarman for the Student Building Fund. This presentation was considered one of the best performances of its kind ever given here on Founder's Day. In contrast to the regular skits and stunts which have formerly been given on Founder's Day each organization was represented by some one dressed in characteristic costume, all of whom together made a picture.

Dr. Jarman's response to the greetings was sincere and interesting.

"Onward Farmville," sung by the alumnae, students, and faculty, concluded the program of the morning.

Summer Quarter To Have Changes

Contrary to our usual custom, this year all work offered in the summer quarter will be completed in one term of the quarter—all daily classes for the first or second term.

The work of the two-year courses in primary and grammar grades will be offered together with a large number of courses in the third and fourth years of these courses and also in that leading to teaching in the high school. The courses offered are listed in the catalogue; if others are desired, and there is sufficient demand for them they will be given. Therefore, if the alumnae who are expecting to be with us this summer for advanced work will put in their request for certain courses early, arrangements will be made for them to be given (upon sufficient demand). The Registrar should be notified as soon as possible as to these courses.

In the last two years there has been a large increase in the number of students taking advanced (junior and senior) work in the summer and a number complete the requirements for the degree during this quarter. Last summer our Training School enrollment was the largest we have ever had for a summer term.

Certificate requirements are being constantly raised in the State and all who can are urged to take the summer work and be ready to meet these requirements when the time comes for further change.

IF-ONLYS

If only the world had been made of candy, perhaps we could live in celophane houses. If money only grew on trees there would no longer be a depression — probably there would have been one. But if money grew on trees, we might not have the excellent fruit that we do have. If the streets were made of candy, we would not have such a craving for sweetmeats.

How many times we say, "If only I could etc."! There are so many postponed actions built on IF. We often catch ourselves saying, "If only I could draw," "If only I could write poetry," or "If only I were—" someone else. Would we be better off? Would we not still be wishing we were gifted in another way? This "Ifing" does not get us anywhere because it is only dreaming. If only you had not been driving so fast, you wouldn't have had the accident. If you had been careful, you would not have spoiled your new coat. But you did have the accident and you did spoil your new coat. If you had started a few minutes later, you might have crashed into the train. If you hadn't fallen down stairs, you would never have met the most wonderful person in the world. But you did.

It is rather fascinating to think about these IF-ONLYS. They really are not of any use but they do add a little spice to life. Sometimes these ifs are useful. No doubt a great many well - known inventors have expressed their inventions in terms of ifs and if-onlys. Instead of leaving them as they stood, the inventors set about to eradicate the ifs, and did eradicate them. Then the ifs were incentives, which is what they should be. We may say, "If only I had studied, I would have passed that test," "If only I had worked a little harder I might have received and "H" These should be, "I passed the test," I received an H." Let's get going and see what good shots we are in rolling down those IF-ONLYS and setting up "I DID," "I WAS," "I WILL."—Keene Kronicle.

THE RADIO AND THE PRESENT GOVERNMENT

The invention and improvement of the radio has done more to improve democratic government than any other event for many years. Through this medium every person in the U. S. can learn within a few minutes after it happens what goes on in Congress, at the White House and any other phase of government. If some one questions an action of any group in Washington, the reasons for this decision are broadcast, and the complaint is given immediate attention.

When President Roosevelt was inaugurated people with radios all over the United States listened to the inaugural proceedings as if they were present. The issuing of the bank holiday proclamation was made known throughout the whole United States a few minutes later by means of the radio. When Roosevelt found that people did not understand why he did this, he announced the hour when he would speak to the people explaining the benefits of the proclamation. This speech was listened to by people throughout every state in the union. It was as if the president stood before the whole American people and spoke as their leader who was eager to do their bidding. When any one is lost, or kidnapped, when there is storm or stress of any kind the whole United States comes to the rescue in a few minutes because of our radios. This close communication and direct address between the government and the people is doing more to advance democracy by educating the people than any event for many years.

BEGIN WORK NOW

The last term of the school year 1932-33 will begin Saturday, March 18. With the beginning of this term comes the opportunity for many to do the things which have been neglected in the past. Now is the time to begin work for the spring quarter and not June. We should profit by our mistakes and do better in the future.

The spring quarter is crowded full of extra activities which makes it doubly necessary for everyone to keep his work up to date and willing to cooperate in putting across all events scheduled. During the week following Easter, the Music Federation will be May Day which requires a great deal of work and cooperation from every one in the student body and faculty. Plans for commencement will soon be made and work on them will be begun. All of these events and possibly others will be attended by visitors from all parts of the state. They give the students an excellent opportunity to receive training in worthwhile activities other than those along the academic line.

A LITTLE STREET WHERE OLD FRIENDS MEET

That little street is right in your own home town. It you make it a friendly street outsiders will want to come and share it with you. They will sense the glow of friendly contact and wish to linger long within its warmth. And a friendly street is so easy to obtain. Just a kindly attitude towards your neighbor and others with whom you divide the care of the day. Just a little human understanding of what constitutes a gentleness and courtesy. That's all you need to make a street where old friends want to meet.

The community that prospers is always a friendly community. Today the world is seeking out such places. There is so much of travail and harshness in the everyday affairs of life that friendly havens beckon from afar. If you want your home town to be prosperous, to be konwn as a friendly spot, then you be friendly, too. It is a good message to carry with you during the year—and it pays big dividends in happiness and prosperity—South Kent News, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Jazz music has some use anyway. An Indiana man has proved that it makes hens lay more eggs. Probably just scares 'em into it.

Money certainly talks—and it doesn't need to use a megaphone.

MONKEY BUSINESS

For those who love to see their name
Before the public eye;
This is a stepping stone to fame.
—Now you can wonder why.

In spite of exams and "Monkey Business," the "rec" was quite full Saturday and Sunday nights. Speaking of "Monkey Business," these exams are really it—without the "Monkey."

If dueling wasn't against the law, I would suggest a way to end the war between Tay Jones and Jack McCurdy. Jack was ahead Saturday night, but Tay won a victory Sunday night. "Liz" Rawlings is the prize and its seems that her alliance alone, may bring triumph to either. The other will probably jump in the lake.

Some may think that Florence Tankard took the "railing" when "Soup" Campbell met Sara Beck, but I know better. He just wants to put another photograph on his bureau.

No! Girls! S. T. C. hasn't gone coed—yet! The boy in Individual Difference class with Alice Rowell, was only an object of entertainment, from Waynesburg, Penn.

I won't tell who the girl was that Bill Jeffries was talking to at the play Friday night, because it probably doesn't matter anyhow. "Nubby" Knaub still holds the advantage, and it doesn't matter how many come and go.

Louise Van Lear and Norris Blake, princess and prince at the Mardi Gras, seem to have a serious case of "princitis", or something or other which results in their seeing a lot of each other.

Billy Wallis came from Richmond to see Frances Dorin Wednesday because he chose that date, and not because Jack Humphries nearly always monopolizes Saturday, and Sunday nights.

Margaret Eley also had company Wednesday night, in the person of Henry Brothers.

Mary Diehl and John Shirley still seem to be demonstrating what Goethe might have called "Wahre Liebe."

Whether Bill Fleet is really "fleet" or not, he certainly seems to be making time with Judith Taylor.

What? Was that Marshall Hayden, the A. A. R. back with Henrietta Cornwall again Friday, and Saturday nights? Perhaps their engagement isn't broken after all—if they were ever engaged. (A. A. R. means All American Romeo).

Just one word about Claudia Harper and Ed Siegal—UNCERTAIN.

Though there are some who cannot stand the gaff
I hope that the rest will laff, and laff, and laff.

Yours till coming events,

THE DOPE FIEND

STRAY THOUGHTS

Once there was the old saying, "The witches will get you if you don't watch out," but now it's been changed—"The Dope Fiend'll find out if you don't watch your step."

And speaking of the author of "Monkey Business" wouldn't it have been funny, if he'd been listening in on the truth meeting held in the Rec Saturday night. Who is this Hampden-Sydney guy that's been "spilling the beans" about us?

When did the traffic of Farmville become so dangerous that the young ladies of this institution have to be escorted to school at six o'clock?

For Rent—A radio on Saturday and Sunday nights—also a fountain pen and a picture of an ex-V. P. I. man. Apply to Lib Kelly. What does this mean?

Martha Higgins has decided that plumbing is her calling—ask her about it for all details.

Now that the spring weather is with us again, the tennis courts are rivaling the drug stores for popularity; however the latter holds added attractions for also in the spring a young man's fancy turns to — well, you know how 'tis!

Certain of our supposedly hard-hearted Seniors have already started doing their farewell weeping—we predict numerous showers before June.

IS THIS CIVILIZATION

Man prides himself in being highly civilized. The human race possesses a high degre of culture and ranks far above all other animals in intelligence. How strange it is then, to find qualities of the lower animals attributed to cultured men! This is certainly the case, for in many standardized and coloquial expressions we find applied to man many adjectives derived from names of animals.

Perhaps the horse would feel highly honored to know that there are "horsy" human beings. This adjective is derived from the trade of horse-breeding which was considered of a low moral tone. Hence, a "horsy" person was a horse-breeder or a person of low moral standards. In the modern application the word "horsy" means a demeneering, hateful person.

The cat has contributed a word to our language. The "catty" person is one who has feline qualities of treachery and vindictiveness. The canine family has made its contribution to the language in the words "doggish", meaning disordly, scrambling, snappish, and "dogged," meaning sullenly, stubborn, persistent, or obdurate like a dog.

Even the lowly mule is honored with a word derived from his name. A "mulish" person is one who resembles a mule in stubbornness and obstinacy. A very timid person has sheep-like qualities and therefore is "sheepish"—when he is awkwardly abashed. The greedy person who wants more than anyone else and who is untidy in his habits is truly "piggish," while a wily person who is quick at playing tricks and pranks is rightly called "foxy."

A little sketch in colloquial English follows: A "horsy" man and his "catty" wife lived on a farm. They were shiftless and lazy and did all their work in a "doggish" way. They had four children. The eldest child was "piggish" because he felt himself superior to the other children. The second child felt himself inferior to his older brother and always had to yield to him. One day, however, the younger child found that by being "mulish" he could get anything he wanted. The third child, a girl, was a sweet little thing, but she was very timiid and always had a "sheepish" manner about her. The youngest child having been humored to everything he wanted, found pleasure in playing "foxy" tricks on the other members of the family.

The above sketch sounds imaginative and "fishy," but nevertheless it illustrates some true types of people. If the words derived from animal characteristics were removed from this sketch, and if more refined and polished synonyms were substituted, the sketch would be a fairly accurate description of many of our average families. The fact that animal characteristics adequately describe humans is not so complimentary. Are we really civilized?

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

"Art is like football in that neither one can be played according to rules," states Kem Weber, instructor in the College of Architecture and head designer for Paramount studios.

"Both consist in a coordination of the mind and body and success in either one depends upon individual initiative. Art and architecture have their precedent and football has its systems, but as soon as one is overworked it becomes monotonous and uninteresting," he stated. — Southern California Daily Trojan.

MARCH WIND

March wind, O March wind,
Why don't you answer when I plead
With you to please
Play with me?
Why do you angrily roar at me
And harshly drive me around?
Not one kind word you say.
O March wind, you're angry,
But maybe when spring comes,
You'll gently caress me
And love as of yore!

A. E. V., '35

At the time when the League of Nations was being organized, an Irish statesman declared: "The League would make the world safe for hypocrisy." The passage of time has shown that that statesman was right.

"At last the great American middle class is waking up," says a magazine writer. Yes, but it has certainly overslept.

CONTENTMENT

Contentment's made of little things,
A dove's soft-whirring silver wings,
The scene of rose leaves in a jar,
The crystal shining of a star,
Six yellow tulips in a row,
The peace and quietness of snow,
The fresh, clean scent of new-turned sod,
Winged seedlings in a milk-weed pod,
Contentment isn't far away
From those who love and search and pray.

ASSURANCE

Men said that every dream would turn to dust,
And dear illusions shatter on life's wheel
That I would know the worm, the moth, the rust,
And in my warm, young heart, the dead years feel.
Oh, Fools! to think one broken dream enough
To rend all beauty. Pain may tear
The heart, but love is made of sterner stuff,
Enduring time, and all time's wear.

Anna Mezquida

FOLLY

Long years ago
I loked into the future.
An utterly absurd thing to do—
Yet, all of us, at times are guilty.
I pictured for myself
A life filled with happiness—
Love, joy, success.
What utter fools we are—
I should have known
That, rarely ever, do dreams come true.
Out of all the years,
Each has passed me by—
And I, empty-handed, can only
View, longingly, the swirling ruins
At my feet.

MISUNDERSTANDING

I sit often and ponder
On things I've never done,
I think of dreams unfinished
Of goals I've never won.
And I alone only am to blame,
I hear from day to day,
And yet, if people only knew,
Would understand my way.
I, too love books and firelight,
And music when day is done,
But people only pass me by,
They never count me one.
O—the bitter agony
In my soul from day to day,
O —the bitter heart-aches—
"Don't bother, it's just her way."

SURETY

I knew that you'd come back to me.
Knew it from the very first—from the moment we vowed—
Lots of things.
You remember, too, the folly of our words,
Spoken in those mad moments
When we thought we knew.
I, too, have seen many people—
People of all lands.
I, too, have looked for you
In every street and shop.
But now that you're here
Those years of loneliness
Are an ugly dream—
I know, now, that they
Never really happened.

HORIZONS

Far off across the skyline
To see the smoke of cities.
Giant towers outlined
Sharply against the sky,
They make a sort of pattern
In the mists of the evening.
Murky and gloomy
The night comes.
The pattern grows softer—
Fades into smoky blur.
So it dims in the distance
Until the design is replaced
By a diamond band of stars.

Alumnae Chapters Send Greetings & Gifts to President

A high degree of interest and enthusiasm was manifested by the representatives bringing greetings from the alumnae chapters.

Mrs. E. R. Booker (Jesie Whitmore), president of the Farmville chapter, presented to Dr. Jarman a potato which had already some dollars as sprouts, and advised him to plant it in order to raise more potatoes of the same kind. The chapter loan fund is assisting one student this year.

Amelia alumnae sent best wishes and the assurance, "We are a stone wall back of you!"

Miss Eloise Perkins delivered hearty greetings from Blackstone alumnae. It is probable that a chapter will be formed there this spring.

Miss Ruth Campbell, president of the Culpeper chapter, reported business meetings in the spring and fall, an entertainment in May for the high school girls of the senior class of the county, Dr. Jarman and Miss Jennie Tabb and alumnae in January with the guests of honor Dr. Jarman, Miss Mary White Cox, Miss Winnie Hiner and Miss Potts. The other officers are: Vice-President, Miss Virginia Tinsley; Secretary, Miss Anne Minter; Treasurer, Mrs. Grace Freeman Huffman.

The Danville Chapter was organized January 25, with forty members on the roll divided into four groups. Dr. Jarman, Miss Mary White Cox and Miss Potts were special guests at a luncheon preliminary to organization, with sixty Farmville graduates in attendance. A tea for high school seniors will be given in May. The officers are: President, Miss Rose Brimmer, Vice-Presidents, Miss Marian Raine, Peggy Walton, Mrs. Ray Mitchell (Mary Mount), Mrs. Wayles Harrison (Sue L. Brown); Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Janie Moore.

Emporia expects to form a chapter this week. Miss Nancy Boykins represented the alumnae.

It was quite thrilling to receive a telegram just as the morning exercises began: Kenbridge Chapter organized Wednesday. Virginia Gee president. Letter follows. Greetings for Founder's Day. Juliette Lightfoot Mann.

Mrs. F. A. Schaefer (Antoinette Davis) in her characteristic breezy style, brought a message and money from the Lynchburg chapter. The officers there are: President, Miss Margaret Turpin; Vice-President, Mrs. Teresa Evans Craft; Secretary, Miss Leola Carter; Treasurer, Mrs. Catherine Parr Watts; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Corinne Rucker.

The Peninsula chapter covers much territory, with branches in Newport News Hampton, Warwick County and York County. The aims are to keep alive the spirit of Alma Mater and to increase interest in Farmville, especially among the high school graduates. Interest, enthusiasm and membership have steadily increased in the two years of its existence. More than twelve members were here, and brought the news of $116 raised for a loan fund. The officers are: President, Miss Marnetta Souders; Vice-Presidents, Misses Elizabeth Jarman, Nancy Carrow, Bertha Hunt, Mrs. Amonette Demotte Phillips; Secretary, Mrs. Maybelle Moran Price; Treasurer, Mrs. Maggy Sibley Smith; Publicity Chairman, Mrs. Ann Wilkerson Cox; Student Fund Chairman, Miss Elsie Wilson.

Petersburg was represented by several alumnae and Miss Lula O. Andrews. They brought greetings and good wishes and more to follow.

The bank holiday seriously interfered with plans alumnae had made to be here, so the Portsmouth Chapter sent a morder-order for $25 and greetings through a letter from the treasurer, Miss Elsie Clements.

Miss Lucy Anne Lane was the spokesman for the Powhatan alumnae present and absent. A chapter there may be the next one.

Miss Catherine Bentley delivered a message and a check for $45 from the Richmond Chapter. The President, Mrs. Maria Bristow Starke, and Mrs. Juanita Manning, made arrangement for the alumnae tea in Richmond last Thanksgiving.

Much applause greeted the an-

FOUNDER'S DAY BRINGS NEWS OF ALUMNAE

Such enthusiasm! The alumnae committee of the Y. W. C. A., dressed in white awaited the coming of the alumnae. There was a table in the Rotunda decorated in blue and white, which held, not only a register for the guests, but a file of the annuals dating from 1900. "Let me show you my picture when I graduated," "Look at the funny way we used to fix our hair," "And those bloomers—do you remember the first time we ever wore them playing basketball? We had a time doing away with the skirts," "Do you remember Virginia Tinsley and Mary Ford and the midnight feasts?"—and so, far into the night ran the conversations while returning alumnae were registering for their rooms.

A copy of the names from the register will be interesting:

Farmville on The Air Thrills Many Alumnae

On the evening of February 10, the College Choir's broadcast from WRVA Richmond, Virginia, was clearly and distinctly heard by alumnae in fifteen states. The range of distribution was interesting: as far north as New York, to Florida in the South, as far west as Missouri, to Accomac County, Virginia, in the East.

Over a hundred of the alumnae responded to the broadcast, showing their great enthusiasm. Just a few of their comments are as follows:

"I have been longing to return to Farmville, but that longing has been so intensified that I am determined to visit my Alma Mater if I can possibly make reasonable connections and plans. I will "Keep on Hoping" to see you this spring."

"The choir selections were beautiful, but best of all was to hear again the voice of our beloved Dr. Jarman, that brought tears of joy to my eyes. Hundreds of his girls were eagerly listening to his voice. To me that was the most enjoyable program that has ever come over the air, because it came from a spot that is very dear to me."

"The broadcast was splendid. It made me anxious to see you all again."

"That broadcast brought back happy memories of school days."

"Why didn't they sing two hours instead of thirty minutes? It took me back a long time—eight years, just think of it—and made me homesick for S. T. C. and all of you dear people whom I'll always love."

"Many thanks for the delightful half hour and the thoughts it brought to me."

"Dr. Jarman's 'Perfect Day' brought back memories of the best old school in the world."

"Whenever Farmville goes on the air again I hope you'll let me know, as you did this time, for I surely was thrilled to be able to 'listen in'!"

"I hope that sometime I may be able to visit by Alma Mater and renew old friendships and scenes, which I shall never forget."

"Dr. Jarman sounded just like he did when I was there nineteen years ago."

"I am always interested in the activities of S. T. C. and I thank you for the anouncement, 'Farmville on the Air'. I shall be with them in thought and in the spirit of Alma Mater."

"Your voices brought back very pleasant memories of the days spent at Farmville."

"Dr. Jarman's voice still sounded like an angel singing in Paradise."

"I hope to hear Farmville on the air many times in the future."

"I, of course, listened in and lived all over again my happy days at S. T. C."

"I wish Farmville could broadcast more often and the Alumnae could always know when to listen in. I'm sure the girls everywhere stopped to listen to their Alma Mater's program."

COMING EVENTS AT S. T. C.

The entertainment program at S. T. C. has been full the entire year, but several big events are yet to come. On April 12, S. T. C. will meet Radford in a dual debate on the subject of "Cancellation of War Debts." May 6 the May Day celebration will be held at Longwood. During the Easter holidays from April 15 to April 21, the Virginia Federation of Music Clubs will hold its regular annual meeting in the college. The commencement exercises are to be held from June 4 to June 7 inclusive. Because of financial conditions, no spring play of the Dramatic Club will be given. The date for the volley ball games, baseball games and field and track meet has not been set.

Highlights of Happenings at S. T. C. Related

The months between last Founder's Day and the one we have just celebrated have not been noted for outstanding events, but the College community has gone steadily on its way.

Dr. Jarman has been in atendance at the usual number of educational meetings, serving on various committees and taking part in many conferences in Richmond and elsewhere. One of his most appreciated services to College was a delightful music recital under the auspices of the College Choir and Choral Club, at which he sang to us even more effectively than in the previous years of his singing history.

The publication of the Training School Course of Study for the primary grades has been a notable achievement for the College. Both College and Training School faculty participated in its making and favorable opinions have been received from many educators in regard to it. Dr. Wynne has published a syllabus called "Modern Theories of the Educative Process." Miss Peck's monograph, "Teaching History in High School," is just off the press. Articles by members of the faculty have appeared in the Virginia Journal of Education and other magazines. Dr. Walmsley has published articles in The Virginia Teacher and in The Dictionary of American Biography.

We have distinguished ourselves in both athletics and debate. The Farmville basketball team has been the winner in all the competitive games, playing Sweet Briar, Richmond Normal, William and Mary, Blackstone and Harrisonburg. The debate teams won four out of seven intercollegiate debates this year, and have three more scheduled. The national honor debating society, Pi Kappa Delta, gives several degrees for merit in debate. Margaret Hix and Carrie De Shazo have won seven out of eight debates in three years and each has received the jewel which is the national society's highest award for such an achievement. The first and the last two of these debates were won away from the College, the others here. The Dramatic Club play, "The Dover Road," was as usual most successful, and again Hampden-Sydney boys played with our girls. The College Choir has given sacred concerts on Sunday nights in Lynchburg, Danville and Petersburg, with the assistance of Dr. Jarman and others.

The seven honor societies have been given a room on the second floor of the Student Building, and they have furnished it very artistically and appropriately by coperating and apportioning the cost to the various groups.

One of the new features of student life has been "Student Day". Each Wednesday a representative of the student body conducts the chapel exercises and a committee of the students plan the topic for the day and invites the speaker. Often the faculty are invited but sometimes the student meet by themselves on this one day of the week.

Another addition to the students' social life has been the opening of the lovely cabin at Longwood—the gift of the graduating classes of two years ago. Here picnics and impromptu suppers may take place and the huge open fireplace makes it available even on winter days.

Many of the alumnae have listened to broadcasts given by the College Choir from the station WRVA in Richmond. The voice of Dr. Jarman singing "The End of a Perfect Day" was recently heard by many in Virginia. Letters of appreciation came also from old Farmville girls in fourteen different states, testifying to their pleasure in hearing his familiar voice.

During the past year, significant progress has been made in Rural Training Schools in counties near S. T. C. Five consolidated schools in the counties of Prince Edward, Cumberland and Buckingham are being used as centers for training elementary and high school teachers. Four of these five schools have the super-

REUNION CLASSES OF 1933

The official reunions this year were for the classes of 1893, 1903, 1913 and 1923, because of the final numeral of 1933. However, any class is privileged to arrange a reunion for any year.

The class of 1893 was distinguished by having one of its members, Miss Jennie Masters Tabb, invited to make the Founder's Day address.

Members of the 1903 class were unable to come to Farmville this year.

Thirteen members of the class of 1913 were entertained at afternoon tea by Mrs. Boyd Coyner (Ruth Harding). Ten had returned in response to letters written by Mrs. Coyner and Misses Winnie Hiner, Ada Bierbower and Virgilia Bugg. Many who could not come sent letters of appreciation and news of interest. Friends who joined the happy group were Mr. and Mrs. Eason, Mrs. Elizabeth Jarman Hardy, Mrs. Carrie Galusha McIlwaine, Mrs. Celeste Richardson Blanton, Miss Mary Currell, Mr. Coyner.

Another reunion party was given at the home of Mrs. W. E. Smith (Elizabeth Moring) after the evening exercises. Besides Mrs. Moring, other members of the degree class of 1923 present, were Misses Mary George Bolen, Ernestine Landrum, Mary Nichols, Lois Williams and Mrs. Anne Meredith Jeffers. Letters were read from Dr. Tidyman, Mr. Lear and absent members of the class, and a thoroughly enjoyable hour was spent.

"TO THINK OF TEA"

Agnes Repplier

"To think of tea" does not seem much of a subject for either passing consideration or meditation. Yet, under the guidance of Miss Agnes Repplier, learn that tea has played a major role in the history of mankind; its praise is not to be left unsung. This little plebian commodity has a fine patrician ancestry. "To Think of Tea", a book of thirteen essays, is almost too full of meaning to be appreciated from a single perusal; more romance than one would have supposed possible is there wound The volume has a varied appeal; within its pages lie details interesting to men of sundry talents: not only to the man of letters, but to the adventurer; to the philosopher and to the historian; to the politician and to the poor man; to the house-wife and (you may be warned) to the American bootlegger! "How can it be possible?" you ask. Oh, but this treasure is recommended for your reading list.

Not a prosy book as the title might imply, it comes from, and is designed for, a sophisticated mind. We read, "The history of tea is one with the history of taxation," and we are reminded of the tea-tax, which was always a major portion of China's income; of the two centuries of smuggling in England; of the Boston Tea Party, and of the epoch-making Revolution. Miss Repplier compares the English officials who supported the tariff and bought smuggled tea with the Americans who support prohibition and drink bootlegged whiskey. Yet, by no means has tea been a curse to civilization. Poets and laymen have lauded it as a blessing. The Oriental has known and esteemed its benefits for hundreds of centuries. One epicurean emperor wrote, "Drink the precious liquid at your leisure, and thus drive away the five curses of sorrow?" That little green herb seems to have established a ranking place beside the grape in the lives of many.

Through the medium of tea, Miss Repplier has been able to give delicious "tid-bits" of intimacy with many men of letters. "If we want to see the tea-table poet of England, clearly and understandingly, we must look at him through the 'steamy column' he loved," says Miss Repplier. And it seems that she has penetrated the misty vapours and generously has disclosed her discoveries to us. Whimsically, she calls, Cowper, "a sad tea-drinker", and Sidney Smith, "a gay tea-drinker of England." The essay on "A Tea-Drinker of England" is Miss Repplier's triumph. "A hardened and shameless tea-drinker . . . whose kettle has scarcely time to cool; who with tea amuses the evening, with tea solaces the midnight, and with tea welcomes the morning" can be no other than Samuel Johnson. All of these little sketches leave our spirits soothed yet stimulated, just as if we ourselves had sipped a cup of Byron's "Chinese nymph," or Carlyle's "hussy."

To this s ubject Miss Repplier has evidently devoted unlimited time and toil in research; it is a veritable book of tea-knowledge. The freedom from figurative expression and elaboration is unexpected yet consistent with so apparently unambitious a topic. "Tea was made for prose—at least in the Western world; and we have no cause to lament, inasmuch as it is on prose that we live our intellectual life."

The Petersburg chapter of Farmville alumnae has about twenty-five active members. The chapter has a student loan to which most of its funds are given. On Feb. 21 a card party was given for the benefit of the student fund now being used by a student at Farmville.

Several delegates attend Farmville Founder's Day and carried a contribution from the chapter.

thanks to Miss Coulling for her help.

Miss Rice reported that one hundred seventy-five girls had been helped by the Normal League, including five members of the present senior class. She asked the cooperation of the Association in securing a simple marker for Mrs. Morrison's grave in the Hampden-Sydney cemetery. This was promised.

Miss Lula O. Andrews was unanimously elected an honorary member of the Association of Alumnae.

The president read letters and telegrams from chapters and alumnae, including one from Miss Catherine Anderson of Lynchburg, our oldest graduate, containing interesting reminiscences, and she announced the organization of three new chapters since January 1: Danville, South Boston and Kenbridge. This action was very inspiring, and interest was expressed in the creation of chapters in other parts of the state.

EIGHTEEN CARAT BEAUTY

(By Helena Rubinstein)

I know that you all appreciate beautifully wrought pure gold and you know what sterling means on silver. No matter how elaborately a piece is engraved you would prefer it to be of real gold or silver or platinum instead of a baser metal falsely veneered.

So much for gold and silver . . . but what about yourself? Are you the baser metal, veneered thinly with a plating of gold—or beauty? Or are you eighteen carat? It's in your own hands you know, whether you will be lovely with lasting qualities of loveliness or whether your beauty wil fade and disappear under the cold test of a few hours without makeup, or a few years' of time.

"Beauty is only skin deep," our mothers used to tell us. But all of us nowadays, mothers included, know that beauty is more than skin deep. Beauty of skin and contour and outline goes with eighteen carat beauty and it all comes from within.

The first rule is the cleanliness that come only from the bath-a-day. Not a prolonged soaking but a quick sponge or shower—lathering the body with soap then using a flesh brush briskly. Rinse quickly with warm then cold water, then rub your body all over with a rough towel. Bringing the blood to the surface is a wonderful help in keeping the pores active, the skin smooth and clear. Twice a week take a longer bath in really hot water, followed by a witch hazel rub. After your morning shower a dusting of deodorant powder delicately fragranced with water lilies will add to your comfort and keep you fresh and dainty during the day. Incidentally, a liberal dusting of this same powder on your feet and in your slippers before a party will keep your feet from blisters as you dance.

Another necessary aid to beauty is sleep. If you are up late one night, go to bed early the next night. I can't guarante eighteen carat beauty if you neglect this part of your regime. And sleep with your windows wide open. Fresh air while you sleep is as vital to beauty as bathing, exercise and cold cream.

Just before retiring, a cleaning and massage cream applied to face and neck and left on a few minutes will cleanse, soothe and beautify your skin. If inclined to dryness, a little more may be applied around the eyes and on the throat and left on all night.

For further information about new and flattering makeup write to Helena Rubenstein, 8 F 57th St., N. Y.

vision of music direct from the department of music at the College. In each there are a toy symphony and a high school choral club. These units will be represented in the program of the meeting here of the Federation of Music Clubs.

The John Randolph School in Cumberland County was chosen by the Sigma Sigma Sigma Soroity to receive the library which that sorority has founded as a national social service project. On October 29, 1932, the nucleus of the library, over three hundred volumes and fourteen magazine subscriptions, was presented to the school.

The office of the Rural Education group is in the main building of the College. It is equipped with tables, chairs, book-shelves, cabinets and typewriters. Here the student teachers of the rural schools work out their units of instruction, organize materials and exhibit the work they have accomplished in their schools. This work is under the general direction of Miss Pauline Camper, who is supervisor of Rural Education in the College.

There has been no change in the faculty during the year. No new positions have been created in these days of economic stringency. One marriage has taken place in the faculty ranks. Miss Fleeta Cooper of the History Department was married last September to Mr. A. T. Gray of Farmville, but still belongs to the College faculty. Mrs. Laura Anderson Moss, a member of the staff of the Business Office, has withdrawn to make her home with her husband, Dr. Gordon Moss, who is a professor at Fredericksburg. The latest faculty baby is Mary Marie Holton, who, although less than eight months old, has already taken her first steps alone and will probably soon be entering the kindergarten.

In spite of financial strain and depleted pocketboks the administration, Facutly, Home Department, and the students have maintained a cheerful attitude. The spirit of cooperation and of willing service which has always been a characteristic of Farmville S. T. C. has been constantly in evidence.

FEDERATION OF MUSIC TO BE HELD AT S. T. C.

FARMVILLE, Va., March 15.—Two county music festivals, one in Charlotte and one in Halifax, and a 3-day meeting of Virginia musical organizations in Farmville, are the highlights in the Southside spring musical program, it was announced today by Prof. Alfred H. Strick, head of the department of music at Farmville S. T. C., whose grand ideal is "the musical awakening of Southside Virginia" through the numerous musical events and organizations he sponsors.

Extensive preparations, both as to program and entertainment, are making for the joint convention of the State Federation of Music Clubs and the Virginia State Music Teachers Association here April 17-20.

The Halifax festival will be held at Halifax C. H., May 6, and 750 school children will participate, according to Mrs. Tucker Watkins, the local chairman. The Charlotte festival, under the chairmanship of R. E. Bobbitt, superintendent of schools, will take place at Drakes Branch on April 29, with the participation of about 500 school children.

"OPEN HOUSE" FOR ALUMNAE AND FACULTY

The Social Committee of the Y. W. C. A. entertained at "Open House" on Saturday evening for the alumnae, faculty members, and visitors. A blazing fire radiated warmth and cheer. Punch and cakes were served.

Miss Jennings, Frances Radcliffe and Winston Cobb received the guests.

An opportunity was thus given alumnae to see other alumnae, who in the rush of other activities had "missed" each other. This "Open House" seemed a fitting close for a successful Founder's Day.

FORMAL DINNER GIVEN SATURDAY NIGHT

A brilliant formal dinner was given Saturday night in the dining room for the student body, faculty, and alumnae. The latter were here for the Founder's Day program. This dinner is one of the annual occasions of the year at which our president, members of the home department and business office, and all the faculty are present.

Everyone looked his best. The dining room was decorated with tulips on every table and these tulips blending in with the many shades of the evening dresses made a beautiful sight.

Music played by the college orchestra was quite a treat and a surprise.

THE ALUMNAE LUNCHEON

The annual alumnae luncheon was held at Longwood on Founder's Day with an attendance of seventy-five. As the Rotunda goes to press it is hard to imagine that huge log fires were necessary on March 11. In spite of the cold outside the Japanese Japonica and Spirea, used in the house for decorative purposes, evidenced the fact that spring was on its way.

A delightful hour was spent in the renewing of old acquaintances and the making of new ones. This was the first oportunity "the old girls" had had to see each other.

STUDENT COUNCIL AND Y. W. C. A. ENTERTAIN

The Student Council and Y. W. C. A. Cabinet delightfully entertained Miss Mary White Cox on Wednesday evening, March 8, at an informal birthday dinner given in the banquet hall of the College Tea room. Yellow jonquils and blue candles were used as decorations for the table, the color scheme and theme also being carried out in the place cards which were little blue and yellow butterflies.

Covers were laid for thirty-six. Those present besides the guest of honor and the members of the Student Council and the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet included Mrs. Jamison, Mrs. Hurt, and Miss Virginia Potts.

INTERCOLLEGIATE

"Bouncing Boarders are Busy Bunching Barnum Bailey's Bay of Blistering, Boisterous Bunk." So does the Purple and Gray of the College of St. Thomas announce a campus circus, which is alliteratively appropriate concerning a circus.

The burlesque issue bore fruit. Professor Kenneth Smith was absent for some time—away at a convention—and it was rumored that he was kicked out because Miss Troy heard that he had been frequenting the Daughine. The power of suggestion must be great.

And then there is always the prize for the dumbest crack of the week. This week there is a draw between Mariana Fellman and Virginia Rembert. Someone mentioned Shylock in Mariana's present and she said, "Oh, yes, Shylock Holmes."

Virginia Rembert was asked to take the part of a farmer in a college production and she said, "I can't because I haven't got a hoe."

Co-eds at Syracuse University, finding themselves going almost entirely without dates, are formulating plans for the "stimulation" of dates with their brother students.

Discovery has been made near Daxaco City, Mexico, of the grave of a little girl who lived 1,000 years ago. In the grave with her are her toys. These include a red tiger with a ruffled collar, a real-looking figure of a baby, a red owl whistle which still toots, and an animal shaped vessel with a human head. All were made of clay.

WORLD NEWS

March came in like a lion and if it goes out like a lamb it will be a fleeced lamb.

Six day old Kent Benjamin Robinson of Kansas City has six living grandmothers.

In a convention assembled, Cincinnati's barbers asked, "If the appearance of the average woman is enhanced 100 per cent by the use of cosmetics why is it unreasonable to expect that man should not use cosmetics to improve his appearance?"

And William Kissel, president of the group asserted that men now are using almost as much cold cream as the women.

Six officials of a building and loan association decided to save money by doing a redecorating job themselves. Donning overalls they were hard at work when four robbers entered and ordered them to open the safe.

"We only work here and don't know anything about the safe," said one of the officials.

The robbers left in disgust. "It must have been a bum steer we got," one of them said.

A check signed by J. Q. Adams sixth President of the United States, was found the other day in a box of old papers in the home of the late Elizabeth B. Bintleff. It was dated May 14, 1835 and bore a notation on the back that it was for payment of $131 taxes to the City of Washington for 1933. The President apparently was a bit late.

A scientist says a man will not be attacked by a mental disease if he whistles while he works. He won't: he is already a victim.

THIS YEAR—AND NEXT

Another Founder's Day has become a happy memory, and already the thoughts of college and alumnae are turning toward March, 1934. That date will mark the fiftieth milestone of Alma Mater's progress. Farmville's daughters should have a big part in the anticipated celebration — what form shall it take? Suggestions should be sent to the President of the Association of Alumnae.

MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE HELP ALUMNAE

The Membership Committee of the Y. W. C. A. played an important role in the Founder's Day celebration. They kept a table in the Rotunda and registered the alumnae. They had on the table all the annuals since Dr. Jarman's administration. The students as well as the alumnae had a lot of fun looking at the annuals.

The committee made welcome cards and put them in the rooms in which the alumnae stayed. They made tours with the alumnae over the buildings and campus. Their services had a large part in making our Founder's Day the success that it was.

ATHLETICS

Seniors Win Championship

The championship basketball game between the Seniors and Freshmen was played Tuesday, March 14 at 5 o'clock. The balcony was crowded with interested spectators who cheered loudly for their teams. The gym rang with yells and songs as the red and whites and green and whites supported the players.

Both teams played well and showed the results of excellent coaching. The game was fast, quick, and intensely interesting. Although Duvahl Ridgway made many of the goals for the Seniors, she was strongly backed by Dot Snedegar. The green and white guards and centers played a good game, and were very successful in preventing the Freshmen from running up a high score.

Mutt and Jeff ran wild as Martha Gunter and Ruth Roberts struggled for the ball. Ruth Roberts tossed many of the Freshman goals, but she also had a strong supporter, Libby Renfro. Kathleen Canson, captain of the red and white team, led her team mates through an excellent game. She, playing jump center, and her co-worker Louise Walmsley, checked their opponents Mary Gregory and Frances Potts, with quickness and accurateness.

In spite of the excellent playing of the Freshmen, the Seniors played a little better and won 22-11. This was the final baskeball game of the season.

CLASS GAMES PLAYED

Excitement prevailed in the gym Wednesday night, March 8, when the Freshmen and Sophomores met for the class basketball games. The old spirit of rivalry between the red and white and the green and white was aroused. This was evident from the many cheers which pushed the teams onward, and helped them do their best work. The balcony was lined with students, faculty members, and outsiders who doubted their ability to guess the winning team.

At the end of the first half the Freshmen were leading, but the Sophomores were also running up a score. The game was close, and excellent playing was demonstrated by both teams. Each player was fighting for her colors, and each did her best to help her team win.

The game ended in victory for the red and white freshmen with a score of 24 to 14. By this one can se that the game was not one-sided, but that it was an interesting and exciting contest.

The line-up for the teams was the following:

Sophomores		Freshmen
Lovelace	F	Renfro
Bosworth	F	Roberts
Hurt	C	Ranson
Mattox	SC	Walmsley
Putney	G	Buchanan
Beck	G	Walker

Substitute—R. Hutchinson.

Wednesday night, March 8, the Seniors and Juniors met for their final class basketball game. The Seniors realized that it was their last game, and put out every effort to make it a victory for the green and white. However, the Juniors also realized that it was their last chance to defeat the class of '33, in basketball and they were determined to win.

At first there was doubt in the minds of the onlookers as to which team would win, but the Seniors soon began to raise their score quickly. The red and whites realizes this and worked harder to protect their colors. Both teams showed good playing, real determination to win, and loyalty for their colors.

The final result was a score of 34 to 12 with the Seniors ahead.

Following is the line-up:

Seniors		Juniors
Snedegar	F	Fraser
Ridgway	F	Yeaman

College Basketball Varsity Squad Closes Season Without a Defeat

With the defeating of Blackstone College by a score of 30-15 on March 11, the varsity basketball squad closed the season undefeated. The game with Blackstone was fast and hard-fought in spite of the wide difference in the final score. In the first few minutes of the game, Blackstone secured the ball at center and made two field goals. This brought life and ction into the game on the part of the Farmville girls, and at the end of the first quarter they had secured he lead which was not lost during the remainder of the game.

Excellent passwork was shown by each team. Both teams played the ball up in air for everyone on the floor seemed to be especially skilled in jumping.

The line-up was as follows:

Farmville		Blackstone
Hurt	F	Barrow
Parker	F	Kellam
Gregory	C	Sheffield
Potts	SC	Holsinger
Snedegar	G	Klocke
Beck	G	Lambdin

Gregory	C	Parker
Potts	C	Foster
Gunter	G	Hamilton
Beacham	G	Gwaltney

TENNIS SEASON REOPENS

With the weather getting warm again, the tennis courts are full all day. The tournament which was not completed last fall is expected to be finished by next week. After this the doubles tournament for the spring will begin. Besides school girls many town people are enjoying the benefit of the courts.

It is hoped that many students will start practicing now so our varsity will be very successful in the spring also that the tournament will be a success.

Farmville Debate Team Defeats Lynchburg Col.

Honey Hamilton and Martha Gunter Uphold Affirmative Side of Debate

DECISION IS TWO TO ONE

Farmville continued its debate program Saturday night, March 18, in a debate with Lynchbug College on the question, "Resolved, that the United States should adopt a policy of tariff for revenue only." The affirmative side of the question was supported by Martha Gunter and Virginia Hamilton, and the negative was supported by Hilda Kooltz and Gene Wilson, of Lynchburg. Both sides presented convincing arguments, but the arguments of the Farmville team proved to be the most convincing. Consequently Farmville won by a 2 to 1 vote.

The debate teams of Farmville are to be congratulated on the excellent work they have done. This makes the fifth success for the debate teams this session. All of the girls have worked hard under the able direction of Mr. Holton, as the number of successes indicate.

There will be only one more debate, which is scheduled with East Radford in the near future. Let's show the teams that we appreciate their work by our presence at the last debate.

Many Full Courses In Winter Term

The following girls completed their courses during the winter quarter and received certificates:

Degree:

Lois Virginia Cox, Norfolk; Virginia Marchant, Urbanna; Mary Jess Richmond, Jonesville; Woodruth Towler, Callands.

Diploma

Lucy Anderson, Ore Bank; Ruth Cecil, Pennington Gap; Virginia Ann Baird, Chester; Kathleen Petree, Princess Anne; Nannie Steger, Warren.

Lois Cox has been unusually successful in securing a position immediately after her graduation. She is going to teach in the Maryland School for the Blind at Overlea, Maryland.

Exams Are Ended; New Term Begins

Again, everyone may breathe a sigh of relief for examinations are over. Everyone feels good when he walks out of his last examination and thinks, "One more quarter's work is over and I am that much nearer my goal—graduation." He feels as if something has been accomplished and he is ready to go onward still farther.

For some of us, the end of these examinations means only one more set to take at dear old S. T. C. This thought is both pleasant and unpleasant but nevertheless true. Time passes very quickly and before anyone is aware of the fact final examinations will be over too.

S. T. C. Closes the Most Successful Basketball Season in Many Years

Snedegar, Beck, Gregory, Potts, Hurt, and Parker Make Championship Team

Saturday, March 11, S. T. C. closed the most successful basketball season ever experienced here. After defeating Sweet Briar, Harrisonburg, William & Mary, and Blackstone, almost doubling the score over each team the Farmville sextette was given the unofficial title Virginia State Champions of girls collegiate teams.

The season opened with the second team playing and defeating Richmond Normal by a score of 39-3. The whole squad deserves much praise for their faithful work for their college, but to those who did not play in the games but practiced hard to make the "best six best" should be given special mention. These girls who defeated Richmond Normal with such a score are: center, Ransom, Hurt; side centers, Ridgway, Buchanan, Walmsley, Mattox; forwards, Bosworth, Hoffa, Rountree, Renfro, Fraser, Lovelace; guards, Putney, Taylor, Roberts, Gunter, Ross, Burnette.

In the Sweet Briar game some of the second team also played. They included: Putney, Bosworth, Ransom, Buchanan, Mattox, Hoffa, Gunter, Fraser and Lovelace.

Above are the pictures of Miss Iler, coach, and the six players whose beautiful team work, graceful playing and high jumping brought them admiration throughout the state, and who each playing the game together defeated Harrisonburg, William and Mary and Blackstone, and together with others of the squad, Sweet Briar.

Miss Iler, with never failing patience and skill practiced with the squad over one hour each day for almost two months. She showed excellent judgment in choosing the right player for each position, and in working up almost perfect team work.

The six girls who played a "little better than the rest" and made a name for themselves are: Dot Snedegar, captain, who played guard, seemed to be able to reach indefinitely, and who broke up almost every pass

MR. HOENY GIVES DRAMATIC READINGS

Mr. A. Winfield, a famed dramatist was presented in a recital Friday night, March 17, in the auditorium. The entertainment was for the benefit of the Southside Community Hospital. Mr. E. Scott Martin took charge of the selling of tickets and was assisted by Mr. Louis Hubbard.

Mr. Hoeny, a native of Richmond, has been on the stage twenty-seven years, and was one of the first persons to broadcast over the radio stations, WEAF and WJZ. For a number of years, he studied for the ministry at the Union Theological Seminary. Mr. Hoeny will be remembered by many for his reading at the historical pageant held in Richmond several years ago. He has received praise from many eminent Virginians.

The Farmville audience especially enjoyed the readings, "Gal of the Streets" and "The Old Man of the Sea." The program consisted mainly of Biblical readings. Mr. Hoeny expressed a great admiration for Virginia poets.

The audience thoroughly enjoyed the program, and are looking forward to Mr. Hoeny's return to Farmville.

NEXT YEAR 50TH ANNIVERSARY

The year 1934, the fiftieth anniversary of our College, is to be an outstanding year in the history of the institution. In keeping with the anniversary, "The Virginian" is to be the largest and best ever put out by the students here and is to be ready for distribution on March 7 when the anniversary celebration is to be held.

This plan calls for immediate work on the new year book which cannot be begun without an editor-in-chief and a business manager. On Tuesday morning in chapel a motion was passed by the student body that a committee composed of faculty members and students appoint these two officers for the coming year. This is a temporary provision made to meet the present needs and not a permanent one to be used every yar.

Other major officers will be elected as usual in the near future. The exact date of elections has not been determined as yet.

Good news for you as well as for your pocketbook!

Returning to the orchestra! How many of you have heard Lulie Wilkerson and her Syncopated Sisters? Can they play? Just wait until you hear the special numbers they have prepared just for this gala event! Snappy dances and ongs—cute costumes and rare decorations promise to be features of this presentation.

Remember that you have a date on April 6—at 8:15! Get the ole bunch together and come, and carry on!

ELECTIONS

A senior class, like all other classes in years before, worrying over their successors; a junior class just bubbling over with politics; a sophomore class just beginning to be conscious of the power they could wield if they would; a freshman class wondering if their votes are going to be counted the same as other classes, is the condition on the campus as once again the annual elections roll around.

Regardless of the class of which she is a member, every student has two duties, and the responsibility of meeting these duties rests upon her shoulders alone. The first is to cast her vote; the second is to cast that vote for the most worthy candidate.

Possibly the largest percentage of votes from each class will be cast by the junior class because they are the most concerned with the elections. However, it is the responsibilty of the seniors who have directed and led the juniors in the various campus activities to do their part toward seeing that officers for next year are the ones best fitted for the positions. In many cases they are in the best position to judge a student's ability, having worked with her during the past three years. The sophomores and freshmen are to have minor campus officers chosen from their midst, whose work is just as necessary in its less spectacular way. These classes, too, will next year be among the students to be ruled, admonished to clean their rooms, and put across the campus projects.

Nevertheless, there never has been an election held on the campus where the percentage of students voting have reached the 80 mark. Many times not as many as half the students voted, and it is only fair that all the students should have a share in electing their officers.

If our voting facilities were inadequate, there would be an excuse for not voting. However, every effort has been made in the past and is being made this year to make the process of selecting the campus leaders for next year as easy as possible. All that is asked of the voter is that she pause for two or three minutes to check the ballot that is already printed for her, as she passes through the post office lobby, doubtless the most frequented spot on the campus. Is that asking too much?

In regard to the student's second duty, an admonition to let personal feelings go and to choose according to the merit of the candidate, is trite but as necessary this year as any year in the past. Vision and character are the prime requisites for a leader. The student who has the vision to look upon her office as an opportunity for service, and not as a personal honor conferred upon her, is the candidate that the voter should have the vision to elect. The vision seen, the character of the student must be there to fulfill it. It will take character to stand the criticism, the disappointment and the endless toil, which will all be part of accomplishing the vision.

"More Voters; Better Leaders!" is our campaign cry.—The Spectator.

THE PRESIDENTIAL APPEAL

Regardless of the wisdom of the actions of the President within the last few days, there can be little doubt as to the revitalizing effect that they have had upon Washington and upon the nation at large. The dullness and lethargy of the last few months of the Hoover administration has disappeared before the driving force of the new regime, and the desire and longing of the nation for some sort of action, be it wise or foolish, to chase away the pall of fear, seems to have found complete fulfillment. The psychological effect of the change in the Washington scene has been immense.

Not the least contributing factor to this change is in the new President's use of the radio. The use that he made of it Sunday night, and the results that he achieved in affecting the thought of the average citizen, probably marks a new high in presidential radio appeal. If Mr. Roosevelt continues to use it as effectively as he has already, he will be greatly strengthened in the command that he has over Congress.—The Flat Hat.

BE INTELLIGENTLY BLIND TO SURFACE DEFECTS

A student was once heard to remark that his friends thought more of him than he really was. We know that our fathers and mothers think more of us than we merit. Most of us are unable to see the defects of those we love. It might be better sometimes if we could. Perhaps if we could analyze our friends coldbloodedly we might be able to help them in their weaknesses.

On the other hand, it is a great blessing that we do not always see too well.

As we glance through the family album, we see many pictures that make us laugh. There is old Uncle Jim smoking a pipe and wearing a stove-pipe hat on the side of his head. Such pictures weren't put in the album for a later generation to laugh at. Well, then, how is it. Were they blind that they couldn't see how ludicrous and funny the picture was?

A husband once said that if his wife weren't blind to his faults, their marriage would never have been so happy a one. Wives have the silly notion that their husbands are "great stuff." And by their faith keep them going.

In our campus life, we think "so and so" is a great guy, and "so and so" is a sweet girl. It IS a blessing that we are blind to their defects. If we were not, our life on this compus would be one of dissatisfaction and dislike ,instead of one of harmony.

The important thing is to be intelligently blind to surface defects or faults which are really only laughable weaknesses, and to be understanding and appreciative to the qualities that cannot be seen.—The Lenoir Rhyean.

Rudy Valee recently visited the University of South Carolina. Ah, what are our universities coming to? First, it was Bolshevism, then it was Paganism, and now it seems to be crooning.—The Erskine Mirror.

MY TRIBUTE TO THE TEACHER

J. W. Crabtree, Secretary
National Education Association

There will be no moratorium on education. A moratorium on education would mean a moratorium on civilization. This is one of the reasons why teachers will continue the schools, pay or no pay. The nation, as it becomes aware of the services and sacrifices of teachers and of the great significance of their courage and farsightedness, will show the appreciation that it has shown to its soldiers who sacrificed their lives for their country.

In the crisis of the seventies, I was amazed, as a boy, at the sacrifices made by the pioneer teacher of that day. Since then, I have observed that whether in time of famine or in time of plenty, the teacher has lived not for self, but for the children and the community. I have noticed that the selfish man or woman seldom remains long in the profession.

When the terrible days of the World War came upon us, who led in food conservation? Who led in the sale of liberty bonds? Who led in collecting food, clothing, and funds for the Red Cross? Who kept the schools going, whether funds were available or not? And what of the teachers of today? They are serving in a worse crisis than ever before. Their responsibility is greater. Environment is more destructive in its effect on children. The teacher-load is almost doubled. In spite of all this, the teacher is again leading in welfare activities. There may be a delay in pay—a month or six months—or the pay may be cut off for a year, yet the work of the school goes on!

Who is it that removes gloom from the lives of children who come from homes filled with sorrow and suffering because of the depression? Who is it that inspires children with courage and ambition? Who teaches them to look forward to better days? Who is it that is saving civilization in these dark hours?

All honor, therefore, to the teacher of 1933! Your courage and your devotion stand out as the safeguard of our democracy and as the hope of the nation!

MONKEY BUSINESS

Exams are over, and spring is here,
What more is needed to bring us cheer?
A handsome date, and a starry sky
A diamond ring, and then—good-by.
We know that love's labors are often lost,
Let them first buy the ring, and then count the cost.

Dot Davis, treasurer of the Sophomore Class, seems also to stand a chance of becoming the "treasure" of a certain "soldier" from Fork Union. Emma Little—, and a large cadet: And was he handsome? Oh yes, you bet.

Mary Conway wasn't the only girl who got a thrill when "Dave" showed up, this past week-end, but I bet the thrill that Mary got was the largest.

Well, Tankard finally did get about an hour date with "Soup", but it took rather a long time.

"Whitie" from Richmond seems to happen arcund S. T. C. right often now-a-days—all due to Alice Rowell's power over men.

"Dooley" and "Betsy" are lucky in getting the Senior parlor, once in a while, anyway. They ought to have a parlor all to themselves, I think, for they certainly do deserve one, if anyone does.

I am not the only one who knows what time it was when "Buck" left the Rotunda last Friday night, and no one can blame him, for the center of attraction was none other than Winston Cobb.

Christine Childrey was very fortunate to rate date with the A. A. R., both on Saturday and Sunday nights, —lucky "Christie."

Mary Hood's restlessness in class Saturday morning was very probably due to the fact that "Otis" was due soon. "He came, he saw, he conquered." WOW.

Louise Floyd seems to be making all sorts of time with a certain V. P. I. cadet—her brother.

Elizabeth Rawlings was seen at the station, when the train pulled out, watching another "passing fancy?" pass out of sight. Tay Jones and Jack McCurdy haven't come to blows—yet, but may the best line win "Liz."

Jane Royall was royally hustling about Sunday. She just did leave the someone, from somewhere, Sunday night, in time to have a date with "Al" Gillespie.

What about Jean McClure and "Preacher" Bouldin?—just as much as ever, and apparently just as much in love.

There are lots of boys who would like a date with Mary Shelton, but Patchell won't give them a chance, and you can't blame him.

In spite of the fact that a good many girls were "on the railing" Sunday night, there also seemed to be a large number of boys who were left "standing up."

The smile which beamed forth from the face of Dot Prescott, upon seeing our friend Mac Crowe Sunday night, certainly proved beyond a doubt that Dot has certainly found a "find." Mac was far beyond being displeased—also.

Mary Elizabeth Alexander and "Bo" Chittum, are really and truly in love—so it seems. But in spite of these odds, they are a cute couple and here's wishing you the best of luck.

After church Sunday night "Rena" Bland and "Mouse" Paulette "hit the rec," whereupon "Mouse" creeped upon the piano, and with "Rena" by his side, played softly, and tenderly. After a little of this they retreated to a corner where they talked it all over.

I am very sorry but I deem it necessary to discontinue "Monkey, Business" but I hope that it may be continued in the future if you want it.

The "Monkey" is dead,
The "Dope Fiend" is dying;
I can't write poetry
So I'm gonna stop tryin'.

Yours no more,
THE DOPE FIEND

THE GRUMBLERS

These last few days have certainly been gray. I've never seen so much rain and so many sad and grumbling people in all my life. Even those who usually are cheerful have let the depression or something worse get the better of them.

Yesterday I met Gay Richardson and the Rowell twins grumbling because the teachers had given them no studying to do.

Dot Snedegar has been running around the halls grumbling because not enough people will come out for volley ball, and that reminds me I also heard Dot and Hildie Ross complaining because there is not enough food for theym to eat, and Judy Hardy and Jo Clayton are also grumbling because there's not enough food.

Winston Cobb is the chief grumbler. She complains because no one will attend prayers, and everyone walks over hymnals in the auditorium with out pretending to pick them up—and Jane Royall—complaining and worrying because freshmen and other underclassmen insist on going down town at night, and the rest of the government have been sleeping in classes all day because of having to stay up so late at government meetings. Poor Hattie grumbles because she can't grumble about teaching any more. Now, its lights and noise after 11 o'clock.

And the editor of the paper, complaining because no one wrote his articles on time, and there was no news. According to her this issue is surely a flop. Why can't people do what they're supposed to do—when they know they should.

And the jig saw fans can't find any new puzzles to work—why don't these people help those in trouble?

Why can't the "Big Five" find something constructive to do. It is a shame that such talented girls should go to waste.

SONNET

If, in my secret heart, I did not know,
For certain that you will turn to me
After the bitter disillusions go
On ebbing tides of passion, fierce and free;
If I had not explored the depth below,
That smiling surface which is in your eyes,
And seen a flame like ancient amber glow
In speaking of a dream that you must prize,
I would forget you, put you from my heart,
Because at times you do not seem quite fair.
But now, just when I am about to start,
I feel your fingers tremble on my hair,
Your lips a silent pledge against my cheek . . .
All this because I know whereof I speak.

Agnes Stalbuer

YOUR CHANCE

When you feel that the dream has faded
And you know that nothing is true;
Don't start crying and weeping
But prove that you're true blue.

For after all there's more than one dream
And more than one person to like,
So try again and begin all over
And fight and fight and fight.
Now here's your biggest chance,
To prove what you can do:
Go get back in the big old game
And make your dreams come true.

'33

TO FIGHT ALOUD

To fight aloud is very brave,
But gallanter, I know,
Who charge within the bosom,
The cavalry of woe.

Who win, and nations do not see,
Who fall, and none observe,
Whose dying eyes no country
Regards with patriotic love.

We trust in plumed procession,
For such the angels go,
Rank after rank, with even feet
And uniforms of snow.

Dickinson

LIVES

Lush, lush meadows.
Filled to the brim with gold.
Golden, golden buttercups
Bringing delight to my soul.

Blue, blue heavens
The dusty road to the mart.
Spring, Spring, Spring.
Bringing delight to my heart.

H. S., '36

GRIEF

Grief's two-edged, sharpened sword
strikes deep through me,
Who long have fought and valiantly withstood
The uneven conflict. Wounded and wearily
I fought, and yet I know my fight was good,
'Till one by one my dearest ones were gone—
They kept me looking from the night toward dawn.

But none shall know how deep the wound I bear,
And none shall see me cringe, or bend my heart.
With each new morning I shall smile and wear
Mirth's mask, and play my part till I am dead
And even in that strange and final sleep
This searing hurt my cold lips still shall keep.

E. Taylor

PERHAPS

Perhaps we'll meet some day, in some far year,
And hardly recognize each other's face.
Perhaps we'll grope a moment as we near
Endeavoring to recollect the place
Our ways once crossed. And then, remembering,
We'll smile and let our hands reach out to touch
As strangers might . . . so small, so brief a thing!
One wouldn't guess that once it meant so much.

I'll think, perhaps, "I'm glad he went away!"
And you'll think, "She has aged!" and be glad, too.
Then we shall find there's nothing much to say
Beyond the things we've said—much less to do,
So we shall part again—and neither guess
The other's sudden sense of loneliness.

INTERCOLLEGIATE

A young lady at the Georgia State College for Women recently wrote an Associated Press article in which she stated the opinion of outstanding seniors there concerning their ideal men. Her discoveries were interesting to say the least.

The girls wanted their men to have incomes ranging from "enough to keep two alive" to "well heeled". The physical requirements were just as varied. One wants her husband to be blond, a second required that he be able to play a musical instrument, another that he play bridge and tennis well.

The problem is summed up best by the "most charming" girl who stated that all the above were quite superficial and that it was only necessary for her to love him. —The Brackety-Ack.

Reporters of the Columbia Spectator, after questioning people on the streets, discovered that five out of six men think college students are loafers.—The Ring-tum Phi.

According to the Mills College Weekly, the Stanford Daily states that a smoothie is a fifty per cent higher "gigolo" than an ordinary man, since the former is a male who is not only willing to dance for a dollar a night but also adds the qualities of a smooth dresses who may even own a tuxedo and wear a boutonniere. At that rate "You're an old smoothie" must be the latest "gigolo" song.

Recent news items in other current college papers bring the following information: That there are only nine unkissed men at the University of California. That the co-eds at the University of Louisiana have completely shaved their heads to prevent themselves from having too many dates with boys— That the Pomona (California) College Student Life advertises that it prints "death notices and even gives space to fatal accidents," urging freshmen to subscribe for their mothers so that "they will know whether you are dead or alive."—The Richmond Collegian.

We have often heard of the young man whose thoughts in spring lightly turn to love, but only recently we heard of the boy who thinks it is spring everytime he gets into a warm room.

ODDS AND ENDS OF CHARM

By Helena Rubinstein

Everything is done scientifically nowadays, but even yet there are good cooks who, when asked for a certain recipe, will say, "Oh., I just take a little of this, and a little of that"—but to follow the directions is never easy.

Ask the girl who has charm and she will say the same thing. "A little of this," she will tell you, "and a little of that," but the mixing—the turn of the wrist, the dash of piquancy that makes all the difference—she leaves to you. With charm there's no recipe. There are many ingredients and every mixture is different.

You have been told often that every girl must be her own type; that neatness and good grooming are more important that the color of the hair; that good looks, as we know them nowadays, are mostly a question of wanting and working. But that isn't quite enough I hear you say. What we want is charm—"little odds and ends of charm." How I would like to give to each special one of you, your own special recipe, but it can't be done.

One thing I can tell you, though I've told you before. The most successful women I know are those who capitalize their own charming selves according to their own charming patterns. And—while I know you are tired of the trite old phrase about beauty coming from within, we can't discount the truth just because it happens to have on a stupid frock and there's truth in the time-worn phrase. There's charm in poise, in an eager, interested face, a ready smile, a pleasant voice, in kindliness and simplicity—spirtiual qualities, yes But they are part of the "this and that" qualities of charm that may be yours.

Have you physical qualities that look like defeat? Look them straight in the eye with a wide open mind for in almost every case it is something you can befriend by the dressing of your hair, the colors you wear or the cosmetics you use.

Is your skin dull and sallow? Spend more time on the campus, take more advantage of opportunities for exercise, outdoors and in. Every morning after a few minutes of setting-up exercises, apply a skin-clearing cream to face and neck and leave on while you bathe and dress. Pat on a toning lotion to close the pores and tone the skin. Do this every morning and watch your skin grow clearer, your cheeks pinker, sallowness and sluggishness disappear as by magic. Next week, I'll tell you how to make the most of your outstanding features.

For further information about helps to little odds and ends of charm, write to Helena Rubinstein, 8 E. 57th Street, New York, N. Y.

DEBATE CLUB GIVES RECEPTION

The Debate Club entertained the debaters Saturday night in the lounge after the debate. There were quite a few guests present. Punch and cake was served. Margaret Hix presided over the punch bowl. She is president of Pi Kappa Delta.

After the reception, the debaters left for Green Bay where they were the guests of one of the Lynchburg debaters. Everyone present had a delightful time.

COTILLION CLUB PLANS SPRING DANCES

Martha Sanders, president of the Cotillion Club, announced at a recent meeting of the club that the spring dance will be held April 1 in the gymnasium. The music will be furnished by Jelly Leftwich and his orchestra, who have played for the club many times before.

The dance will be formal, as is the custom for the spring dance. The figure will be led by Jenilee Knight.

Many alumnae are expected back for that week-end, and from all reports, there will be the usual quota of V. P. I., V. M. I., Hampden-Sydney and Richmond College men.

ATHLETICS

S. T. C. CLOSES MOST SUCCESSFUL BASKET BALL SEASON OF YEARS

by stealing a dribble or by jumping higher than her opponent.

Sara Beck, Dot's co-worker as guard, played zone defense so well that she allowed hardly any passes to go through, breaking up some that seemed almost impossible to reach.

The Sweet Briar News carried the following dispatch, "Every pass of the Sweet Briar forwards was broken up by one or the other of the Farmville guards" and after the first two home games one Farmville town person, an old coach remarked that Farmville had the best guards he had ever seen play.

Mary Gregory, the tall center, thrilled the audience by high jumping and catching many balls that seemed out of reach.

Frances Potts, her side center ran like the "wind" and was perhaps the quickest member of the team, even though she was the smallest.

Jennie Hurt seemed never to miss a goal or get in a hurry but was always in place a little ahead of her opponent.

Margaret Parker, forward, jumped higher perhaps than any other member of the team and played with such excellent pass work that she completely baffled her opponents.

Although Potts, Gregory, and Snedegar are seniors the remainder of the squad shows that next year our basketball team will probably be as good as this year.

Mary Burgess Fraser, manager of basketball, and her assistant, Elizabeth Billups, did much to make the season a success.

SKATING BECOMES FAD AT S. T. C.

Spring is in the air, and along with spring come many out-of-door sports. Tennis has had the upper hand but nowadays it's—skating. Girls you had better write home for your skates and join the merry skaters. What good exercise! To those who would like to reduce: There's no better way. To the rather slim ones (the scattered few): It will surely work up a good appetite. All in all, skating will agree with us all. And Miss Mary approves.

There are rumors of a tournament this spring. Woudn't that be fun? You had better get some practice if you want to enter. Who knows, you may be champion.

Just as soon as the weather permits the following tennis matches must be played:

E. Wheeler—M. Parker.

It is most essential that these be played off so that the champion tennis player may be determined.

VOLLEY BALL

What is causing all that laughing and yelling coming from the gym? They are having volley ball practice. Have you ever played volley ball? If not, you don't know what fun you have missed. You had better come down to the gym in the afternoon and learn the game. Volley ball practices are in full swing now, the girls getting ready for the class games April 11 and 12. The season isn't so long this year, and so you had better come out early and get the required number of practices. Come down in the gym from 4 to 6 every afternoon and give volley ball a trial. You'll love it!

And will you have the laugh of a life time? Have you noticed the improvement of Martha Gunter's serve. Too bad the Freshmen can't appreciate that. And Mary Shelton, the star player, herself. Is Hildegarde the light fantastic tripper? There are many more who should really start a volley ball vaudeville show.

ELECTIONS

AN EDITORIAL

When students reach college age they should be able to make their own decisions and make them wisely, but it seems that instead, many are influenced by the idle gossip of their associates. Elections should bring out this quality in students, and unless each student takes advantage of this opportunity to express his views the whole purpose of student elections and student government has failed. After a student reaches college she is mature enough and has intelligence enough to make a decision in elections without being influenced by idle gossip. This group of persons who make it their business to roam about school and try to sway public opinion create an undesirable situation as far as elections are concerned. They try to persuade some whose minds are already made up, and they try to persuade freshmen and others who are not quite sure for whom they will vote. The purpose of a democratic government is for its citizens to have popular government or in other words their own government. This habit of meddling retards this individual thinking in students and destroys real student government. In the elections tomorrow, if everyone remembered this fact, and everyone tried to make his own decision and not try to decide for other people too, wouldn't the elections be fairer, more satisfying and more what the studentt body is really looking for?

Pi Kappa Delta New Members

The Virginia Alpha Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, national forensic society wishes to announce the following new members:

Dorothy Woolwine, Ceres
Beverly Barksdale, Farmville
Margaret Pollard
Nancy Harrison Petersburg
Virginia Hamilton, Petersburg

To be eligible for Pi Kappa Delta one must participate in two varsity intercollegiate debates with senior colleges.

These new members were initiated in the honor society room yesterday afternoon and announced at assembly today.

Last night the chapter was delightfully entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Holton at a formal dinner held at their home. Those present besides the host and hostess and the new members were the four old members, Dr. Jarman, honorary member, and Dr. Walmsley, faculty member.

The Virginia Alpha Chapter at Farmville is the only chapter of this honor society in the state of Virginia. The chapter has been very fortunate so far with its debating schedule having won five out of eight debates. The five new members promise to be a good nucleus to start work next year, as all of the old members are seniors.

PI GAMMA MU TO VISIT CONGRESS IN SESSION

At five o'clock sharp, on Thursday morning, a group of S. T. C. girls and faculty members will leave for Washington, D. C., where they plan to spend a very enjoyable day. Pi Gamma Mu is going in a body to visit Congress in session. Plans are being made to see House of Representatives holding their regular meetings. This will indeed be quite interesting to everyone and should give an idea as to how business is transacted in the highest law making body in our land.

Transportation is being furnished by the faculty members of the organization both active and associate. The student members are packing a picnic lunch for each car which will not only cut down expenses but add a social touch to the occasion.

H.-S. C. Glee Club To Sing Fri. Night

The Hampden-Sydney Glee Club assisted by the Hampden-Sydney Collegians and Ben Franklin, professional magician will give a concert in the S. T. C. auditorium Friday night at 8 o'clock.

The Glee Club which has won unusual popularity in its several appearances here will measure up to its high standard of vocal achievement in this concert. Its numbers will include choruses, quartettes and solos. In the three years of its organization this group has made remarkable strides, last year winning the contest for college glee clubs in Virginia. It has appeared for two successive years on the program of the convention of the Federated Music Clubs of Virginia and has won the favor of all who heard it.

The Collegians are fast gaining a reputation of note. Their last performance in this college was at the Mardi Gras where they played for an enthusiastic group.

Although Ben Franklin performed some of his feats of magic at the S. T. C. circus, he has many more which he will perform Friday night and many which are more clever than any ever presented to an audience in our auditorium.

This concert is being given on the eve of an extended tour through Virginia and West Virginia by the Glee Club and those assisting with the program. Do doubt the performance wil be presented to large audiences in the cities on the tour. Certainly everyone here at home will want to attend Friday night and support the boys!

PI GAMMA MU HAS NEW MEMBERS

The Virginia Gamma Chapter of Pi Gamma Mu has announced the following new members for the winter term: Dorothy Woolwine, junior, Ceres, Va., who has shown outstanding interest in social science and has a high scholastic rating; Louise Bullock, Portsmouth; Elmer Foster and Mary B. Nelson are all three juniors who are majors in history and social science and have shown unusual ability in this work.

STATE HIGH SCHOOL CHORUS BAND, AND ORCHESTRA PLANNED

A program given by a state-wide high school chorus, band, and orchestra is planned for the next meeting of the Virginia Educational Association in Richmond at Thanksgiving tme. Ths program is sponsored by the music section of the Virginia Educational Association—the object being (1) to create a statewide interest in music in junior and senior high schools; (2) to definitely assist the study of music in band, orchestra, and chorus; (3) to stimulate the social value of music by group activities.

It is hoped that pupils from many schols will participate, and all schools are urged to learn the suggested musical numbers whether they send representatives or not. It can hardly be expected to have balanced groups the first year, but this beginning will give valuable experience to all who participate and with enthusiastic support Virginia may send many represenatives to the national high school chorus, band and orchestra.

The following people are serving as directors in this activity and the list of compositions chosen by each group is appended:

Band—John Van de Venter, director, Fredericksburg.

Orchestra—Lizabeth Purdom, director, State Teachers College, Farmville.

Chorus Edna Shaeffer, director, S. T. C., Harrisonburg.

S. T. C. TO HAVE DELEGATE AT BLOSSOM FESTIVAL

Miss Helen Cover of Staunton, Virginia, has been appointed princess to the Court of Queen Shenandoah at the Winchester Apple Blossom Festival in May.

A different scheme of representation is being tried this year by the committee in charge of the festival. In past years princesses have been appointed by legislators and various other individuals from all parts of the state, but this year presidents of the leading colleges have been asked to appoint girls to represent their schools. Dr. Jarman appointed Helen Cover, who is also our May Queen,—many of the princesses are May queens of their respective colleges—to represent State Teachers College, Farmville, at the festival.

Whether or not this method of selecting princesses will become a custom is not known, but the college feels honored in being represented at the festival this year by so lovely a princess as Helen Cover.

FRESHMEN TO HAVE CABARET APRIL 7

April 7 has been set as a definite date for the Freshman Cabaret. This is to be an unusually interesting production and the price is especially low. There is to be dancing for everyone, special entertainment, and a good time—for only fifteen cents.

The Freshman Orchestra is to play, and it really is grand. They know the newest pieces, and they can really make music. They also know some good stunts, and everyone present will have the privilege of seeing them.

Elections Are To Be Held On Thursday of This Week— Important Issue

Nominations for the major officers revealed the fact that Alice McKay is the almost unanimous choice of the student body for the student body president. Mary Shelton, the other nominee, was also nominated for editor-in-chief of the Rotunda, and preferred to accept this nomination. A student body meeting called this morning and by a vote of acclamation, Alice McKay was unanimously elected president for the coming year. The faculty administration and student body feel very fortunate in having this office filled by Alice McKay. She has been very outstanding in school activities since she came to S. T. C. She takes an active part in the Dramatic Club, has been the secretary of the Student Council for the past year and a member of Alpha Kappa Gamma.

Nominations for other major officers are:

Y. W. C. A.

Honey Hamilton
Sue Yeaman

Honey Hamilton has served on the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet for two years, and this year she has been chairman of the Freshman Commission. She is also a member of Alpha Kappa Gamma and Pi Kappa Delta.

Sue Yeaman has also been a member of the Cabinet and has filled her office as vice-president this year very capably. She takes an active part in athletics.

Editor-in-Chief Rotunda

Mary Diehl has been on the staff three years and is associate editor this year.

Mary Berkley Nelson
Mildred Gwaltney

Both of these girls are members of the present A. A. Council and have done good work.

For the House Council the following were nominated:

Elmer has been outstanding in class activities and efficient in every line.

PLANS PRACTICALLY COMPLETE FOR MAY 6

The major plans for May Day have been almost completed. Hattie Gilliam, as chairman of May Day, and Jenilee Knight, who has developed the theme of Robin Hood, have been steadily and progressively working, outlining and scheduling, selecting and appointing. The following have been selected to complete the Robin Hood cast, which of course, includes Mary Shelton as Robin Hood, Dorothy Snedegar as Allan-A-Dale, Helen Cover as Lady Marion, and Jenilee Knight as Annabelle:

Friar Tuck ..... Alice Moore
Little John ..... Margaret Armstrong
Will Scarlet ..... Martha Sanders
Sheriff of Nottingham .. Alice McKay

GRADES—TO WHOM SHOULD THEY BE FIRST ANNOUNCED?

Each quarter, about a week after examinations are over, grades are sent home to the parents of the girls here at college. Probably a week later the girls themselves receive their record books. Why should grades be sent first to the parents? Why should not the girls see their grades before any one else does?

There is every reason why the girls should be the first persons to receive their own grades. They are most interested in them. They are the ones who have made the grades. They are ones who have worked and studied for the courses on which they are graded. They are the ones who should be allowed the pleasure of announcing to their parents their high marks.

On the other hand, certain girls are the ones who have played during the quarter. Their low marks should be sent to them, first of all. Thus(they will be able to write to their parents, gently mentioning their C's and D's and fully explaining just how and why they happened to be on the reports. By giving the students their grades first and allowing them to "break the news" to their parents, the chances of the formal report's proving fatal to the parents will be greatly lessened. The students are younger and stronger than their parents; therefore, they should be better able to stand the shock of low grades. Why not have compassion on the parents of girls receiving low marks and more compassion on the girls eagerly awaiting their high grades? Why not send the girls their record books and then the parents their official reports?

LOST AND FOUND

Necessity is the mother of invention. Something had to be done about the odds and ends of scraggly "For Sale", "For Rent" notices for the bulletin board could not have held them all. Order has finally resulted from confusion. At last we have devised some means of neatly and systematically advertising books for each subject of our curriculum.

This method of writing under each designated subject the book for sale or rent and the proper place to apply to has proved of ultimate value. Not only are these charts more tidy but also they conserve much time and energy. Instead of the whole bulletin board's being littered with improvised signs of all sorts, sizes and writings, one space only is necessary for the purpose. Instead of spending ten or fifteen minutes reading every notice while looking for the right book, one can peruse in a few seconds the books listed under her subject.

If anyone having a book for sale or rent would quickly list it as designated on the bulletin board, the worry and exhaustion from searching for books at the beginning of each term would be greatly eliminated. It would take little trouble to do such a simple thing, but it would mean a great deal to any concerned.

This general idea might be carried out too for Lost and Founds. If we could cultivate the habit of posting Losts under one imposing heading with the date clearly marked, or of notifying the owners of the Founds under a similar heading, and really make this the one means of announcing lost items, more cooperative and sensible attitudes might result.

The depression and even the bank's closing hasn't hit S. T. C. so hard judging from the great number of spring frocks in evidence. Which reminds us that a great many students still owe dues—a hint to the wise is sufficient.

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor,

As spring has steadily approached, attendance at Prayers has just as steadily declined. I am afraid we tend to hurry through our lives with little deep thought of the side of life which our prayer service attempts to supplement. Of course it is tempting to dash out of the Rotunda and stroll down the walks in the velvety coolness of evening. But I wonder if listening to short talks and music at Prayers and taking the evening stroll cannot both be successfully done between 6:45 and 7:30 P. M. The committees in charge of Prayers have done unusually thorough work this year, and we can help them as well as ourselves by our presence at their services for ten minutes each evening.

It will only be a few days before everyone will put on her "thinking cap" and will request it to inspire her to vote for the most capable girls in the spring election. May I, too, make a request of the "thinking cap" in behalf of the underclassmen?

"Thinking Cap, do not allow these girls to accept too many offices, though capable they may be. In the rosy glow of success, these offices will appear as glorious honors with only the term 'Duty' attached to them. But enable these underclassmen to peer further into the future. Then they will find that the picture may not be so rosy colored. They may have become ensnared in an eternal chain of meetings, routine work, meetings, etc. Each new office means another meeting, they should be told. Allow these girls to remember the real purpose for which they came to college. Extra curricula work is not all important. And let them see, too, that the strongest person is that one who knows when to say 'No' and has the courage to say it."

Underclassmen, students, as well as faculty members are watching you as you make your momentous decisions. Be wise and strong.

A Scotchman was going on the excursion to New York by way ofthe Reading Railroad. He asked the agent for a round trip ticket and handed the agent a ten-dollar bill. "Change at Jersey City."

"No jokes, now," said the Scotchman, "I want my change right away."
—Stray Bits.

Middle-age is that period when you can't help feeling a little contempt for a man who's in love.

A great man has few real advantages, except that someone dumps fish in a pond for him to catch.

NEWS AND NOTES CONCERNING ALUMNAE

Mrs. William Cabell Flournoy attended the meeting of the Colonial Dames in Lynchburg on March 21, and gave a talk on "Educational Institutions in the Early South."

Mrs. Florence Boston Decker, president of the Richmond branch of the American Association of University Women, recently attended the state convention in Charlottesville.

Marjorie Goodwyn, head of the art department of the Thomas Jefferson High School is supervising the mural work being done at the Dooley Hospital in the children's rooms.

Catherine Cogbill of Boydton whose engagement and approaching marriage to Mr. Cornelius DeWitt of Pittsburg, have been announced, is being honored at many events before the wedding on April 15.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bell (Florence Cralle) of Hampden-Sydney, March 10, at St. Luke's hospital, in Richmond, a son, Walter Herman Bell Jr.

Mrs. F. M. Bugg of Farmville received a message from her daughter, Mrs. Gordon Hughes, telling of the cyclone in Tennessee and stating there was little damage around Kingsport.

JIG SAW

So! Spring is coming after all! What if it did suffer a relapse the other day, fall right back into winter's shoes, and jostle a lot of carefully made schemes on the part of college girls planning week-end trips. Snow flakes and snow drops aren't a bad combination anyhow. Spring is coming! Snow as it will—rain, hail, anything—it's coming just the same. How do I know? Proof positive and superabundant: The daffodil, and jonquils, and hyacinths and crocuses are blossoming as pluckily as ever. The forsythia is one cloud of gold; the campus one mat of green. And incidently, I saw some weeping willows decked out in the tenderest of green veils the other day. That's a good sign, you know, not to mention the pussy willows. March, with all his surliness, can't fool those fluffy little cats. Such romping good times as they are having down on the creeks!

More signs: Lucky kids are setting the rest of the younger training school populace green with envy. What?—Barefeet, of course. That's an indication infallible that Spring is en route.

And among ourselves, who could mistake such token as these anklets and spring frocks, sport oxfords and snappy blazers. Then notice how rapidly those daring frocks and bonnets are disappearing from the down town shop windows. Spring not coming? Now who claims it? Just bide your time, and soon these self-same hats and gowns will parade out to prove I'm right.

'TWEEN YOU AND ME AND THE GATEPOST

While a great part of our friends seem to be interested in dear old Hampden-Sydney, there are many more whose hearts beat faster at the mention of V. M. I., or perk up when they hear a name, V. P. I. or are agitated when anything is said "agin" Richmond College, or are enthusiastic when talking of the University. Then there is Randolph - Macon, Richmond Medical School, W. & L., and even quite a few preps.

S. T. C. is going to be at V. P. I. Easter in a big way. Why Dorin's going to lead the Cotillion Club figure, and at the dances there'll be Burgwyn, Sanders, Dot Eley, Nancy Parker, Nancy Harrison, Dot Legare, Connie Quarles, Kitty McLemore, Mary Shelton, and others.

When wanting to know about V. M. I., just ask Chic Mosby—she really knows those keydets. Then there is Celia Jones, Elizabeth Steptoe, Anne Irving, Lucille Rocke Jean McClung, or a few more, who could add quite a bit of information.

Now Conway, Alice Rowell, Lula Windley, and Helen Shawen hold sway at Richmond College—and do they love it! The other Rowell—Gracie—prefers the doctors as does Zelle Ware. They gave quite a glowing report of the Medical College dance, Friday night.

Call out Wah-Hoo-Wah! and you'll see Bock Copenhaver, Wycliffe Scott, Anne Thomas, Helen Cover or Jenilee Knight sit up and take notice. They're always talking about those smooth Virginia guys.

Parker (Maggie) and Frances Terrell are always breezing down to Randolph-Macon. Why I even hear that Gr.t's going to turn down the Hampden-Sydney dances for ole Randy-Macon. Can you take it Junie?

Weezie McNulty and Toney Jones think there's no place like old W. & L., and I judge from all appearances, two young "Generals" think there's nothing like S. T. C.

But no matter where our interests will stray, we'll always have a warm place in our hearts for Hampden-Sydney.

TO CUCKOO THE DOPE FIEND

Farewell to the Monkey
And Dope Fiend, too,
It's hard on the readers
They'll miss your news.

Gee! Bob, your flattering gossip will be missed around these parts. Some few, may have fallen for your type of publicity, but much of it was much too personal—don't you think? Did you ever hear of the Golden Rule? Of course you may want your name and your business printed in the newspaper. If so—here's to you.

Remember this though, don't slander others if you can't take it yourself. Can you take it?

Farewell to the dear Cuckoo.
Here's hoping you won't mind
Even if fellows of H. S. C.
Don't appreciate your line.

WORLD NEWS

"If a man wants horses or mules, he should raise them," says Ralph H. Rogers of the department of agriculture at State College, N. C. Horse and mule power is staging a comeback all over the nation. The tractor, once eyed with alarm by farm livestock, is now too expensive for the average farm and farmers can grow the motive fuel on which mules and horses are propelled.

A city of nearly 12,000 people, Vandergrift, Pennsylvania, may be destined to remain dry for the next 62 years even if the 18th amendment is repealed.

The city was founded in 1896 in land deeded to the Vandergrift Land and Improvement Company by the Old Apollo Iron and Steel Company. A provision of the deed is that "for a term of 99 years from date no malt, vinous or spirituous liquors shall be sold on this property."

A farmer of Wisconsin attached a month's "cream check" for five cents to his letter to the Citizen's Tax Relief Commission, pleading for reduction of auto license fees. The five cents represented his balance with a cooperative creamery after deducting his bill for feed and some butter.

James M. Doron, commissioner of industrial alcohol has announced plans to permit several Illinois oil companies to test mixing alcohol with gasoline for motor fuel.

CONSOLATION

My heart was meant for breaking,
So what's another pain,
For one who finds a lasting song
In slanting silver rain?

Who runs to meet the morning
And reaches for the moon,
Who loves a rose like living—
Or death, should it be soon.

My heart was meant for breaking,
So what's another pain?
Just one more call for courage,
Challenge to smile again,

Oh, I shall find the courage,
And I shall own the smile,
Who then can know that heartache
Has measured every mile?

Clara Rugel

TO YOU

If I did not know that
You loved me,
And that your welcoming smile
Each morning was all I needed
To help me through the day,
If I could not read
The hidden messages in your eyes
That are meant for me alone,
If I did not have this to live on,
Then indeed
Life would be drab and dull—
I don't think I should care about living.

TO S. T. C.

When I am gone you will not mourn for me
Nor ask that I return this way again.
Wasting my time in laughter threaded with play
And making such a pretence of knowledge
As to make intelligent folk to turn their head
And score such silly semblance to sense
When I am gone it will be one more place
Thus vacated for the more intelligent to fill.

And I am not angry that you know this your duty
Thus to understand how I could not be changed in my course;
But I will go on jesting to the end
Of grades, and rules, and things of consequence
And you will wonder for a while
Whether I could have done better had I tried.

A Senior

PARTING

And so it has come to this—
The time when you ask for freedom.
I knew when we met
That this hour would come soon,
And I, only, should be sorry.
To you—it is just another moment
Fitted haphazardly into your Plan of life—
That is all—
There could never be more.
Ah—if you only knew
That our friendship
Was to me the best
And fullest hours of life,
Maybe you'd not ask release
So lightly.
Since you do—
I can only go gallantly on—
—With breaking heart.

MEMORIES

Go deep down in your memories
And begin to reminisce,
It sometimes breaks your heart
And then again brings bliss.

But even though it breaks your heart,
It's a lovely thing to find
Those hidden little memories
That used to closely bind.

And then when you find the things,
That used to bring you bliss,
Isn't it a terrible feeling
To it's they you miss.

What would we do without memories?
Oh, they give us the courage to go on
And perhaps some promise for happiness
When we wake at the break of dawn.

S. T. C. AND H. S. C. COUNCILS HAVE PARTY

The cabin at Longwood was the scene of a gala affair Friday night, March 24, when the S. T. C. and H. S. C. Student Councils had a party. The entertainment ranged all the way from dancing, to the strains of a victrola, and bridge to jig-saw puzzles and an Easter egg hunt.

The delicious picnic supper was served as the guests sat around the open fire. All of the S. T. C. Council members were present with the exception of Helen Cover and Sarah Hyde Thomas. The members of the Hampden-Sydney Council attending were Howard Gordon, Fleet Dillard, Spotswood Preston, Junie Blake, Buck Ale, Bill Chappell, Howard Cobbs and Franklin Fallwell.

As our girls outnumbered the Hampden-Sydney Council members, other boys were invited; they were: Al Gillespie, Granville Crawford, Cameron Patchell.

Miss Catherine Diehl and Mr. Graham were the chaperones for the party.

FRESHMAN COMMISSION

The Freshman Commission enjoyed a most delightful outdoor supper Tuesday night given by Miss Moran at Longwood. There were many enjoyable features such as good food and the feeling of companionship which sitting around an open fire and playing many interesting games gives one.

This was a red letter day in the lives of the Freshman Commission. Many, many thanks to Miss Moran.

Y. W. NEWS

Mattie Lula Cooper has been appointed chairman of the Church Cooperative Committee of the Y. W. Cabinet to fill the vacancy left by Lois Cox who graduated last term. Mattie Lula is an outstanding freshman, who has shown unusual interest and ability in many phases of college life, particularly in the line of Y. W. work.

BA THANE TO BE GIVEN BY S. C. A. & Y. W. C. A.

The S. C. A. of Hampden-Sydney and the Y. W. Cabinet of S. T. C. are making plans to present a play, Ba Thane, on Friday evening, April 7. Its presentation will follow two weeks of concentrated practicing.

Ba Thane is a one-act play of life in Burma. In all the East today this drama of life is being enacted. Since Burma is but one familiar section, this play in reality is but a mere glimpse of the great mission field. However, it vividly shows missionary life with its labors, cares, and anxieties, its frequent disappointments and loneliness. Even more vivdly portrayed is the noble struggle a desperate race is making in the face of western ideas which have been suddenly thrust upon them. The difficulty of the struggle gives pathos to the story.

Two members of the Dramatic Club have enlisted in coaching, staging, and making the costumes for this play. There is no admission fee and everyone is invited.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWS

Although seventy-five per cent of the co-eds at Swarthmore are sorority members, the Women's Student Government Association at this institution voted to abolish sororities next fall. The grounds for taking the step were that the sorority system is too exclusive, and limits social activities to members of the Green organizations.

A night club at Boulder, Colorado, patronized by the students of the University of Colorado, staged a "Campus Cord" dance which was to be "very, very informal;" the merry makers attending attired in corduroys. A prize was offered for the dirtiest pair of cords worn to the brawl, barring none—no, not even engineers. The announcement stated, "This will be a clean contest—judges will use the point system."

Princeton, N. J. (NSFA) —Football of a sort was played at Princeton as early as 1840, though the sport then was far different from the present intricate game. Some fellows who wanted fun and exercise would chip in and buy a leather cover for an inflated bladder and a supply of these had always to be kept on hand, since the kicks frequently broke them. The ball was tossed up in the air, then all rushed for it, the side winning which succeeded in kicking the ball against East or West College.

The popularity of the game rapidly increased, and in 1869 the players became so ambitious as to challenge the team from Rutgers. On November 6, therefore, the first intercollegiate football game in America was played at New Brunswick, according to the Rutgers rules, and won by them 6 to 4.

At the University of Edinburgh in Scotland, students are fined for cutting classes. Each year the fines collected are used to buy a Christmas present for the president. Last year he received an excellent cigar.

soon.

The committees under the direction of their very able chairman reorganized and are at work already. Frances Ratcliffe, chairman of the costumes committee, expects to have the orders in for the May Court and all costumes by Easter. Mary Winston and her committee are going to organize the dances in a very short time. Many of the dances have been taught in the physical education classes and will therefore be already familiar to the participants. Sue Yeaman, together with her committee, is working on the music.

Even the amphitheatre at Longwood has been studied. A group discussed at Longwood Saturday the possible arrangements with a view to the entrances, staging, etc.

Thus we see that everything is arranged for us, the student body, to show our cooperation and working spirit. Whenever we are called upon to help in the dances, with the costumes, or music; whenever we can help, especially later, with the advertising or transportation; whenever we can be of any service at all, it is up to us to do that thing gladly and willingly. Each one has her bit to do; let her do it.

Now that the courts are being fixed up so nicely it is important that we keep them this way. Please wear rubber sole shoes while playing; otherwise the courts will be full of holes.

Anybody desiring rackets or balls, see Miss Iler.

When you sign up to play be absolutely sure which court you sign up to play for and which time you sign up to play, before asking anybody to give the court up.

Every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon from 3 to 4 Miss Iler will be out on the courts to give individual instruction. This is a good opportunity to learn how to play tennis or to improve your game. Don't miss it!

Pi Gamma Mu Visits Washington On Thursday

Thursday morning at five o'clock a sleepy but excited group left the Rotunda for a visit to the Capitol. This group was composed of the members of Pi Gamma Mu, Dr. Walmsley, Mr. Holton, Miss Peck, Louise Walmsley, and Jack Gray.

After a very interesting visit to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, the Arlington mansion, across the Arlington Memorial bridge to the monument, the group drove around the White House, Treasury, Pan American Building, the War and Navy buildings, and the Lincoln Memorial. At twelve o'clock everyone met at the Capitol to witness the proceedings of the House and the Senate.

In the House a prohibition bill was being discussed and, Representative Blanton of Texas and Representative Sirvitch of New York argued this bill. Blanton was bitterly opposed to the bill, especially to allowing doctors to write prescriptions for the use of alcohol. Rep. Sirvitch through his medical experience attempted to show where doctors needed this right. The proceedings in the House were very informal and there was much moving about, talking, and reading of papers among the representatives. A representative of New York introduced Mr. George Cohan, writer of many poems about our flag and composer of "Over There." Mr. Cohan rose from his seat in the gallery amid much applause.

On arrival in the Senate more formality and dignity in procedure were noticed. The Senate was discussing an R. F. C. bill. Among those taking part in the discussion of this bill were LaFollette, Jr., Borah, and Huey Long. Vice-President Garner passed through the Senate Chamber. Pi Gamma Mu regretted very much that Glass was sick and Byrd on a com-

ALPHA KAPPA GAMMA ELECTS NEW MEMBERS

The following girls have been elected to membership in the Joan Circle of Alpha Kappa Gamma: Frances Potts, Margaret Parker, Mary Burgess Fraser, and Mildred Gwaltney.

Frances Potts has been business manager of the Rotunda this year, in which office she has shown unusual ability. She has taken an active part in the choir of the college and also in athletics. She has been a member of the varsity basketball squad for the past two years.

Margaret Parker has very successfully led the Junior class through the past year and is the class' unanimous choice for Senior class president. She has also shown her ability in basketball.

Mary Burgess Fraser has called attention to herself particularly by her work on the Virginian. She is the editor-in-chief for the coming year. Mary Burgess has, also, quite a decided interest in athletics.

Mildred Gwaltney, in her position as treasurer of the Athletic Association, has shown the ability and initiative which will be essential to her this coming year as president of the A. A.

MARY MARIE HOLTON

Mary Marie is mascot of Pi Kappa Delta.

Pi Kappa Delta Chooses Mascot

Mary Marie Holton, the tiny daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Holton, was unanimously chosen mascot of the Virginia Alpha Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta at a meeting held recently. Mary Marie was informed of the fact at a formal dinner given by Mrs. Holton to the chapter last Tuesday night. Mr. Holton is the S. T. C. debate coach and a member of Pi Kappa Delta, therefore it is fitting that Marie Marie should be mascot.

Mary Marie is not quite a year old yet, and she should bring the debating society good luck for many years.

DUAL DEBATE TO BE IN AUDITORIUM

Wednesday night, April 5 there will be a dual debate between Radford State Teachers College and Farmville S. T. C. These debates will complete this year's schedule for S. T. C. The debates will be held in both the large and small auditoriums. Come and support your school.

Class Officers For Next Session Of State Teachers College Elected

Margaret Parker was unanimously elected president of the Senior class for the coming session. As president of the class this year, Margaret has shown outstanding ability as a worker and leader. The varsity basketball team claimed her as a quick and flashy forward. She was captain of her class team and led them a good fight for their colors in the class basketball clash.

Sue Yeaman was unaimously elected vice-president of the class and was also elected to represent the class on the Student Council for the coming year. Sue has always been interested in school activities. This has been shown by the offices which she has held. As a freshman, she was elected vice-president of her class. The Y. W. C. A. Cabinet has claimed her all three years, this year having her in the capacity of vice-president.

As secretary of the class, the members chose Mary Berkeley Nelson. Burke was secretary of the Athletic Council for the past year and has been ready and willing to work for her class and colors. Frances Horton, the new treasurer, is full of that old red and white spirit which makes things go. Sarah Hyde Thomas was re-elected class representative to the Student Council. Her excellent service during the past year is the cause.

At a special meeting of the Sophomore Class, Nancy Burgwyn was elected president for the coming year. Nancy has been a steady worker with with the class for the past two years. Especially noteworthy was her efficient directing of the class production, "A Friend of the Family." She has an unusual executive ability and the enthusiasm to put things across.

"Tac" Waters was re-elected by the Freshman Class to guide them through another year at S. T. C. As president of the Freshman Class, "Tac" has shown a remarkable ability for getting the Freshmen to cooperate in putting over any adopted task.

McKay, Frasier, Hamilton, Gwaltney, Shelton, Cutshall, Are Major Officers

Minor Officers Are Elected Today For All School Organizations

The results of major elections for the coming year which were held March 30, 1933 are as follows:

Alpha Kappa Plans For a Convention

Of great interest to the Joan Circle of Alpha Kappa Gamma is its national convention being held at the University of South Carolina, Columbia, S. C. the 7th and 8th of April. Miss Florence Stubbs and Miss Iler, accompanied by Margaret Gathright, Virginia Hamilton, Virginia Brinkley, and Helen Cover, will represent the Farmville chapter in Columbia. They expect to receive a great deal of benefit as well as pleasure from the convention.

Etta Marshall, an alumnae of the Farmville chapter will preside. Quite a few of the alumnae of the Farmville chapter are expected to be present.

S. C. A. AND Y. W. C. A. TO PRESENT "BA THANE"

"Ba Thane" will be presented by the S. C. A. of Hampden-Sydney College and the Y. W. C. A. of S. T. C. Tuesday evening, April 11 at 7:30 in the S. T. C. auditorium.

The cast is:

Ba Thane ..... James Elder
Gordon Worth ..... Ray Gordon
Richard Ordway ..... Dan Jenkins
Mr. Fox ..... George Dingwall
Virginia Worth ..... Nancy Harrison
Joan Worth ..... Henrietta Salisbury
Mae May ..... Grace Eubank

The cast, directed by Nan Gilbert, has worked hard and will present one of the best missionary plays. The play portrays life in Burma—both of missionaries and natives.

Ba Thane is perhaps the most interesting character. He is a young native who has a hard struggle against customs and the indifference of rich foreigners to a Christian. Gordon Worth is a missionary whom Ba Thane loves very dearly. One day the natives become infuriated and decide to kill the Worths. It is left up to Ba Thane to kill them. Ba Thane has his sword drawn to stab Gordon Worth unawares—one little incident saves him and his family.

The play is charmingly written, well directed and acted. Each person in the play has the true feeling of his character. It moves quickly and keeps the audience tense.

There is no admission charge. Everybody is invited to come.

Educational Art Exhibit Shown

An exhibition of 150 large reproductions by old masters and moderns is being shown in the art room. The exhibition is particularly interesting because of the large number of paintings by some of our own American artists who are giving to the world some of the finest work being done in landscape.

The purpose of this exhibit is to encourage appreciation of art among the students and to assist in obtaining good pictures. The small admission charge will constitute a fund for the purchase of pictures for our school. Some of the paintings to be on exhibition are: "Song of the Lark", Briton, "In the Gloaming" Buttersack, "Spring," Corot, "Last Supper", da Vinci, "Mona Lisa" da Vinci, "Blue Boy," Gainsborough, and many others.

Intercollegiate Ass'n To Meet

The Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Government will be held this year at Randolph-Macon Woman's College on April 5-7. Forty delegates from all over the South are expected to attend this conference. S. T. C. at Farmville will be represented by Jane Royall, retiring president and Alice McKay, president-elect.

On Wednesday, registration of the various representatives will fill the day. Thursday, Dr. Patillo and Miss Margan will welcome the guests. On this night the formal banquet will be held. Dr. Meta Glass of Sweetbriar, will be the principal speaker.

On Friday, a trip will be taken to various points of interest, Lexington and Natural Bridge. On Friday evening discussion groups will be held. On Saturday morning, the business will be terminated and the officers for the coming year elected.

SPRING

It is often said that "in the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," but it can be said about college students that in spring S. T. C. students' fancies turn to thoughts of baseball, elections, May Day, and graduation.

All over the campus we find groups talking together, and investigation shows that they are discussing one of these subjects. Every afternoon, we see an enthusiastic group of students on the baseball diamond enjoying the beauties of spring in the open air and sunshine. On the halls and at the meeting of various organizations new officers are the subject of conversation. Everyone is beginning to finish up the college year and plan for next session. May Day is also filling the minds of many girls and everyone is not only working hard for this event, but is also looking forward to it as a time when he will see the family, as well as a beautiful pageant. With the coming of spring, graduating sophomores and seniors, begin to think of the time when they must leave Alma Mater for good and they start thinking of a career.

Spring brings these thoughts to the minds of students—and sets them thinking. The warmer air, the beautiful colors, the varied activities tend to wake one up both physically and mentally. In spring it seems optimism overthrows pessimism and everything seems brighter at S. T. C. The change is already noted, and everyone is working harder, playing more soulfully and a general improvement is observed.

The student body extends sympathy to Sara Beck.

OUR PAPER

Too many of us think of "The Rotunda" as merely a means of diversion for the Wednesday evening dinner hour. As we sit around the tables and read, we are amused or bored, passively interested or mildly critical, as onlookers not participants. We do not realize that this is our own organ of thought, that the printed pages are full of the very words of our mouths and that each one of us should have a deep feeling of responsibility as owners and not as a careless reading public.

The classes who have gone before us have left our classes to carry on and to strive to build up and not to tear down the good things that they have so bravely started. We are the stewards in charge, and each issue of "The Rotunda" is a weeky record of our stewardship.

Our college paper is one of the good things that they have left for us. Let us each regard it as our sacred charge and help to uphold its standards and appreciate it for what it really means to us—our link with the past, our pleasure for the present, and our inspiration for the future.

MUCH PROGRESS MADE FOR MAY DAY PLANS

With plans and arrangements for May Day undergoing fast development, some of us pause for a few minutes to catch our breath and wonder, perhaps, who first celebrated the first of May and how many different peoples honor the day.

We know that the original May Day festival was held on the first of May. Here, in college, for convenience sake we have it dated for the first Saturday in May, in order that many alumnae can return to see the ancient celebration. An ancient custom it is. As far east as India the first of May has been a gala day ever since the dawn of history. The Romans celebrated the festival of the flowers on the first of May. Young people of Italy still sally forth at daybreak to gather flowers with which to decorate the doors of their friends.

In England, May Day has been a festival of dance and flowers from time immemorial. The hawthorn is called the May-bush. May Day was looked forward to by the village lads and lassies. At sunrise, honest and truly, fresh flowers and hawthorn boughs were brought home by the young people with blowing of horns and merry making. The fairest maiden in the village was crowned Queen of May and placed in a little bower or arbor where she held her small court, receiving the homage of her companions. In lieu of the American flagpole, every village green had a maypole. May Day morning wreaths of flowers were hung on it and young people danced about it on the turf. The Puritans of Cromwell's day were much opposed to pleasures of the sort. They ordered maypoles cut down and for some years were able to put a stop to maydaying. On the return of the Stuarts the "good ole" May Day customs were revived.

The English celebration of May Day is of the most interest to us as our May Festivals are derived from it. For this reason we have an English or Robin Hood May Day theme every fourth year here, and 1933 is one of the designated fourth years.

FRESHMAN CABARET

You've heard of "All American football teams," "All American girls," and just loads of "All American" things, but here we have an unusual treat for you—surely you've guessed! The "All American Cabaret" to be given on April 7, at 8:15, in the "rec" by the freshman class.

We've been peeping around and we've seen the swellest dances being practiced—all kinds—choruses, solos, and dues! We've heard the best ole music from the far-famed freshman band—Lucile Wilkerson and her Syncopated Sisters, with Addie Norfleet ,the blues singer, of S. T. C.

Besides all this, you may dance yourself and eat, too. Food will be sold—and it promises to be fine!

Think of all this for only 15c. All you freshmen take your big sisters, and you sophomores and seniors come and see what a good ole show the freshmen are really going to have!

Delinquent taxes have caused more than 2,000,000 acres of land to be transferred to the state from land owners in Michigan.

AFTER THE DANCE WAS OVER

"Whew! I'm tired. I don't believe I'll ever be able to shag another step! Wasn't the music swell? Jelly really got in that old swing—even some of the chaperones were patting their feet."

"You're tired—well, what about me. I had four boys to look out for and I ran myself ragged finding Freshmen to introduce to them. The goats were swell—they even smiled when you said, "I want you to meet a darling boy."

"Did you ever meet so many cute boys? I'd like to have rushed every one of them. I didn't halfway get round to everyone I wanted to dance with, did you?"

"Why, no! I'm petrified about the Hampden-Sydney Pan-Hells, 'course I didn't dance with half of them—and I wanted to so much."

"Well, I did about the same thing with the V. P. I. men and I'm going up to Easter's next week. The dance was just too short to suit me."

"I heard some smooth lines. Did you dance with that good-looking boy that said, 'You're so sweet'?"

"Yea, some of us checked up on him and he told most every girl that danced with him the same thing. Another one said, 'I think you must have taken courses in being smooth'."

"Well, we all seemed to love it! I hate to think that this is the last dance we'll have this year."

"So do I. Come on let's go to bed. I have a date with a cute V. M. I. boy to go to church tomorrow and I must look my best."

TO SPEAK A LA MODE

Easter bunnies, blossoming flowers, gentle South winds, all bring with them news of Spring. Following close behind trips Dame Fashion, prescribing the styles for the new season. With finality she dictates the color and cut of the frock; the modish tilt of the hat brims, the proper length of milady's coat.

The world lends a listening ear to the sayings of Miss Fashion. Bored by the drabness of winter clothes and surroundings, everyone craves a change. A combination of all that is new and correct is sought.

Perhaps as worn out as our winter costumes are our vocabularies. Our favorite words and sayings we have worn just as hard as our pet jumpers and blouses, I fear. On general principles, even, what could be more appropriate than, along with other spring changes, achieve the variety in lingua decreed by Dame Fashion?

Here are a few new styles, gleaned from various authoritative sources. Do you like them? I do. They're the essence of newness and the last word in chic.

This addition to college jargon was designed by Carolina University students. If it is representative of their creations, they are surely artists at "wordology". The particular phrase to which I'm referring is "Friding," derived, if you please, from free-riding. Accompanying the verb is the closely related noun, fride, meaning a free ride.

"Let's go friding," says a collegian to his chum. Then standing together with not too-great patience on some curve or corner, one hopefully yells to a passing driver, "Fride?"—and sometimes the car stops in affirmative answer.

It's a pure shame that Virginia should have passed that anti-buming-anti-fride, I'll say—law when such a delightful new term is being applied to the practice. Nevertheless, I believe we will have occasion to flaunt the new fashion once in a while.

Here's a good one. A new name for that vague, indefinite something which we are always trying to speak of and can never give the right appelation. Instead of "thingumbob" or 'do funny", let it now be a "which what!" Isn't that good?

And when we are back after Easter, we will all be speaking with envy of those lucky damsels who were 'muched" while home for the holidays. Of course it means being partyed (which, by the way, is new in itself) entertained, and made much of in general. A rather naive way of saying it, though!

This ultra fashionable tidbit originated in New York, but I think it's usable here. "Jitters"—have you heard of it? Originally, it was used to describe the dizzy or half-sick feeling one gets in fast-moving elevators or on tops of high buildings. We might say, "That girl makes such time that she gives me the jitters." don't you think?

I might mention swarms of such expressive, original, and new sayings, but 'twould take columns to hold them all. Just one more verb which I think would grace our campus nobly. It's a derivative from "breakfast" and "lunch", and means that combination snack we get down at the Southside after chapel—"Brunch"—there you are! Only to think, we've been brunching all this time, and it never occurred to us what we were doing!

INTERCOLLEGIATE

A petition signed by 250 students from all classes and departments of the University of South Carolina was recently drawn up as an expression of appreciation and gratitude of the University faculty. The petition was drawn up by the members of Alpha Kappa Gamma, national honorary leadership sorority, and was turned over to the dean, Dr. F. W. Bradley, to be read at the next faculty meeting.

The letter said in part: "Due to a realization of the manner in which they (the faculty) have heartily supported the institution during the time of a great crisis, we do hereby desire to join in a simple expression of appreciation and gratitude to said faculty. Faculty cited by students of U. S. C.—The Gamecock.

When asked who wrote "A Dissertation Upon Roast Pig", a freshman at Agnes Scott College answered, "Bacon, I think." That's what you call a logical answer.

A college freshman at the University of Kansas saved one semester's full expense by selling pillows. These she made from the feathers of the ducks that she raised during the last two years of high school.

Old fashioned spelling bees for the benefit of veterinary students at Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa, have been suggested after a recent investigation brought to light twenty-four ways of spelling callargal, seventeen of protogral and twelve of argyrol. What, asks the paper from that institution, would happen if the poor vets were handed some dandies like pharmacodynamic or hypodermocydysis?—Collegiate Digest.

By using a practical application of descriptive geometry while writing a thesis for graduate work, a graduate of the University of Minnesota has succeeded in locating a rich vein of gold ore.

VIRGINIAN

Work is rapidly being completed on the '33 Virginian. The staff has announced the completion of the plans and the book is now in the hands of the printer and engraver. Some proofs have been returned.

All subscribers and all clubs having pictures in the annual are urged to make their payments as soon as possible. Any amount will be taken as a second payment on a subscription.

On Thursday, April 6, a table will be kept in the hall, in order that any student or faculty member wishing to make a payment may do so. All clubs and sororities are urged to pay for their pictures immediately.

It is essential that this money come into the hands of the Virginian staff at once.

TRY OUT FOR RUFFNER

Try-outs for the Ruffner Literary Society are now being held. Original short stories, essays, or poems, are accepted. Papers can be handed in as late as Monday, April 10, at room C. H. 9, or put in Rachel McDaniel's senior mail box.

mittee.

After leaving the Capitol some of the group went to the Congressional Library and Smithsonian Institute while others went down town. A trip to Mt. Vernon by way of the Mt. Vernon boulevard completed the tour, but due to the lateness of the hour the gates were closed depriving the party of this pleasure.

From nine-thirty P. M. to eleven-thirty Mrs. Blanton greeted tired but happy sight-seers.

LINES

A life without love is like
A heap of ashes upon a deserted hearth—
With the fire stilled and dead,
The light extinguished.
Like a winter landscape—
With the sun hidden,
The flowers frozen,
And the wind whispering
Through withered leaves.

THE FIRST DAY

I wish I could remember the first day,
First hour, first moment of your meeting me,
If bright or dim the season, it might be
Summer or winter for aught I can say;
So unrecorded did it slip away,
So blind was I to see and to forsee
So dull to mark the budding of my tree
That would not blossom yet for many a May.
If only I could recollect it, such
A day of days! I let it come and go
As traceless as a thaw of bygone snow;
It seemed to mean so little, meant so much;
If only now I could recall that touch,
First touch of hand in hand—Did one but know!

Christina Rossetti

SONNET

Soon, all too soon, we shall look back on youth,
Who now possessing it are yet so gay,
And we shall learn that this indeed is truth—
Which half we doubt—that life does pass away.
Soon, all too soon, the grasses' purple tips,
A thrush's song . . . the breathless glint of wings . . .
The promise of delight on maiden lips
And all the multitude of little things,
Those little things which now are ecstacy—
A sight—the hush of wind—a falling star—
A butterfly—a dream—a mystery—
Will never stir as now what then we are.
Soon, all too soon, from the high sunlit spaces
We shall go down to quiet, safer places.

M. T. Dixon

LOSS

When I found you
I was, oh, so glad,
Because you took away the loneliness
That always made me sad.

When I needed someone
To tell my troubles to,
I'd always look around
And pile them up on you.

When I was filled with joy,
I'd always want you to know,
'Cause then you seemed so happy
Just to have me so.

'Twas you I always trusted
In all the hours of pain,
And thanked my lucky stars
For such a wonderful gain.

But one day you forgot
That you meant so much to me,
And now I'm sad and lonely,
Because you've forgotten me.

BREAKER

Nothing climbs swifter than a breaker, no
Blue dalliance attends so rapt a flight
As this clean music struck from indigo
Up the sharp scale of color into light,
Until the crest of air is reached and song
Rips from a peak of splintered chromium;
The crystal bells, the tide, all these belong
To ecstacy before the wave is calm.
From some outraged Atlantis of the deep
The wave awoke and clamored into air,
And laughter lifted out of emerald sleep.
Marking the windy turret, stair by stair
Like Sisyphus rolling his heavy stone
And falling back into the dark alone.

PRAYERS

The classes are leading Prayers for the next few weeks. The Seniors led for the week of March 27-31. Margaret Gathright led Monday night. She told a beautiful French legend, "The Abbess of the Glowing Light."

Tuesday night little Virginia Lee Lipscomb sang and Frances Potts talked on "Come unto me all ye little children for of such is the kingdom of heaven." The theme Wednesday night was God does not mean the same to every individual. Carrie DeShazo sang "Holy Spirit" and Evelyn Williams gave a short talk and read "Each in His Own Tongue."

Thursday night Helen Cover talked to us about "The Friends We've Made in College." Kitty Waters had us think with her Friday night on "The Different Kinds of Ideals."

Radio and telephone calls from airway stations to pilots of planes in flight now are being made by dialing numbers to obtain the desired wave lengths.

AMONG OUR CAPS AND GOWNS

Senior Class Officers—Left to right: Margaret Gathright, Alice Moore, Henrietta Taylor, Sarah Rowell and Miss Iler.

To honor those who have spent four years in faithful service to Alma Mater; to give those who are leaving something by which they can remember their classmates, and to keep alive the spirit of the old Class of '33, is the purpose of Among Our Caps and Gowns. It is fitting that the first of the series to appear in the Rotunda should be the senior class officers and Miss Iler, senior classman to whom is given the credit for part of the success of the class.

Margaret Gathright has efficiently filled the position of class president for the past two years. With her winsome smile and friendly "hello," Gathie is hailed by every member of the student body as well as the seniors. The Senior Class is indeed fortunate in having such a capable and likable girl for their leader. They owe a great deal of their success to her guidance as she has left no stone unturned in putting her class on the map. Gathright is also president of Alpha Kappa Gamma, honor society for leadership, a member of Pi Gamma Psi, honor society, and a member of Pi Kappa Sigma, social sorority. In her freshman and sophomore years, she has served on the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet as chairman of the publicity committee.

Alice Moore, vice-president and cheer leader of the Senior Class, with her humor, vivacity, and pep, has ably assisted Gathie in leading the Class of '33. Alice has been class cheer leader all four years that she has been in college and varsity cheer leader for three years. This speaks for the popularity of Alice among the students here and her ability as a leader. Whenever a game is being played whether varsity or class game, Alice is always on hand to help her team fight for victory. She has been vice-president of the class during her junior and senior years, ever lending a helping hand, a suggestion, some encouragement, and adding pep and spirit to the occasion.

Sarah Rowell, a quiet dignified senior, has served faithfully the past year. No one need worry about the records of the class as long as they are in Sarah's care for they will be properly taken care of. Sarah is also a member of Beta Pi Theta honor society in French and a member of the Rotunda staff. Her work for these has been outstanding.

The treasurer of the class is none other than Henrietta Taylor, a capable and enthusiastic senior. She has served in this capacity for two years. Her re-election shows her classmates have confidence in her ability to handle their funds in this day of depression.

One of every four Americans attended some kind of school during the past year.

CLASS CAPTAINS ELECTED GAMES HELD NEXT WEEK

Marguerite Massey, Sue Yeaman, Jennie Hurt, and Kathleen Ransom were elected captains of their respective teams yesterday afternoon.

All of these girls have showed their interest and ability in athletics.

Marguerite Massey, captain of the Senior team, was also class captain of hockey this year. From "Rite's" good work in hockey we don't think we miss our guess that the Seniors have elected a capable captain.

Sue Yeaman, the Junior captain, who has recently been elected as a representative to the Student Council for next year, is also representative of the Juniors in volley ball. Sue was one of the Junior athletes in basketball, too.

Jennie Hurt, who was Freshman volley ball captain last year, has been elected by the Sophomores as their captain this year. Jennie has been well known for her excellent work in basketball and tennis. She is also in charge of field and track this spring.

The Freshmen elected Kathleen Ransom as their volley ball captain. Kathleen, the good Freshman basket ball jump-center, is just as good in volley ball. She was elected captain of the Freshman basketball team which was successful in defeating the Sophomores in the class games.

The class volley ball games will be played Tuesday night. With Marguerite, Sue, Jennie and Kathleen as captains of the teams, which have all practiced hard for the class games, everyone is wondering which way the ten points toward the color cup will go—to the green and white or to the red and white?

VARSITY TENNIS SQUAD IS CHOSEN

The Tennis Varsity squad has been chosen. The members are:

Jennie Hurt, Belle Lovelace, Lelia Mattox, Mary B. Nelson, Martha Putney, Dorothy Snedegar, Gladys Taylor, Mary V. Walker, Elizabeth Walthall.

Two practices of singles and one practice of doubles is required a week.

Miss Iler is giving instruction in tennis at the following times:

Court practice—2 p. m., M. W. F.; 3 p. m., T. Thursday.

Sign up for doubles tournament. All entering must sign up on the poster on A. A. bulletin board by Friday, April 7. .

SNEDEGAR WINS IN TENNIS SINGLES

The tennis singles tournament was completed last Thursday, March 30, when Dot Snedegar defeated Jennie Hurt by a score of 8-6, 6-4, for the championship. The match proved very interesting, both contestants showing exceptional skill, speed, and smoothness of strokes. Both players were evenly matched.

FARMVILLE DEBATE TEAM HAS SUCCESSFUL SEASON

The last debate of the season took place Wednesday night, April 5 with East Radford State Teachers College. This was a dual debate on the question, "Resolved, That All Interallied War Debts Contracted Before the War Shold Be Cancelled." In spite of the brave defense of the East Radford team both of the Farmville teams were successful.

This has been a successful season for the debate team of Farmville. There are four teams which all together have won seven debates and have lost three debates.

We wish to congratulate each member of the team and Mr. Holton, the coach, for their hard work and their interest in debating. These debates have done much to increase interest in our school.

Sophomores Elect Class Officers

At a meeting last Wednesday night, following a meeting Tuesday night at which nominations were made for the minor offices, the Sophomores elected the following as their officers for the coming year:

Vice-President, Lelia Mattox.
Secretary, Frances McDaniel.
Treasurer, Nell Oakey Ryan.

Nancy Burgwyn had been previously elected president.

All of these girls have been much interested in class activities. Lelia and Frances have been outstanding in athletics for the past two years, each making both varsity and class teams in almost every sport. Lelia was the only freshman to make the Monogram Club last year, and she served as captain of the class hockey team this year.

Frances has made an excellent class cheer leader both years. This year she is assistant manager of baseball.

Nell Oakey Ryan has been outstanding in the Dramatic Club, being secretary of that organization last year and vice-president for next year.

Having proved their interest and loyalty in the past years, these girls are expected to do splendid work for the incoming Junior Class.

FRESHMAN CABARET IS A BIG SUCCESS

The All-American Cabaret proved a great success on Friday night, April 7. The color scheme was appropriately carried out in red, white, and blue crepe paper. The costumes were also of these colors, and the effect was that of a New York night club.

The floor performances provided entertainment for those who were not dancing. These were modern tap dancing and old fashioned waltzing, under the direction of Grace Eubank. Besides the dances, Marion Wright, freshman "blues singer" charmed her audience with many of the latest songs.

The Freshman Orchestra played for both the special performances and general dancing. Under the direction of Lulie Wilkerson, they really kept the music ringing.

Following are the members of the orchestra: Lucile Wilkerson, Grace Eubank, Frances Terrell, Dot Eubank, Virginia Widgeon, Elsie Truly, Lula Windley, Mary V. Johnson, Virginia Hall, Addie Lee Jarman, Addie Norfleet, Jane Coulbourn, Henrietta Salisbury.

This play promises to be the most interesting and delightful production of the year.

Delegates Attend Meet at R.-M.W.C.

Jane Royall, retiring president of the Student Government Association, and Alice McKay, president-elect, attended the Eighteenth Annual Conference of the Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Government at Randolph-Macon Woman's College April 5-8.

Four very distinguished speakers addressed the seventy delegates from colleges throughout the South. Dr. John L .Hill of Nashville, Tennessee, editor, educator and lecturer made a very inspirational address on "Religion in the Modern World." Miss Sara M. Sturtevant, associate professor of education, and director of course for deans of women spoke on "Purposes of Student Government" and led the discussion on "Freshman Orientation Plans and Programs." Dr. Meta Glass, president of Sweet Briar College made an excellent address on "Student Government" at the formal banquet given on Thursday night. Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, vocational director at North Carolina College for Women, lectured on "Vocational Guidance."

Very valuable discussion groups were held on "International Relations," "Freshman Orientation," "Student-Faculty Relations," "Honor System", besides many informal discussions of campus problems.

The delegates were delightfully entertained at a formal banquet, a pajama dance, a progressive dinner in the sorority houses, and on a trip to Natural Bridge and Lexington.

A New York Central passenger train traveling at high speed, and an automobile arrived at a crossing at the same time. A mile down the tracks, the crew lifted the car's radiator and two wheels from the locomotive pilot and started back to look for bodies. Instead they found the remainder of the automobile, upright, with windshield and windows unbroken and with its two occupants sitting inside.

OUR NEED FOR A SWIMMING POOL

One of the greatest needs of our college at the present is a swimming pool. At the present time it seems that it would be very expensive to put in one, but in the future it would prove an asset to the school. There is sufficient space for one outside the locker rooms, between the gymnasium and infirmary.

All other State Teachers Colleges have swimming pools and it does not seem exactly fair for Farmville not to have one. Many girls go to other colleges because they love the water and water sports. The student body here would probably be increased by about one hundred girls if a place for swimming was provided, it would raise the prestige of the school, and give it a higher rating.

We have practically every sport except swimming, yet swimming is enjoyed by more girls than are tennis, hockey, baseball, volley ball, or basketball. There are many girls who are not interested in these strenuous games, but who would enjoy a quiet swim. There are some whose health does not permit them to engage in much exercise, but who could enjoy the water.

A pool would not only provide for water sports, but it would enable every girl to learn to swim. Swimming is a sport that every person should know because it may be the means of saving his life or the lives of others at some time.

SUGGESTION FOR SCHOOL ELECTIONS

Elections this year revealed the fact that more than ever before some easier plan for nominations other than the one used now is needed. Even for the major elections no one could think of a person to nominate and had to take the advice of others. The minor elections were even worse, and many persons did not nominate because they did not know whom to nominate. A better plan would be for the old major officers with a committee composed of seniors from each organization and Miss Mary to submit two or three names for each major office and each minor office and then let the student body vote on their choice of these candidates.

The old officers know who is best suited for office and who has done the best work better than the student body. This method would enable the best girls to be nominated and elected, and it would also save the time and expense of having the students nominate and then vote. It is much easier to choose between two girls than to nominate from a list of perhaps twelve students who might possibly be eligible.

It is believed that this method of elections would make for better officers and more efficient running of organizations as well as saving time, expense and having girls discussed and talked about by the student body.

This plan for elections has been much discussed by students and seems to be in general favor. It has proved satisfactory at other colleges and would undoubtedly be an improvement over our prsent system.

WE WANT MORE TENNIS COURTS

Tennis and Spring are getting to be almost synonymous terms for a large number of S. T. C. girls. For others, however, tennis is getting to be a game they played in high school and Spring is the time when they begin to get their summer tan on the roof.

Some girls who are really interested in tennis have played only once or twice this Spring. They generally find the courts occupied and don't remember to sign up beforehand.

With just the three courts we have now it is very hard for everyone who wants to play to get a court when she doesn't have a class or conference or something else to do.

We wonder why the lot adjoining the present court and toward the Senior building could not be made into three new tennis courts. The ground is already level and so the cost of the nets and of getting the grass off shouldn't be tremendous.

If three new courts can not be made even one or two would be a great help.

The varsity tennis squad has been chosen for this year, and they have several games scheduled already. Even the varsity players sometimes can't get a court. If S. T. C. is to send out a champion team in tennis as it did in basketball, it should have more courts so the players can practice.

The financial part is perhaps the biggest matter to be considered. The cost of the nets would be more than anything else, and that shouldn't be so much.

Wouldn't it be grand if some organization in school would have this improvement made and after our Easter holidays or even in the fall when we return there would be three new tennis courts?

IMPROVING OUR CAMPUS

Have you ever stopped to ask yourself why you are in such a hurry? After all, it would take only a few seconds longer to use a walk en route; and think how it would improve the looks of our campus.

From Library Hall to Student Building there are eight substantial sidewalks; yet, we cut across the campus. This may be due to habit or carelessness, either of which can easily be corrected if one stops to think.

Our campus is rather public and requires much attention to furnish beauty to the beholder's eye. Our shrubs are stately and well cared for. Their spring garb is lovely. Yet, we ruin even the beauty of this with barren spots of ground where we have killed the grass.

Within the next two weeks, on our campus, there will be visitors from all parts of the state. Some are from other colleges, others from various walks of life. All are lovers of music, and beauty as well. They will observe and comment on the looks of our campus. Surely we want this comment to be most favorable.

Much care has been taken to plant new seed; and so during these lovely spring days try to remember to use the walks. One who doesn't hurry, reaps the most joy after all.

INTERCOLLEGIATE

At the national intercollegiate wrestling matches which were held at Lehigh University on March 24 and 25, Warren Landis, captain of the 1933 wrestling team and Southern Conference champion, took second place after decisively defeating three opponents representing teams from schools east and west.

Tom Fishbourne, the University of Virginia's Southern Conference welter-weight champion, died of injuries received in a fall from his bedroom window. Supposedly he had fallen from the window while sleeping.—Times Dispatch.

That style of singing which has made Cab Calloway popular is best known as "scat singing"—supplanting the lyrics of songs with meaningless, improvised jargon. His hi-de-hi's and hi-de-ha's are the best examples. He tried "scat singing" one night when he forgot the lyric of a song. It caught on, and he became a leading exponent of the fad.—Times Dispatch.

Much abused and oft-used slang has recently found a defender in the person of an English professor of Seattle, Washington. "Slang is incipient poetry," he said. "In aptness, descriptive power, and pungency, when not allowed to become trite, slang phrases add vitality to formal English grammar."—Ringtum Phi.

Throwbacks to the dark ages. A professor at the University of South Carolina has made a collection of superstitions and voodooisms. He has derived many of his collections from students at the University.

A Wisconsin professor has come to the defense of the maligned practice of "cramming" He maintains that matter learned rapidly is retained better than that gained after hours of application.—Wilson Billboard.

A woman was granted a master's degree from the University of Chicago after submitting a thesis on "Four Ways to Wash Dishes."—Butler Collegian.

A voice teacher at Rockford College, Illinois, gave this amazing advice to one of her pupils. You don't sing with enough fire. Let yourself go. Open your mouth and throw yourself into it.—Wilson Billboard.

The latest pastime of the playful gals at Wellesley is seeing how close they can come to the professors while out bicycle riding. To prevent any major catastrophes, a special squad of campus cops has been put on duty to direct the increasingly heavy traffic.

And incidentally, the library of the above school has lost practically its entire patronage since one of the girls found a Harvard sophomore's dairy on the campus.—The Cadet.

A professor at the University of Southern California is reputed to have walked into an English class a few minutes late, hurriedly unpacked his brief case, and began to talk on Russian history. Only the arrival of the right professor saved the giggling class from the gruesome tales of the Czars.

EASTER BUNNY ALREADY AT WORK

Have you noticed how very original Easter Rabbit is making his eggs this year? Have you ever seen such funny faces, such cute costumes, such appealing, attractive, "sassy" little faces as are being worn this season? Bell-hops, demure maidens, a China-boy, clowns, any little which-wats are on display each day at the table in the hall.

The Sophomores are taking orders for these Easter eggs and will gladly help you make your little sister, niece, cousin, or friend, happy with something entirely new and fascinating this Easter time. The price is only five cents each. Can you think of better or more economical joy-producer than this means of helping Easter Rabbit out? Order early and avoid the rush!

CAPRICE

A little lass has come out to play, a dainty maid with yellow curls and blue, blue eyes. More than once she has ventured forth before, but her brother, a rough and rowdy fellow, frightened her away.

A moody child she is. One moment she laughs, and is all sunshine and gaiety, the next, her happy face has clouded and she weeps bitter tears. She is not sulky and mournful long, though. Soon she forgets her trouble and is the same laughing nymph again.

This playful child loves beauty and color. With her fairy paint brush she daubs huge splatches of green—green of every shade and tint—over the earth, the forests, and the fields. Then from the sky she borrows a touch of blue and delicately colors the hyacinths in the grass. From the sunshine she steals quite a bit of yellow and brightens her creations with marvelous gold. Festooning the turf are vivid crocuses and jonquils of melted sunlight.

With deft strokes she snatches from the rainbow all its prismatic glow and transforms tulip beds into myriads of profuse colors.

She loves music, too, this ethereal naiad. As she trips through the forests and by the streams, the birds chant sweet melodies to delight her. The brook babbles a soothing tune over the pebbles, while on the banks and in the marshes an orchestra of froggies serenades both day and night.

Perhaps you know this spritely lass. Has she not called you, here of late, to come and play with her? Little Miss April beckons; shall we yield?

MUSINGS ON THE ROOF

Ho! hum! I feel so lazy basking in this warm sun light. I'd like to lie here for weeks or even months by myself—dozing now and then and just thinking. That wish sounds familiar to my ears—oh! yea—I made it last spring before I got blistered—but I was so foolish then and the sun really was much hotter.

With my eyes shut like this I see many things. I see a crowd of people shoving and pushing around a door on second floor Student Building. I remember now, it was Thanksgiving morning a year ago, when we were all fighting over the vantage point for that hall. Yes, that was the time when the alarm clock went hurling across the room. What fun we had.

Now I see a crowd of Chinese people jabbering to each other. They look rather much like some of my friends. Why there's Mutt Armstrong looking the part of a tall hero and little Sallie Russell gazing coyly up at her. And it seems to me that blind man has the voice of Ruth Ford. Yes, there's Gathie as a young flirt! I remember—it's "The Yellow Jacket"—1931 spring Dramatic Club play.

Gosh! I feel so sad. Why are all those people crying? There's Sarah Ford sobbing out loud. I see the reason now, 'Dele Hutchinson is making her farewell speech as student body president. We'll miss her like everything, but I know Grace Virginia will be swell, and as things look now, Jane Royall will succeed her the following year.

Where am I? What are all those Indians doing? Shucks! for the moment I was frightened, but now I remember her. See there's Medora Ford being crowned May Queen, and Henrietta Cornwell dressed all up like our old Indian chief and pretty girls standing in lillies—the 1932 May Day.

I see many other things—crowds shouting at hockey games—girls in caps and gowns marching to the Alma Mater for the last time—an Ivory Door opening and closing—the gym gayly decorated as couples dance to the tunes of a jazz band. Oh, they're all jumbled now—like a jig-saw puzzle. I must be falling—asleep!

JUNIORS LEAD PRAYERS

The Juniors led Prayers for the week April 2-6. Tuesday night Margaret Parker led using the theme of sowing seed. Wednesday night Mary Shelton read a beautiful poem "Mending Wall" by Robert Frost and Elizabeth Kelly sang "Softly Now the Light of Day." Lelia Lovelace gave a very interesting talk on "Togetherness" Thursday night. Helen Shawen read "If for Girls" by Rudyard Kipling Friday night and used this poem as the theme for her talk.

THOUGHTS

Sitting by my open window
Looking up at the sky;
Watching, waiting and hoping
For a chance to fly.

But why do I want to run away
To go on this long flight?
I'm trying to get away from my thoughts
Like a coward in the night.

I guess no matter where I went,
Or who I should chance to meet;
Those thoughts would be with me always
'Cause they seem to have me beat.

So I'll stick it out right here
And lose them if I can
But if they stay with me forever
I'll know I fought them like a man.

SPRING

The stores are full of
Gorgeous signs of spring.
Hats—that make one wonder
In open-mouthed amazement.
Easter rabbits—of every known
Hue and color—
These are mere imitations
I saw a woman hanging up a
Porch-basket, filled with
A new green vine—
She seemed happy.
Then too, I saw children
Foolishly playing "hop-scotch"
In their front yard.
A gorgeous robin sits
Outside my window—
Dear God, is this all of Spring?

MOON

The moon is riding
The crests of the clouds —
A fragile eggshell boat
For lovers to ride in.

I am the star
Following the moon—
Alone.

H. S. '36

THIS REMAINS

Beauty comes and beauty goes
Like the petals of a rose
Song is but a moment's bliss;
Fleeting as a lover's kiss.
Dawn's bright promise of a day
Swiftly crumbles in decay.
Spring, an eerie banchee-light,
Passes in a burst of flight.
Yet in all this transiency
God and you remain to me!

Gething

I SHALL REMEMBER

I shall remember only little things:
The foolish way you loved a little boy;
Your bare brown throat, as when a gay bird sings
Lifted in high sweet arrogance of joy.
Your finger's touch, as gentle as a breath.
Your handclasp, sure, and quickening as fire,
Your smile that lifted me from certain death.
Your laughter that has clothed me with desire.
Your glance that never fell, but waked to song,
The sleeper, or the weary, or the sad,
Your words that never lingered overlong
Where understanding made the heart most glad.
I've set myself this task that I must do:
Remember little things, forgetting you.

PROMISES

I knew you would never come back,
Even when you promised all those
Meaningless words. I half-doubted
Them, even then, but you seemed so much
In earnest.
I recall them now with bitterness
And longing in my heart.
All these years have been void
Of happy thoughts-love and laughter
Pass me by
I think of you and my soul
Cries out in agony—
But it does no good.

PI GAMMA MU HOLDS ANNUAL BANQUET

Pi Gamma Mu held its annual banquet at Longwood last Saturday night. Amid soft lights and the floating fragrance of spring flowers, the guests assembled at the long table on which were two green bowls of lovely jonquils and nine yellow candles in green candle sticks. A copy of the key with names on one side and program on the other were attractively arranged for place-cards. It is needless to say that the three course dinner served was greatly enjoyed by all.

The organization felt highly honored in having Mr. Crone who has been director of the public schools in the Philippines and, perhaps the next Governor-General to the islands as its speaker. Mr. Crone gave a most interesting and informational account of the winning of the good will of the native Filippinos through the establishment of a public educational system. Their education has never been compulsory and is not today but a large percent of the children are enrolled in the public schools of their own free will.

The most outstanding feature of their school system is the fact that it is so organized that there is a place at which every one can stop with credit to himself. There is a four-year course, a seven-year course, a high school course, and of course the college course all of which are separate and confer some diploma or degree at their completion. This provides an honorable stopping place for everyone.

Not only has the United States established this firm educational system in the islands, but she has also accomplished a great deal for public health and their industrial development. It is thought by those who are familiar with the situation that the Philippines are asking for their independence with their figures crossed for with the population spread over islands for a thousand miles in one direction and six hundred miles in the other, there is no hope for a strong celtralized government.

S. C. A. AND THE Y. W. C. A. PRESENT "BA THANE"

Tuesday night the Y. W. C. A. of S. T. C. and the Student Christian Association of Hampden-Sydney presented a one-act play, "Ba Thane," in the S. T. C. auditorium.

The cast, under the direction of Nan Gilbert, worked hard to present one of the best missionary plays. The play itself portrayed life in Burma, both of missionaries and natives.

The cast is as follows:

Ba Thane ..... James Elder
Gordon Worth ..... Ray Gordon
Richard Ordevay ..... Dan Jenkins
Mr. Fox ..... George Dingwall
Virginia Worth ..... Nancy Harrison
Joan Worth ..... Henrietta Salisbury
Mae May ..... Grace Eubank

Ba Thane was the most interesting character, and he played his part extremely well. He was a young native who had a hard struggle against customs and the indifferences of the rich foreigners. Gordon Worth was a missionary whom Ba Thane loved very dearly and to whom he owed his knowledge of Christian religion and his education. One day the natives became infuriated and decided to kill the whole Worth family. To Ba Thane the lot of killing them, fell. Mrs. Worth and Joan escaped, but Mr. Worth remained at home, much to the protests of his wife and friends.

Ba Thane slipped in to stab Mr. Worth while the latter was praying, but realizing that Mr. Worth was praying for him, Ba Thane spared his friend's life. He saw that Mr. Worth was still his friend.

The play was charmingly written, well directed and acted. Each person in the cast had the true sentiment of his role. The plot moved quickly and kept the audience tense with suppressed excitement.

INTERESTING SING GIVEN SATURDAY NIGHT

Last Saturday night at Sing a fashion show of dresses and outfits from Baldwin's was given. Mary Shelton, as proprietor of the "Chic Shop," praised the costume of each model. So skillful a saleswoman was she that Hazel Smith, who with the help of her mother ("Tac" Waters) was trying to select her trousseau, decided to buy almost everything shown. After the dresses had been purchased, several actors featured by the Shop entertained its patrons as well as the students and alumnae who filled the auditorium.

Frances Potts and Jennie Wheeler sang "When Day Is Done" and as an encore, "Mood Indigo." Then Mary Winston tap-danced, thus concluding the Shop's entertainment and Sing.

PLAY GIVEN AT WORSHAM HIGH FRIDAY NIGHT

Two short plays and a musical program were given at Worsham high school Friday night to raise money for costumes to be used by the toy symphony orchestra and the harmonica band in the Music Festival here.

The toy symphony orchestra and harmonica band in new uniforms gave several selections.

A trio of Worsham boys sang two numbers.

The Farmerette dancers and six girls from the opening chorus of the Sophomore play delighted the large audience with a few dances.

Nell Oakey Ryan and Esther and Ruth Haskins sang three popular numbers.

Audrey Mattox, as a negro woman, sang "I Got Shoes" and "Swing Low Sweet Chariot."

Under the direction of Sue Yeaman a group of Worsham pupils closed the program with singing.

Following the program Mr. McIlwaine, superintendent of public schools in Prince Edward County, talked to the patrons about the financial situation of the schools.

ALPHA KAPPA GAMMA HOLDS CONVENTION IN COLUMBIA

At the seventh annual convention of Alpha Kappa Gamma, the Florence Nightingale Circle was hostess to the Joan and Olympian Circles on the campus of the University of South Carolina at Columbia, April 7 and 8.

There were seven representatives from Farmville: Miss Iler, Miss Stubbs, Virginia Brinkley, Helen Cover, Margaret Gathright Virginia Hamilton and Jennielee Knight. Etta Marshall, a former student at Farmville and student body president of '29 and '30, presided at the convention and was elected National President of Alpha Kappa Gamma for the coming year. Miss Stubbs, National Executive Secretary, was unanimously re-elected to the same office for another year.

Miss Iler and Miss Stubbs drove their cars, making possible an interesting and comfortable trip through the country. For the Farmville girls, the 300 mile trip was not the smallest part of the convention.

At the convention, major and minor problems on the various campuses were put before the group to be discussed, and the advice as to how to cope with campus difficulties. Joan representatives were able to contribute much to these discussions, since Farmville has been particularly successful in organizing and unifying the extra curricula activities on her campus.

At a banquet held in the banquet hall of the Hotel Columbia, Dr. Phillips, rector of Trinity Episcopal church made an address on "Fitting Ourselves for eLaders in Later Life." After the banquet the delegates were guests at a program of dramatic characterization by Cornelia Otis Skinner of New York.

After the business meeting on Saturday, Dr. Josiah Morse, head of the psychology and sociology departments at the University, addressed the convention on the subject "The New Freedom of Women."

The convention came to a fitting close with a picnic at Lake Murray, the second largest artificial lake in the world.

GYPSY PATTERNS

A spreading oak tree, roof and rafter,
Voice of a fiddle, sweet and thin;
Quench the fire and still the laughter
And hush the voice of the violin;
Leave but an echo to follow after,
And ashes where singing fires have been.

Flash of gold when the day is dying,
Flash of red on the village street,
Rumble of wheels and the hell-wind sighing
And voice of fiddle, haunting-sweet,
And two little sticks at the cross-roads lying—
Two crossed sticks where the white roads meet.

JOY

Let a joy keep you.
Reach out your hands
And take it when it runs by,
As the Apache dancer
Clutches his woman.
I have seen them
Live long and laugh loud,
Sent on singing, singing,
Smashed to the heart
Under the ribs
With a terrible love.
Joy always,
Joy everywhere—
Let joy kill you!
Keep away from the little deaths.

Student Government Installation Is Held; Services Impressive

McKay, New President; Royall, Old President Give Interesting Speeches

DR. J. L. JARMAN TALKS

The installation of the new Student Council was held Monday night in the auditorium at 7 o'clock. Rev. H. B. Lipscomb delivered the invocation Then Jane Royall made an address. She expressed her sadness in leaving the position of student body president but she showed us what valuable experience in school life she gained in serving us in this manner, since being on the government is an honorable way of serving one's school. Then too, such positions make our ideals higher and better prepare us for the future. Jane welcomed the incoming Council, telling them of the great responsibility which is theirs for this year. As an objective for the incoming Council, she hoped that this year's Council with the compete cooperation of the students would make the fiftieth year of this institution the most successful of all the years to come. Jane then installed Alice McKay, the incoming president. Alice talked to us telling us what a pleasure it was going to be to serve us. She asked for our friendship and help. In spite of her inexperience she is determined to make next year a memorable one. "With us she can do anything; without us nothing." She then gave the oath to the remainder of the officers, class representatives, and ex-officio members.

Dr. Jarman pointed out to us the splendid results of the retiring cabinet. It is an honor to be singled out by your fellow students to hold such high offices. He also asked for active, intelligent aid of the whole student body. It is our duty to uphold each other. He admonished us not to let thoughtlessness get into our bones now that spring has come, and forget our regulations. He ended by hoping that the cabinet would utilize sympathy and mercy.

Le Temp Passant 2nd Payments Due

The book must go on. We have to have so many dollars and a great number of cents if we are going to get it back from the printers at the earliest possible date. Forget about psychology and education—don't talk of biology—ignore dplomacy—health and individual differences. Remember it is your book, girls, so get to work. Eat it, sleep with it, hide it in your hair, meet it on the corner next Saturday night and escort it home, bite a chunk of it when you get up in the morning! But, get those second and third payments in!—Partly copied from Ye Doomesday Book of George Washington University.

The New Athletic Council Functions

In a most impressive service the Athletic Association Council for next year was installed in the auditorium Thursday night at 7:00 o'clock.

To the tune of "Onward Christian Soldiers" the members of the old and new A. A. Council marched onto the stage.

Dr. Walmsley gave the invocation.

Dorothy Snedegar, outgoing president said a word of farewell for the retiring cabinet and welcomed the incoming members. She installed Mildred Gwaltney, president of the Council for 1933-'34, who in behalf of the new council accepted the duties and privileges of the old Council.

Mildred installed the following new members of the Council for 1933-'34: Mary Berkeley Nelson, vice-president; Louise Walmsey, secretary; Nannie Ruth Cooper, treasurer; and the following managers of sports: Belle Lovelace, basketball; Frances McDaniel, hockey; volley ball, Martha Putney; baseball, Elizabeth Billups; field and track, Frances Yester; archery, Alice Collings; golf, Helen Westmoreland; tennis, Billie Rountree.

Music Delegates Come Here for 14th Convention

College Choir Is Hostess to Over 500 Delegates Assembled At S. T. C.

Delegates from all parts of the State gathered at S. T. C., Farmville, for the fourteenth annual convention of the Virginia Federation of Music Clubs and the Virginia Music Teachers State Association, on Monday, April 17 and lasted through April 21.

A meeting of the certification committee and the first session of the state board examinations for music teachers applying for certification were highlights of the first day's program.

Tuesday's program was featured as junior day—the concerts and contests, and the presentation of the college's training schools gave a gala program enjoyed by an interested audience. The contest winners gave a most valuable program at 8 o'clock in the main auditorium.

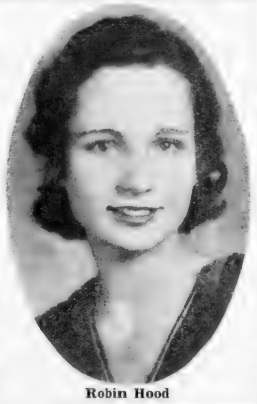
On Wednesday the Federated Clubs held a board meting, followed by a joint convention session, and an annual banquet was held at 6 o'clock in the dining hall of the college.

The appearance of two nationally known master musicians, Louise Bernhardt of the Chicago Opera Company and Dr. John Thompson, of New York, expert pianist and instructor, marked the fourth day of the Music Convention.

Miss Bernhardt, who was winner of the last national young artists contest fostered by the National Federation of Music Clubs, probably afforded the music lovers their greatest treat of the entire convention.

Dr. John Thompson conducted a master class Thursday morning. The S. T. C. choir and the Hampden-Sydney Glee Club, directed by Prof. Alferd H. Strick, gave a concert in the afternoon.

On Friday, the concluding day, the college choral contests were held, followed by a Wagnerian lecture by Dr. Julia E. Schelling of Washington.



The concluding event of the convention was the choral luncheon held in the dining hall. At this time Harrisonburg was given much applause as winner of the college choral contests. A unison chorus of Harrisonburg, Sweet Briar, and Mary Baldwin colleges was highly appreciated by the entire body of music lovers. With the Washington and Lee Glee Club showing thei rspiirts with "A Bottle of Rum" and the Farmville choir girls giving a "clang" with "The Bells," the convention closed the fourteenth annual session.

DR. W. M. ANDERSON SPEAKS AT CHAPEL

Dr. W. M. Anderson of Dallas, Texas, spoke to the student body at chapel on Tuesday. He has been speaking to the students at Hampden-Sydney college for several days this week. Dr. Anderson travels extensively, meeting and speaking to students, besides being pastor of a large church in Dallas.

Dr. Anderson gave advice about how to get the best out of life. He listed the attributes necessary for a young person if he is to live a full, abundant life. A person must have honesty of spirit, a cheerful heart, and must be willing to work hard. Dr. Anderson reminded us that young people will miss the whole pathway of life if they do not open their hearts to spiritual experiences. Only men and women of great faith are the ones who have had the greatest and most beautiful experiences. A God who can make or create life is a great enough God to trust.

TRUE WORTH

Because of the withdrawal of one of the girls in the May Court Sue Yeaman would naturally have filled the vacancy. However, since she is in charge of the music for May Day, Sue preferred to go on with her work here and to give her place in the court to another. Thus is work set before glory.

Robin Hood To Be Theme of May Day on Saturday

Festival To Be Presented At Longwood Saturday at Five O'clock

HATTIE GILLIAM IS CHAIRMAN

Carrying out the usual custom, the May Day celebration will be given on Saturday, May 6, at Longwood at 5 o'clock.

The theme of the festival is that of an Old English May Day. The characters are legendary ones—Robin Hood and Maid Marian. In adaption the festival has been divided into two parts. The first part deals with the activities of Robin Hood and his merry men in Sherwood Forest; while the second concerns itself with the village fair at Nottingham. To this fair come Maid Marian and her court, disguised as peasants.

The leading characters of the festival are as follows:

Helen Cover ..... Maid Marian
Jenilee Knight ..... Annabele
Mary Shelton ..... Robin Hood
Dorothy Snedegar ..... Allan-a-Dale
Martha Sanders ..... Will Scarlet
Margaret Armstrong ..... Little John
Alice Moore ..... Friar Tuck
Frances Potts ..... Town Crier
Hildegarde Ross ..... Tinker
Alice McKay .. Sheriff of Nottingham
Dorothy Prescott ..... Court Jester

Those in the court are Ruth Ford, Margaret Parker, Lillian Womack, Jane Royall, Katherine Waters, Dorothy Legare, Elizabeth Kelly, Margaret Gathright, Celia Jones, Nancy Burgwyn, Doris Eley, and Frances Dorin.

Robin Hood also has a band of followers. These are: Mary Custis Burwell, Nedra Bair, Margaret Brown, Theodocia Beacham, Martha Cross, Nannie Gilbert, Virginia Lanier, Mary L. McNuty, Marguerite Massey, Josie Spencer, Imogene West, Helen Westmoreland, Betsy Wilkinson, Gazelle Ware.

Apple Blossom Fete Starts Tomorrow

The far-famed Apple Blossom Festival of Virginia will be held this year on May 3, 4, and 5. The scene of the festivities will be, as usual, in historic Winchester.

The lovely daughter of the Belgian ambassador to the United States will be crowned queen. State Teachers College at Farmville will be represented by Helen Cover. Many other schools will be represented at the festival, the entire court being made up of college representatives.

The dresses of the princesses are to be especially lovely. They are of white and green all over embroidered organdie. The tiny apple blossoms carry out the idea of the festival perfectly.

DOROTHY PRESCOTT CHOSEN TREASURER

Last Wednesday in chapel Dorothy Prescott was elected treasurer of the Student Council to fill the vacancy caused by Nell Weaver's resigning. Nell, who has secured a teaching position for next year and, as a consequence, will not return to college then, will be greatly missed on the government. This year she has served most efficiently as Campus League chairman. It is felt, however, that Dot also will be a very capable treasurer since she has had experience on the Student Council and since she is a leader in other extra-curricula activities.

IN APPRECIATION

Sometimes it seems we work and work without any recognition or appreciation for our labors. Those members of the Rotunda staff who are giving up their positions tonight have been spending much time writing articles and helping to make the college newspaper a success. Through their cooperation and willingness to serve, the publishing of our paper is made possible. Not only have they accomplished the task, but they have worked enthusiastically and efficiently. To these girls, the editor extends her heartiest thanks and appreciation. With willing hearts and capable minds each member of the 1933 staff has gone about her task in a manner which not only resulted in excellent work but which should make her Alma Mater proud to claim her.

However, all good things must end, and so the old staff gives place to the new. It is with reluctance and yet with satisfaction that we hand over the task to new hands, reluctance because of the joy received from work, of lasting friendships formed, and satifaction in the knowledge that capable hands will continue to "carry on."

And so it is "Thank you" that the retiring editor says to each member of the old staff, each member of which will always be remembered as a very dear friend, one on whom we can always depend.

With good wishes for their success and with confidence in their efficiency, the old staff gives place to the new.—Martha Gunter.

CONGRATULATIONS A. A.!

For a long time the 1933 athletic council has felt the need for more tennis courts. With their customary efficiency, they have been working hard to realize this need. After trying for over six months, they have finally been able to get these new courts made, and they will be ready for playing in a few more days. With the economic depression at its height, the athletic council should be congratulated for being able to get these new courts. "Where there's a will, there's a way" can truthfully be said of the 1933 athletic council. The student body appreciates their efforts and will enjoy the use of these courts all the more because they were gotten by such an enthusiastic organization.

OUR MAY DAY

Saturday, May 6, the annual May Day celebration of our college will be given at the amphitheatre at Longwood. The beauty of our May Days has become known throughout the state, and they have recently been recognized as one of the most beautiful presented in the state. This is due to the hard work and time spent on them by the faculty and students, and to the cooperation of everyone concerned. A general comittee is appointed each spring to work out in detail the May Day for next spring. For a year this committee works on the theme, the music, the dances, the costumes, and every minute thing that might enter into the giving of a May Day. Then, by the first of April, a number of specific committees are appointed, every character in May Day is chosen and real practice begins.

May Day this year is expected to be the prettiest one ever presented by the Farmville girls. Not only is it beautiful but educationally valuable as well. It is to be an Old English May Day with Robin Hood as its central theme. The theme and costumes are all worked out for the time in which Robin Hood and his merry men inhabited the Sherwood Forest of England. Robin Hood, Little John, Will Scarlet, Friar Tuck, Allan-a-Dale, the Sheriff of Nottingham, Maid Marion, Annabelle, and all of the other friends of Robin Hood will be seen in person in their natural surroundings. Rich colors, flowing skirts, knightly men and pretty maidens will dominate the stage at Longwood when our May Day gets under way Saturday, May 6.

YESTERDAY AND TOMORROW

The eighth chapter of Deuteronomy, the first to the eighteenth verse, might be a fair description of our land. It is certain that we as a nation prospered as no other nation before us has prospered. We built goodly houses and we lacked nothing. We thought only of ourselves and the wealth that we were acquiring. In all of this beauty and power, we forgot the most important thing. The eighteenth verse sends a command which we have ignored.

Just around the corner, tomorrow is coming with prosperity. Someone has said that we have made the eighth chapter of Deuteronomy our creed—a creed which described us as we lived yesterday. What shall we use as our creed for tomorrow?

THE BEGINNING

All good things must come to an end. Therefore, must we, the Senior Class, finish our course at the State Teachers College. We have spent four years within its walls—four years of cooperation as a class, four years as members of organizations, and four years of giving and sharing the best and finest in S. T. C.

As we prepare to leave its sanction, the spirit of Joan of Arc grows clearer and more intense to each of us. It makes us feel that we must impart this knowledge and fineness to all those whom we shall meet. May we face our world with no thought of disappointment or fear, but realizing that there is a place for each girl, if she be patient and persevering enough.

May we also lend our ears to the whispers of Joan as she speaks to us —"Forward with God."

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

Now that the major and minor officers are giving over their positions of honor and hard work to others who are capable of taking them, it seems to me there ought to be some way of our saying "Thank You!" to them all.

Although these major and minor officers have enjoyed their work and have been greatly benefited by their experiences the student body still owes them more than we could ever pay for their splendid work. At times many of us have too quickly criticized what we really know little about.

Few students in school realize how much hard work is spent just to make their stay in school pleasant and profitable. I think if every one could experience for one week the life of some officers here in school there would be manifested a more sympathetic and cooperative spirit toward the officers and the various activities they have planned and worked over for us.

As there is no appropriate way for each of us to tell the officers and those who have assisted that we appreciate them for the splendid work they have done we can give the new councils and staffs our very best cooperation.

ALUMNAE NEWS

On March 8 an alumnae chapter was formed at Kenbridge, the nucleus of Lunenburg County Alumnae Chapter. On April 6, Dr. Jarman, Miss Camper, Miss Taliaferro and Miss Potts were guests at a combined business and social meeting in the studio of Kenbridge High School. Miss Virginia Gee was elected president and Miss Anna Ruth Allen, secretary-treasurer for the next year. Mrs. Katherine Allen Bridgeforth read the aims of the chapter, a beautiful expression of love, loyalty and hope. Plans were made to entertain the girls of the senior classes of the high schools of the county and put before them the advantages of Farmville S. T. C. for a college course. It was also decided to start a loan fund to assist a worthy college student, and to begin the preparation of a gift to Alma Mater on her fiftieth anniversary in 1934. A most pleasing feature of the evening was the entrance of twenty little girls from the upper grades who were introduced as future Farmville students, and who sang in the "peppiest" way, "Onward, Farmville!" and "Auld Lang Syne", accompanied by Miss Allen. By special invitation Dr. Jarman sang three of his most popular songs. Refreshments were served in the attractive home economics bungalow near the high school. About thirty alumnae were present, and their objective is to include about eighty others in active memberships.

Dr. Jarman was guest of honor at a beautiful banquet given by the alumnae of Covington at Collins Hotel on Friday evening, April 28. Other guests were Superintendent J. G. Jeter, Prof. and Mrs. R. J. Costen, Miss Virginia Potts and Miss C. B. Taliaferro, chapter organizer. Miss Phyllis Pedigo was toastmistress, announcing in happy fashion the speakers and singers of the occasion.

At the close of the program a Covington chapter was organized, the officers being: President, Miss Phyllis Pedigo; vice-president, Miss Anne Bullock; secretary-treasurer, Miss Virginia Moore.

Other alumnae present were Mesdames Annie Ford Turpin Revercomb, Violet Gary Winn, Constance Whitlock Young, Vedah Watson Dressler, Fannie Perrow Rhodes, Evelyn Styne Ritsch, Neta Marshall Miller, Dave Landis, Ellen Smith Rose, Delma van Sickler Penn, Louise Gay Gibson, Anne Virginia Lambert Fudge, Elizabeth Younger, Misses Elizabeth Bullock, Annette Ripberger, Emilie Holladay, Margaret Jesser, Helen Coston, Evelyn Pedigo, Eula Harris, Pauline Revercomb, Helen Jennings, Mildred Mountcastle, Reid Margaret Carter, Louise Driscoll, M. C. Jones, Helen Thomas, Martha Brothers, Pauline V. Smith, Elsie Stull. Twelve others had engagements which kept them away.

On the afternoon of the same day nineteen alumnae greeted Dr. Jarman in the parlor of the Y. M. C. A. building at Clifton Forge. A delightful hour was spent, talking over old times and hearing news of the College and friends here and elsewhere. Dr. Jarman delighted his "girls" with some of his favorite songs. Before leaving, an alumnae chapter was formed and officers elected—president, Miss Eleanor Gleason; vice-president, Mrs. Veta Martin Key; secretary-treasurer, Miss Elizabeth McCoy. Other alumnae in the party were Mesdames Jessie Pribble Higgins, who made arrangements for the meeting, Nancy Greenwood Dunn, Bess Pugh Evans, Elizabeth Woodward Burks, Lela Weeder Manner, Marion Enos Walton, Katherine Woodward Tyler, Janie Martin Kay; Misses Marie Sutton, Enza Evans, Edith Bailey, Gertrude Hughes, Frances Booth, Ila Evans, Mildred Cralle, and Kathleen Giles.

Miss Anna Belle Payne of Altavista and Russell B. East, formerly of Mt. Gilead, N. C., now of Altavista were married April 23 at the home of the bride.

Miss Mary Todd will appear in "An Indian Fantasy" one of the novelties to be presented by Miss Elinor Fry's dancing classes in "The Frolics of 1933" at the Mosque May 20.

STATION S. T. C.

Good afternoon, friends. This is station S. T. C. in Farmville, Virginia, operating on the frequency of 1300 kilometers without a permission. We are broadcasting from the renowned roof garden over the beautiful S. T. C. dining hall. As I look around at the distinguished guests I find among them many celebrities—all dressed in the usual roof garden garb—what an interesting crowd! Come on over, there is still plenty of room for you and your family, and you have three more hours to enjoy the fun before sun-down which is closing time. And now my dear friends I want to introduce your radio pal, Miss Harriet Moomaw who is none other than Miss Chic, the celebrated authority on style. Ah! Miss Chic, tell your vast audience some of your latest style hints.

"Hello, everybody, this is Miss Chic speaking. Before I tell you all the ducky little secrets that I have for you, I, too, want to urge you to come on over to this darling rendezvous of the elite.

"My dears, if only you could be with me here in this beautiful town and see the pres-shus costumes that I see every hour. They are simply ravishing! This morning at breakfast I noticed the scarcity of cosmetics—now its really not at all smart to rouge your cheeks and lips so early in the morning—just be your natural self! The best dressed, say, far instance, Miss Mary Banks Sullivan or Miss Billie Wilkinson, usually wear a light weight coat.

To classes the distinguished run to bright colors. Miss Elma Rawlings in a solid blue shantung—exquisite—Miss Martha Gunter in a blue pin stripe gingham, Miss Bug Byrd in a white trimmed cotton with green of rather an extreme cut, or Miss Winnie Richards in a green flowered voile with yellow anklets, all lend bits of color—or should we say little rays of sunshine—to the ever changing scene.

On the tennis courts we find Miss Elizabeth Walthall in bright green shorts and white blouse; Miss Alice Moore in a dark blue sleeveless sweater, white shirt, and blue skirt, or Miss Sarah Beck in a white sun-back tennis frock trimmed in red.

On the athletic field the usual costume is black sateen bloomers and white shirts, or else shorts of some color. Miss Virginia Hamilton in her blue shorts makes a striking picture, as does Miss Hildegarde Ross with her black bloomers and ruffled blouse.

In the drugstores we see every type of dress—from print to chiffon.

Ah! my dear friends, I find that my time is up and here I have only told you a small portion of the cute hints that I had for you. Good-bye until next Wednesday!

LABOR

Surely there still is labor for man's hands:
Surely the heart shall not be thus bereaved
Of its fine dignity. The untilled lands
Await him, there are forests yet unleaved,
And the dark caverns hold within their dim
Vast aisles their stores for him.

And yet today there go the wistful-eyed:
The beaten ones down every lane and street,
Begging for that which they have been denied.
Dragging their helpless way on leaden feet;
Haunted by clutching hands and hunger cries,
A fear within their eyes.

God, bring us through this labyrinth that men
Have made through blindness—guide us through it, Lord!
Give back to hearts the joy of work again—
The joy of service with its sure reward.
Have pity, and forgive our crass mistakes
Before the heart of mankind breaks.

THESE

What were the things I loved most to see?
—Green rose leaves with a vivid inside
Moving them over the sunlit tree,
Spreading them wide.

What were the things my hours were for —Strength to work in the morning light,
Friends to find by the noontide door,
Peace at night.

What shall I hold, the day I tire
Too much to every wake from sleep?
There was an hour by a white-birch fire,
And your love to keep.

—Margaret Widdemer

WORSHIP

I went to church.
An organ played;
Candles marched
In white parade
On the altar;
Through stained glass
I saw the King
Of Battles pass.
Half-afraid,
I could not say
"My Father"
In a quiet way.

And I who know
A simple God
Who puts brown seeds
In rain-wet sod,
And stoops to hear
A small child's rhyme
Come up in prayer
At candle-time,
Did not find
The God I knew
Though I knelt
And wanted to.

I went up
A windy hill,
When the dusk
Was blue and still,
And sat awhile
And watched a star . . .
Heaven wasn't
Very far.
I sang no songs,
I made no prayer—
I think God saw me
Sitting there.

—Helen Welshimer

WAITING

The tide swells to the waiting shore
With wave on wave, no less, no more,
And nothing in the power of men
Can turn it from its goal again.
With patience then, the ships abide—
There is no ebb until full tide.

So pass the hours, one by one,
With unstayed rhythmic unison,
No need to grieve, no need to fret
Or cloud our souls with vain regret.
The darkness has not come to stay,
No night can keep the dawn away.

TOWN GIRLS PRESENT SING SATURDAY NIGHT

Sing Saturday night was presented by the town girls. The first part of the program consisted of an Easter parade in which we saw Frances Coleman as Winston Cobb, Ruth Jordan as Alice McKay, Virginia Thornhill as Jane Royall, Josephine Spencer as Betsy Wilkerson, and Janet Harris as Alice Rowell, Marion Jean Wright as Margaret Gathright sang a blues song and Alma Foster as Chub Denit danced a snappy tap dance.

For the second part of the program the town girls presented a scene from their room here. They revealed some interesting hidden talent in Margaret Garnet whom we had never heard play and in Olivia Andrews whom we had never heard sing. To entertain her friends who were waiting for the class bell, Margaret played "Darkness on the Delta" and "Going, Going, Gone!" Then Olivia sang "A Farewell to Arms" and "My Darling," and "Dinah" as encores. This new talent surprised and delighted the audience; it was a real "find", and next year more music and songs by the town girls will be looked forward to with much anticipation.

FIRST GRADE PRESENTS PROGRAM IN CHAPEL

Student body chapel was led by Lelia Lovelace. After the devotional, an attratcive program was given by the First Grade Toy Symphony of the Training School. The members were dressed in blue and white costumes. Under the leadership of Ruth Ford, with Louise Hyde at the piano, they played "Minuet in G", "Anvil Chorus," and "Bells of St. Marys."

AMONG OUR CAPS AND GOWNS

It is fitting that "Among Our Caps and Gowns" should include that group of major officers who have given much time in faithful service for S. T. C. and who, going out, are leaving their Alma Mater a better place in which to live.

Jane Royall, as a member of the Council for four years and as president of the student body this last year has made a lasting impression by her efficiency and leadership. In her unobtrusive and sympathetic manner she has seen straight to the core of problems and unravelled many a weighty "case". Nor has Jane's delightfully quirky sense of humor been lost on her associates and friends but has served rather to endear her to them. Jane is a member of Alpha Kappa Gamma, Alpha Phi Sigma, Pi Kappa Sigma, and the Pan-Hellenic Association.

Winston Cobb, the energetic and conscientious president of the Y. W. C. A., has shown her outstanding qualities of leadership in her way of accomplishing things. Also Winston's moral integrity has won her a place in the heart of the student body where she will not soon be forgot. In addition to serving as president of the Y. W. Winston is a member of Alpha Kappa Gamma, Kappa Delta Pi, Pi Kappa Delta and Mu Omega sorority. She has also served as under-graduate representative on the Y. W. Cabinet and on the Student Council.

The versatile president of the Athletic Association, Dot Snedegar, needs no introduction. Her smiling personality, efficiency, athletic and literary ability speak for themselves. Not content with serving as President of the A. A., Dot spends her surplus energy making all the hockey, basketball, and tennis varsity teams, and she was also captain of this year's varsity basketball team, and served on the Student Council. She is also member of Alpha Kappa Gamma.

Popular, reliable Hattie Gilliam with her dry sense of humor and her good naturedness has also done her bit in serving S. T. C. With the difficult job of president of the House Council to carry out Hattie has kept a firm hand on things and with tact and diplomacy has carried out her work. Hattie also has a long string of honors behind her name. Some of the organizations of which she is a member are: Alpha Phi Sigma, Sigma Pi Rho, Apha Kappa Gamma, and the Student Council.

Another of our major officers is Mary Thomas (Empty) Rawls. "Empty", truly collegiate and extremely capable, has shown her abilities in various fields. She is editor-in-chief of this year's Virginian, she is president of Kappa Delta Pi, a member of Alpha Phi Sigma, Beta Pi Theta, Alpha Kappa Gamma, and Zeta Tau.

Martha Gunter, editor-in-chief of the Rotunda, has the name in the senior class of being a straight-thinker. In addition to this rare quality, Martha also has the supreme virtue of not being a procrastinator. Her ability coupled with her keen sense of duty enable her to meet responsibilities successfully. Among other things, Martha is a member of Alpha Kappa Gamma, Pi Gamma Mu, Alpha Phi Sigma, and the Monogram Club. Besides this Martha has been outstanding in athletics and was this year's captain of the varsity hockey squad. She is also outstanding in the debating field and has won many intercollegiate debates. She is a member of Pi Kappa Delta.

RAMON NAVARRO
Myrna Loy, Louise Closser Hale in
"THE BARBARIAN"
This picture is so new you have probably not heard about it, but it will bring Navarro back to the top of favorites. Here again he is a pagan; singing songs of love. It is romantic and DARING! You'll be swept away by the beauty of desert nights, by the burning love songs, by the thrilling conflict of the handsome Arab aflame with love. Hear Navarro sing "Moon on the Nile," and see Myrna Loy swoon in his arms. You'll feel the blood run hot in your veins. Also Charlie Chase in "Fallen Arches."

The Liberty Magazine story written by ten world-famous authors each of whom wrote an episode. They dipped their pens into every emotion known to man. Of love he knew nothing until this shy, beautiful girl—frightened by the beasts that were his play fellows—sought protection in his arms. A boy and a girl tasting the first fruits of love. Primitive romance — tender—thrilling—against the colorful background of a zoo park. A very unusual picture you are sure to enjoy.

JOKES

"Would you take a fellow's last cent for a pack of cigarettes?"

"Yes, sir! I have none to give away."

So he gently picked up the cigarettees and left his last penny on the counter.—Log.

"Johnny, what would a land flowing in milk and honey be like?"

"Sticky."

"These cakes are as hard as stone."

"I know; didn't you hear her say, 'take your pick' when she handed then around."

Applicant for Job: "Do you have an opening for a bright aggressive young man?"

Boss: "Yes, and don't slam it on your way out."

Homely Keydet: "Honey, I'm a West Pointer."

Femme: "Well, you look more like an Irish setter to me."

"You never can tell," remarked the hold-up man as he took the deaf mute's watch.—Carolina Bucacneer.

1st Irish Lady: "You're nothin' but a talkin' machine, you ain't."

2nd Irish Lady: "Oh, and you're a record, you're double faced."

Dad: "Look here, daughter. I don't mind your sitting up late with that young midshipman of yours, but I do object to his walking off with my morning paper."

"Your honor," said the attorney, "your bull pup has chewed up the Bible."

"Make the witness kiss the dog," grumbled the judge, "we can't adjourn to get a new Bible."

1st Mosquito: "Why are you making such a fuss?"

2nd Mosquito: "Whoopee! I passed the screen test."

Wife: "Darling, the new maid has burned the bacon and eggs. Wouldn't you be satisfied with a couple of kisses for breakfast?"

Husband: "Surely; bring her in."

They drew near one another slowly. The dull blaze from the shimmering light far above enveloped them in its scintillating glow. Slowly the one in red drew closer and closer—glistening and gleaming in the hazy transparency of the great orb above.

The audience held its breath as she moved slowly onward, nearer, nearer until after a great sigh from the eager onlookers they met with a dull, subtle kiss.

"Attaboy, Jake," someone screamed, "that's the way to play a three cornered billard shot."

Once upon a time there was a student bootlegger who paid attention to his liquor and cut his classes.

Prison Guard: "Ten prisoners have broken out."

Warden: "Have you sounded the alarm?"

ATHLETICS

ARCHERY AND GOLF AT LONGWOOD

Along with sunshine and bright blue weather come thoughts of the great outdoors and of—sports.

Archery has been taken to picturesque Longwod for the spring practicing, and another sport—golf—has also been introduced at Longwood. Practices will be held every Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 6 and everyone is urged to come out and try shooting an arrow or hitting a golf ball.

Equipment, including target, bows, arrows, and golf balls may be got from the basement of Longwood by applying to Mrs. Hurt, the housekeeper.

The first archery tournament will be held May 17. Get in some practice before the contest!

"CAUGHT ON THE FLY"

"Come on, pal, they will be started before we get there. Gosh, you're pokey! Let's see this makes eight practices for me. Five more to go. How many do you have? Ten? Gosh, can you help it. Let's run; they're choosing sides, now!

"Let's get going. Are we first at bat? Gee, I would have to bat when Mary Jane Taylor's pitching. Just my luck. And she always strikes me out. Strike one! Strike two! I just don't seem to be able to make connections between this bat and that ball. Ball one! Ball two! Maybe she'll walk me. Ah, no! Strike three! Out!

"Come on Roomie, hit a good one. Swello. Throw it to second. Watch third You're up Liz. Knock it over the fence. Atta girl. Come on in home. There goes our third out. We will have to go out in field. Come on, Berk, put 'em over! Dot, knock it here. Bet I can catch it. Well, if Thornhill didn't catch that fly! Too bad Louise, out on first! Come on, one more out. Watch out in the field, Kathleen's up. Wow! What a hit. Out in the street! Well, I'll chase it. Whew, but it's hot. Don't believe I could go out there after many more. Strike three! Three outs.

"We are up at bat but no chance of my getting a bat. Let's buy a little jumping Hildie. Wait a minute. I can't start that high! I don't seem to be such an expert jumper. Well, we're back in the field, guess I better stick to baseball.

Come on, Rite, lets' turn a few cartwheels. No one will knock one out here. Watch out here it comes! I would miss it. Throw it to second. Can you beat that? Just when I was not looking, a ball would come this way!

"Gee whiz! There goes that 5:30 bell, guess we better do a little running if we expect to get dressed before dinner."

TENNIS

Anybody wishing to buy tennis balls or rackets please go to Miss Iler's office from 4 until 6 o'clock any afternoon or see Louise Walmsley for information concerning either. Students Receive The Annuals

Receives High Praise

With the first glimpse of the 1933 Virginian enthusiasm has raged among the students and faculty. The fortunate students who had paid all of their fees were allowed to get their annuals Monday afternoon, May 8.

The dark blue cover with its simple modernistic design gives a hint of the theme—the theme being that of college in general. The annual is dedicated to the four classmen, Miss Olive T. Iler, honorary member of the Senior Class, Miss Virginia Potts, Junior classman; Miss Grace Moran, Sophomore adviser, and Miss Virginia Bedford, Freshman classman.

The art work which was done by Kathryn Royster, assisted by Gertrude Sudgden, is most attractive and unusual—a large part of it being in color.

One of the most interesting features is the beauty section, for this year the pictures were chosen by Russell Paterson, the art editor of College Humor. This section includes pictures of Margaret Parker, Emma Littleton, Sally Perrow, Kathryn Royster, Jenilee Knight, and Evelyn Knaub.

The wit of the annual is found in the Senior Class Prophecy, written by Jane Royall, and the Campus Mirror which gives a new slant on some of the familiar faces around the campus.

All of the literary work is exceptionally good. It was under the supervision of Lois Rhodes. Especially striking are the selections before the classes.

The whole staff is to be congratulated on their excellent work and especially Mary Thomas Rawls, the efficient editor.

Spanish Circle Presents Play

On Friday, May 5 in the small auditorium the rush Spanish Class 103 presented a play "The Four Brothers" at the regular meeting of the Spanish Circle. The play was adopted and dramatized by the class as a part of its regular work under Miss Sarah James, student teacher.

The cast was as follows:

Father ..... Senorita Ione Covert
Julio ..... Senorita Katherine Walton
Ramon ..... Senorita Anne Irving
Enrico ..... Senorita Sara Wooding
Felipe ..... Senorita Margaret Farrar
King ..... Senora Edna Simkins
Princess ..... Senorita Ione Covert

Apple Blossom Fete Is Very Successful

The Tenth Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival held at Winchester, Virginia, May third and fourth was a brilliant success. The first noteworthy event took place Wednesday afternoon when Miss Francoise May of Belgium was crowned Queen Shenandoah the Tenth by our Secretary of War, Mr. Dern. Her Majesty, wearing a gown of pink satin and accompanied by her maids of honor, Miss Mary Warden Boyd and Miss Westwood Beverly Byrd, both of Winchester, dressed in green organdie were the center of a striking picture. In the Queen's Court were thirty-two lovely young princesses who wore dresses of white embroidered organdie with green trimmings and matching green hats and shoess. The princesses this year were representatives of the leading schools throughout the state. It was truly a court of beauty and Farmville is justly proud of Princess Helen Cover.

The coronation was followed by a remarkably colorful and well-planned pageant—"In Springtime," presented at the Handley School stadium by the Winchester schools.

Later in the afternoon guests were entertained at teas, concerts, and other social functions. At nine o'clock the reception of the Princesses by Queen Shenandoah Tenth took place at the Stouffer home, followed by dances at the Country Club, and the George Washington Hotel.

The following morning was given over to tours through the orchards —the beauty of the blossoms is breath-taking. At 12:30 Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Russel received the Queen and her Court at luncheon. Immediately after this came the Grand Feature Parade—"The Trail of the Pink Petals," which took two hours to pass. The floats were of rare beauty and displayed the skill of master artists.

At 9:30 P. M. the Queen's Ball at the Shenandoah Valley Academy brought the festival to a grand climax. Winchester people have real reason to take pride in their "Mardi Gras of the East." They are indeed the epitome of graciousness and hospitality for guests are constantly entertained. And finally Farmville as well may justly be proud not only of her princess but of the talent and ability shown by a number of her graduates in work done by them for various events.

New Members for Kappa Delta Pi

Kappa Delta Pi, national honor society in education, announces the following new members:

Kate Porter
Mary Swift
Dorothy Woolwine
Miss Camper
Miss Carter
Miss Peck

Kappa Delta Pi is analagous to Phi Beta Kappa in liberal arts colleges, and there are only four chapters in Virginia. They are at Radford State Teachers College, Harrisonburg State Teachers College, and William and Mary. The standards of this organization are very high and only the girls who have done outstanding work are recognized as members.

Kate Porter, a senior, has served faithfully on the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet for the past year and has taken part in all student activities. She is also a member of Pi Gamma Mu, Beta Pi Theta, and Alpha Phi Sigma.

Mary Swift has done excellent scholastic work during her four years of college. She is also a member of Pi Gamma Mu.

Dorothy Woolwine ,a junior, has shown ability not only in the classroom but in other activities on the campus. She has been on the varsity debating team for the past year and is a member of Pi Gamma Mu and Pi Kappa Delta.

Miss Camper, Miss Carter, and Miss Peck were eected honorary members of Pi Kappa Omega because of their oustanding work in public education in Virginia. Miss Camper has held important administrative offices in the Virginia Education Association. Miss Peck has written several books on the teaching of history which have received favorable criticism. Miss Carter takes a leading part in the discussions at the district meetings of the Virginia Educational Association.

Miss Mary Hostess At "Longwood"

Miss Mary White Cox entertained the old and new student councils at a delightful picnic at Longwood, Tuesday afternoon, May 2. Miss Virginia Potts helped with the entertainment of the guests. A treasure hunt was first in the order of the fun. The team consisting of Virginia Brinkley, Winston Cobb, Mary Shelton, Lois Rhodes, and Alice McKay were highly delighted when after arriving at their destination first, found the pot of gold to be a Whitman's Treasure Box! Mother Goose charades were quickly gotten up and presented by groups of the girls. Old King Cole with his fiddlers three won the prize. A game of baseball with a toy spade as the bat and a ball of string as the ball then took place.

It would be cruel to enumerate the menu, but if the information is desired any of the guests would recall that feast with pleasure. After wishing on pine cones and throwing them into the fire, the old and new government returned to school, dirty-faced, but happy, carrying two bananas in one hand, and a chess cake in the other for their roommates.

Helen Cover, as Maid Marion, Crowned Queen of Old English May Fair

At 5 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, May 6, the amphitheatre at Longwood was the scene of one of the most beautiful May Day celebrations in the history of the college. The scene was enjoyed by the faculty, a great number of visitors, and the student body. The sun, after staying behind the clouds all day, came out just as the wood nymphs heralded the approach of dawn. The forest animas came out to celebrate the coming of May, but were frightened away by the sound of a horn which announced the arrival of Robin Hood and his merry men. Robin's band played about in the glen for a while; then, after a merry drinking bout they disappeared into the forest. Friar Tuck followed them with some difficulty, because he had drunk too much of their English ale.

The theme of the May festival centered around an old English May fair. The Town Crier proclaimed the orders of the most worthy Sheriff of Nottingham, saying that the day should be a holiday. The villagers began to come eagerly to the fair—milkmaids, farmers, tinkers, etc. Main Marion (the Queen) and her maidens came to the fair disguised as peasants. Robin Hood and his merry men were also at the fair, winning all the contests and bouts in which they took part.

The villagers and peasants who attended the fair made merry by engaging in rustic folk dances and contests. The green fairly blossomed with colors as the beautifully costumed figures went on with the dance.

The judges of the fair decided that Maid Marion was the most beautiful lady there, so she and her maidens went off to prepare for her crowning as Queen of the May. When Marion and her court returned they were dressed in beautiful court dresses of early English style, the Queen wearing white, and her court ladies wearing pastel shades. The Queen was crowned by the Sheiff of Nottingham, and Robin Hood, the winner in all the contests of the day, joined the Queen and stood by her on the throne.. Robin Hood's men were in attendance upon the ladies of Maid Marion's court, the Maid of Honor, Annabelle, being attended by the dashing Allen-a-Dale.

After the Queen had been crowned, various performances were given in her honor. There were Morris Dance, contests, village dances, an exhibition by sword dancers, and a beautiful dance by a moving band of gypsies. Then there was the lovely and colorful old English May pole dance. When the fair was almost over, the Queen, her Court, and Robin Hood, and his band danced the graceful and stately old Sir Roger de Coverley. As twilight approached, the Queen, Robin Hood, the Court and their attendants left the fair. The villagers followed reluctant to end such a day of merry-making. Then, a single firefly came out, and, flitting here and there with his tiny lamp, summoned the spirits of the night. Thus ended a lovely May Day.

WORK WELL DONE

Just a year ago this week a capable Junior with an earnest look in her eye took upon her shoulders the duties of editor-in-chief of "The Rotunda." How very safe we felt in giving to her this trust, and now with her year's work finished, she has proven to us that our faith was justified.

During her term of office the paper has stood for all that is best in the college for fair dealing to all, and for high standards of journalism. The highly favorable comments of the faculty, students, and alumnae show their appreciation of her excellent work. Her staff has given her cooperation, because they were met more than half way and were encouraged and inspired by her diligence.

We want to thank her for a work well done and to tell her of our appreciation of her and her accomplishment. We are proud of our Martha Gunter.

MARCHING OUT OF CHAPEL

The chapel committee has requested us many times to be more considerate in our chapel conduct. Even Dr. Jarman has asked that we have better order and formation when leaving the chapel exercises.

The main trouble seems to be that those on the back rows all start out marching when the music begins. This causes such a confusion and jam in the aisles and at the door that the seniors, juniors and freshmen on the front rows, instead of marching, barely move along. Besides making the march a slow walk and with no order this way of going from chapel presents an awful sight to the faculty and to any visitors who may be on the stage. This way also takes much more time for everyone to leave the auditorium.

It hardy seems necessary that we college students should continually have to be reminded of our marching from chapel, but it is getting to be so noticeable that our president has asked us to make it better.

There are but two ways by which we can improve our manner of exit—by doing it ourselves or by being forced to do it. The first way, of course, is the better plan, so let's show the faculty and vistiors our cooperative spirit.

WORLD NEWS

Last week found President Roosevelt's White House couch occupied by James Ramsay McDonald, Prime Minister of Great Britain, Edward Herriot, France's envoy, Richard Bedford Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada; Guido Jung, Italy's Minister of Finance, and Hjalmer Schact, president of the German Reichsbank, for the purpose of discussing war debts, armaments, tariff barriers, trade restrictions, silver and currency.

President Roosevelt prefers an all-round tariff truce until the World Conference, opening in London, June 12. Such a truce would prevent any power from jacking up its duties before that date to gain a bargaining advantage at London.

President Roosevelt is ready to consider France's demand for a consultative treaty to determine and punish an aggressor nation, such a treaty being a step toward guaranteeing France's political security, but France and Europe must first agree to real disarmament at Geneva and show an honest desire to keep peace.

Washington is agitated at the moment by a rumor that Roosevelt may visit London during the World Economics Conference, as Woodrow Wilson journeyed to Paris for the peace parley. Such a trip is greatly opposed by American newspapers. They feel that it would lead to the loss of dignity and prestige by the President in the U. S.

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

There are many girls in school who have not paid their class dues and other organization dues this year. There are only a few more weeks in this session and this money must be paid by June. Many of the students say that they are unable to pay at once, and it is true that some can not. However, dozens of them go to the movies two or three times a week and go to the drug store every day. They do not realize that these little forms of amusement cost several dollars a week.

The girls who have paid their dues are greatly inconvenienced by the fact that some have not. The members of several organizations can not get their annuals until everyone has paid.

Come on, girls, and pay just a little if you can not afford to give the entire amount you owe. Show your loyalty to your class, to your organizations, and to your school by denying yourself small pleasures. Do your best to get all dues paid before examinations.

—A Student

Dear Readers:

Ever since Saturday I've been hearing people say how beautiful May Day was, but I have a different song to sing. I wish to laud the people who spent weeks and weeks of hard work on perfecting it.

In thinking of May Day we praise those people who are responsible for its success, for their genius, but we must keep in mind that much quoted maxim, "Genius is one-tenth inspiration and nine-tenths perspiration." Some of the basic ideas might have come into my mind or yours, but would we have had the will power to stay with them and watch them grow, nurtured by our hard work, into something worthwhile?

Our thanks and praise go to Jenilee Knight, who wrote it and who has worked on it ever since last summer; to Mrs. Fitzpatrick who helped Jenilee with the early plans, and who then helped with the dances and other phases—having not a spare moment to call her own for weeks; to Miss Wheeler who helped with the dramatic parts and who spent many hours drilling such undramtic people like you and me. Nor does our appreciation wan in the slightest degree when we think of Miss Iler and Miss Barlow's part in the work. Hattie Gilliam's execution of her many duties, Mary Winston's dances, Sue Yeaman's accomplishments with the music, Frances Radcliff's success with the costumes, or the work done by the other chairmen and the people on their committees.

The success of this May Day is a recent proof of the fact, "Together we stand, divided we fall." Each participant's willingness to work and to cooperate made "this May Day one of the best in the history of the school"—the sentiment voiced by many of the spectators.

—A Junior

ECHOES FROM MAY DAY

"That's my daughter, right there, (pointing) the second on the left, in the pink—there, now, she has her hand up to her face." The proud mother is pointing out her daughter. Whether she occupies a prominent position in the Court or whether she is inconspicuous in a dance from the Freshman Physical Education Class, the face remains—"That's my daughter!"

"Pardon me, just a moment, if you please." We notice an apologetic young man with a camera under his arm; now, he is directly in front of us and still apologizing. "I want to get that picture," and he snaps the Maid Marion and Robin Hood as they march under the arch formed for them by the members of the court and Robin Hood's band. "Thank you so much" . . . and the photograph fiend has scurried away to gain a more advantageous position for his next "shot."

"I don't see why they don't have more seats out here. As many things as the school has out here I certainly don't see why more seats aren't built." How many unseated portly ladies expressed that opinion last Saturday afternoon!

Wait! It isn't over!" Thus were fifty or seventy-five spectators warned as they started away when the court promenaded off the stage. It was a keen foresight into the reactions of audiences which led Jenilee Knight to forewarn the students on Saturday morning that the audience would probably react the way it did.

"May Day was work, but it was fun. Hope I'll be asked to be in it again next year." The sentiments of all the lower classmen who took part in May Day were echoed in these words.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson Oliver of Lynchburg have announced the marriage of their daughter, Mary Morris, to Mr. Lewis Elton Goodman. They will live in Lynchburg.

Miss Pauline Camper who has recently been elected president of the Alumnae Association of the college, will teach this summer in Roanoke College, Salem, Virginia. Two new courses will be offered in the department of education, based on the relation of that subject to the fields of sociology and philosophy. These courses will be taught by Miss Camper.

Miss Bessie M. Mottley of Richmond, State Chairman of Vocational Guidance, will spend the summer at Columbia University completing work on her master's degree.

HOW THEY DO IT

"Twenty-three days, five hundred fifty-two hours, thirty-three thousand one hundred and twenty minutes, one million nine hundred eighty-seven thousand two hundred seconds"—this from a jeune fille in a brown and yellow spring print.

"Only three week-ends, which means only three sets of dates," echoed a petulant blonde whose blondness was the speculation of the entire campus.

"One more French test," sighed the studious, plan-looking brunette of the group.

"Twenty-three paper dolls to take down," put in a clever, red-headed beauty with flashing green eyes.

Paper dolls! What on earth—? We put on our thinking caps. We can understand dates and French tests finding a place in college girls' conversation, but paper—Ah! The secret is out! They are merely discussing ways and means for marking off the time until school is out. Now we hear music "Twenty-three days until vacation—"; the familiar theme song floats down the hall, and out upon the campus where some one picks it up again "Then we'll go to the station."

INTERCOLLEGIATE

In a recent issue of "The Cadet" V. M. I. said:

"The Pink Eelephant edition of the Emory and Henry 'White Topper' offers twenty-one delightful ways to end the depression. In other words it describes twenty-one ways to commit suicide to the best advantage."—The Monocle.

A course in love making has been added to the curriculum of Middlebury College, Vermont. Many faculty members as well as freshmen, sophomores, and juniors have enrolled for the course. The reason the seniors did not enroll is that they are the demonstrators.—The Florida Flambeau.

Perhaps of special interest to a number of our S. T. C. girls is the announcement in the Tiger that "Genial" Jan Garber has been signed by the German Club of Hampden-Sydney to play for final dances on June 6 and 7. His intriguing music will be heard at two formals and a dansant. Any member of the student body will be allowed to dance whether a member of the German Club or not.

Forget that you'll not be allowed to attend fraternity dances and make finals your goal with Jan, his music and his personality as special features.

SILENCE

There's a silence in the air
That reminds me of a night
When silence was golden
And love waves travelled
From my heart to yours
In pure delight.

Dean Ackerman of Columbia University has suggested that Pulitzer film award be offered. More people have access to moving pictures than to legitimate drama, novels, biography, or history. Thus, if a prize were offered in the motion picture field, pictures of greater merit would be produced or at least encouraged, and the masses of people would get the benefit of the improved pictures.

We extend to Jennie Hurt our deepest sympathy in her recent bereavement. We grieve with her, for in her mother's death we have lost a valued friend and fellow-student of last year.

T. S. Stribling, winner of the $1000 Pulitzer prize for the best novel published by an American author during 1932, was born in Clifton, Tennessee in 1891.

"He started his literary career writing several moral stories a day for a Sunday school magazine. In describing these stories he once said they showed how diligence and virtue always were rewarded, and how a boy who never smoked cigarettes would undoubtedly get to a great banker, and would lend money to the boy who did smoke cigarettes and would foreclose on the cigarette smoker's farm eventually.

"Before turning to novel writing, Stribling tried being a lawyer, a fertilizer salesman, a teacher, and a magazine employee."

The setting of his prize winning book, "The Stone," is laid in Florence, Alabama, which was the home of his mother's people. As a boy he was accustomed to walk the fifty miles from his Tennessee home to Florence at least once a year. The local history of Florence plays an important part in the story. A dramatic lynching scene at the climax of the book is a composite picture of several actual lynchings which he said have occurred in Florence.

Many of the people of Florence resent very much Mr. Stribling's use of the one lynching scene by which he implied that such an action was representative of the community. The attitude of the Alabamians toward parts of Mr. Stribling's novel, perhaps, accounts for the author's opinions about sectionalism as expressed in an editorial of the Richmond Times Dispatch of Sunday, May 77. Mr. Stribling says that the South is more "Northerner-conscious" than the North is Southerner-conscious, because the South still clings to class distinctions and still remembers her defeat.

Archibald MacLeish, author of "Conquistador," the volume of verse which won the $100 Pulitzer prize for 1932, was born in Glencoe, northern Illinois, May 7, 1892. He was educated at Connecticut preparatory school, at Yale University, and at Harvard Law School. Though educated for the law, he early turned from that vocation to literature.

So skillful is MacLeish that though the spirit which moves beneath his poetry is as old as the sung phase and the unspoken word, the tone of these verses is as new as this generation:

ARS POETICA

A poem should be palpable and mute
As a globed fruit

Dumb
As old medallions to the thumb

Silent as the sleeve-worn stone
Of casement ledges where the moss has grown—

A poem should be wordless
As the flight of birds

... ...

A poem should be motionless in time
As the moon climbs

Leaving as the moon releases
Twig by twig the night entabled trees,

Leaving as the moon behind the winter leaves,
Memory by memory the mind—

A poem should be motionless in time
As the moon climbs

....

A poem should be equal to:
Not true

For all the history of grief
An empty doorway and a maple leave

For love
The leaning grasses and two lights above the sea—

A poem should not mean
But be.

—MacLeish

TRI SIGMA CELEBRATES FOUNDER'S DAY

Miss Mebel Lee Walton, of Woodstock, Virginia, National President of Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority was an honor guest of Alpha Chapter, Farmville at its Founder's Day annual banquet held at Longwood Saturday, April 29 at 6:30.

The theme of the banquet was woven around a library, symbolical of the John Randolph library in Cumberland county endowed by the sorority as a social science project last October. Toasts and replies, sorority songs, and several vocal numbers rendered by Dr. Jarman comprised the banquet program.

Several invited guests, alumni, and active and pledge members of the chapter attended the banquet.

Dr. J. L. Jarman, president of S. T. C., Farmville, Miss Pauline Camper, adviser of the sorority; Miss Grace Mix, adviser of Pan-Hellenic Association, and Miss Mary Hastings Holloway, niece of Miss Walton, were also guests of the chapter.

AMONG OUR CAPS AND GOWNS

One vice-president who has not been the proverbial, "Idler with honor," is Mary Winston. She has shown the Dramatic Club what a real vice-president's duties are and has carried them out as graciously and as gracefully as her little feet carry out the rhythms of her many original dances. Every program which has been fortunate enough to include her, has been doubly repaid for any effort, by the spontaneous applause and encores. Not only in actually performing has she given her services, but in working up suitable dances for special occasions. Mary is also a member of Alpha Kappa Gamma.

Behind that ever-glowing smile of Jenilee Knight's lies a soul just as radiantly beautiful. No matter if the day's cargo be pleasures or disappointments that brilliance of her smile has never dimmed nor failed to make someone else smile, too. As president of the Dramtic Club she has had innumerable duties which to us have resulted in infinite pleasures. Even the untold work on her successful May Day failed to usurp her time so that she could not pause a minute to add a gay note to the conversations around the halls. Besides being a member of many smaller organizations Jenilee is a member of Alpha Kappa Gamma and Pi Kappa Sigma.

Few have been the entertainments and productions given in S. T. C. during the past four years which have not felt in some way the unmeasurable ability of Frances Potts in all phases of work—singing, acting, directing, staging, organizing, and managing. As for friends she is a reular pirate, having captured many and held them with her charming personality. The following organizations have recognized her wonderful spirit and secured her devotion and services: Alpha Kappa Gamma, Sigma Sigma Sigma, College Choir, (business manager), The Rotunda (business manager), Dramatic Club, Basketball team, and the Freshman Advisory Board.

If you see a dark-haired girl come bouncing out of Dr. Walmsley's room or pausing to argue with Mr. Holton —that's Margaret Hix. She may have been planning with Dr. Walmsley, whom they will select as speaker for the next Pi Gamma Mu meeting or discussing with Mr. Holton prospective debates. Though Margaret is a busy girl she always has time for a friendly word with every one. She has entered whole-heartedly into her class work and truly has the spirit of her Alma Mater. She is not only a member of Pi Kappa Delta, Pi Gamma Mu, and Zeta Tau, but also outstanding in the Debate Club. She has helped carry S. T. C. to victory in many debates and so we are exceptionally proud of her. The best of luck to you, Margaret, as you sally forth in quest of your career!

Sara James, as a member of Pi Gamma Mu, Kappa Delta Pi, Sigma Pi Rho and Alpha Phi Sigma, has indeed given much time in faithful service for S. T. C. Not only has her influence been felt in these honorary organizations but also in wider fields of service, including her Y. W. C. A. work.

Her capability and keen sense of duty, together with her kind, sympathetic manner and willingness to help others at all times have deeply endeared her to her friends and associates during her four years at S. T. C.

Among Our Caps and Gowns

In Marguerite Massey we have a girl capable of taking responsibiltiy and carrying it out successfully to the last degree with the same enthusiasm she had at the beginning; a girl modest about her achievements, a girl doing a lion's share of work without complaining. "Rite's" happy disposition, her unselfishness and her love of play have won for her a lot of friends. During her four years here she has taken an active part in every phase of athletics. She is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, Pi Gamma Mu and Alpha Phi Sigma. It will be with sad hearts that we bid "Rite" goodbye in June.

"Alpha Kappa Gamma, Student Council, Vice-President of Athletic Association, Ruffner Literary Society, Monogram Club, Manager of Volley Ball, Manager Archery, Manager Basketball, etc." so runs the write-up of Hildegarde Ross in the annual, and by it we see the varied fields of activity that have been benefitted by her conscientious work. In thinking of "Hildie" we recall the time when we were blue and she said just the thing to cheer us along: or the time when in some seemingly unsurmountable difficulty she caught the humor of the situation and brought us out laughing. Her influence will be felt long after she has left us.

Lucille Crute, known among her friends as "Cile" will always be remembered by the Class of '33 as the best hockey player of the team. Whether it be "goal keeper" or "left wing", she plays it well. Lucille has the reputation of always "playing the game" fairly and squarely. Never flinching, accepting defeats and disappointments, she has continued on her way smiling, until now she has won the hearts of every one, but more especially that of the Senior class.

These words can be truthfully said of "Cile":
Bonny lass, bonny lass
Thy sunshiny presence
Drives sorrows away.

She has been outstanding in athletics, having played on the varsity hockey team for four years and having served as treasurer of the Athletic Council for 1931-1932. She is also a member of the Grandaughter's Club.

With a smile and a jolly word for everyone Rachel McDaniel makes S. T. C. a happier place in which to live. If there's work to be done, Rachel is always ready with a willing hand, or if there's something to be planned she is ready with original and clever suggestions. She is a member of this year's varsity hockey squad, a member of the Junior and Senior hockey team, and has played on several other athletic class teams. Besides this, she is president of the Ruffner Literary Society this year.
A sparkle—a dimple,
A bright, sunny smile
Good sport, too—frank and honest:

BLACKSTONE TENNIS TEAM WHIPS FARMVILLE

The Blackstone College tennis team was the victor over the S. T. C. racketeers in the three single and two double matches played here yesterday. Both the Blackstone and S. T. C. girls showed quick and accurate playing throughout the matches.

The good condition of the courts helped our girls to play their part. The weather also was fine for the games.

The matches between Kellam and Snedegar and between Barrow and Putney were especially interesting to the spectators. Their speed and precision in placing the balls made the receives even harder to return.

Singles
Kellam-Snedegar, (6-3; 3-6; 6-2)
Barrow-Putney, (8-6; 1-6; 6-3)
Oliver-Lovelace, (6-2; 6-2).

Doubles
Kellam and Hines vs. Nelson and Walker, (6-3; 6-4).

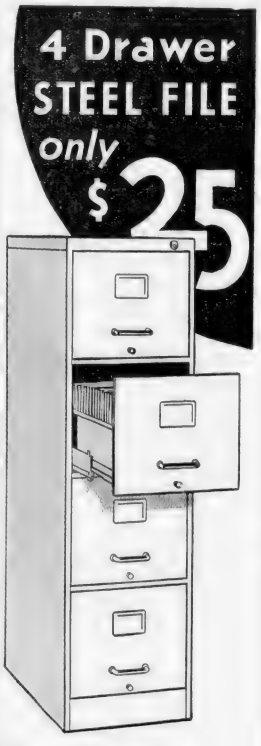
MR. COYNER WILL UMPIRE BASEBALL GAMES

On the afternoon of May 15 and 16 the much talked of class baseball games will be played. Standing behind the pitcher's box, giving the decisions, will be Mr. Boyd Coyner, who again has obligingly consented to umpire our games.



In the red and white camp plans are being made to make a comeback and win ten points for baseball. However, the green and whites are planning to continue their winning streak. Especially are the seniors anxious to throw off their baseball jinx and beat the '34's.

Thirteen practices are required before anyone can play in the games. This is the last week of practice—a hint to the wise is sufficient!

Faculty Advisers Are Assigned For Y. W. Committees

Hold Important Positions in Guiding and Giving Advice to Committees

APPOINTMENTS ARE MADE

Last Wednesday at a meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet in the cabinet room the faculty advisers for next year were assigned to the different committees of the Y. W. C. A. Careful consideration was given to these assignments, for the faculty advisers hold most important positions. Often the successful work of a committee is in large measure due to the suggestions and plans and works of the committee adviser.

The Y. W. C. A. advisers for next year are especially well fitted to guide and give advice. Some have served the cabinet before and are experienced, while others are new and, consequently, will have new ideas to offer.

The advisers with their committees are:

Freshman Com. ..... Miss Iler
Music ..... Miss Potts
Prayers ..... Dr. Jeffers
Publicity ..... Miss Moran
Sing ..... Miss Bedford
Service ..... Mr. Coyner

Choral Club Ends A Successful Year

As the end of the school draws near the Choral Club is completing the activities of a most successful year. On the program for commencement will be a rendition by the members of the club of a beautiful cantata, "The Lady of Chalott" by Tennyson. Susie Webb, the new president of the Choral Club is taking the solo part. The other officers who were elected at the last meeting are as follows:

Nelle Oakey Ryan ..... Vice-president
Mary E. Wood ..... Secretary
Dorothy McNamee ..... Treasurer
Addie Lee Jarman ..... Librarian

With these new leaders the Choral Club is looking forward to another year equally as successful.

LATIN CLUB HAS IMPORTANT MEETING

Sodalitas Latina held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday, May 9. The following new officers were elected: President, Mildred Linthicum; vice-president, Margaret Pollard; secretary, Doris Moore; treasurer, Frances Elder; reporter, Katherine Coleman.

Offices were also elected for the "Tributum". They are: editor, Anne Putney; assistant editor, Maude Rhodes; literary editor, Carmen Clark; business manager, Lila Jacob; assistant business manager, Katherine Adams; typist, Elizabeth Vassar.

After the business was over a very intereting program was given. The first number was "Roman Home Life" by Maude Rhodes. This was followed with a reading, "Felis," by Anne Putney, and a talk by Miss Rice. A game, "The Latin Alphabet," was enjoyed by the members.

New Students' Day Committees at Work

McCarn, Terrell, Burgwyn, and Bosworth on Committee of Students' Day

The new Student's Day Committee with Louise Van Lear at its head started its work, by planning the chapel program for Wednesday, May 16. Working with Louise on this committee are Frances Terrell, Mary McCarn, Nancy Burgwyn, and Fannie Bosworth.

After talking over plans for the two Students' Days left the committee decided because of the nearness of examinations, they would not have any long programs. This will enable the students to have the rest of the chepel period for study.

In acordance with this plan the May 16 chapel exercises consisted of only devotionals which were led by Helen Cover.

Next Wednesday it is hoped that the Choral Club, under the direction of Miss Purdom, will sing They will give the first part of "The Lady of Shalott, a lovely cantata. The original words are Tennyson's, in his famous poem.

The committee has worked out a calendar, planning a program for each Wednesday, for next fall.

STUDENTS ENJOY SING SATURDAY NIGHT

The new Sing Committee presented its first sing Saturday night, May 13. The curtains opened on a group of bored freshmen, supposedly on the campus. They were kept from being too weary with the last days of school by a song, "I Wish I Had Died in My Cradle", by Marian Wright; a reading by Elizabeth Worrell; and a particularly good tap dance by Alma Foster.

"The Lighthouse Tragedy," a delightful and comical pantomime, was given, with Louise Hyde as the fair young maiden, the lighthouse keeper's daughter; Virginia Guy as the handsome hero; Elsie Truly, as the be-whiskered old lighthouse keeper, and Ruth Jordan as the black-cloaked villian.

The roar of applause that followed the entertainment showed the students' appreciation of the work of the new committee.

Training School Grades Hold Athletic Meet

Games, Dances and Athletic Events Enjoyed by the Children of Training School

The elementary grades of the Training School held their athletic meet on the college athletic field Thursday, May 10. This was similar to a field and track meet and was enjoyed by those taking part as well as those watching.

The kindergarten held a small May Day. They played several games such as, "Jumping the Stick" and "Ball Play"; then, they completed their program with a May Pole dance.

The first grade also played many very interesting games. These were "The Little White Ponies". "Chalk Tag", "The Swing" and "Itisket, Itasket."

The second grade was divided into two groups. They played "There's a Wise Little Man", "Hunting," "Follow Chase," "Squirrel in the Trees," "Slap Jack," and other games. They also had several relays.

The three groups of the third grade made an attractive scene as they danced and played. One group was dressed in Japanese costumes and played a Japanese game. The others had relays and enjoyed several games.

The higher grades had a real athletic meet. The girls had the basketball distance throw, the potato race, dodge ball, bean bag balance relay, and a basketball game. The boys participated in the baseball distance throw, standing broad jump, a fifty yard dash, and a baseball game.

Many of the patrons and college girls watched the meet with interest. The athletic field was a place where many happy children enjoyed a wonderful hour, and many spectators appreciated being able to watch them.

FRENCH CIRCLE INSTALLS OFFICERS

On Monday night, May 15, the French Circle installed its new officers at a simple but impressive installation service. Katharine Walton took over the duties of president of that organization. She is a well known soph whom everyone recognizes as a brilliant student and a quiet but conscientious worker.

The other officers for next year, are: vice-president, Maude Rhodes; secretary, Ayres Bondurant; treasurer, Mary Gilmer; reporter, Edith Shanks; and pianist, Elizabeth Walton and Jeanette Jones.

Cotillion Club Has Goat Week

With the appearance early Monday morning, May 15 of ninety young ladies clad in yellow dresses, one yellow, and one green stocking, with their bright faces "cosmeticless", the student body became aware of the fact that this is Cotillion Club goat week! Such a costume will be worn by each girl who has been taken in during this school year, every day until Thursday night. On Tuesday for a little variety the yellow frocks were worn wrong-sides outward and an old hat was pulled down low over the face, while a laundry bag containing school books was slung over the shoulder.

Every evening for dinner, each girl dons her best evening dress and tries to look her loveliest. After this meal, a "shine" meeting is held at which the lowly goats entertain the old members with nature dances, seeting-up exercises, recitations, songs, and other forms of amusement. The audience was especially interested Tuesday night when each new member told the name of her best beau. There were quite a few interesting and surprising disclosures.

The entire week of initiation is under the direction of Betsy Wilkinson, Margaret Eley, and Martha Cross. These three competent girls are planning great things for the final night which comes Thursday. On this night before, Wednesday, there will be the usual "receiving line" at ten and on Thursday night refreshments will be served at the same time.

Each old member has a goat to overlook. She has charge of seeing that her goat wears the regulation costumes, and that she complies with all reasonable wishes of the old girls.

Misconduct and disobedience of any form, especially failure to obey the old members at the spring dance will be rewarded Wednesday and Thursday nights.

College Choir Officers Elected

Assistant Accompanist Appointed: Administrative Board is Selected

With the election of new girls to fill their offices the old officers of the choir of the college, who had carried the group through the first year of its existence under that name, gave their places of honor to the girls who were elected on the nights of May 8 and May 10 by the forty members of the choir.

The following girls make up the list of the officers for next year: Sue Yeaman, president; Mary McCarn, vice-president; Helen Smith, business manager; Sarah Hyde Thomas, secretary; Edna Hatcher, treasurer, and Margaret Murry, librarian.

Louise Hyde was appointed assistant accompanist and student director by Mr. Alfred H. Strick with the unanimous consent of the group.

The administrative board is made up of nine upperclassmen; five of these are nominated by the group and four are appointed. The five nominated are: Joyce Sturm, Martha Scott Watkins, Justine Cutshall, Edna Hatcher, and Barbara Kester. Three have been appointed leaving one vacancy; these are: Bernice Scott, Louise Hyde, and Dorothy Woolwine.

Membership in this organization is offered only to these girls who are especially talented in singing. This year the choir has made a name for itself through its worthwhile activities.

FARMVILLE HIGH SCHOOL PRESENTS PLAY

The Senior Class of Farmville High School presented "The Youngest" a comedy by Philip Barrie, at the high school auditorium Friday, May 12, at 8 p. m. The play was directed by Miss N. L. Crowder and Miss Lucile Bridgman. It was decidedly a success and was enjoyed by an unusually large crowd.

The role of "The Youngest" was played by Asa Watkins, who did especially good acting. He was supported by Dorothy Ranson as Nancy Blake, the leading lady. The entire cast consisted of Dorothy Spencer as Mrs. Winslow; Lyle Graham as Oliver Winslow; Asa Watkins as Richard Winslow; Joe Birdwell as Mark Winslow; Jimmy Simmons as Edgar Winslow; Julia Watkins as Augusta Winslow Martin; William Newman as Alan Martin; Dorothy Ranson as Nancy Blake, and Helen Glass as Katie.

Between the acts the audience was delightfully entertained by special features. The first was an attractive tap dance, Paradise, by four high school girls. The second performance was a special act by Esther Haskins, Ruth Haskins and Nell Oakey Ryan from S. T. C. They came in carrying suitcases and prepared for travel. The three sang several songs which were followed with a novelt tap dance by Ruth and Esther Haskins.

Two Important New Chairmen Are Appointed

Van Lear, Head of Students' Day; Ryan, in Charge of Chapel Committee

COUNCIL ADVISES IN POSITIONS

Acting on her authorized power, last week Alice McKay with the advice of the Student Council, appointed two important chairmen, Louise Van Lear was selected to take the position, filled during the past year by Dorothy Prescott, as Chairman of Students' Day. Her duties will be to plan, with the help of a committee, and be responsible for the chapel programs on Students' Day. The plan of having chapel one day a week given over to the students, though only a year old, has proved very successful. To succeed Elma Rawlings as chairman of the chapel committee, Nell Oakey Ryan was selected. Nell Oakey will be in charge of checking absences and keeeping orderly conduct in chapel. She will be assisted by a committee in her work.

Louise Van Lear, a Junior, has taken part in many activities on the campus during her three years here. She is a member of Zeta Tau, Cotillion Club, and El Circulo Espanol. She has served on the Student Council and Campus League and is president of the Mathematics Club. We are looking forward to good Students' Day programs under her direction.

Nell Oakey Ryan, a Sophomore, has been outstanding in the Dramatic Club as secretary for 1932-'33, and vice-president for 1933-'34. She is also a member of Alpha Phi Sigma and the Grandaughters' Club. We are confident that with her at the head of the chapel committee we can expect excellent results.

Alpha Sigma Alpha Will be Reinstated

On Saturday, May 20, Delta Sigma Chi, a local sorority, will be installed as a chapter of Alpha Sigma Alpha, a national education sorority. Alpha Sigma Alpha was founded on this campus in 1901 and remained here until 1919, when the local chapter dropped its membership and became Delta Sigma Chi.

The National President, Mrs. Fred Sharp, of Independence, Missouri, and Miss Evelyn G. Bell of Buffalo, N. Y., will be here for the installation exercises. Many of the charter members are expected to be present for the occasion.

ALPHA PHI SIGMA HAS IMPORTANT MEETING

On Tuesday night, May 6, the Delta Chapter of Alpha Phi Sigma held its installation of officers, recorded the demotions and promotions, and initiated the following new members: Marjorie Booton, Mrs. Mary Rush, Leonora Long, Doris Saunders, Elizabeth Spitler, Pauline Woodhouse, Betty Barleon, Helen Boswell, Frances Crawford, Virginia Payne.

HONORARY ART SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

Gamma Psi, the honorary society in art, installed on our campus this year, elected their officers for next year. As president, Mary Easley Hill, a Junior, who has done excellent work in art, was chosen. The other officers are: Janice White, vice-president; Mary Diehl, treasurer; Gertrude Sugden, secretary and reporter.

"TODAY WE LIVE"

Today and for sixteen or twenty more days we expect to live at S. T. C. At the end of this time seniors and graduating sophomores will leave; some never to return. Others of us will not be here in September.

These sixteen or twenty days ahead will be to many of us some of the busiest of the whole school year. Units, themes, and essays must be handed in. Notebooks, term papers, and so many other unfinished assignments must be completed that there is no time for procrastination or loafing on the job. We cannot any longer put off today's tasks until tomorrow. We must really live every "today" until June 2 if we would remember these sixteen days with pride for work well done rather than with regret for tasks half finished.

We are already planning our summer pleasures and anticipating the joys of vacation time. Only sixteen more days before examinations will be over and our anticipations will be realizations. Only sixteen "todays" at S. T. C. Shall we merely exist through them or really live them?

GRADUATING SOPHS

At commencement time it is customary for us to pay tribute to the Seniors and show our love for them. At commencement time also we must not forget to honor and pay tribute to our graduating Sophomores. These students, in their short two years with us, have become a definite part of our "college family". They have made their distinct contributions to our college life and now they hold a spot in our hearts that will be hard to fill. Our contact with the Sophomores has been short, but it has been sweet and we shall always remember them.

And now, as the time for parting draws near, we wish for each of these Sophomores the happiest and most useful life possible. Their Alma Mater is proud of them.

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

Last night when I had just settled down to sleep and pleasant dreams, I heard at first a faint humming; it grew louder, and finally it come into its full glory, a deafening uproar. My first thought was that an airplane was in the vicinity. Then as I ducked my head under the sheet, preferring to roast rather than to play landing-field, I realized that it was that pest of pests and torment of torments—a fly.

This morning awakening from harrassing nightmares of flies as large as the depression, I felt something crawling down my cheek. Thus began a futile struggle on my part. Flies, flies, and more flies swarmed around me. I desperately tried to beat them off but to no avail. I am convinced that those inhuman insects actually gloated in my writhing agony.

Can nothing be done about it? Could we not be screened from those fiends? I entreat you most humbly to rid us of this plague. Give us screens for protection from those sleep-destroyers, peace-wreckers and murder-inciters. Let there be "no flies on S. T. C."

Beseechingly yours,
A Student

Dear Editor:

In the catalogues that our school so graciously sends us at the first of each academic year, there is a paragraph that tells us how pretty our campus is. It is true that our lawns are beautiful and well kept and also that there are benches on the campus for our convenience, but how can 600 girls sit on approximately 20 benches?

They also tell us that there are two parlors and a recreation hall in which the girls may have dates. They failed to state though that these rooms contain no electric fans. Everyone knows that May nights are warm indoors and that outside there is usually a cool breeze

Other schools allow their girls to have dates on campus, so why should we be held back? This isn't the sentiment of one person but of most of the student body. All we ask is a chance to show that we won't take advantages of liberties granted us.

WORLD NEWS

President Roosevelt, addressing the U. S. Chamber of Commerce said: "I ask you to refrain from further reduction in the wages of your employees. The average wage scale has gone down more rapidly than the cost of living. It should be brought back to meet the cost of living, and this process should begin now and not later."

Last week President Roosevelt made the following appointments. Dave Hennen Morris, New York socialite lawyer, to be Ambassador to Belgium; Sam Bratton, Senator from New Mexico, to be a U. S. circuit judge; Oscar L. Chapman, Colorado lawyer, to be Assistant Secretary of the Interior, and Alexander Wilbourne Weddell of Virginia, to be Ambassador to Argentina.

The day Franklin Roosevelt flew to Chicago to accept the presidential nomination he promised Mayor Cermak, since murdered, to be on hand for the opening of Chicago's Century of Progress. For the opening the President will push a button connected with a beam of starlight which left Arcturus during Chicago's last World's Fair 40 years ago.

Secretary of Labor, Frances Perkins advocates a six-hour day and a 30-hour week for others, but not for herself. Her morning-to-midnight hours last week cost her the services of her official chauffeur, Louis St. George.

THEY WROTE IN OUR ROTUNDA

It would be impossible for some of the students to write in everyone's annual; but ten outstanding seniors most graciously consented to write in everyone's Rotunda.

Jane Royall: "Alma Mater, Joan of Arc, colonnades and ivy covered walls; a real Southern gentleman, a cigar, a song, a heart; Miss Mary, with her quiet voice, her charm, her poise; friendships suffused with inspiring work and matchless fun."

Winston Cobb: "I can wish for you nothing better than this: that you work and play as enthusiastically as has the Class of '33, for then your college career will be a full and varied one—and reunions will be longed for."

Mary Thomas Rawls: "Impressions of S. T. C.? Hello! Classes and professors, of course! Trite! Banquets, picnics and parties with congenial class mates and friends! Food, and more food at the Tea Room and Southside's! A mad dash to the show! —and then sweet sleep!"

Martha Gunter:
"Into capable hands we place the torch,
Willing and eager to begin the task
With a lingering regret and a wish for success,
We give our last farewell."

Dot Snedegar: "Four years—from a freshman rat cap to a senior cap and gown—have seemed like four days. Underclassmen, may your stay be as long and as happy as that of those who must soon bid Alma Mater farewell."

Hattie Gilliam: "Advice to those who are leaving:

"Our college days at S. T. C. will soon be over, and although we leave with sad hearts, we realize that we must give our places to others to fill just as we have tried to fill the places of last year's seniors. So we leave you with just a few words of advice which we hope will help to carry you on through a bigger and better year. You must learn:
To work and love the work you do,
To play a game that's square
To grin a bit when feeling blue;
With friends your joys to share
To smile, tho' games be lost or won,
To earn your daily bread;—
And when at last the day is done
To tumble into bed (at 10:30!)"

Hildegarde Ross: "I surely do hope that all underclassmen will have the opportunity to enjoy such four years of college life as I have had: fun, happiness, work and all the other things that make life worthwhile."

Helen Cover: "Being born under a lucky star has been fine fun."

Jenilee Knight: "Little did I think that the time would come when I'd wish it were Sept. 24, 1929, rather than June 6, 1933. Think of all the joys and friendships four years can bring, especially at S. T. C. We've enjoyed each other, haven't we? Yours, Jenilee."

Alice Moore:

"What I'm going to ask
I hope won't be a bore;
Please, dear Student Body
Don't forget A. Moore.

AS WILL DURANT SEES IT

"After all it is better to be healthy than famous; for genius is miserable while it lives and famous only when it is dead."

"Better to listen to greatness than to dictate to fools."

"A fool is conscious of his disappointments only."

"It takes much philanthropy to deodorize a fortune."

"Friendship is an exchange of years."

STUDY TO BE BEAUTIFUL

By Helena Rubenstein

College years are busy ones, aren't they? Perhaps there ought to be a labor-saving device for studying? Since there isn't, we have to create one for ourselves. And if there is one thing that will make study easier, it is to combine it with beauty care.

The advantages of this system work both ways! You can give yourself intensive beautiy treatments which can only be performed behind closed doors—and automatically you take away the urge to forget study altogether. And right at this time of the year it is most important to concentrate on beauty as well as on your books.

One of the intensive beauty treatments to give yourself while you are at work is the hot oil treatment for your hair. Very dry hair is benefitted by hot balsam oil once a week and even the oilest hair should have it once in three weeks. The oil is heated slightly and applied directly to your scalp with a medicine dropper or cotton. Then wrap a towel around your head, and for the next half hour concentrate of calculus or whatever you have to study most. When the oil has been thoroughly absorbed, take time off to give yourself a herbal shampoo. Then your hair will be softer and shinier than it has been for a long time.

Another good beauty treatment for those studious hours will benefit the complexion. Cleanse the face thoroughly with a good pasteurized cleansing cream and then remove this with cleansing tissues. Next smooth a youthifying tissue cream all over your face and neck and leave it on as long as you can. The stimulating herb juices in this type of cream and the rich noruishing oils are splendid for keeping the tissues supple, and the skin texture smooth and clear.

This is a splendid time, too, for the youthifying herbal masque treatmet. If you are due at a fraternity dance very soon and want to look especially alluring, then you will welcome the chance to use this masque. It is simply smoothed on and left on for twenty minutes or so. It is quickly removed with lukewarm water, and the skin is refreshed, smoothed and refined. Really, it makes even studying easier—when you are also gaining new beauty at the same time.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWS

I wonder how many girls at S. T. C. would be interested in a course that has recently been installed at the University of Texas. It is a course in sleeping (good ole Texas)! Cots are even furnished by the classroom and the students "hit the hay" for thirty minutes at every class meeting.

One morning each week a professor at the University of Rochester furnished his students with free lunches. Oh, come on, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Tabb and be sports—after all, there are only 750 of us.

At California exams are given at the end of the fourth week. Should the student receive an A on a course he gets a five-dollar rebate on his tuition. If that were the case at Farmville the State would certainly go "in the hole" with Winston around.

ROSES

Soft,
Pink they are
Nodding their heads
And adding color to nature.

Cool,
Green the stems
Waving slender beauty
As twilight breezes blow

Sweet,
Fragrant the air
Heavy with the scent of roses
Wet and sparkling with dew.

At Hollins College the Senior class submitted to the administration several petitions, some of which were granted. These petitions were concerning the honors course and the daily chapel services. One of the petitions granted was that the daily chapel services should be varied in nature—such suggestions as devotionals by students, by faculty members, programs by the Y. W. C. A., or programs entirely of music be sometimes used.

"DAVID COPPERFIELD" STILL A BEST SELLER

"David Copperfield" still leads the list of best sellers. Out of 20,000,000 copies sold since 1903, half a million were "David Copperfield." These half million copies were issued from the well-known series of "Illustrated Pocket Classics." Originally these "Pocket Classics" cost only a shilling. Since the war they have sold for two shillings.

In celebrating its thirtieth anniversary the publishing firm of William Collins, Glasgow, found "David Copperfield" to be the most popular of the 320 books now included in the series. In order of popularity the next nine are "Lorna Doone", "Pickwick Papers", "A Tale of Two Cities", "Under the Greenwood Tree", "Oliver Twist," "Treasure Island," "The Old Curiosity Shop," "The Cloister and the Hearth," and "Jane Eyre."

GALSWORTHY'S REQUEST

Despite John Galsworthy's tremendous success in the literary would, he left instructions that no biography of himself should be published without the consent of his wife, or, after her death, without the consent of his nephew. Nevertheless, H. V. Marrot, author of "A Biography of John Galsworthy," has been entrusted with writing the official life of the author.

Galsworthy's estate has been valued at $439,646.95.

LEISURE

What is this life if, full of care,
We have no time to stand and stare.

No time to stand beneath the boughs
And stare as long as sheep and cows.

No time to see, when woods we pass,
Where squirrels hide their nuts in grass.

No time to see, in broad daylight,
Streams full of stars, like skies at night.

No time to turn at Beauty's glance,
And watch her feet, how they can dance.

No time to wait till her mouth can
Enrich that smile her eyes began.

A poor life this if, full of care,
We have no time to stand and stare.

TO A RUN-A-WAY BREEZE

Let me come with you, O gay little breeze
Let me come live with you up in the trees.
I'd be all that a spring breeze should.
I'd blow up all the joy I could.
I'd sail the moonbeams through Mary's hair
Then John would know he really did care.
I'd turn the flower petals this way and that
And I'd give the weeds a new dust hat.

In the afternoon's bright light
How he tingles with delight at the bells.
Now no longer in his seat
Must the student sit and treat
His intellect to thoughts his teacher tells!
Freedom!
From the cold professor's stare
From the confines of his chair,
To the spring's inspiring air--
Oh, Freedom!
How it sings
How it brings
Glorious news to one and all!
See them scamper through the hall,
At the sharp insistent ringing,
At the singing, ting-a-linging
Of the bells, bells, bells, bells, bells, bells, bells
At the freedom bringing—singing of the bells.

FRESHMEN ENTERTAIN JUNIORS WEDNESDAY

The soft music of Lula Wilkerson's Red and White Freshman Orchestra drifted to the pricked ears of listening Sophomores and Seniors while the Freshmen were entertaining the Juniors Wednesday night. Marion Wright singing the favorite "Now That It's All Over," was a special feature of the program.

Although the Freshmen were supposed to amuse the Juniors, it seemed that these higher sisters of ours did much of the entertaining. The Freshmen called on several Juniors to "shine". Grit Parker began the program with a tap dance, Alice McKay continued with an artistic nature dance. Betsy Wilkinson, Roomey Gwaltney and Lelia Lovelace proved to be ideal ballet dancers. Mary Shelton and Nancy Harrison struggled (yes) through an Apache dance and Margaret Eley and "Burke" Nelson yodeled the "Pagan Love Song." We have tried hard to decide whether their duet was prettier than that of "Honey" Hamilton and Nancy Harrison—"I Love You Truly."

Finally, the "shiners" and others were rewarded with iced fruit punch and cakes. It was thought that "each and every one had a big time."

HONOR SOCIETIES HAVE LONGWOOD PARTY

Last Thursday afternoon, May 11, just as the sun was setting, the lawn at Longwood was the scene of a lovely party for the honor societies, Kappa Delta Pi, Pi Gamma Mu, Beta Pi Theta, Alpha Kappa Gamma, Sigma Pi Rho, Pi Kappa Delta and Alpha Phi Sigma. No party could be complete without Miss Mary and Dr. Jarman, and their presence added greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Two snowy white tables spread in the shade of the trees were laden with dainty plates of inviting food. The group, scattered over the lawn, some seated on the green grass, enjoyed pleasant conversations and the delicious supper.

In this way the honor societies were bound together, but all lovely things have an ending and as twilight deepended the groups turned their faces homeward.

GAMMA THETA BANQUET

The annual spring banquet of Gamma Theta Sorority was held Saturday night, May 13 at Longwood. The tables were beautifully decorated with iris and roses and candles. Between courses toasts were given to Miss Stubbs, the chapter adviser, and several members of the sorority. All the girls of the chapter attended the banquet and the following alumnae were back for the occasion: Lucille Fields, Ann Davis, Allie Kae Libby, Katherine Logan, Montie McCoy, Katherine Montague Cooper, and Martha Moore.

AMONG OUR CAPS AND GOWNS

Lois Rhodes with her winning smile and her charm and graciousness has won a high place in the hearts of her schoolmates. She is ever the true friend and sport and always ready to lend a helping hand. And she is not lacking in capability—she has shown this in her work as literary editor of The Virginian, as a member of Kappa Delta Pi, the French Circle, the Choir of the College, and as Senior representative on the Student Council.

"None knew her but to love her
None spoke of her but to praise."

Martha Sanders is known to her friends, who are many, as a girl of sparkling humor with a mind capable of quick, clear, thinking and with a heart generous to everyone. Her excellent scholastic work has been recognized by Alpha Phi Sigma and Sigma Pi Rho. She is a member of the Dramatic Club and Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority, and has served on the Pan-Hellenic Council for two years. During the past two years she has made a successful leader and president of the Cotillion Club. Next year we will sorely miss this attractive, fun-loving girl.

Much has Kitty Waters meant to those with whom she has come in contact during her past three years at college. When she first came as a transfer from Sweet Briar the force and determination of a strong and beautiful character was felt by us all. It has deepened through the years, and has been a guide and inspiration to her friends. As a member of the Freshman Advisory Board, the Pan-Hellenic Council and the Dramatic Club, Kitty has given services and loyalty in abundance. She is also a member of Gamma Theta Sorority. Her keen spirit has been instilled into the hearts of those who have worked with her and under her. Her place will be a difficult one to fill.

Lillian Womack with her winsome smile; dignified and retiring manner has woven her charms into the hearts of many. She has proved to be a gracious friend to all who know her, and her willingness to serve her class and Alma Mater these four years has been unusually praiseworthy. Her great success lies in the good work that she has accomplished as chairman of Student Standards Committee, advertising manager of the Virginian and membership in Pi Gamma Mu, Sigma Pi Rho, and Alpha Phi Sigma.

When she was a freshman, we used to describe Kathryn as that curly-headed little girl with the bright eyes and infectious giggle. As a senior, she still has her bright eyes and her curly hair and she can still produce that rumbly laugh on occasion, but that's not the way to identify her now. She's Kathryn Royster, art editor of the Virginian, or president of the Palette, in her junior year—or art editor of the Rotunda in her sophomore year.

Best known for her splendid talent in artistic lines, Kathryn is also active in other school circles. She is a member of Pi Kappa Sigma and Gamma Psi.

Ruth Ford, energetic and invacious is one of our most gracious personalities. Her versality of talents has been shown through her work in art, dramatics, and music. As a member of Gamma Psi she has done outstanding work in all lines of art. In the Dramatic Club she has enacted several minor roles in plays, creditably, and for the past two years has as manager of make up made a real contribution to all dramatic activities in school. As president of the College Choir for the past year she has done a notable piece of work in firmly establishing a newly-founded organization. She holds membership also in Delta Sigma Chi and Alpha Phi Sigma. With her wit, charm, poise, dependability, willingness and inspirational leadership she is a girl whom the college may be justly proud.

LITTLE SISTER PICNIC

It was a merry crowd that ambled out to Longwood Tuesday when the little sisters gave the Seniors a picnic. By 5:30 everyone was assembled and enjoyed a delightful social hour. Then came the food—hot dogs, iced tea, strawberries, cakes, everything anyone could wish for. After everything was disposed of the party broke up. Every girl came back fuller and happier for the outing.

To succeed President A. Lawrence Lowell, who resigned several months ago, the Harvard Corporation recently elected to the presidency of Harvard University James Bryant Conant, whose brilliant researches in chemistry have made him world-renowned and who has been prominently mentioned as a possible recipient of the Nobel Prize in chemistry.

ATHLETICS

FRESHMEN DEFEAT SOPHOMORES 27-17

Roberts Makes Home Run

For the last time in 1932-'33 that old spirit of rivalry accompanied by interest and excitement arose between green and white, and red and white, when the Sophomores and Freshmen met on Monday, May 16 in the first inter-class baseball game. From the very beginning it seemed evident that the Freshmen would come out on top, for they closed the first inning with a score of 9-0 in their favor. However in the third inning the score of the Sophomores began to increase with four runs, and, when they added seven more in the fifth inning it seemed that they were leading the "Red Sox" a grand chase. Nevtheless, the Freshmen determined to hold them down and with Mary Jane Taylor's excellent pitching plus the support of her whole team, they were successful. Although the members of both the Sophomore and Freshman teams did excellent batting as well as doing themselves justice in the field or in their respective places, the only home run of the game was made by Ruth Roberts, a star Freshman athlete. The game ended in a victory for the red and whites with a final score of 27-17, which speaks itself as standing for a good game of baseball.

The line-up for the teams was the following:

Sophomores		Freshmen
Parkins	c	Ranson
Williamson	p	Taylor
Mattox	1b	Walker
Handy	2b	Salisbury
McDaniel	3b	Walmsley
Davis	ss	Roberts
Jones	rf	Thompson
Anthony	lf	Sanford
Davis	cf	Massey

FRESHMEN ARE VICTORS OVER C. H. S.

Friday afternoon, May 12, on the athletic field, the Freshman baseball nine won over the C. H. S. team by a score of 11 to 2.

Both teams played an excellent game. However, the Freshmen's superior batting showed in the final results.

Katherine Irby's spectacular home-run accounted for one of the high school's runs.

Alpha Sigma Alpha is Reinstated Here In the Place of Delta Sigma Chi

Alpha Chapter of National Sorority Founded at S. T. C. in 1901; Discontinued in 1919

The week-end of May 19 marked the reinstatement of the Alpha Chapter of the National sorority, Alpha Sigma Alpha, at Farmville. Alpha Sigma Alpha was founded at Farmville State Teachers College November 16, 1901, by five Virginia girls: Virginia Lee Boyd, Juliette Jefferson Hundley, Mary Williamson Hundley, Louise Burns Cox, and Calva Hamlet Watson. In 1919 the Alpha chapter was disengaged from the National order and disbanded, and in its place Delta Sigma Chi, a local sorority, was formed. Recently Delta Sigma Chi petitioned to be reinstated as the Alpha chapter of Alpha Sigma Alpha and the petition was granted.

Mrs. Fred M. Sharp,, of Independence, Missouri, who is national president; Miss Evelyn G. Bell, of Buffalo, N. Y., national registrar; Miss Emmaline Putman, of Nu Nu chapter at Drexel Institute,| Philadelphia; and the advisor of that chapter, Miss Jean Richmond, arrived Friday for the installation services.

Many of the alumnae of this school who were A. S. A.'s returned for the installation services. They were Mrs. Louise Cox Carper of Charleston, W. Va., who was a founder; Mrs. Hattie Monias, of Baltimore, who was the first initiate, and is the national historian; Mrs. Margaret Martz of Harrisonburg; Mrs. Gordon S. Chalmers of Phenix; Mrs. Mildred B. Dillard, Draper, N. C.; Mrs. Bessie Cary of Front Royal; Mrs. Louise Price Coyner, of Richmond; Mrs. Edna Elcan Jones of Sheppards;Miss Lillian Minor of Norfolk; Mrs. Lucy D. Shields and Miss Kitty Watkins of Farmville.

Many of the old Delta Sigma Chi's returned to be pledged and initiated with the present chapter. They were, Elizabeth Brockenbrough, Burnley Brockenbrough, Katherine Wayt, Virginia Fox, Lucille Norman, Sara McCorkle, Mrs. Mattie Rogers Sydnor, and Mrs. Martha Wells Catlin.

With the reinstatement of Alpha Sigma Alpha, there are now three national sororities on our campus. The other two are Pi Kappa Sigma and Sigma Sigma Sigma, which was also founded in this college.

Senior Class Teams Win in All Sports for the First Time in History

"To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

This motto has been a part of the Class of '33 for four years, but now that the four years are almost over, it is clear to see that the class has become a part of the motto.

This is well proven by the part played by them in athletics in the past year. Beginning early in the fall, they defeated the Juniors in hockey, and tied with the Sophomores for championship. With the ending of hockey a new sport was looked forward to—that of basketball. In this the Senior again proved themselves victorious in the championship, defeating both the Juniors and the Freshmen. Volley ball was well under way with the closing of basketball and the Seniors with their ever-bubbling spirit, once again went in to fight for the good old green and white. This time they defeated the Juniors and also their sitser class, the Sophomores for championship.

The next major sport was baseball, one of which this class had never won before. This fact made the Seniors more eager than ever For weeks before the final game, one could see determination in the face of every player. The Seniors could barely wait for the day to play the matches. On this day, with their little green hats, they began with their loyalty song to the class man, the class and the colors, and ended with a victory, by defeating the Juniors with an overwhelming score. The next day they won a hard fought battle from the Freshmen for the championship.

All that was left for the Seniors to take part in now was field and track, and archery. Still, with all the victories added to their list, the class knew these were the last sports in which they could fight for the green and white. As in every other game, one could see the same group of girls, not fighting for honors for themselves, but for the Class of '33. In field and track, they came out first place and Laurie Bush ended the season of sports by winning archery.

The Senior Class wishes to thank this group of girls who have given their time and the best of all to athletics. In thanking them, the rest of the class knows that these honors were not won for the individual alone, but for the good of their fellow class mates.

Thus, the last page of the athletic book of this class has been closed, but one can still see and hear the inspiration—"Striving ever; yielding never
Seeking to do our best
We'll nver stop till we reach the top
And make our better best
Onward and upward go
Striving to ever show
To the Class of old S. T. C.
We'll true and loyal be
To the green and white of '33."

Green and Whites Winners of Every Point and Awarded the Color Cup

Seniors Acclaimed Champions in Basketball, Volley Ball and Baseball

This year the Green and Whites walked away with the color cup winning a total of 85 points. This was a great victory for them, winning every posisble point. Last year the Green and Whites tied with the Red and Whites for this honor cup.

In the fall the Seniors and Sophomores tied for the hockey championship in a 1-1 game. But both classes being Green and White this gave them their first 10 points on the varsity hockey team, there were 8 green and whites and 3 red and whites. Adding another 10 points to green and white fame for hockey varsity.

During the basketball season the Seniors defeated the Freshmen, winning the championship and increasing the green and white score 10 points more. On the basketball team there were five green and whites, Dot Snedegar, Mary Gregory, Frances Potts, seniors, and Jennie Hurt and Sarah Beck, sophomores. Margaret Parker represented the red and whites. This gave the green and whites a total of 40 points.

In the volley ball season the Seniors again won the championship, defeating the Sophomores, adding 10 more points to the color cup.

This spring, luck changed for the Seniors in thier baseball. They first defeated the Juniors. They met the Freshman team and won over them by a score of 9-3. This was the first time in the history of the Class of '33 that they had won a baeball game. This victory gave the green and whites 10 points.

Laurie Boush, a Senior won the archery tournament adding 5 points to green and white's total.

Dot Snedegar, a Senior, won the tennis singles tournament giving the green and whites another increase of 5 points.

Three girls made the tennis varsity this year, Dot Snedegar, Jennie Hurt, and Martha Putney. All three of these girls are green and whites. This made a grand total of 85 points.

DR. BARNES WILL GIVE COMENCEMENT ADDRESS

The Seniors and graduating Sophomores are fortunate in having two prominent men here as their commencement speakers. Dr. Fred W. Burnham, pastor of the Seventh St. Christian Church, Richmond, will conduct the baccalaureate service, Sunday night, June 4. The commencement address will be made by Dr. Walter M. Barnes, professor of English at New York University, Tuesday morning, June 6.

Dr. Barnes' distinguished leadership in teachers' college work makes him an intensely interesting speaker to an S. T. C. audience. His first association with state teachers college work was at Fairmont, West Virginia, where he was dean and a professor of English.

He is giving valuable service to the educational world as president of the National Council of English Teachers. Besides that he has written numerous books. They include "The New Democracy in English", "English For the American High School," "The Child's Poet," and "Guide to Children's Literature'. He writes numerous articles for current magazines.

Dr. Barnes comes to us not only as a great exponent of the teaching profession, but as a vitally interesting and individual personality. "Who's Who in America" records interesting traits of character in this man of decided and original views.

LET'S MAKE OUR SUMMER PROFITABLE

The chances for many of us getting jobs during the summer months are very slim. Even if we cannot make our vacation of monetary value, we can use some of our leisure time very profitably for our school and ourselves.

As we all know next year is the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of this college, and so it is up to us, as its students, to make it a success from the moment the doors open in September, 'till the last Senior receives her degree in June. To do this we must work!

While we're at home or visiting in other towns and cities we can talk to high school graduates, and get them interested in Farmville. We can do our bit in increasing the number of students, by interesting others through our love for and pride in our school.

Next year, as in the past, there will be many forms of entertainment, and some time during the year most of us will be called upon to help. This summer we can be accumulating attractive ideas and plans, so that next year we can volunteer clever suggestions for better entertainment. In connection with this we can look around in our attics and find old costumes that can be used.

These few suggestions are by no means all of the worthwhile things we can do this summer. Each of us must keep her eyes open and watch for every opportunity to show her loyalty.

SPORTSMANSHIP

Perhaps the most emphasized characteristic of the athletic field is sportsmanship. This quality is vastly important in that it insures fair and square play as well as interest and effort.

Are not these traits valuable in fields other than on the athletic field? Where are not interest and effort needed if the cause is worthy? Where is not fair play neecssary for true success? In the spring when hearts are also turning to sports and new business, it is well to remember the part that sportsmanship plays in any phase of life. Are you a good sportsman?

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

Examinations are almost here, and everyone has her time filled to the utmost. Could we not have the announcements read at the beginning of each meal, and be allowed to leave the dining room when the members of our respective tables have finished eating? We understand and appreciate the fact that there should be a definite time for the serving of our meals, but we do not understand why it should be necessary for those who have appeased their hunger to wait until the entire student body has had time to loiter through.

WORLD NEWS

Plans for President Roosevelt's proposed "partnership" between Government and Business finally reached the White House last week. Under the National Recover Act government and business were to be made partners by means of a Federal Control Board which was to draw up agreements to ration production, fix prices, eliminate cut-throat competition, set working hours, and establish a fair wage scale.

Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Norway, and Japan accepted "in principle" the tariff truce proposed by President Roosevelt, and signed an agreement to that effect. The only country to accept the truce whole-heartedly was the United States. James Ramsay McDonald, as chairman of the economic conference, sent invitations to the other 58 nations invited to the conference to sign the tariff truce, too.

Last fortnight in a furnace-like jail at Poona, the Mahatma Ghandi, India's greatest figure, slowly sipped a glass of fruit juice. Half an hour later, on scheduled time, he began a one-man war of inaction—a three week fast to protest India's stigma on untouchables.

As an outcome of his international discussions, President Roosevelt sent out to the world in his historic message a mighty plea for a successful conclusion of the Geneva Disarmament Conference. Fifty-four heads of nations, including unrecognized Russia, were bluntly warned that world chaos awaited unless all agreed to sign non-aggression pacts at once, pending drastic disarmament.

INTERCOLLEGIATE

A co-ed at Depaw University whose sorority budget allows $250 for a dance orchestra, wired Ted Weems to inquire how many pieces he could send for the amount designated. Ted replied that he could send three sheets of music and a piccolo player. —The Cadet.

THE BUTCHER BOY'S LOVE

DEER heart, I'm in an awful STEW
How I'll reVEAL my love for you.
I'm such a MUTTON head I fear
I feel so SHEEPISH while you're near
I know it's only COWardice
That makes these LAMBentations rise
I dread a CUT, let me explain
A single ROAST will give me a pain.
I should not like to get the HOOKS.
And dare not STAKE my love on looks.
I never SAUSAGE eyes as thine;
If you would BUTCHER hands in mine
And LIVER 'round me every day
We'd seek some HAMlet far away.
We'd MEAT life's frowns with love's caress
And CLEAVE a road to happiness!

ALUMNAE NEWS

The association has concentrated upon the organization of new chapters and on the visiting of active chapters during the past year. Reports have been received of either active meetings, dinners, teas or some form of "get-together" from the following chapters: Culpeper, Danville, Farmville, Richmond, Petersburg, Winchester, Staunton, Covington, Clifton Forge, Salem, Roanoke, eKnbridge, South Boston, Emporia, and Lawrenceville.

The chapters have shown unusual interest this year in the raising of loan funds and in the interesting of girls to come to college in the fall. Dr. Jarman accompanied by other representatives from the college has visted a good many chapters strengthening old ties and making new ones. Delightful parties have been given; some including the high school seniors in the vicinity on the guest list, others just including the alumnae group and the Farmville visitors. These gatherings have been loyal reunions of Farmville girls demonstrating their love for their Alma Mater. A word of "Bon Voyage" to them is in order, particularly pleding their support for next year and the fiftieth anniversary of the college.

A whole paper might be devoted to an appreciation of the work done by the outgoing officers, especially that of Miss Carrie B. Taliaferro, who has spent so much energy, to say nothing of time, on the organization of alumnae chapters.

The work of any secretary is often a thankless job but for the past several years Miss Nichols' position as such should be highly commended. A statement of the writing alone will give evidence of a small part of the work done. This year, as the number of graduates increased, 4500 instead of 4200 ballot cards were mailed besides the Rotundas. 4500 cards were also sent announcing the radio broadcast in Richmond. This was done besides the regular secretarial work.

In line comes Miss Pauline Camper, the newly elected president of the State Alumnae Association. Miss Camper's enthusiasm, splendid foresight and capability to hold such an office are unquestioned. She has already taken hold of the work and has high aspirations for the alumnae as an organized group throughout the state. If "we dip into the future" we can predict an organization combining all the classes graduated from the institution.

Mrs. William C. Flournoy has been elected a member of the Association of American Pen Women, a national organization with headquarters in Washington.

Mrs. O. F. Northington (Etta Belle Walker) is the newly elected president of the Emporia Woman's Club.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Scott of Tazewell, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lucie, to Mr. Henry Venable Lancaster ,of Farmville. The wedding will take place in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Wert Henry Hamilton announce the marriage of their daughter, Mattie Louise to Clifford Earle Hardy. The marriage took place in Danville. The bride and groom will make their home in Victoria.

Dr. and Mrs. Richard Booth of Lynchburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances Major, to Mr. William Walker Florance, of Richmond. The wedding will take place in the early fall.

EDNA FERBER'S OPINION ABOUT THE SHORT STORY

Edna Ferber says the short story does not "penetrate deeply into the fundamentals of life. Profound human emotion demands a large canvas."

Perhaps, she is judging her own short stories, for Miss Ferber's gift is, indeed, for the kaleidoscopic, for the shifting picture painted in quick bold strokes.

In Miss Ferber's new volume of short stories, "They Brought Their Women", she wisely uses her talent for painting shifting pictures. "There is the taxi-driver—'hard, tough, disillusioned, vital, and engaging' — whose adventures through a typical Saturday afternoon one follows so absorbedly. There is the tragically lonely little country girl who attempts to fill her desolate New York Sundays with visits to the Metropolitan and Aquarium."

We are inclined to believe that it is not the short story, but Miss Ferber, herself, who does not interpret the fundamentals of life.

WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO THIS SUMMER?

"What are you going to do this summer?"

"I'm going to sleep, and sleep, and sleep!"

"I'm going to live on the beach."

"I'm leaving for camp June 22."

So we hear answers to the question which is always passed around about this time of the year. It is always a problem to know just what to do with our summer, to keep time from hanging on our hands, to manage not to live an utterly profitless three months. The solution to these problems may be found in one word —hobbies.

Everyone is interestd in some hobby whether she knows it or not. Perhaps many of us do not realize our own hobbies. Here are a few (the puzzle is to find yours): gardening of all sorts, pets, music, literature, dramatics, dancing, painting, drawing, etching, wood carving, modeling, cooking, sewing, which includes quilting, embroidery, and weaving, home decorating, photography, radios, traveling, athletics of all types, and collections of china, stamps, manuscripts, autographs, etc. If we definitely ally ourselves with one of these hobbies, we will find a recreation, an outlet for excess energy, and a summer that won't be wasted, since many liked works have been developed from hobbies.

Of course, we are interested in at least half a dozen or more hobbies, but to regard one or two with an attitude more or less serious and to try to develop it beyond the standpoint of a mere past time is the way we can while-away long summer mornings, whether we be at home, at camp, or on trips. Here's hoping for you and your hobby!

TEST DAYS

By Helena Rubenstein

With exams about to start, every college girl has a good chance to get right in the mood witha beauty examination! During the days to come, you will probably find every minute filled with studies, or with the end-of-the-term festivities. And, for the proms and dances ahead, you will certainly want to look your best.

The most effective beauty examination begins with a magnifying mirror. If you don't know what your faults are—you can't correct them! Look into that mirror as your own severest critic! Don't miss any details, even though it may shock you to find that you are not quite as perfect as you had thought.

One of the most common beauty faults is the enlarged pore. Many of these give your face a rough-textured appearance that can, and should be corrected at once. You will find that a granular, pore-deep wash has the effect of refining skin texture. A refining lotion is also an excellent beauty aid for reducing the size of enlarged pores and indeed for refining your whole complexion.

Blemishes usually can be seen without a magnifying mirror! However, when you look into a mirror of this kind, you see just how disturbed and angry the skin really is. Complete cleanliness is the first requirement in correcting this condition. Your pasteurized cleansing cream is very soothing and effectively removes all dust and grime. Then, at night, cover the blemishes with a medicated acne cream. This is healing and helps banish them quickly. Leave the acne cream on until morning.

For general toning and rousing the skin, you will find a skin clearing cream essential. After the winter, you know, your complexion needs a special "spring cleaning" of its own, just to bring it new life and beauty. A cream of this type is a joy to use and will give you the added radiance you want for the special dates that are coming.

Besides having as many as 400 points, all of these girls have been passed on by the club for their efficiency and sportsmanship.

These girls will be formally initiated tonight. The vice-president, secretary and treasurer will also be elected at the meeting tonight. Lelia Mattox has been eleceted president of the Monogram Club for next year.

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to golf, tennis, track, baseball and incidentally, love.

MEMORIAL DAY

With the approach of May 30 our hearts turn to the privilige of memorializing our dead, especially those that have fallen in battle. Since we are now facing the great question—Shall we have war, or shall we have peace in the future?—let us recall the spirit expressed in the poetry of those who either participated in or looked uopn its horrors. Perhaps, these opinions will help us form the most beneficial plans for our future relations with other nations.

"The Blue and the Gray" by Finch has probably done more for bringing about a better spirit between the North and the South thna any other poem of the Civil War period.

THE BLUE AND THE GRAY

By the flow of the inland river,
Whence the fleets of iron have fled,
Where the blades of grave-grass quiver,
Asleep on the ranks of the dead:
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judment day
Under the one, the Blue
Under the other, the Gray.

These in the robings of glory,
Those in the gloom of defeat,
All with the battle-blood gory,
In the dusk of eternity meet:—
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Under the laurel, the Blue,
Under the willow, the Gray.

From the silence of sorrowful hours,
The desolate mourners go,
Lovingly laden with flowers,
Alike for the friend and the foe:—
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Under the roses, the Blue,
Under the lilies, the Gray.

So, when the Summer calleth,
On forest and field of grain
With an equal murmur falleth
The cooling drip of the rain:—
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Wet with the rain, the Blue,
Wet with the rain, the Gray.

Sadly, but not with upbraiding,
The generous deed was done;
In the storm of the years that are fading,
No braver battle was won:—
Under the blossoms, the Blue,
Under the garlands, the Gray.

No more shall the war-cry sever,
Or the winding rivers be red;
They banish our anger forever
When they laurel the graves of our dead!
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Love and tears for the Blue,
Tears and love for the Gray.

IN FLANDERS FIELD

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our plac,; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amide the guns below.

We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

Other soldiers see only heroism. Here is a stanza expressing a disgust for war and for the attempt to make it seem glorious:

If in some smothering dreams, you too cauld pace
Behind the wagon that flung him in,
And watch the while eye writing in his face,
His hanging face, like a devil's sick of sin,
If you could hear at every jolt, the blood
Come gargling from the froth-corrupted lungs
Bitter as the cud
Of vile, incurable sores or innocent tongues,—
My friend, you would not tell with surch high zest
To children ardent for some desperate glory,
The old Lie: Dulce et decorum est
Pro patria mori.

—from Wilfwred Owen's "Dulce et Decorum Est."

SOPHOMORES GIVE SENIORS A PARTY

At ten o'clock on Monday night, May 22, a gay crowd of Sophomores and Seniors and their two classmen, Miss Moran and Miss Iler, met in the "Rec". Each senior was escorted by a "gentleman" of the Sophomore Class. The girls, dressed in their favorite childhood costumes, were ten year-olds again with their short skirts, socks, and big bows on their hair. Some even had long curls and carried doll babies and teddy-bears. The escorts wore men's apparel of all colors, sizes, and descriptions, from red shorts to white ducks and pajamas. Everyone came masked.

The "Rec" was attractively decorated in the class colors, green and white, and a large Sophomore-Senior color banner hung back of the Sophomore orchestra, the Green Jackets, who delighted the company during the entire evening. Another enjoyable feature was the special songs crooned by Esther and Ruth Haskins, Dot Justis and Nell Oakey Ryan.

Dancing was indulged in by the majority though there were tables ararnged for working jig saws for anyone who wished.

Delicious punch and cakes were served.

During the grand parade the judges chose the cutest couples. This was indeed a difficult task as there were so many clever and original costumes from which to choose.

First prize was awarded to Miss Ruth Jordan and "Mr." Dot Davis. Ruth was indeed a charming little miss in a green frock with a big white sash and a bow on her hair. Dot wore a bell-hop costume. Second prize was presented to Miss Dorothy Bloomfield and "Mr." Anne Putney, a quite modern-looking young couple.

After all had danced to their hearts' content, the party broke up.

The cherry, laughing "Good nights" heard as the escorts took leave of their fair ladies on the senior building steps proved better than anything else that "a good time was had by all."

AMONG OUR CAPS AND GOWNS

Doreen Smith is one of the most versatile girls in the graduating class. From a glimpse into the annual we understand slightly some of the many services she has given to her Alma Mater. She is a member of Alpha Kappa Gamma, Alpha Phi Sigma, Pi Gamma Mu, business manager of The Rotunda, class treasurer, manager of tennis, and president of the Intercollegiate Press Association. By coming to summer school she took the four years in three, which is no easy job. But no matter how busy she was, she always had a moment to spare to help you with that difficult problem, or to stop for a short friendly chat. We'll miss her friendly spirit as well as her capabiltiy. In every sense of the word she is a "fine girl."

Jenny Wheeler seems to feel that "life is just a song." There has hardy been a program given here in the last four years that has not been added to by her voice. She has been a member of the Choral Club ever since she has been here in school, and this past year she has been vice-president of the choir of the college. Jenny has also been outstanding in her work in French. She is president of Beta Pi Theta for this year, besides having been a member of the French Circle for four years. She has also been hall president on her hall for this past year. Her influence has been felt in many circles. We will not forget you, Jenny!

Helen Cover—"Such a one will we remember whom to look at was to love."

Helen Cover came to us as a sophomore, a transfer from Arlington Hall and very soon her leadership abiltiy was recognized. In her junior year she was class representative on the Student Council, advertising manager of the Virginian, president of Cotillion Club, and member of Pan-Hellenic Council. Early in her senior year, Alpha Kappa Gamma claimed her as a member. This year her work as vice-president of the Student Council has indeed been a success. She was May Queen this year, one that we were proud of. She will long be remembered for her sweet disposition and fine character.

A will to do is a well known characteristic of Dot Leonard. As a freshman, she was elected president of her class and led them through a successful year. The numerous activities in which she has taken an active part reveal her versatality—Alpha Phi Sigma, Choral Club, varsity hockey—'30-'31, Freshman Commission, Student Handbook Committee, and Gamma Theta social sorority. In dancing classes and entertainments Dot has shown ability and recently the honor of charter membership to the artist dancing group has been conferred on her. Her magnetic personality has won her a host of friends.

We shall always remember Mae Downs as one of our outstanding Seniors. She has endeared herself to the students of S. T. C. by her striking personality, originality, and keen sense of humor.

Through work in Pi Gamma Mu, Dramatic Club, and especially her class, Mae has given much time in faithful service to S. T. C., and will be greatly missed next year.

What would our Saturday night's "Sing" be if Ruth Jordan's sunshiny smile were not there? She has a personality that speaks for itself and a disposition that accompanies such an ideal trait. Since her freshman year Ruth has worked faithfully toward making her class rate high in the eyes of the student body.

Ruth has been an outstanding member of the following organizations: House Council, Student Standards Committee, Y. W. C. A., Sing Committee, Choral Club, and College Choir.

C. H. S. SENIORS MAKE GRADUATION PLANS

gifts will be presented.

The seniors were delightfully entertained by the Juniors in the recreation hall of the college on Friday, May 19, with a tea-dance. The hall was decorated in yellow and white crepe paper and daisies, the class colors and flowers.

Each senior was presented with a corsage of daisies as she entered. The music was furnished by a four-piece orchestra and delicious refreshments were served. This tea-dance was the first of the social events connected with graduation.

SING COMMITTEE GIVES MEMORIES OF S. T. C.

On Saturday night, May 20, the Sing committee presented to us once again some familiar scenes to put among our memories of S. T. C. The first of these was a tap dance by Dot Snedegar and Hildegarde Ross. Dot and "Hildie" will always be remembered as the hapy dancing pair of S. T. C.

Then, as Alice McKay explained, some bird seed were dropped among the Juniors, which produced two song birds Margaret Parker and Virginia Hamilton who very charmingly sang "I Love You Truly."

Of course our memories were not complete without a piano solo from our popular musician, Garnet Hodges.

The program was brought to a fitting close with "Diana" and several other snappy selections from the Freshman Jazz Band, under the direction of Lulu Wilkerson.

The student body extends sympathy to Elizabeth Walthall and Lois Bradshaw in their recent bereavement.

SENIOR BASEBALL TEAM WINS FROM FRESHMEN

With a determined spirit, the Freshmen and Seniors went on the diamond. The Green and White spirit for their class and colors. The Seniors were in the field while the Freshmen took their stand at the bat. Taylor, first batter, hit a two-bagger and set the Freshmen off on a good start which seemed at first to be a walk-away for their team. Ranson and Walmsley also got on base but only one reached home making two runs for the Freshmen. Three up and three down, not even a tip; is the summary the first inning for the Seniors. This made them go back in the field, grit their teeth, and do the same for the Freshmen. Not a single run was scored during the second inning.

The third inning was begun by another two-bagger hit by Taylor. Others succeeded in getting on base but none other made a run. Were the Seniors going through the game without a run? They soon answered by getting four runs made by Ridgway, Massey, Beacham, and Snedegar. Gunter and Hoffa made good hits but did not get around the diamond. The Green and White spirt came forward to win or die and did not recede during the remainder of the game.

At the beginning of the fourth inning the score stood 4-3, Seniors leading. Each team was fighting hard and only one run apiece was made. The same was repeated for the fifth inning leaving the score 6-5. A little extra spurt of energy was put out in the sixth inning resulting in two runs for the Freshmen and three for the Seniors. This seemed to be the dying fight for no one scored in the last inning.

The score stood 9-7 in favor of the Seniors at the end of one of the best baseball games ever witnessed on our athletic field. Excellent hurling was done by both of the mounders, Snedegar and Taylor, Senior and Freshman, respectively.

MANAGERS REVIEW MAJOR SPORTS

The managers of three sports, hockey, baseball, and volley ball, have given a brief resume of the 1932-'33 season.

Hildegarde Ross, manager of hockey writes: "The hockey season of 1932 began the last week in September with about 75 girls out to practice. This number narrowed down to 50 by Thanksgiving. The class games resulted in a tie for the championship between the Seniors and Sophomores. The class captains were as follows:

Freshmen, M. Nottingham; Sophomores, Lelia Mattox; Juniors, N. R. Cooper; Seniors, M. Massey.

From a fine squad of twenty-seven the varsity team was picked. Martha Gunter was the captain and the other members were E. Billups, N. R. Cooper, L. Crute, M. Massey, L. Mattox, M. Nottingham, M. Putney, D. Ridgway, D. Snedegar, and E. Wheeler. Two varsity games were played. The first took place here with Westhampton and the score was 2-1 in their favor. At the Sweet Briar hockey tournament, we lost to Harrisonburg 2-0.

Thanksgiving day a team of pick-ups defeated a team of alumnae girls."

In reporting the basketball season, Mary Burgess Fraser says:

"Basketball is the major sport which is scheduled, during the winter term. The year of 1932-'33 of basketball was a great success. Great interest was shown in the class games which were played, the first week in March with the Senior Class of '33 winning championship from the Freshman Class. The captains of the Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior teams were respectively: Kathleen Ranson, Sarah Beck, Margaret Parker and Frances Potts.

In all of the games played Green and White triumphed over Red and White. The seniors won volley bal championship for this year."

VIRGINIAN STAFFS HOLD BANQUET

On Wednesday evening, May 17, at six o'clock the old and new Virginian staffs had a banquet in the Tea Room. Guests of honor were Miss Bedford, Miss Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. McCorkle, and Dr. Jeffers.

During the course of the banquet a little gift from the old Virginian staff was presented by Gazelle Ware, a member of this staff, to Mary Thomas Rawls, editor-in-chief of the 1933 Virginian. Then Mary Thomas introduced the speaker of the evening—Dr. George W. Jeffers, who gave a most interesting talk in which he spoke of Chicago's "Century of Progress" and of our fifty years of progress. He wished the new staff much success with its work of getting out the anniversary Virginian.

As a fitting close to a delightful evening, Mary Burgess Fraser, who is editor-in-chief of the 1934 Virginian—the annual which celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of the college—gave to Mr. CcCorkle a little token of appreciation from the old staff for the help he has given it this past year. Without him no such annual as the 1933 one could have been.
